Natural Resources M. S. Approval Is Expected

Wisconsin's first master of science degree program in na-tural resources is expected to be approved this month for of-fering at Stevens Point State University.

The Coordinating Council for Higher Education will act on the proposal at its May 28 meet-ing. A committee of the council has already given preliminary approval and no opposition for final passage is anticipated.

A CME spokesman said the M.S. in natural resources would be unique in the state because it emphasizes the broad approach to the subject. The university of Wisconsin has conservation-oriented master's program, too, but only in specialized fields such as wildlite management and forestry.

Dr. James Bowles, chairman of the natural resources depart-ment at SPSU, said the new program will prepare conservationists to be aware of the total resource management problems yet knowledgeable enough to work in specialized field.

About 10 men are expected to enroll this fall, and within a few years the number of graduates each spring will probably be 25. Bowles expects resource managers "out in the field" will return to campus to pursue the degree.

The undergraduate major in soil science will be the fourth program in Wisconsin. Others are offered at Madison, Platte-ville, and River Falls, Bowles said that between 30 and 40 men will be enrolled in this specialized field next fall. Graduates usually receive jobs in federal, state or county soil services or industry.

The two new programs further broaden an aiready large natural resources curriculum here. Besides being the oldest academic department of its kind in the United States, it is the largest with nearly 1,200 makers.

Mobs For Peace

Mobs For Peace

The other day I received a crank letter in the mail. The writer leveled a desultory barrage of uncomplimentary names at the Pointer in general, hailed "the revolution" and the "invincible thoughts of Chairman Mao," and suggested that we "get it all together or else move our combustibles to a safe and secret place." Then, in a binding display of coherence he added "Peace to you all." I hestitate to brand this mindless braying as an accurate statement or indication of the latest position of the new politics on this campus. That position is far too unclear to be fairly characterized.

The first day of the "strike" saw the multitude roaming the halls of the Classroom Center disrupting classes, laying with the light switches, and chanting "strike." Other attractions included dabblings of symbolism such as the attempt to invert the flag and fly it at half-mast. My point does not rest with a question of ideology but rather with a question of tactics. Non-violence and peace is giving way to the language of the mob. Four of us were murdered in Ohio for indulging in this type of action. This cost is too high for the return it's getting. No mobever brought peace and peace was never found between a bayonet and a clenched fist.

Cuts Cause Calamity

A graduate student at Stevens Point State University has a warning for underclassmen who are tempted by sunny, warm days to cut classes.

Tom Plucker of Neenah, in research for a master of sci-ence in teaching degree, proved long standing assumption that correlation exists between cademic achievement and ass attendance.

Said Plucker: "It is not pre-sumed that by attending every class, students will get an auto-matic "A". In the fin al "analysis, those students with excessive cuts did particularly poorly."

He used about 225 sophomores in a United States history class for his research. That group compiled a total of 588 absences, and only one person at-tempted to make-up a class missed.

Plucker found that six persons received "F" grades and each had three or more cuts. Of the 24 with "D" grades, 17 cut three or more times. "C" students number 112, 32 of whom had no absences, 52 with one or two, and 28 with three or more. Of seventy "B"

Clean Up Week

Cleanup Week will be a town-gown venture this year in Ste-vens Point, with university stu-dents taking the major respon-sibility for removing rubbish from public areas.

Mrs. Wilma Pfiffner, chair-man, said students would kick off activities Saturday by clear-ing brush and fallen trees from Forest Cemetery and litter from the sides of four streets.

The actual observance, spon-sored by the Stevens Point Fire Prevention Council (an arm of the Chamber of Commerce) will be from Sunday, May 10 to 14.

Coed President

Bonnie Dana, a sophomore at Stevens Point State University, has been elected president of the 3,400-member Student Wis-consin Education Association.

She was named last weekend at a convention in Lake Delton.

She is a former resident of the Minocqua area and a 1968 graduate of Lakeland Union High School. She is majoring in English at Stevens Point, and after graduating plans to pur-sue a career in guidance coun-seling.

Bonnie is president of the Stevens Point Student Education Association and has been listed on the academic honor roll.

Her new duties as state president include conducting executive board meetings for the SWEA, representing the organization at a national meeting
this summer in Burlingame, Calif., and working with the Wisconsin Education Associations.

She said her goal is to in-crease memberships in local units and to improve commun-ications of the organization be-tween the executive board and the units.

Pointer "9" Take Platteville For 2

Stevens Point State Univer-sity's baseball took a pair of extra inning ballgames Satur-day from Platteville 3-0 and 2-1 to up the Pointers conference record to 4-4.

The first game was a pitching duel from the beginning between Stevens Point's G1 en Berkhahn and Platteville's Tom Kahle. Both pitchers gave up only four hits in the regulation seven innings.

The Pioners thesetomed in

The Pointers threatened in the sixth when Denny Bohm singlec and Gene Mand reached base on an error. Stu Druckery sacrificed them to second and third. Kahle then rose to the occasion and struck out the two hitters to retire the side.

Bohm opened Stevens Point's half of the eighth with a single and moved to second on Mand's sacrifice. Druckery then dou-bled but Bohm was unable to score. After a strike out, Boh Manel lined a pitch over the left field fence for the victory.

The second game was also a pitching battle, this time between Plateville's John Williams and Stevens Point's Ken Hartwig. Both pitchers wesuperb on the mound, each allowing only three hits. The Pointers just made more theirs.

. The Stevens Point State golf team tied Ripon, 7½-7½, in a dual meet at the Lawsonia Country Club in Green Lake Thursday.

Thursday.

This was a meet scored in a different way from those of previous dual matches. In this match each player from Stevens Point was paired against an athlete from Ripon. The score on the front nine were awarded a point, and the player who won the back nine was awarded a point and the winner of the 18-hole total was given playing for a total of three points. Each team played five men and therefore a total of 15 points was possible.

Racine Horlick's Tom Tracy

Racine Horlick's Tom Tracy nd Stevens Point senior Jerry se Nuccio each won their natches 2½-½. Merrill sopho-nore Mike Mumma tied his nan 1½-1½, while Don Warren nd Clarence Wiechowski lost Tracy and Mumma had the best Pointer scores with 79's.

De Nuccio had an 80, as did
Warren, and Wiechowski had an 83.

Had the match been scored by the conventional manner the Pointers would have shot a 401, which was four better than Ripon.

This is the same course the Pointers will attempt to win the Wisconsin State University Conference meet in two weeks.

"This gave the boys an op-portunity to refamiliarize them-selves with the course," said Pointer Coach Bill Burns. "All of them have played the course before and it did them good to play it again."

Burns commented it is diffi-cult to compare one course with another as the Pointers shot a 385 at the Tumblebrook Coun-try club in Pewaukee on Tues-day. "The boys were in some cases disappointed with their games," said Burns, "But they are straightening them out."

The Pointers will meet White-water and Oshkosh in a WSUC triangular meet at Whitewater today. Both the Warhawks and the Titans are battling for the championship as are the Point-ers.
