A majority figure, "a man who knows what he's talking about" according to President Johnson's cabinet adviser, upset a majority of the audience Monday night. Mayor Frank G. Evers, a Democrat, expressed great disappointment.

Mayor Evers made it clear his opposition to any suggestion that the Soviet Union might be a threat to western Europe. "It is not true," he said, "that the Soviet Union is a menace to western Europe."

Mr. Evers also criticized the Republican administration for its policies towards the European community. "I believe that the Republican administration has been too soft on the Soviet Union," he said. "They have not been firm enough in their policies towards the Soviet Union."

The mayor's speech was not well received by the Republican audience. They booed and jeered throughout the speech. Several members of the audience even stood up and walked out in protest.

Mayor Evers concluded his speech by urging the people to support the Democratic ticket in the upcoming election. "I urge you to vote for the Democratic ticket," he said. "They have the best policies for the future of our country."

The event was held at the Civic Auditorium and was attended by a large crowd of both Republicans and Democrats.

Hall or Marriage Point Cook
Is Poor Alternative Receives Letter From Vietnam

To: The Editor

Subject: Hall or Marriage Point Cook

I am writing this letter to express my dissatisfaction with the current status of marriage and the lack of opportunities for unmarried individuals to find meaningful relationships. The idea of a hall or marriage point cook is nothing but a poor alternative.

Marriage is a sacred institution that should not be reduced to a mere convenience or a means of social status. It is a commitment to love and support one another through thick and thin, and it should not be compromised.

The idea of a hall or marriage point cook is nothing but a means to an end. It is a way to provide a false sense of normalcy and security to individuals who are looking for a way to escape the complexities of life.

I urge you to support the idea of marriage and to resist any attempts to trivialize or undermine it. Let us work together to create a society that values love, commitment, and mutual respect.

Sincerely,

Challenge Offered To Point Women

Dear Editor:

I challenge the women of Point to provide me with a clear picture of what they want in a partner. It is my belief that we must base our choices on a desire for a deep and meaningful relationship rather than superficial characteristics.

Women are often pressured to choose partners based on factors such as wealth, social status, and physical appearance. However, the most important aspects of a relationship are based on emotional connection, mutual respect, and shared values.

I believe that women should be encouraged to seek partners who are committed to their well-being and who are able to support them in achieving their goals. I challenge the women of Point to consider these factors when making decisions about their relationships.

Sincerely,

Individual Code

Although there are communities in the several universities in the Wisconsin State University system, there is a certain emphasis on environment, mission, clientele and institutional character. It is important, therefore, that each institutional establishment begin to examine its own unique code. Let the code be made up of the students, and let it be supported by the faculty and administration.

The above paragraph was the concluding statement made by the Student Personnel Officers of the several state universities on Oct. 6 at Wisc.-Eau Claire. It is their recommendation that the state board of regents issue an order to the state board of regents for a uniform code for the state universities.

They are recommending that each university establish an individual code if the code is not established already. The code should support the University of Wisconsin's Code of Ethics.

The state board of regents in their meeting in November of last term, directed the board of regents to report on the policies of the state universities. It was thought that the state board of regents should see what the policies of the state universities were and what the code was.

It appears that the regents have long been talking about the need for a uniform code. The regents in their meeting in November of last term, directed the board of regents to report on the policies of the state universities. It was thought that the state board of regents should see what the policies of the state universities were and what the code was.

Who Is Right On Vietnam?

Mr. Ronald Regan, last week came to the University of Wisconsin, Madison, to speak in favor of the war in Vietnam. Mr. Regan is a member of the House of Representatives, and he is one of the most prominent figures in the Republican party.

Mr. Regan was given a standing ovation by the students who were in attendance. He spoke for about 20 minutes, and he was given a standing ovation by the students who were in attendance. He spoke for about 20 minutes, and he was given a standing ovation by the students who were in attendance.

The students who were in attendance were happy with Mr. Regan's speech. They were happy with Mr. Regan's speech. They were happy with Mr. Regan's speech.

Well Worth Seeing

Before you leave this weekend for the game at Oaken Hall and try to make it to the Second Annual International Film Festival on Saturday. It will take place in the Wisconsin Room this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28 and 29, at the State Theater.

The two-hour collection of short films represents the best work of amateur filmmakers from around the world. The quality of the films is quite high, and the emphasis is on experimentation rather than commercialism.

Especially noteworthy are Larry's new dramatic short "What's Chance Got to Do With It?" and the comedy "Get Your Feet Wet." Also a California film, "Skateboarder" is a beautiful and exciting as any professional movie I have seen.

Add more than ten films to those three and you will have an entertainment as good as any you will want to see.

Individual Code

Although there are communities in the several universities in the Wisconsin State University system, the social environment is somewhat different. The residential halls are not as conducive to personal study, and the atmosphere is more casual.

