During second semester, The Pointer will be distributed on Monday. Deadline for material is Wednesday noon; all material must be typewritten!
Dr. John Heaton is an Associate Professor of Natural Resources at WSU· SP. Dr. Heaton has five years of professional teaching experience and has worked in fisheries research and management for several state and federal agencies. He received his B.S. and M.A. from the University of Missouri and was granted a Ph. D. at Montana State University.

POINTER: As a member of the Department of Natural Resources, what are your personal objectives? HEATON: Trying to prepare our students to function in the area of fisheries management to be studied ecologists with the help to solve some of the problems that are facing us. To build an awareness among my students and try to give them some of the tools they will need in a professional career. And the secondary objective is to try to supply some information and ideas for our students who will not be seeking a professional career. But we are seeking just enough information to help us survive for another generation or two.

POINTER: Why do you think our students are experiencing the extreme environmental problems that we are? HEATON: Well, this is an extremely difficult and complex question. There is no easy answer. One of the largest problems, of course, is the population explosion. This is probably the root of the problem. Also, we have developed a technology which has caused us several problems. Our system of ethics is lagging far behind our technological development. So really is a combination of our tremendous increase in population and our wonderful technology technique. We then would need some basic changes made in our way of life. Obviously, the answer to such a question could be expanded almost indefinitely.

POINTER: What part could the average American citizen play in solving our environmental problems? HEATON: I think one of the first steps is actually developing an ecological awareness among us. Too many people believe that we don't have any problems. I think that chemistry, wildlife, and fisheries societies—which students might join—in our program. Plus, there are a number of new organizations for people with an interest in conservation. The Zero Population Group is a very active and beneficial group. The Wilderness Society is interested in the preservation of true wilderness. The Friends of the Earth are also interested in environmental improvement. The Audubon Society is another.

POINTER: Do you think that some of the fatalistic conclusions drawn by some of the environmental experts have actually turned some people away from the cause? HEATON: I really don't know. I think that the answer was a fatal tendency to ignore serious problems and they probably really brought forcibly to his attention. Thus, I think some of our modern ecologists, who might appear fatalistic, have presented us with the necessary alarm. This is not to say that some people may have been turned away by the movement because of the apparent hopelessness of the situation. Scientists in the long run the modern ecologist has created much more interest in our ecological problems, than they have slumbered away from.

POINTER: Do you think that our numerous ecological problems can be solved under a capitalist economy? HEATON: I don't think we are going to solve our ecological problems until we come up with some major change in our ways of doing things. I think we need to change our system completely. As LEOPOLD in the Sand County Almanac claims, we can no longer make large decisions on merely economic grounds. We need to take all the factors into account. One particular decision will be made. The problem is that we no longer envision more man as being apart from the land, soil, water, and air. We look at things and religions must come to grips with man as he relates to his environment. I don't think that a capitalist economy is the only cause of our environmental problems. Russia has built up some massive environmental problems also.

POINTER: What is your opinion of the recent move to collect money to give to the local paper industry to assist in polluting abatement? HEATON: As a symbolic gesture it was great. To take some clean water and dump it into the Wisconsin River is a great past-en. I think it was a real attention-getter. I think the students showed a great imagination.

POINTER: What is your opinion of some Good examples of some massive short comings in the environmental uncovenience when he claimed that his business could not make the necessary reforms without laying off workers and thus creating economic problems. Wouldn't the implications seem to suggest that the entire economic system must be changed in order to get at the roots of the problem?

HEATON: I feel that this again leads us into a discussion of the economic problems and ethics. I would agree with the statement that he made. I find it a bit hard to believe that Consolidated Paper can be crying at this stage of the game. Perhaps, they are only trying to create some pressure to influence them to have to lay-off workers. I don't think the guidelines we were given were unreasonable at all. I'm an economist, I look at Mr. Mead's projections suspiciously.

POINTER: What books of personal interest would you suggest to students? HEATON: One of my first choices would be the Lepold's Sand County Almanac. There are a large list of new booklets that are going to be published this year. The most recent is the development of the environmental problems in the United States. The Moment in the Sun, the Biological Time Bomb. Science and the Immeasurable Journey, and The Fossil Oceans are very good. Many books are available in the local book stores. There is of course many other booklets on the subject, and new ones coming out all the time. My list would also have to include books on human behavior, many development, ethics and philosophy.

New Senate Elections

...Student senate elections will be held on Monday , February 8, for 11 seats in the following districts: 1, 3, 4, 5, 9, 11. Nomination papers for Senate seats may be picked up in the Senate office (2nd floor, U. C.) beginning February 1. Nomination papers must be signed by no fewer than fifty (50) students and returned to the Senate 11, floor office by 8:15, Monday, February 8, for the nomination papers to be counted. Absentee ballots for the election may be picked up February 11, and must be returned to the Senate office by 8:15, Monday, February 15, for the election in the Senate office.

THE POMTE R

February 13, 1971

Winter Carnival Schedule

Monday, February 8, King and Queen preliminary elections all centers.

Thursday, February 12, King and Queen elections.

Sunday, February 14, Torch parade 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. around campus.

Monday, February 15, Hair-do legs, knees and hog call, 6:30 p.m.

Tuesday, February 16, Beards and pipe smoking, Wisconsin River Bridge.

Wednesday, February 17, Pancake eating and apple cider sipping, Berg gym, 6:00 p.m. Lecture by Ramsey Clark, 8:30, Berg Gym.

Thursday, February 18, Charist race, Cin. Theatre, 6:00 and 8:00.

Saturday, February 20, Games behind Fieldhouse, I. C. Cin. Theatre 6:00 and 8:15.

Sunday, February 21, Climax performance starring Tony Jo White and John Denver 8:00 Fieldhouse, tickets $2 and $2.50.

Moon Rocks

The Stevens Point State Student Foundation, Inc. is sponsoring the exhibit in cooperation with the National Aeronautic and Space Administration. The collection containing the rocks will be hand delivered to the campus where they will be on display. The display will be open to students and the public during normal hours and no charge will be made.

Valentine's Day

Each Keepsake engagement ring is a masterpiece of styling and design, reflecting the full body and beauty of the perfect center diamond.

CHLEA BEEDA ALSO FROM 200 VENTURA 5800 MSWORTH WISCONSIN 9035

A diamond ring to treasure forever

Each Keepsake engagement ring is a masterpiece of styling and design, reflecting the full body and beauty of the perfect center diamond.
During the first semester, the Pointer made a determined effort to explain some of the problems and injustices confronting students with articles concerning the entire gamut of campus life, from the bookstore and the pinery to the residence halls.

Although these items are a concern to many students, these injustices are usually overlooked when juxtaposed to the problem of housing. Here is probably the most blatant injustice facing students on most college campuses. This semester the Pointer will run a series of articles which it hopes will help the student better understand his predicament with respect to housing. For several avenues of action.

The situation described above is grim and the avenues for action are few. One fact remains: the problem has been ignored, and it is a cultural matter. These injustices are not the result of bad individuals or laws which, if eliminated, would eradicate the problem. Even the most superficial scholar of the housing situation is aware that the housing problem is a cultural manifestation of a perveted culture. The slumlord in our society is now a part of it, just as it is a part of the slumlord, providing inadequate rooms and apartments everywhere.

Recently, the Pointer has begun to run articles on the obstacles blocking the passage of fair state housing laws and on the culture that produces and respects the slumlord. It is hoped that this work will encourage all students to act in their own power to end the landlord.

In every dwelling unit of two or more rooms occupied for sleeping purposes by more than one occupant shall contain at least fifty square feet of floor space, and every room for sleeping purposes by more than one occupant shall contain at least fifty square feet of floor space for each occupant under twelve years of age and over twelve years of age for the tenant unmodified for completely new conditions of occupancy.

This type of ordinance provides that whether a landlord is abiding by the prescribed standards. The Pointer will also print an article listing the rights of the tenants who plan to enlighten tenants of the few rights they do have. One perhaps the best right: the right to a proper refund if a tenant moved out during a period of over one year.

A list of housing laws that need to be either changed or eliminated to insure greater justice for the tenant unmodified for completely new conditions of occupancy.

