Where Art Thou?

Getting into the driver’s seat of a Sheridan armored tank is Dr. Lee S. Dreyfus, chairman of the Army Advisory Panel on ROTC Affairs. The members of the panel observed ROTC cadets in Summer Camp at Ft. Bragg, NC, to be in a more informed position to advise the military on the ROTC program. The three-day session ended last week. The members of the 15-man panel plan other meetings elsewhere around the country.

Educators Assess Assessment

By Steve Okonek

June 30, 27, and 28, the Wisconsin Secondary School Administrators Association in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point held their annual summer workshop. The three-day event was held at the Allen Center. It was the second year in which the workshop has been held as a joint effort by both junior and senior high schools of Wisconsin.

The topic of this year's workshop was "Assessing Assessment." Robert Rossmiller, workshop coordinator and a faculty member at UW-SP, described asessment as "a three part process consisting of goals, a program, and an evaluation of each." It asks just where we are heading in terms of high school education in the state of Wisconsin and asks if the financial, teaching and overall programs are being utilized to meet the goals. He noted that Wisconsin is still in the process of making some kind of goal statement or redefining the goals of education today.

Present at the sessions were members of the State Educational Task Force appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. This a citizens group who will report back to the State Legislature on their findings concerning assessment. In the past, the group has been holding numerous hearings throughout the state to listen to ideas concerning educational assessment. Task Force participants attending the Workshop represented organizations such as AFL-CIO, Wisconsin Federation of Teachers, League of Women Voters, The State Department of Administration, the State's Senate Education Committee, and the Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Speakers at the workshop represented several aspects of the educational assessment programs today. On Monday the keynote address was given by J. Stanley Ahmann, the Director of National Assessment of Educational Progress from Denver, Colorado. This portion of the program dealt with assessment on a national level of educational assessment. The state of Pennsylvania was chosen and the speaker was Thomas Kendig, Director of the Pennsylvania Quality Assessment Division.

On Tuesday the group looked at the program in terms of what is happening in the state of Wisconsin. The featured speaker was William Kahl, State Superintendent of Public Instruction who spoke on the educational goals and objectives in Wisconsin. Also scheduled on Tuesday were feedback sessions where the educators attending would have a chance to talk with members of the Task Force.

"Dracula" Here

The legendary vampire story of "Dracula" will open Wednesday, July 5, for a four-day stand in our annual summer theatre festival.

The play by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderston will be the first of four productions by the festival company. Performances will be at 8 p.m. each of the four evenings in the Warren Gard Jenkins Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

Tickets are available at the university box office in the upper level of the Fine Arts Building.

Alice Prest Faust, director of "Dracula," announced the cast. Appearing as Dracula is Anton Anday, a local junior high school teacher who is a graduate student doing graduate work at UW-SP. But the major roles in the play are carried by Ruben Miranda, playing Abraham Van Helsing and Kent Butler as Dr. Seward. Miranda is from Antelope Valley College in Littlerock, Cal. where he is a junior in theatre arts. Butler is a graduate of Purdue University's speech and communication department, and is from Darlington, Ind.

The role of Lucy Seward is played by Annette Staaka, a senior in the UW-SP drama department and originally from Illes, Wis. The part of R.H. Renfield, portraying a madman is played by Blake Collier, also from Antelope Valley College, where he is a sophomore in theatre arts.

Barry Wegener, from the University of North Dakota, where he graduated with a degree in speech and theatre, is playing the role of Jonathan Harker. Pual Vasdeventer, Lancaster, Cal., is the comic relief in the character of Butterworth, while Dawn Campion from Port Washington, where she is a senior in high school, is Miss Wells, the maid.

The play, adapted from a novel written exactly 75 years ago, is again inogue--as it had been during the Depression Days of the 1930s when Bela Lugosi made his name as an actor in the title role on Broadway and in a movie.

