LIVING IN A CUBE

The Housing Issue

Volume 25 No. 3  September 17, 1981
The Housing Taboo

UWSP on-campus housing does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, or national origin. In fact, they want you to live there so much that they’ve made it mandatory for traditional freshmen and sophomores!

But what a unique opportunity! An atheist can share a room with a churchgoer. A jock can live with a bookworm. A whole spectrum of personalities can coexist in harmony under the confident guidance of “professionally trained personnel.”

And the food! What a smorgasbord of curiosities!

Okay, true enough this regulation takes the pressure off eligible off-campus renters.

And if you are on the lower part of the undergrad totem pole, and don’t like dorm life, there are options available. Get married. Be a veteran. Reside with an immediate relative. Be over 21 years old.

Or lie through your teeth, using any one of the above reasons.

Or try to lock horns with the Housing Office. There are legal precedents. But good luck, especially if you need expert legal advice similar to what they offer at UWSP’s own Legal Services.

But let’s not digress from the spirit of the housing mandate. The UWSP catalog states that “the residence hall program is consistent with the objectives and goals established for students at this university.”

The meaning that our administrators attach to this statement invokes such jargon as “unique student community” and “much more to the serious student than just a place to sleep.”

But must “serious students” be force-fed this “unique student community”? Isn’t it possible that some “serious students” would prefer to be self-sufficient, or to live in integrated neighborhoods that contain (gasp) children and senior citizens?

Some “serious students” may suggest that the housing mandate reveals the true objectives and goals of this university as being the homogenization of students.

But, in actuality, the housing mandate is nothing more than a compliance plan and a retention strategy that helps the University meet its mortgage payments.

And that’s, kids.

Is it highly contradictory or uncooperative, in these times of painful budget cuts, for the student body to refuse compliance with the two-year housing mandate?

No, it is not. There is something in this Great Pluralistic Society of ours that is supposed to precede money.

It is called “freedom of choice.”

Adulthood?

Not so many years ago, I went to sleep one night as a child and woke up as a man. It was my eighteenth birthday, that lofty plateau when society places adulthood’s mantle on each and every shoulder.

“You’re now a man, my son,” I was told.

“You must behave accordingly. Adult responsibilities are many. Should we fight a war, you are not to question it, but accept your draft notice with patriotic pride. You are to vote in each and every election even if it’s only a sewage disposal site referendum. If America’s political system can only provide candidates like Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan for the highest office in the land, then so be it. Vote for one and don’t make waves.

If you screw up with some illegal act but... you are on the lower part of the immediate relative. Be over 21 years old.

Or try to lock horns with the Housing Office. There are legal precedents. But good luck, especially if you need expert legal advice similar to what they offer at UWSP’s own Legal Services.

But let’s not digress from the spirit of the housing mandate. The UWSP catalog states that “the residence hall program is consistent with the objectives and goals established for students at this university.”

The meaning that our administrators attach to this statement invokes such jargon as “unique student community” and “much more to the serious student than just a place to sleep.”

But must “serious students” be force-fed this “unique student community”? Isn’t it possible that some “serious students” would prefer to be self-sufficient, or to live in integrated neighborhoods that contain (gasp) children and senior citizens?

Some “serious students” may suggest that the housing mandate reveals the true objectives and goals of this university as being the homogenization of students.

But, in actuality, the housing mandate is nothing more than a compliance plan and a retention strategy that helps the University meet its mortgage payments.

And that’s, kids.

Is it highly contradictory or uncooperative, in these times of painful budget cuts, for the student body to refuse compliance with the two-year housing mandate?

No, it is not. There is something in this Great Pluralistic Society of ours that is supposed to precede money.

It is called “freedom of choice.”

Adulthood?

Not so many years ago, I went to sleep one night as a child and woke up as a man. It was my eighteenth birthday, that lofty plateau when society places adulthood’s mantle on each and every shoulder.

“You’re now a man, my son,” I was told.

“You must behave accordingly. Adult responsibilities are many. Should we fight a war, you are not to question it, but accept your draft notice with patriotic pride. You are to vote in each and every election even if it’s only a sewage disposal site referendum. If America’s political system can only provide candidates like Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan for the highest office in the land, then so be it. Vote for one and don’t make waves. If you screw up with the law, prepare to go to jail; no more of these juvenile disturbance reports that clutter up the courts.”