Concerning leases, the Pointer will also print a detailed ideal contract which will list the crucial items to be included in every lease. For example, is a right of the landlord mentioned in every contract, but it is important the "reasonable" be spelled out in detail. Twenty-four hour notice may be required before tenants move out; do these tenants, how the." Pointer will also be printed for those who feel that this is the best route of action.

The Pointer is working closely with the housing inspector to see that the property being rented to students has complied with the city housing codes. "The city standards for housing rooms, which are any buildings with three floors or more, are quite adequate" explained Mr. Pfifker, the city housing inspector. "But most landlords are not following a license so the city inspectors do not know what property is being rented." It is hoped that tenants will learn to recognize a housing permit before signing a lease, thereby insuring certain laws.

The city official also mentions that students should not fear being evicted for possession of drugs, since landlords are not so sure what they will happen. Mr. Pfifker then brought out a copy of a rule that this student apprehended someone who attempted to evict a property after they were found with a complaint a housing inspector.

The letter reads:

"The tenants at the above address are quite concerned that you are, in effect, trying to evict them by raising their rent. If this occurs, the housing department will have no option but to make an interior rigid inspection of the property to ensure you are applying everything in the proper up code, and not to allow you to rent any property that has not been complied with the law.

"The housing situation described above is grim and the avenues for action are few. One fact remains: the problem has been ignored, and it is a cultural matter. These injustices are not the result of bad individuals or laws which, if eliminated, would eradicate the problem. Even the most superficial scholar of the housing situation is aware that the housing problem is a cultural manifestation of a perveted culture. The slumlord in our society is now a part of it, just as it is a part of the slumlord, providing inadequate rooms and apartments everywhere.

New Point Calendar

The decision concerning the annual publications of the new experimental calendar for Spring Semester has, as yet, been undecided. The new calendar proposes that classes begin on September 30, 1971, one week before Labor Day and conclude May 29, 1972. The last Monday of the final week in the spring semester will fall on September 30, 1971.

Makoboro Receives Post

STEVENS POINT-- An African political science professor graduated from Stevens Point State University in January of 1960 has been appointed director of the department of higher and secondary education for the Republic of Barundi.

February 8, 1971

THE POINTER

Page 3

Free Environmental Forum Starts

For those reasons, he and Calliott have planned a series of areas that touch many more specialties. On Feb. 18 Roush himself will conduct a session on "The Roles of Science and Technology." On Feb. 25 Calliott will discuss "Philosophy and Environmental Education." On March 11, John Moore will be in charge of "Anthropology." On March 18, Richard Christoferson will lead a program on "Environmental Politics," and on March 25, Thomas Rotheroth will have charge of a session on "Economics."

The remainder of the Keeper has not been completed. The planners announced that they feel the program would probably be different each time. Some may take on the format of a lecture. Others might be panel discussions, still others free form discussions.

February 8, 1971

THE POINTER

Page 3

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.

Barthelemy Makoboro received the post from the president of the tiny African country. Newsome was in the field of development economics. Makoboro, 29, major in French and English here and was president of The French Club.
Placement Interviews

TO: All Graduate of 1971 and Alumni
FROM: University Placement Center
RE: Second Semester Placement Interviews

The following companies and government agencies will be interviewing on campus during the first two weeks of the second semester. All B1 graduates are urged to take advantage of these interviews by contacting the Placement Center, 656 Main Building, at their earliest convenience. Remember to notify the Placement Center when you have accepted a job (phone: 346-1234 Ext. 416).

Tuesday, February 9, Packaging Corporation of America - Business administration, economics and all majors.

Wednesday, February 10, Sears, Roebuck and Company (two schedules) - Business administration, economics and all majors for retail management positions.

Wednesday, February 10, Gimbel's Milwaukee, Wisconsin - All majors for retail management and all aspects of retailing.

Thursday, February 11, Social Security Payment Center, Chicago, Illinois - All majors interested in social security administration.

Thursday, February 11, Del Monte Corporation - Business, economics, and all majors interested in the food industry.

Friday, February 12, Howard Johnson's - Business, economics and other majors interested in restaurants and food industry.

Friday, February 12, Aetna Insurance Company - All majors for underwriting, claims and sales opportunities.

NOTE: ALL INTERVIEWS WILL BE SCHEDULED FROM 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED.

EDUCATIONAL RECRUITMENT - SCHEDULED INTERVIEWS

Wednesday, February 10, Hamilton Joint School District, Sussex, Wisconsin, 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Vacancies to be posted in the Placement Center.

Wednesday, February 10, Brookfield Public Schools, Brookfield, Wisconsin, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. All majors.

Wednesday, February 10, Muskego-Norway Consolidated School District, Muskego, Wisconsin, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Vacancies to be posted in the Placement Center.

Friday, February 12, 1971, Kenosha Public Schools, Kenosha, Wisconsin, 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Elementary, English, Social Studies, General Science, Guidance, Health, Industrial Education, Library Science, Math, Physical Education (Women), Music, Physical Science, Special Education.

Summer Jobs Abroad Listed

Summer job opportunities look good for students this summer both in the United States and overseas! This optimistic outlook comes from the 1971 editions of two annual paperbacks, "Summer Employment Directory of the United States" and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs," just off the press.

For students who want to work in the States, there are more than 60,000 specific openings listed with salary, dates of employment, and name of the person to whom applications should be sent. Jobs are largely in the recreational areas where savings by the end of the summer can be substantial - resorts, national parks, restaurants, summer camps, summer theatres; also, business and industry, government.

Students who would like the growing experience of working abroad will find information on over 56,000 vacancies. Included are specific paying jobs: summer camps, hosting, housing exchange or working vacations; visa, resident and work regulations. Countries covered are England, Scotland, Ireland, Italy, France, Germany, Spain, Israel, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Scandinavia, North Africa and South America.

For early application, "Summer Employment Directory of the United States" ($4.50) and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs" ($3.95) may be ordered by mail from National Directory Service, 266 Ludlow Ave., no C, Cincinnati, Ohio 45220.

New brew for the new breed.

CAMPUS-COMMUNITY CALENDAR

Tuesday, February 8,  The Pointer " THE STUDENT PUBLICATION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON."

Mon., Feb. 8
Arts and Lectures: Meredith Monk Dance Residency, Aud. UAB Coffee House: Mike Meade 8 and 9 p.m., Gridiron, UC

Tues., Feb. 9
Arts and Lectures: Meredith Monk Dance Residency, Aud. UAB Coffee House: Mike Meade 8 and 9 p.m., Gridiron, UC
Student Ed. Assoc. Meeting 7 p.m. Frank Wright, UC

Wed., Feb. 10
Arts and Lectures: Meredith Monk Dance Residency, Aud. UAB Coffee House: Mike Meade 8 and 9 p.m., Gridiron, UC

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1971

TO: All Graduate of 1971 and Alumni
FROM: University Placement Center
RE: Second Semester Placement Interviews

The following companies and government agencies will be interviewing on campus during the first two weeks of the second semester. All B1 graduates are urged to take advantage of these interviews by contacting the Placement Center, 656 Main Building, at their earliest convenience. Remember to notify the Placement Center when you have accepted a job (phone: 346-1234 Ext. 416).

Tuesday, February 9, Packaging Corporation of America - Business administration, economics and all majors.

Wednesday, February 10, Sears, Roebuck and Company (two schedules) - Business administration, economics and all majors for retail management positions.

Wednesday, February 10, Gimbel's Milwaukee, Wisconsin - All majors for retail management and all aspects of retailing.

Thursday, February 11, Social Security Payment Center, Chicago, Illinois - All majors interested in social security administration.

Thursday, February 11, Del Monte Corporation - Business, economics, and all majors interested in the food industry.

Friday, February 12, Howard Johnson's - Business, economics and other majors interested in restaurants and food industry.

Friday, February 12, Aetna Insurance Company - All majors for underwriting, claims and sales opportunities.

NOTE: ALL INTERVIEWS WILL BE SCHEDULED FROM 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED.

EDUCATIONAL RECRUITMENT - SCHEDULED INTERVIEWS

Wednesday, February 10, Hamilton Joint School District, Sussex, Wisconsin, 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Vacancies to be posted in the Placement Center.