Recently two historical researchers, intrigued by the Dracula legend, did a study of the locale in Transylvania where the story is set. They found that a real Dracula lived in the 15th century as a Romanian Prince. He had a wide reputation for cruelty and is said to have killed about 100,000 people by impaling his victims on stakes. He is reputed to have have killed 30,000 Turks and Romanian nobles in this way in 1462. A whole village of 20,000 was either impaled or burned to death about the same time.

The actual Castle Dracula was discovered on a cliff near the border of Transylvania. Many legends exist about the "curse" of Dracula. The researchers said there was "something there" at the castle but they were hesitant to be more specific in spite of the fact they themselves ran into several bits of exceedingly bad luck while investigating it. They found a portrait of Dracula, in a chamber of horrors collected by a Tyrolese Prince in 1911. His grave was found in a monastery near Bucharest and since his burial, the monastery reportedly has had many misfortunes. It was empty except for a few prehistoric animal bones, and it might be that, as the researchers thought the monks had moved the body, which had been buried too close to the altar, for a man with Dracula's reputation.
Commencement Committee Arranges Flowers, Music And A Speaker

By Bob Latrine

The selection of a speaker for the traditional commencement exercises has been, for the past few years, a very controversial subject. The Pointer, because of numerous complaints from recent graduates, interviewed Mrs. Mary Baird, chairman of the JW-Doeves Point Commencement Committee.

Mrs. Baird was elected chairman of the Commencement Committee by the faculty for the 1971-72 school year. She is one of five faculty members, Mrs. Baird, and two student representatives from Student Senate. The student representatives are selected by the president of Student Senate, and are deciding where the ceremony will be held.

A representative from the senate stated that students are appointed to a committee after showing some interest in it, but added that the senate has always held "research sessions" to come up with students willing to serve on the Commencement Committee.

Commencement activities are planned jointly by the Graduation Fee, and by money allocated to the Student Senate by the Board of Regents. The Graduation Fee covers the cost of the gowns, diplomas, and speaker.

Mrs. Baird then explained the duties of the committee, stating that, "We really do all of the busy work, in effect we don't have to spend much time in the role. For example, this last year we had to decide which cap and gown company would have the contract for one year, so one month before our committee went out and representatives from different cap and gown companies and examining their merchandise.

Other duties of the committee include deciding where the ceremony will be held, arranging for music, flowers, and a speaker.

The speaker for the May, 1972, commencement was Lyndon Baines Johnson, Speaker of the Board of Regents. A number of students commented that Johnson would be Grover, but that was not on the original list.

Mrs. Baird stated that a schedule was made and that time did not allow them to contact all of the people on the list. "First of all," she stated, "the faculty voted to have the date on Wednesday. Well, our committee felt that this was horrible, from the standpoint of parents having to come from far away for a one evening deal."

The committee worked to change this decision, and was successful, but as a result speaker invitations could not be sent out until the beginning of March.

"Then", Mrs. Baird continued, "the Chancellor approved Lyndon Johnson, and now the final say on who the speaker is going to be, but it took over two weeks before we got a negative reply from Mr. Johnson. But we do work down the list and, as you know, the President of the United States had to come in with recommendations of the list and, I had to work with Mr. Vickerstaff and Mr. Ellingsen to try to bring our recommendations to the Chancellor when he came in, imagine." The controller's office has declared a 1 per cent dividend on the June, 1972 balances in Student Accounting Services.

The list of possible speakers for the May, 1972, commencement exercises included Lyndon Baines Johnson, Speaker of the Board of Regents, Chisholm, Julian Bond, Virginia Knauer, and Robert Bennett, among others. Grover's name was not on the original list.

Mrs. Baird went on to explain that Shirley Chisholm and Julian Bond were not accepted by the Chancellor, Chisholm because he was busy campaigning and Bond because he had been here before and was rather expensive. Thus, after waiting over two weeks for a negative reply from Virginia Knauer, the committee had to abandon the rest of the list and attempt to contact someone in the Wisconsin area.

The alternate list drawn up included Elroy Hirsh, Marshall McLuhan, and Durward Leply.