The above paragraph was the concluding statement made by the Student Senate at their meeting on Oct. 6 at the Student Center. It is an important point to consider when evaluating the Senate's answer to the Board of Regents' request for a uniform code conduct for the state universities.

The Senate is recommending that each state university set up its own individual code of conduct. The Senate believes that such a code would be more beneficial to the students of Wisconsin.

The Senate has met with the approved by the Student Senate and is currently working on the implementation of this code.

Wells Worth Seeing

Before you leave this weekend for the game at Ohio State, try and make it to the Second Annual International Film Festival at the Wisconsin Union. The festival will feature a range of films from different countries around the world.

The two-hour collection of short films represents the best work of amateur filmmakers from around the world. The quality of the year's work is higher than the exceptional films in last year's presentation. Enjoy.

The festival will also feature a screening of the classic film "The Battle of the Sexes," directed by Larry Kristofski and John Pivarnik — both of whom are members of the Wisconsin Union.

Especially worth noting are Larry's new film "We're in a Tiny World" and the family-friendly "Ozona-Tiny Bums." Also a California film, "Shahid," is beautiful and exciting as any professional movie we have seen.

Add more than two films to these three and you have a four-day entertainment schedule that you definitely don't want to miss.

"Who Is Right On Vietnam?"

Mr. Russell Lefever, last week, wrote a letter to the newspaper criticizing the people who are opposed to the war as "anti-war." Mr. Lefever wrote that he was one of those who opposed the war, and that he believed that the people who opposed the war were not right.

Mr. Lefever's position is one that is widely held by those who support the war. He believes that the war is necessary to protect our country from a Communist invasion.

On the other hand, there are many people who oppose the war. They believe that the war is not necessary, and that it is causing more harm than good.

In order to determine who is right on this issue, we must look at the evidence.

QUESTION: Did you like this year's homecoming procedure better than last year? Explain your reasoning. What changes did you like/dislike in this year's procedure compared to last year's?

"No, I still was not enough" by Michael Harper, 19, sophomore, DeForest High School, DeForest, in response: There was a lack of interest during homecoming this year. The fact that our school was not enough, because the rain for a week led to a very small group of students. Taking away the importance of dressing the homecoming parade is like taking away the importance of any other procedure or event. This year's homecoming did not make the students feel important because there was not enough people to watch the parade. It was not enough to make the students feel important.

"homecoming was a tremendous success" by Jean Kelleher, 19, sophomore, Rice Hall, from Lodi, Wisconsin, in response: Yes, the 1966 homecoming procedure was a tremendous success. The parade was well-organized and the floats were attractive. The floats were thought to be the best floats ever seen in a homecoming parade. The students were enthusiastic and the whole school was involved.

"homecoming more in . . . scheme of things" by Louis F. Hoffmann, 19, sophomore, Frome High School, Frome, in response: There was a lack of enthusiasm and organization this year in homecoming. The students were not interested and the floats were not as good as in previous years.

"broader participation . . . this year" by Jonene Staufer, daughter of Mrs. J. W. D. Staufer, from Madison, in response: I feel that homecoming this year showed more spirit and enthusiasm in the community. The floats were better decorated and the students were more actively involved. The entire procedure was more enjoyable.

"quality of homecoming has been stained" by Bob Kibler, 21, senior, 202 Strauss, from West End, Wisc., in response: I feel that the quality of homecoming has been stained this year. The floats were not as good as in previous years and the students were not as enthusiastic.

"candidates were not well enough known" by Sue Grot, 21, senior, 327 Lamie St., from Madison, Wis., in response: The candidates were not well enough known this year in homecoming. They were not as active as in previous years and the students did not understand the importance of the candidates.

WSU Homecoming '67

For the first time in history WSU Homecoming consisted of a full week of activities. This year's Homecoming theme was "For the Love of WSU" and the week's events included a parade, football game, and dance. The homecoming queen and court were introduced at the game, and the week concluded with a dance on Saturday night.

Addison, Jennifer's Junior Cheerleader, waited patiently for the contest. At the game Saturday afternoon, the Homecoming Queen was introduced. They are Ruth Schuster, Kitty Polley, Monica McCourt, and Peggy Gute. The Pom girls won their first place and kept their place at the conference meetings.

Games, contests, a pageant, a float show, the band, and the queen's coronation all peaced the day Saturday. Queen Nancy Burtz led the parade. She is crowned by WSU's Pete Beza at mid-night.

The Saturday morning parade featured marching bands, cheerleaders, and dignitaries. Last year's Homecoming Queen Kay Poston donned the crown at a place.

Meanwhile, Destiny's Jimmy Cricket might want pollutants for the hotel.