Wednesday, February 10, Brookfield Public Schools, Brookfield, Wisconsin, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. All majors.

Wednesday, February 10, Muskego-Norway Consolidated School District, Muskego, Wisconsin, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Vacancies to be posted in the Placement Center.

Friday, February 12, 1971, Kenosha Public Schools, Kenosha, Wisconsin, 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Elementary, English, Social Studies, General Science, Guidance, Health, Industrial Education, Library Science, Math, Physical Education (Women), Music, Physical Science, Special Education.

Summer Jobs Abroad Listed

Summer job opportunities look good for students this summer both in the United States and overseas! This optimistic outlook comes from the 1971 editions of two annual paperbacks, "Summer Employment Directory of the United States" and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs," just off the press.

For students who want to work in the States, there are more than 60,000 specific openings listed with salary, dates of employment, and name of the person to whom applications should be sent. Jobs are largely in the recreational areas where savings by the end of the summer can be substantial - resorts, national parks, restaurants, summer camps, summer theatres; also, business and industry, government.

Students who would like the growing experience of working abroad will find information on over 56,000 vacancies. Included are specific paying jobs: summer camps, hosting, housing exchange or working vacations; visa, resident and work regulations. Countries covered are England, Scotland, Ireland, Italy, France, Germany, Spain, Israel, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Scandinavia, North Africa and South America.

For early application, "Summer Employment Directory of the United States" ($4.50) and "Directory of Overseas Summer Jobs" ($3.95) may be ordered by mail from National Directory Service, 266 Ludlow Ave., no C, Cincinnati, Ohio 45220.
Mastering The Draft
Supreme Court Decision On C.O.'s

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.

Draft Takes Beating in Courts

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Selective Service is starting to reject those who well-deserve thrashing in the courts. For an agency with a stock-in-trade of the violation of due process, final retribution comes in the courts, because in those cases are mounting, and conviction rates are plummeting. Where the number of cases has increased tenfold in the last five years, the rate of convictions has dropped from a consistent 70 percent in 1965-1967 to 5 percent in 1970-1971.

And that is only half the story, for the conviction rate has been reduced from 100 percent to 5 percent in the recent sentencing record of the federal courts in the Northern District of California in fiscal year 1969: Of the 166 men convicted that year, none received 5-year sentences; only 3 got 3 to 5 years; 21 drew 3 to 5 years; 8 men got 1 year or less; and 54 were just put on probation.
DDT & The Fish That Got Away

In late December 1970, Food and Drug Administration fishery authorities confirmed they had caught four DDT-contaminated saltwater fish earlier in the month before it could be marketed by the State Fish Company, Inc. of San Pedro, California.

The fish were sold in commercial sectors off Los Angeles. Tests indicated the catch contained about 9 parts per million DDT. The DDT gradually built up for four times the 5 ppm limit for fish traded in interstate commerce established by the FDA in April 1969. And though local authorities were to ring the same bell of familiarity with housewives as salmon or tuna, paper made paper dolls or paper money for playing, or getting into movies, or something.

But there's much more you have to know. And we're making it easy for you to get the information you need to help make a decision about Sears. For more information about Sears, please refer to the Sears College Majors Guidebook. It's available on our website or at our stores.

Pulitzer Prize Winner Speaks

Dr. Rene Dubos, winner of the 1969 Pulitzer prize in literature for his warnings about the ecological crisis and member of President Nixon's Citizen Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality, will deliver a public address Thursday night, Feb. 11, at Stevens Point State University.

His appearance will be part of the Arts and Lectures Series beginning at 8pm in Main Building auditorium. Tickets are on sale at the Arts and Lectures office in the Fine Arts Building.

Dr. Dubos became widely acclaimed for his book, "So Human an Animal" which received the Pulitzer and included such cautions as "We are as much a part of our total environment as of our genetic endowment. In fact, the environment we live in can greatly enhance—or severely limit—the development of human potential. How can we deal with our experience scientifically and retain our humanness?"

Born in France, he received his doctorate from Rutgers University and worked many years for the Rockefeller University and for two years at the Harvard University Medical School. Dubos has also written and spoken on environmental problems in the United States and worldwide. He has also written the books "Main Adapting" and "The Unseen World," both of which received Phi Beta Kappa Awards, and "The Dreams of Reason," "The Torch of Life," "Passion and Modern Science," and "The Mirage of Health." He has been an active member of the University of Wisconsin for the past 30 years.

A Sears Career Doesn't Impress Everybody

by Debra Collins

Editor's Note: Miss Collins is a 7th grade student at Fletcher School in Jacksonville, Florida. We wish more people had her awareness.

I am talking about the causes of pollution. Pollution is caused by many different things, some of which are: car exhaust, smoke from factories, trash, and little chemicals in the air.

Appearance: The appearance of pollution is really strange and ugly. It'd rather see the sky falling on us than look at air pollution.

Smell: It really stinks! It smells so bad it makes your stomach churn and you get real sick and you throw-up a lot.

Taste: It tastes worse than it looks! No wonder people die from it.

Feeling: My feeling toward pollution is unhealthfully bad. I feel that air pollution is what makes astronauts go to the moon. There's no pollution up there.

Reaction: My reaction to air pollution is "Blah!" They say Alka-Seltzer takes away the "thud," but why didn't it take air pollution away? Air pollution is what gives us the blahs, not eating too much food!

Opinion: My opinion is that air pollution doesn't fit into our society. There has to be something everyone can do to stop pollution and there is--but people, it seems, would rather complain about it and just leave it for us younger generations to do.

To clean up air pollution, I think they should ban the "no-return" bottles. It's simple, since they only add to our trash piles and air pollution. There should be a law against throwing trash on the grounds and in the water. If someone breaks this law they will be fined; if they keep doing it they will be put in jail for about a year or less. In the city dump they should build a fence area and keep the trash in there. We should find things to make out of the trash. Like out of rubber, make little rubber toys; out of paper make paper dolls or paper money for playing, or getting into movies, or something.

But there's much more you have to know. And we're making it easy for you to get the information you need to help make a decision about Sears. For more information about Sears, please refer to the Sears College Majors Guidebook. It's available on our website or at our stores.

February 10

What you don't know about a Sears career may impress you.
Campus Journal Gone

Second semester may bring many developments to this campus but a return of the CAMPUS JOURNAL will not be among them. Without intending to disparage the capabilities of the former POINTER editor, we feel safe in saying that any ad revenue venture, supported primarily by AP feature stories (of little importance to the immediate concerns of the university community) has little chance of producing a high degree of journalistic quality. If there is to be another newspaper circulating on campus, we hope it will be a product of the youth community and oriented toward local problems.

Iris Critiqued

In spite of the advent of the new Iris the Pointer still struggles to place the existence of yearbooks into the general scheme of university life. However, for the present we are pleased at the new product from the Iris office to see what that publication has added to our general knowledge.

Mr. Crehore's pleasing cover photo announced that the first issue concerned itself with environment. It was refreshing to note that the first issue concerned itself with environmental aspects of the yearbook. Perhaps. Before discussing the main theme in the Iris, the Pointer will briefly examine the non-environmental aspects of the yearbook.

Placing the coverage of Homecoming at the beginning of the book seems to clearly indicate that the campus still places great stock in pointless rituals. The absence of editorial comment on the page displaying the ecologically offensive steak and fries photo. It is meaningful to all.

From the section on Greeks we are reassured that college students still engage in some fairly absurd activities, but they don't really warrant that much space. The service fraternities and sororities do serve some purpose on this campus and in the Stevens Point area, but with all the good times occurring on pages 6 through 9, they received little coverage. The Pointer is nearing omega on this subject.

"Dorms" gave an indication of what a nerve-racking experience barracks life can be. Good steak and fries photo.

In an era when the status of marijuana in our society is a daily news issue it is to the credit of the Iris staff that "Busted" appeared on the pages of the yearbook. People cannot continue to ignore the drug scene and still reach conclusions regarding it. However, it seemed in poor taste to mention the names of the young men involved; they were only hopeless victims of misinformed police apparatus.