At the time of registration.

Mrs. Baird next week, but that was all. I would be happy if students would come up with their own recommendations. I have no hang up on who should speak, as long as they're interesting. There has always been my gripe with students complaints about what's done, but there are never any students there to do anything. We had a next week, just getting the two Student Senate members to show up for meetings, in fact the male representative only once. Mrs. Baird concluded by stating that the meetings of the Commencement Committee were open to anyone, and that any and all suggestions and recommendations would be welcome. "I have a feeling that the Chancellor is really quite receptive to student suggestions. I think that if there were more student involvement Chancellor Dreyfus would be more eager to go along with whatever the students suggested." The dates for Commencement Committee meetings can be obtained by contacting the Academic Affairs Office.

Interview Of The Week

Alan Kurseyvski

New Head Protection And Security

Note: Alan Kurseyvski is the new director of security and protection at this university. Kurseyvski replaces Claude Aufdermayer who for several years had been supervisor in charge. Aufdermayer was not eligible for the new post because of degree requirements set by the Board of Regents.

Kurseyvski begins as head campus policeman after twenty years of military service as a criminal investigator. He spent, 16 of those years overseas, 10 in Europe and 6 in the Far East. Kurseyvski moved here after having spent the last three and a half years as head of a seventy man staff in the security program at the Badger Army Ammunition Plant.

Pointer: What is your past military and employment experience?

Kurseyvski: I had 20 years in the Army. The majority of that time was spent in the Military Police and Criminal Investigation Division. The last ten years were all in the CID.

After I retired from the Army, I went to Baraboo as Director of Security for the Badger Army Ammunition Plant. The plant is owned by the Army and operated by Owen Corporation so it's a civilian-operated and government owned.

Pointer: How did you come to your new post?

Kurseyvski: I saw an ad in the Milwaukee Journal last January and submitted an application. I went to various interviews and before a couple of boards.

Pointer: Why did you decide to leave Baraboo?

Kurseyvski: The job was terminal; we didn't know from one day to the next if the plant would be operating tomorrow or next week or next month. The Army at any time can just decide to shut it down if they don't need it. For instance, now they're winding down the Vietnam War and what they manufacture at Baraboo is all used in the war; they don't use it for any other reason. They just would have no need for this plant.

Pointer: What was the reason for creating your new post? Did't we have adequate protection and security?

Kurseyvski: I believe so; they just didn't have a director. Mr. Krebs was acting in this capacity but he couldn't devote the time he wanted to this position. Claude Aufdermayer was filling in but I understand they wanted to use him in a different capacity, as a campus detective with more training. He has a different classification now, as a detective-in-training.

Pointer: What does your position entail?

Kurseyvski: My job is, first of all, to head the Protection and Security Department. In the future we're going to set up a Safety Program which would involve safety lectures, programs on defensive driving and so forth. I believe Stevens Point is the only state campus without a Safety Director now; this would be within Protection and Security. We will also set up a training program for our staff to keep them abreast of all the most up-to-date methods of performing their jobs.

Pointer: What do you view as the main security problem on campus?

Kurseyvski: I believe its buildings being left open with valuable equipment like televisions and microscopes unprotected. Someone forgets to lock the building and it's wide open. People are not securing their car or their personal property, purses for example. The danger of theft isn't a reflection on the students because the campus is also open to the public. We're trying to make people conscious of the fact that they should protect their valuables.

Pointer: Some city police forces have an evisage policy in which officers use their sense of judgment in dealing with parking violations. Don't you think the campus police should consider when and where parking tickets should be given, e.g., not on Sunday night when only two cars are parked in lot accommodating 1000?

Kurseyvski: I understand the problem and, being new here, I'm getting these problems in daily. I believe the officers should use some discretion and judgment.

Pointer: Does "protection" include environmental protection for the campus?

Kurseyvski: I'm not into that phase at all. However, there is coordination with Mr. Krebs, Physical Plant Director and my immediate supervisor.