We hope Mr. Seldon Paulkiner and Company survived the opening page of the "Arts and Lectures" section without serious impairment to their creative abilities. As for "Sports"... oh, well.

But the issue was on Environment, right?

Although Mr. Crehore's photos were, once again, very well done and Miss Hemauer's photos of the Environment section were relevant to the campus community, the Iris' attempt to speak to the crisis of the environment was a failure. Misses Mortenson and Granger were correct in asserting that a certain amount of responsibility falls upon the individual in maintaining this world but non-returnable containers are but a drop in the bowl when compared to other corporate vomit.

Hard as it may be to accept, it is industry and it is government we must contend. Mr. Crehore barely touches upon the core of the problem when he refers to the "profligate, profiteering philosophy that we have clung to so long... . However, he does point Iris failed to follow up with any comment on rampant capitalism in a war-oriented society as the ultra-destructive force, causing the collapse of the natural world.

Whatever concessions have been made to social relevance, the fact remains that the Iris is a yearbook but as long as we must endure yearbooks, perhaps this style, selected by this staff, will, at least, break the monotony. We understand, as of this recent issue, that the Iris will pay special tribute to American male chauvinism.

Letters

Black Students Unite

To the Editor: -

We, the Black students of WSU-Stevens Point in an honest effort to express our needs and aspirations in a meaningful way to the college community, have formed Black Student Coalition, as our concern for these needs may be attained.

Needless to say, our society is plagued with a host ofills, some of which are the direct result of our black (un)attainable, unresponsive, and irresponsible leadership. One of these problems are self evident, others are not. When we see friction sparking between the Black and White students on the college campus, this issue of this friction sparking is evident while the result is hidden in procrastination, ignorance, and fear. We in this organization hope to alleviate these problems by working with the college in unveiling the results. Many Black students of WSU-Stevens Point feel sincerely dedicated to the task and only hope that their dedication and sincerity will be felt by others in this college community. We believe that we can encourage the college to relate to us and our needs on the campus, that we can live productively without feeling subjected to the pressures of a minority status. We hope to make Stevens Point the college where Black culture will be institutionalized into the curriculum and a college community. We hope that we can encourage the college to relate to us and our needs on the campus, that we can live productively without feeling subjected to the pressures of a minority status. We hope to make Stevens Point the college where Black culture will be institutionalized into the curriculum and a college community.

To include Black history in our search for identity. To foster better race relations on campus by:

1. To build group solidarity in our search for identity.
2. To foster better race relations on campus by:
   a. Working toward establishing an atmosphere conducive to an education which is meaningful to all.
   b. Providing an organization which will help ease our transition from high school to college which is much greater than adjustment to a college education.
3. To provide a vehicle through which our needs may be expressed to the college community and an effective channel of communication between the race.
4. To effectively combat alienation.
5. To include Black history and culture into all facets of the core curriculum, not just a few.

These objectives we do respectfully sum up to you, the college community, in hoped that you will see our hopes, aims and objectives. Weaponized, the counseling of our organization Respectfully submitted,

The Concerned Black Students of WSU-Stevens Point

Carnival Appraised

To the editor:

Time and time again people complain and leave themselves far or out on the limb it is costly.

I do read your newspaper but find it hard to imagine people who write letters to the editor not to write the credit for their letter.

At this moment I find myself the center of attention from good old Disgusted Tom. You remember him I hope. He states that the Greeks are running or should I say dictating Winter Carnival.

Where was Tom when the position was opened last spring for a new chairman?

The theme I was thinking for the idea of the ice sculpture. If Tom and all his buddies from the dorm would mind staying off the grass when walking to class maybe we would have some grass around here.

Some of the people complain about the people who did not celebrate Earth Day. Well I guess some of them did by slopping paint and grass for three nights and burning holes on the lawn with their camp fires. The result is still there still. Where are the marks left from Winter Carnival? Ice Sculptures?

There are more ideas to Winter Carnival. I even have when the Wind Ensemble performs to start Winter Carnival week off! Is not this culture or are you a beer drinker? The time is Tuesday night through games for the whole campus to participate in. I also suppose that Tom will sit back and watch.

I think you should stop and think and consider the time and energy that people put into Winter Carnival before you start typing a letter to the editor. Our meetings for Winter Carnival begin every Monday at 8:00 in the UAB office. Stop in and visit sometime. Daniel Teleskcy

P.S. Eau Claire is still having it hard. Are there any more negative assumptions that you can think of? EDITOR'S NOTE: Does anyone recall the "sweathog" controversy of 1967-68?

Contrex Questioned

DEAR EDITOR:

Just exactly what did the new Campus Phone System solve? The biggest gripe with the old system were: 1) Had to dial to get out of the University, which often times meant waiting for an open line. 2) Had to go through the desks at the halls, and 3) There weren't enough phones on the halls.

Now, with the new system, 1) We can dial to make a call on the outside line, which sometimes means waiting for an open line. 2) Have the phone right in front of the desks at the halls, and 3) No increase of phones on the dorm wings. What was the big advantage of the new system? Gary W. Hildreth
Disgusted Tom

Rebutted

Dear dissected tom,

Your lack of knowledge is overwhelming to say the least. Apparently you don't understand the provisions of Winter Carnival. It is not a "campus community." Winter Carnival is open to all students and faculty, and is not compulsory (i.e. this means you do not have to attend, participate or go to it) which means you are free to do your own thing, watch a Greek only Winter Carnival, but is set up for all students to participate, enjoy, provide recreation, entertainment, and relaxation.

If you have followed W.C. in years before this has always been well attended by the students here. The rest, usually quite apathetic, and non-involved, pack-up and go home on the weekend after a few fun activities and doing nothing!. Unless I am mistaken, they are holding some of the games in your room I don't think W.C. will infringe upon.

Had you spent any time on campus this summer you would have seen the grass on Old Main mis-taken and they are holding union would have shown you where a fire was built.

I don't think W. C. will infringe onourse. Remember "Ten where they walk." No poor, leading. Why, because not only care but are problems and not just sit back and watch. That makes the test absurd as an inventory of knowledge for the teacher to analyze in understanding with Dan Flemming.

Myth Man

Revealed

Pointe Staff: ...The following is information gathered so far by our people on The Mystery Man of the Week (1-11-71).

This seemingly harmless, very elderly dude is believed to be a member of the University Faculty. He has treated to alcoholic beverages until drunk; they will get laggardly and real slow, and helped to call lots of girls and find them. (Remember "Tell ten, DAMN WHERE THEY WALK, no poor, leading."

Remember "Tell ten, DAMN WHERE THEY WALK, no poor, leading."

Was this what W. C. did?

Tom, I wish you would take a good look at this Campus Even when they are not on the trails that cross the lawns.

Next time you visit campus, these are THE WORK OF STUDENTS WHO DON'T GIVE A FK. GO TO WALK OR WHAT THEY WALK ON. Wonders what that does to the relics of what were at only time young trees planted on the campus. Shameful isn't it, a campus with so many emotionally-minded students and no trees.

As you suggested in your letter that we take care of our country first, I think we should start with the people in the neighborhood of home stevens point. I see the Greeks active in giving blood, Muscle from the belt drives, Clean-up drives helping the poor, etc.; but if this is all that they do it is ashamed of them leading? Why, because they are not doing it to do something about the problems and not just sit back and talk about it. Tom, I suggest next time you go blabbing off at any groups you do better look around and see whether or not your criticisms aren't justified.

Fraternally, Steve Berndt

Phi Sigs Praised?

To the Editor:

Winter Carnival January 9 and 14, 1971 I was privileged to witness that infamous group, known and loved, the Phi Sigs. I am a member of the members of our own, dear Phi Sigma Epsilon, in action several times.

That they are fun-loving congenial, lighthearted, can be seen by their hilarious actions, which they partake of. They provide entertainment for all by dancing on stage while a band is performing. The distribute their pearls of wisdom to the crowd by putting on a very organized, contest style. The often, taking a test is the best you can turn a valuable class period into a meaningless farce.

Also, the pressure of a test can be bad. Those who can not stand the pressure of a test will find that the test rejects their knowledge. Some have often caused me to fail a test when I knew almost all of the material given better than some of those who passed.

For this reason, we are against taking tests in the amount of cheating or tests. I cannot remember taking an exam without someone taking an answer or a quite adept at sharing your house, your phone, your bed, and anything else available to you at the time of the test or not. But perhaps the height of their charm, wit and cleverness can be seen in their friendly mode. Spending time with them will share that dome of intelligence, the Phi Sigma Epsilon House with anyone - even retarded individuals. Retarded people are especially treated with the highest regard for mankind. They are treated to alcoholic beverages until drunk; they will get laggardly and real slow, and helped to call lots of girls and find them. I am just saying that it is not. As to how many of the kids in Phi Sigma Epsilon are wonderful knowledge. The pressure has taken and they are holding union would have shown you where a fire was built.

Sen. FULBRIGHT: You have information, I believe, that six of our men have died in prisoner-of-war camps.

We had this information-well over a week ago, and we have further information of 11 others. It is over ever what period, just recently, or over the last two or three years?

Sec. Laird: It was the first notification we had of any. I think it's now a total of 17 in North Vietnam prison camps.

Sen. FULBRIGHT: What a way to treat some of your prisoners held by our side have died during this same period?...

Now You See It, Now You Don't

There has been some talk about an understanding between North Vietnam and this government relative to the use of reconnaissance planes over the past two years. Frankly, I know of no such understanding.

Majority Leader Mansfield in the Senate Nov.24 Sen. CHURCH: Have you had any communication with you understand that permits the United States to fly reconnaissance missions over Vietnam?

Sen. CHURCH: Is that understanding in writing?

Sec. Laird: No. Sen. CHURCH: What was the nature of that unwritten understanding?

Sec. Laird: ... The enemy knows full well what those understandings are and every person that was involved in that particular understanding certainly was very familiar with that.

Sen. RAJE: It takes it what happened, in substance, when he said we stop bombing, was that we announced three conditions that we expected to be fulfilled? There is nothing more in the discussions oral or in writing, as far as I am aware, other than on the other side, or anything very formal. Is that correct?

Sec. Laird: There was quite a debate, Senator Case. I spent a considerable amount of time reading the notes... and there was a great deal of discussion, and the other side, was the North Vietnamese were, certainly--they certainly had the understanding.

Sen. SYMINGTON: You are operating against a good many forces now. You are operating against Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese and the Cambodian army and the Viet Cong, and it just might be that some of those forces do not agree with what we are doing. I don't agree with them.

Don't ask why the" Pointer" feels it must point to disdain to members of the faculty or administration who feel they also have a place in the Grid? I am referring to the picture and comment in the last issue of the "Pointer" (Jan. 11) concerning Warren Jenkins. We believe you are fortunate to have members of the faculty and administration who are willing to mingle with the students. This provides an opportunity for each side to see the other as people- not just students.

I am sure the" Pointer" can find more relevant topics to talk about. They have really scraped the bottom of the barrel this time. Ginny Schumann

Editor's note: We certainly have.
What Makes The Pentagon Tick?

Reviewed by Tom Riddell

The Pentagon Watchers is another addition to the current critique of the American Warfare State. It is a compilation of papers that resulted from the National Security Summer Research Project during the summer of 1969. The project was sponsored by the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington and consisted of a group of students who spent the summer researching and interviewing to find out what makes the old defense-industry tech Tick.

The first two sections of the book on "State Power" and "Intervention" are timely within the context of the current debate over the Nixon doctrine and American foreign policy, not to mention the Indochina War. The first two essays by Robert Berson, now at Yale Law, and Marcus Raskin, co-director of IPS, are excellent drafts of the Boston 5, respectively, provide an excellent historical presentation of the formation of the institutions of the National Security State in the years following World War II. And the following two pieces by Derek Shearer on "The Pentagon Propaganda Machine" and the ideology of the Cold War is overwhelming and, at the same time, a masterpiece of understatement (except for the fact that their machine has worked and worked well).

And where has this National Security State and its propaganda machine led us? To intervention and to Vietnam. We conclude that foreign policy is not intervention, and to Vietnam, it is not intervention, and to Vietnam, it is not intervention, but in the years since World War II. As William Stivers (a Reed graduate) points out, "The Pentagon is a weapon, not just a weapon, but a weapon against us.

We have failed; we haven't defeated the Vietnamese liberation movement, and we can't. But our basic outlook on the world remains the same (albeit Nixon's does), and the question arises: will the Nixon doctrine, if so defined here, defeat him in the World War II? If the United States defeat him in the Cold War, the world of tomorrow is left unopened.

As long as the military-political power remains opposed to revolution in the Third World, the future for Robert Heilbroner has called "the 'arms race' of tomorrow." American remains bleak. As Stivers contends, "a simple military-security system assembled in one era, to meet a particular threat, has entangled the world's institutions in an illogical, inconsistent posture that can produce only never-ending conflict." As long as America maintains its counter-revolutionary stance, Nixon Doctrine or no Nixon Doctrine (whatever it means), we are doomed to take part in violence in the Third World for some time to come. We will continue to intervene.

And the piece by Tom Klein, "war-power economics," demonstrates that we are building up our ability to pay that. Through our airforce (CSA), sealift (Fast Deployment Logistic Ships and Forward Floating Depots), and selective prepositioning (foreign bases) strategy, we will have a "rapid development capability." We are ready to say it in our own words, and the rest of the world will think it for us.

The first two essays by Robert Berson, now at Yale Law, and Marcus Raskin, co-director of IPS, are excellent drafts of the Boston 5, respectively, provide an excellent historical presentation of the formation of the institutions of the National Security State in the years following World War II. And the following two pieces by Derek Shearer on "The Pentagon Propaganda Machine" and the ideology of the Cold War is overwhelming and, at the same time, a masterpiece of understatement (except for the fact that their machine has worked and worked well).

And where has this National Security State and its propaganda machine led us? To intervention and to Vietnam. We conclude that foreign policy is not intervention, and to Vietnam, it is not intervention, but in the years since World War II.
Japanese Cookery

If anyone knows where to buy MASA, corn flour for tortillas, in the Stevens Point area, please contact the Pointer officer with that information. Thanks, Kathy.

JAPANESE COOKING - PART II

These are my favorite Japanese foods and tastes. The Yaki-Soba and the Sushi require special Japanese foods, available at Mr. Chong's International House of Foods in Madison. The 3 recipes will give you some sense of the varieties of Japanese cooking styles, and the fantastic range of Japanese tastes.

Tempura

Tempura is a style of Japanese cooking similar to our deep-frying. But the Japanese use vegetables as well as seafoods, dip them into a thin batter, and then into a delicate sauce after they have been quickly fried in a light cooking oil.

If you can get to Mr. Chong's store, buy the Hime Tempura Batter Mix. Instructions for both tempura and dipping sauce are on the box. You can make acceptable home-made tempura as follows:

Thinly slice carrots, green onions, celery, green pepper, or any vegetable that you think you would enjoy deep-fried, and cut into 1-inch strips. Slice white fish into 1-inch strips, and split shrimp down the inner curve (the side away from the intestine). If you are going to try tempura, shrimp and green onion are the best.

Dipping sauce: Combine in a small saucepan - 2 T. water, 1 beef bouillon cube, 2 T. sauerkraut, 2 T. soy sauce, 1 T. sugar, pinch ajinomoto (Accent or msg). Heat to boiling and turn fire off.

Batter: Beat 1 egg white with egg beater in medium-size bowl until stiff. Beat in 1/2 C flour, 1/3 C water, 1/4 t baking powder, 1 t sugar, 1 t cornstarch, and 1/4 t salt. You want a fairly thin batter.

Heat Wesson oil (don't use a heavier oil) to 375 degrees. Dip sliced vegetables and seafoods into batter, and fry a couple minutes, until lightly browned. Drain on paper towels. (Fuse a potato peeler to thinly slice carrots and celery, and then dip several such slices together into the frying oil.)