Pointer: Do you view sexual morality on campus as an aspect of your responsibility?

Kurseyvski: If our officers see something going on that is indiscreet, we certainly expect them to step in. They'll use their own judgment to define "indiscreet."

Pointer: Does your policy concerning misdemeanors differ from that of the city police?

Kurseyvski: I'm not too familiar with how the city police would react. I would have to weigh the circumstances and just what was involved but I'm sure there would be no drastic action taken. I don't believe in really chastising someone for a prank if we can let them know that we know about it and we don't like it going on. I think a verbal reprimand for a misdemeanor that can be corrected right on the spot would meet the problem.

Pointer: You're new to the community as well as the campus. Is this a serious disadvantage?

Kurseyvski: I don't believe so. The problems are the same all around; it's just a matter of knowing the people you're dealing with. I think you can learn who you're going to deal with and get their ideas directly in a matter of weeks.

Pointer: Do you have riot control plans or protest procedures?

Kurseyvski: We couldn't hope to cope with a riot situation with our small force. We'd have to refer it to state officials.

In the event of an attempt by students to take over a building, for instance, there would be no violence taken; that's for sure. I would be strictly a verbal debate to see if we could reason with them and explain to them what the situation was. I don't believe I would ever resort to violence except to prevent serious bodily injury or in self-defense.

Pointer: Isn't this theory incompatible with your past record of military participation?

Kurseyvski: Contrary to what many people think who aren't familiar with the Army Criminal Investigation Division, the CID approaches a problem with a completely different viewpoint than the military. They don't think that the end justifies the means.

Pointer: What about your work at the Baraboo Army Ammunition Plant?

Kurseyvski: I was only interested in the security of the plant itself. I looked at it as a job to be performed, not as encouraging violence in Vietnam. It didn't make much difference whether I performed it or whoever performed it. Somebody was going to do it.

I don't think that the employees at the plant look upon it as aiding in the violence in Vietnam; they look at it as a job.

Pointer: Is the amount of personnel you have on hand now adequate?

Kurseyvski: It is for the summer; I have a staff of 13. There are 11 individuals working with parking including two women - one of whom is also for emergencies requiring a female, for example in the girls' dormitories. I also have two men working days - Aufdermayer and Baird Wente who also investigates incidents or complaints.

Pointer: Do you have any goals or ambitions for this campus?

Kurseyvski: I'm sure I will when I get more acquainted. I guess any outsider can come in and see room for improvements. I don't foresee any drastic changes right now; I may in the future want to change some procedures.

The Selective Service System today effected a major policy change which will permit men scheduled for induction after July 1 to enlist or be appointed in the National Guard or Reserves after receipt of their induction orders. The Regulation change, which also will permit men who receive induction orders to join the Guard and Reserve forces at least 10 days prior to their scheduled induction dates. All registrants are given 30 days' notice of induction, so men who receive induction orders and desire to enter in the Guard or Reserve must locate unit vacancies on their own. They should request that their enlistments or appointments be expedited in order to meet the 10-day requirement. Enlistments or appointments in the Guard or Reserves require at least 4 months active duty for training and the balance of six years participating in the Ready Reserve. Such enlistments or appointments do not reduce the obligation of the Selective Service System to provide requested numbers of inductees to the Army.

Men are expected to report for induction as scheduled if enlistments or appointments are not completed at least 10 days prior to the date scheduled for induction. It is expected that this new policy will raise the year-end Uniform National Call lottery number, although the degree of change will not be evident until officials determine how many men under induction orders enter Guard, Reserve or Regular force units. This week the Selective Service System announced that RSN 75 would be the highest number to be reached to satisfy August draft calls. Officials do not anticipate a major increase in this number in order to satisfy the total requirements for this year.

The Defense Department has announced that no more than 50,000 men will be drafted during 1972. Fifteen thousand men are expected to be inducted during April, May, and June. An additional 7,200 are expected to be inducted in July and 8,900 in August.