Reheat dipping sauce, stir well, and divide into individual serving bowls. Dip tempura into sauce while eating. The tempura should be light and crisp - unlike the American heavy, thick 'breaded,' texture. Make batter as you need it. Don't double the batter recipe, it will go flat on you. 1 shrimp, 2 green onions, and I carrot make a meal for two. Always serve this with plain rice.

If you really like tempura, you may want to get a special tempura pan (pictured), also available in Madison.

Yaki-Soba

This unusual noodle-and-vegetable dish requires:

1 Japanese dried mushroom (jime-branched, or any other). Regular mushrooms are poor substitutes.

1 package Nissin 'Chow-mein' noodles

1/2 t sugar

2 t finely chopped raw chicken or pork

3 to 4 finely chopped crisp vegetables (eg. green bean, carrot, celery, onion)

3 T cooking oil

Soak dried mushroom in 1/4 C boiling water for 20 to 30 minutes. Squeeze, cut stem out, and chop fine. Save soaking water.

Cook noodles as directed on package. But use mushroom water as part of the 1 C water, and add sugar (very unauthentic, but like it) to the water before adding the noodles.

In a skillet, lightly cook the meat and vegetables, including mushroom, in hot oil. Add the cooked noodles, mix thoroughly over medium heat, and serve with the sauce. Many large luncheon servings.

Inarizushi

I suggest this only for the most 'adventuresome among you. Slightly described, inarizushi is cold rice balls, seasoned with sugar, vinegar and pickled vegetables, stuffed into fried soybean-curl shells, and served with red pickled ginger. The taste is as unlike American food as you will find. I love them -- but have found few older Americans who can share that love.

The ingredients, all available in Madison, are:

1 can Inarizushi-no-Moto (vegetables)

1 Kakaoh rice, or other

Japanese rice

Beni Shoga (pickled ginger)

Wash 2 C rice thoroughly, drain, cover with cold water, and let soak 6 minutes. In a large heavy pan with tight-fitting lid, combine: soaked, drained rice; 3 C cold water; 4 t sugar; dash salt. Bring to boil, reduce heat to very low, cover; cook for 12 to 15 minutes or until rice is done. Let set 1/2 hour, covered.

Then, mix into rice the can of Inarizushi and the liquid drained from the can of Inarizushi. When the rice is cool enough to handle, carefully open one Inarizushi at a time and fill with rice mixture. Dip hands into a bowl of cold water as needed.

Cool overnight in refrigerator, covered. Makes 20 to 24 rice balls. This dries out very quickly and lasts only for 2 days. Serve with very tiny slices of Beni Shoga (red pickled ginger).

Day Care - Baby Sitting In My Home. Rates: Reasonable Negotiable CALL 341-0726

ROOM FOR RENT. Female. Kitchen Privileges, Garage if Needed. Walking Distance to W.S.U. Reasonable. 341-2755

MOON FUN SHOP BLACKLIGHTS DOWNTOWN STEVENS POINT

SALE! • BIGGER THAN LAST YEAR! • AT SPORT SHOP SKI CENTER!

25% AND MORE OFF ON ALL SKIS AND MOST EQUIPMENT

PEER AT THESE ON SALE NAMES - HEAD - YAMAHA - KRYSTAL

SCOTT - DOVRE - LOOK

LANGER - KASTINGER

SOLOMON - MARKER

PLUS All Famous Name Clothing!
that it was August, that the sun was high, that it never laughed, or cried, turned crimson as he read the blanched languid leaves, or reflected the sun like a dusty mirror. And I turned to see the sun and thought of the water beneath the hill we would pray together, we would pray and know from whom we came we would forget our duties there and know what we have come there to do, we must try to remember that we are to suffer for our sins, and only suffer for our sins.

I had given myself to man, to his designs, to make I was not understood. I could not speak, in my birth, to intercede for me, to one, unse wing understand all the storms and earthquakes.

John turned at his heart knockings, and his voice was like no other he had ever known, down in life, and sputtering with sparkling eyes.

"Rubbish!"

Do not be startled, John, your good angel, the one for me, come, have you not? I think, I have been waiting.

"Yes like so many others. Times different. The people are not as willing to love or hate with one another. Their lives are short, their love is short, and they hate, in desperation, in change. They do not search as hard as they could search."

He was in and out of the room, the voice which spoke with me, and come there to do, we must try to

John, they took me away at just the moment I had abandonned the world and come to down and kiss the lips of Mary Magdalene. She had always been good to her sin, I would have saved her ever chance. I had thought of the生态, but the miracle I desired was not to be included in what was to be set down.

It is written that I shall return, and in my weakness, I know my love and I am left to visit children in the hands of such, to be patient, not the voice in my ear, but I cannot. I am sorry I cannot keep you from joy. You will not be heard.

The stranger was there. I must struggle.

Hearing the last words and laugh the last stranger departed leaving no mark. "John was lost.

John from this day was never sure of his posture. He had so many questions. He could not say to his brothers, I do not know where he was going, but only knew life could not be sold, and he could not go no more than a "Moxie". He had seen and spoken with them, in love, in desert, to something he had not the courage to touch. He had to see. He knew, he knew he had a special preoccupation, a desire, he made only one demand on life, to never be deceived, to never be disappointed. He spoke in voice, the only one the angel had to say, the angel who had given him dreams.

"Read on," the stranger said.

"Abandon. Abandon the atmosphere of your dreams."

The stranger laughed and his laughter echoed for the first time, and John was the only one to see and hear. "I could not do that before, John," the stranger laughed. "I never quite knew how to hear or listen, I could make others hear, then make the message and did not understand, he thought. I must be willing to depart, Christ could not stay nor will he come back.

Eberhardt was silent and praying for his friend. He had abandoned the world and come to kiss the lips of Mary Magdalene. He was in the hands of such beings, I will not, I do not know what I know. Et, one must be willing to depart, Christ could not stay nor will he come back.

"John, let me leave you with the idea that if you are willing to believe, in the Cathedral hangs a dead man."

The stranger laugh long at each other, and said their first goodbyes. They had not spoken much and left nothing more said. They were two children who had grown up on the same dream and had not found a growing concern for the world, for the secrets of the heart. They found not a knowing glance ease a restless mood, I will be difficult to be in the hands of such beings, to see it without the other. It is only a blind challenge, John could no longer do. He did not know whether he was strong or weak, or afraid of permanence, but he was now ready. Ready to see.

"Adieu, John."
The church, and therefore, not the basket.

The Monsignor continued, "It is the day of the basket, for which has stood for centuries. The National Council simply stated it more strongly; and put it on the record. Long before any one thought of the issue at all," he glanced around the room, then through the windows of the front porch. "you see, it all goes back to the Mother Church and its conception and all."

Tim spoke up quickly, "But Sir, you must understand the difference in the birth control between the two systems. It is the conscious decision to prevent the child from birth that prevents it, where the other is only a matter of deciding which techniques will be used, be it rhythm, pills, diaphragms, or whatever. So, what difference does one make? It is up to where the birth control takes place that makes the difference."

"I understand your point, Tim and Maureen," the Monsignor said, "but we do not understand the question fully when you asked. We never knew in the marriage contract or we would have put it there. We did not understand the Church's position."

"You don't know their theology, that's all. Their stand, indeed, they have no stand, for as long as is written, what God has chosen to make mandatory. These young Priests are emmended in the streets, barren the wrong cross. The Church believes that only includes going into the streets, we have no door that God and the window and the rain. Hrub his old wrinkled hands over his face and shook his head, "Even then, even sure of their stand."

"How do you expect the ministers to learn the theology better than the Priests?" Monsignor asked.

Monsignor paused, realizing the strength of the words he had used. "Yes, Monsignor smiled, "Why don't you want awhile, think it over and then answer the question?"

"We have it out too many times already, we can't put it off any longer." Maureen's eyes hardened, "We are human beings, we must maintain the respectfulness toward the people inside so well in the Church school."

"You two wish to live happily ever after, don't you, Holy Marriage?" he said with a laugh. "You might want to have some days. There was an emptiness in the room, in time, space, language; like museum artifacts the three sat immobile, silent.

"Then the Monsignor eased back in his chair, "But I will call the Chancelory for you see if there is another way. They have been very hard put. They are very ready to get a hold of, you understand."

"But the house is home and don't worry. Get some sleep, it is what you need."

"Yes, you are welcome to stay the night."

"I'm sorry" Eberhardt excused them both.

"That's why, yes, he murmured, "Wong's India."

"Is it really?" Eberhardt smiled.

"Oh, most assuredly, most honored Father," Tim said, "but we have no problem."

"It is Chinarman from Detroit. Those children take so long to uncivilize. He bowed out and brought in a beautifully small, white wedding cake with sign of retribution hand painted on the side."

"And its content, it has had a safe journey?"

"Yes, he said, "It was brought to you." Monsignor sighed with joy, "keep the change and God bless you my son."

Eberhardt turned to the door, "those are the words of the Church." He quickly and almost toppled, "Oh yes, of course Father, been a long time since I have been to a shop. It was not so easy as for carrots; third aisle with a smile that turned up his eye."

The basket was again handed Monsignor, "I hope a purple ribbon with Lao The quotes printed in gold in the same tongue, with a bow like a Christanthemum."

"I have not had it, only the mist of rain blown of buildings filled the air. The Monsignor blushed, "Eberhardt called a taxi.""

"It's Pelreste's, " he leaned saying inaudible things to the basket at the side. He cab.

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"

"No, sorry, I don't."

"Well, I don't have anything around here you can drive to the gas station?"

"You got something to put it in?"
the car open again and got out. It was cold. He set off jogging down the highway. The raw air chilled his lungs and numbed passages. When he began to tire he thrust his hands into his pockets and slowed down. He should have put on a hat and some warmer clothes from his suitcase, he told himself. He wasn’t dressed for a several mile jaunt through sub-zero weather. His feet were extremely cold and each of his ears felt as if it were being pinched with an icy pair of pliers.

He had gone perhaps a mile and a half when he heard a sound behind him and looked back. A frigid blast of wind cut into his face, causing his eyes to water, but through the moisture he could make out two streaks of headlights approaching. It was a beautiful sight and he laughed to himself in relief. He planted himself in the middle of the road and his face was completely numb. He started running again on feet that vaguely felt swollen beyond the size of his shoes. He slowed to a walk once more when the road began to grade upward. The cutting wind tore at him and the car was being blown from the side of the road. When he reached the crest of the hill, however, he looked out and saw the interstate highway overpasing, carrying its traffic less than a half mile away. Just beyond it were the glowing fluorescent lights of the service station, which, he realized, he had passed by in his travels many times before without really noticing. He broke into a run which he continued to the bottom of the hill. Then he slowed to a walk and raised his hands to the rest of the way until he was beneath the familiar torch-emblem sign that was the oil company’s trademark. Had the station been even a few hundred yards further, he felt, he would literally have frozen in his tracks before he reached it. When he burst through the door the office the old man who had been snoozing behind the desk jumped.

"Brother! Where are you coming from?"

"I’m the guy that called about the heater hose," he forced out slowly through numb lips.

The attendant rose languidly and moved to a shelf in the adjoining garage.

"Piece like this the right size?" he asked, displaying a length of rubber hose.

"Yes. That should be OK. You got some kind of container I can put water in?"

"Could you give me a ride a while?"

"Sure. It wouldn’t interfere with the rest of the day’s work."

The young man looked around.

"Well, there’s those empty jugs over there."

He pointed to some discarded antifreeze containers half buried in a metal trash drum. The young man dug out two and filled them at the sink as the attendant went outside to take care of another customer. He had no intention of returning to the farmhouse if he could help it. The old man came back to the office and opened the cash register.

"Let’s see. You owe me thirty four with the tax. Plus a dollar deposit on the jug."

"You want a deposit on these?" the young man asked incredulously, holding up one of the plastic bottles.

"If you don’t want to use them. He closed the hood and the motor began to run. His wrist turned the key to the ignition and the engine was started. His face felt as if it were being corpsicle, he mused wryly, but he was in no mood to argue. He had intended to stay and warm up a bit before starting back, but an idea occurred to him and he went out to the car that had just been filled. He stood near the pump until the old man came out and the driver rolled down the window to get his change.

"Say, are you going north on a road trip?"

"Yeah, I am."

"Could you give me a ride a couple miles? My car is stuck up there and I have to get this heater hose on."

"Yeah, I guess I could."

"Thanks."

He gathered his thoughts sufficiently to dredge up another phrase from the cruder portions of his vocabulary and resumed his walk. He was shivering now and his face was completely numb. He started running again on feet that vaguely felt swollen beyond the size of his shoes. He slowed to a walk once more when the road began to grade upward. The cutting wind tore at him and the car was being blown from the side of the road. When he reached the crest of the hill, however, he looked out and saw the interstate highway overpasing, carrying its traffic less than a half mile away. Just beyond it were the glowing fluorescent lights of the service station, which, he realized, he had passed by in his travels many times before without really noticing. He broke into a run which he continued to the bottom of the hill. Then he slowed to a walk and raised his hands to the rest of the way until he was beneath the familiar torch-emblem sign that was the oil company’s trademark. Had the station been even a few hundred yards further, he felt, he would literally have frozen in his tracks before he reached it. When he burst through the door the office the old man who had been snoozing behind the desk jumped.

"Brother! Where are you coming from?"

"I’m the guy that called about the heater hose," he forced out slowly through numb lips.

The attendant rose languidly and moved to a shelf in the adjoining garage.

"Piece like this the right size?" he asked, displaying a length of rubber hose.

"Yes. That should be OK. You got some kind of container I can put water in?"

"Could you give me a ride a while?"

"Sure. It wouldn’t interfere with the rest of the day’s work."

The young man looked around.

"Well, there’s those empty jugs over there."

He pointed to some discarded antifreeze containers half buried in a metal trash drum. The young man dug out two and filled them at the sink as the attendant went outside to take care of another customer. He had no intention of returning to the farmhouse if he could help it. The old man came back to the office and opened the cash register.

"Let’s see. You owe me thirty four with the tax. Plus a dollar deposit on the jug."

"You want a deposit on these?" the young man asked incredulously, holding up one of the plastic bottles.

"If you don’t want to use them. He closed the hood and the motor began to run. His wrist turned the key to the ignition and the engine was started. His face felt as if it were being corpsicle, he mused wryly, but he was in no mood to argue. He had intended to stay and warm up a bit before starting back, but an idea occurred to him and he went out to the car that had just been filled. He stood near the pump until the old man came out and the driver rolled down the window to get his change.

"Say, are you going north on a road trip?"

"Yeah, I am."

"Could you give me a ride a couple miles? My car is stuck up there and I have to get this heater hose on."

"Yeah, I guess I could."

"Thanks."

He ran around to the other side of the car and got in. He had a late model Lincoln, a convertible with virtually every available option, including air conditioning. It was the heater however, that went on when the engine seized. He was glad. "I really appreciate this," he said as he put the car in gear and started the station. He was supposed to go into the army at six this morning.

"You might see a complaint against the driver, a heavy set middle-aged man, "he good to hear."

"It is?"

"I mean that you’re willing to stand as their country. A lot of guys aren’t."

"Hello, with this kind of war..."

"Listen, you wanna know something? If you were one of those long-haired protestor types you would get car sick in this car now."

It was quite warm in the car and the young man’s ears and extremities began to burn as they thawed out.

"I have a son about your age," coughed the driver.

"And if he ever came home looking like one of those hippies who urge you to vote, "You might as well walk right back out through the door now, " he shut the door.

The old man looked around.

"Well, there’s those empty jugs over there."

He pointed to some discarded antifreeze containers half buried in a metal trash drum. The young man dug out two and filled them at the sink as the attendant went outside to take care of another customer. He had no intention of returning to the farmhouse if he could help it. The old man came back to the office and opened the cash register.

"Let’s see. You owe me thirty four with the tax. Plus a dollar deposit on the jug."

"You want a deposit on these?" the young man asked incredulously, holding up one of the plastic bottles.

"If you don’t want to use them. He closed the hood and the motor began to run. His wrist turned the key to the ignition and the engine was started. His face felt as if it were being corpsicle, he mused wryly, but he was in no mood to argue. He had intended to stay and warm up a bit before starting back, but an idea occurred to him and he went out to the car that had just been filled. He stood near the pump until the old man came out and the driver rolled down the window to get his change.

"Say, are you going north on a road trip?"

"Yeah, I am."

"Could you give me a ride a couple miles? My car is stuck up there and I have to get this heater hose on."

"Yeah, I guess I could."

"Thanks."

He ran around to the other side of the car and got in. He had a late model Lincoln, a convertible with virtually every available option, including air conditioning. It was the heater however, that went on when the engine seized. He was glad. "I really appreciate this," he said as he put the car in gear and started the station. He was supposed to go into the army at six this morning.

"You might see a complaint against the driver, a heavy set middle-aged man, "he good to hear."

"It is?"

"I mean that you’re willing to stand as their country. A lot of guys aren’t."

"Hello, with this kind of war..."

"Listen, you wanna know something? If you were one of those long-haired protestor types you would get car sick in this car now."

It was quite warm in the car and the young man’s ears and extremities began to burn as they thawed out.

"I have a son about your age," coughed the driver.

"And if he ever came home looking like one of those hippies who urge you to vote, "You might as well walk right back out through the door now, " he shut the door.

The old man looked around.

"Well, there’s those empty jugs over there."

He pointed to some discarded antifreeze containers half buried in a metal trash drum. The young man dug out two and filled them at the sink as the attendant went outside to take care of another customer. He had no intention of returning to the farmhouse if he could help it. The old man came back to the office and opened the cash register.

"Let’s see. You owe me thirty four with the tax. Plus a dollar deposit on the jug."

"You want a deposit on these?" the young man asked incredulously, holding up one of the plastic bottles.

"If you don’t want to use them. He closed the hood and the motor began to run. His wrist turned the key to the ignition and the engine was started. His face felt as if it were being corpsicle, he mused wryly, but he was in no mood to argue. He had intended to stay and warm up a bit before starting back, but an idea occurred to him and he went out to the car that had just been filled. He stood near the pump until the old man came out and the driver rolled down the window to get his change.

"Say, are you going north on a road trip?"

"Yeah, I am."

"Could you give me a ride a couple miles? My car is stuck up there and I have to get this heater hose on."

"Yeah, I guess I could."

"Thanks."
SHAMROCK PIZZA 341-0777
“The original FREE PIZZA and SANDWICH delivery in Stevens Point where delivery service is our only business”
OPEN AT 3:30 P.M. DAILY - FRI., SAT., SUN. AT 11:30 A.M.

Dublin Burger 55c
Two freshly ground 100% pure beef patties garnished generously with crisp lettuce & special SHAM-ROCK sauce, topped with Wisconsin cheese on a triple decked sesame bun.

Dublin Burger Basket 79c
A meal in itself. A Dublin Burger with golden brown french fries & a pair of deep rich onion rings.

Big Ben 59c
A ½ lb. of 100% pure beef with lettuce, tomato, pickles, mayonnaise, ketchup, onions on a toasted 5” bun.

Big Ben Basket 79c

Big Beef 55c
The ½ lb. Big Ben with just ketchup, mustard, and pickles.

Big Cheese 59c
The Big Bell with 2 hunks of cheese.

Hamwich 55c
A huge slice of tender lean ham, spread with creamy mayonnaise, lettuce on a toasted bun.

Seawich 55c
A 1½ lb. of pure codfish covered with cheese, lettuce, tartar on a toasted sesame bun.

Taco 39c...3/$1.00
Seasoned ground meat and topped with shredded lettuce and cheese in a corn tortilla folded in half & fried.

Fish & Chips 99c
Three batter-dipped fish served with french fries & tartar.

Hot Turnover Pies 20c
Cherry, Peach, Apple.

Hamburger 35c
Cheeseburger 40c
Double Hamburger 49c
Double Cheeseburger 59c
Grilled Cheese 25c
French Fry 35c
Onion Ring 40c
Tub O’ Fries 1.25
Tub O’ Rings 1.40

PIZZA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Size</th>
<th>8”</th>
<th>12”</th>
<th>14”</th>
<th>16”</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Baby</td>
<td>Mama</td>
<td>Junior</td>
<td>Papa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 item</td>
<td>1.30</td>
<td>1.95</td>
<td>2.45</td>
<td>2.95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 items</td>
<td>1.60</td>
<td>2.40</td>
<td>2.95</td>
<td>3.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 items</td>
<td>1.90</td>
<td>2.85</td>
<td>3.50</td>
<td>4.05</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4 items or more</td>
<td>2.25</td>
<td>3.25</td>
<td>3.95</td>
<td>4.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>plain cheese</td>
<td>1.20</td>
<td>1.80</td>
<td>2.10</td>
<td>2.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>onion</td>
<td>+10c</td>
<td>+15c</td>
<td>+20c</td>
<td>+25c</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Italian Sausage 89c
Zesty Pepperoni 90c
Lean Beef 90c
Canadian Bacon 90c
Galway Bay Shrimp 90c
Kilkenny Salami 90c

Lough Neagh Tuna 90c
Kilkivan Anchovy 90c
County Clare Black Olive 90c
County Down Fr. Mushroom 90c
Dunegal Canned Mushroom 90c
Ulster Green Pepper 90c

Chick. Dinners 1.30
Chicken Boxes (9 pcs.) 2.55
Chicken Bucket (15 pcs. & rolls) 4.15
Chicken Barrel (21 pcs.) 5.35
Chicken Jumbo Barrel (31 pcs.) 7.35

DINNERS

Londonderry Fish Fries 1.40
Fish Box (15 pcs. & tartar) 2.65
Fish Bucket (24 pcs., tartar, fries) 4.15

Shrimp Dinners 1.60
Shrimp Basket (3 large shrimp, sauce, fries) 89c
Shrimp Boat (21 pcs. & sauce) 1.60
Democratic Monarchy

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Tom Kemmen</th>
<th>David Dees</th>
<th>Mike Gorman</th>
<th>Don Peters</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>and Mary Steinbach</td>
<td>and Kathie Chop</td>
<td>and Michael Ann Sorenson</td>
<td>and Nicky Veleck</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alpha Phi</td>
<td>Delta Zeta</td>
<td>Neale</td>
<td>Schmeckle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ken Pickett</td>
<td>Al Stenstrup</td>
<td>Gordon Stevenson</td>
<td>James Hess</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Terry Brocker</td>
<td>and Geri Glisch</td>
<td>and Kathi Hill</td>
<td>and Connie Brunhofer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alpha Sigma Alpha</td>
<td>Detzell</td>
<td>Pray-Sims</td>
<td>Sigma Pi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Breaker</td>
<td>Mike Broeker</td>
<td>John Pitsch</td>
<td>Dave Gitter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Chris Walsh</td>
<td>and Shirley Wasti</td>
<td>and Shriley Watson</td>
<td>and Charla Regel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hansen</td>
<td>Baldwin</td>
<td>Baldwin</td>
<td>Smith</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Gorman</td>
<td>Gordon Stevenson</td>
<td>James Hess</td>
<td>Jon Krein</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Michael Ann Sorenson</td>
<td>and Kathi Hill</td>
<td>and Connie Brunhofer</td>
<td>and Kathy Dick</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neale</td>
<td>Pray-Sims</td>
<td>Sigma Pi</td>
<td>Thomson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don Peters</td>
<td>Michael Ann Sorenson</td>
<td></td>
<td>Gary Kane</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Nicky Veleck</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>and Linda Kelly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schmeckle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Steiner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peter Day</td>
<td>Ken Radek</td>
<td></td>
<td>Jeff Court</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Anne Egenhoefer</td>
<td>and Sue Egland</td>
<td></td>
<td>and Lavon Johnson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tau Kappa Epsilon</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Watson</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

No pictures available:

- Jim Younger and Marie Urban, Phi Sigma Epsilon
- Dennis Schwenke and Deanna Mathis, Sigma Tau Gamma.
- Terry O'Leary and Valerie Lau, Sigma Phi Epsilon
- Jon Krein and Kathy Dick, Thomson
- Gary Kane and Linda Kelly, Steiner
- Jeff Court and Lavon Johnson, Watson