Yeah, but what about all the benefits I have now as an adult?

Well there are a few. Adults can stay up or out as long as they wish. They can go to pornographic movies and join credit unions. They can move out of the folks’ home and set up a pad of their own. They can go off to college and study authors and subjects that were censored back at the old high school.

But they can’t indulge in any serious form of lovemaking with a consenting unmarried partner. They have to pay taxes but...

They’re on the verge of losing the right to drink at age 18, if pending legislation is passed in Wisconsin. They can be locked away for a good many years if they commit some illegal act but...

Their automobile insurance rates are twice as steep as those of their parents. They can be shipped off to some foreign country, be forced to kill, contract native diseases or inhale toxic gases but...

They have to reside in tiny little boxes called dorm rooms, under penalty of expulsion, their first two years at UW-Stevens Point.

You know, maybe being an eighteen year old adult isn’t all it’s cracked up to be.

Double Standards

And as long as we’re on the subject of housing, did you know that the week before school began the UWSP football players were all allowed to stay in the dorms while Theater Arts students, involved in rehearsals for the year’s first show, were refused the same courtesy. These students, who do just as much free public relations work for the university as their athletic counterparts, are understandably confused. Their view is that the current administration must favor physical endeavors over artistic ones, seemingly a paradox in an institution designed for the pursuit of knowledge.

Sorry to say, last year’s SPBAC allotments appear to make such a claim legitimate.
Soapers of the World Unite!

Have you been cutting your afternoon geography class just so you could see what Lake is doing to Laura on General Hospital? If so, you may be one of 50 million Americans who share an unfortunate addiction: the daytime television soap opera. Of course, admitting that you’re a soap junkie isn’t easy, but it’s half the battle. Getting help is the other half.

Now there’s new hope for the addicted, as the Plasmatics like to say. A woman named Karen Anthony of Huntington Beach, Calif., has created a thriving national enterprise called Tel-A-Soap. After your gossip and Genghis in addicts can now turn to a subscription phone service that provides daily plots and scenes from a soap (the same day they are broadcast). Apparently, some people are so pleased with the recorded Tel-A-Soap updates that they Detwyler, director of the environmental science program at Williamette University in Salem, Ore., has been appointed to chair the UW-SP geography department. He succeeds Delmar Mulhauf, who is returning to full-time teaching.

And Speaking of Geography: Thomas Detwyler, a native of Jackson, Mich., and he said he was attracted to this college because it offered a chance to return to the Midwest. He also said that through a workshop developed curriculum related to the environment.

About 10 years ago, Detwyler wrote a book called Man’s Impact on the Environment that was considered one of the first of its kind for students and professionals in the field. It is now in its third edition and is published by Prentice-Hall. He also authored Urbanization and Environment for Duxbury Press.

The Fall Energy Conservation Workshop, sponsored by the Friends of the UW Library, Public Energy Resource Commission and the Portage County UW Extension will be held on September 24 and will be repeated on Oct. 3 from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Charles County Public Library.

The workshop will cover "infiltration or air leaks through windows," "window insulation and ventilation." It will also cover financing energy credits.

Although the exhibits are open to the public, pre-registration is recommended by calling 346-3573.

Tickling of the Ivories at UW-SP

The three-member piano faculty in the Department of Music will play a variety of music and feature the kinds of compositions in which they specialize such as Rafols, who is interested in the works from Spain and France.

The recitals will be open to the public without charge.

Calling All Carls

We all know that that turtlenecked space cowboy, Dr. Carl Sagan, has “BILL” run out of the “THESE” on his new book, Cosmos. Now, the local chapter of Cosmic Carl’s fan club can emulate their hero by signing up for Astronomy 101X, an Introduction to Astronomy. It’s a three-credit undergraduate course for upper level high school students and interested adults, courtesy of the UW-SP Office of Continuing Education and Outreach.

The class will be taught by Norman Higgenbotham, and the three credits will satisfy a portion of the requirements toward a general degree. The course may also be audited. Flexible scheduling of Saturday or evening sessions will be arranged to accommodate participants’ work or school hours.

Actually, owing to this editor’s droopy method of running news items, you’ve already missed the organizational committee meeting of the class (last Saturday). But how many high school students or regular adults read this paper anyway? Besides, maybe if you go to the Office of Continuing Education and Outreach in Old Main and put on a stellar display of groveling and begging your way into their good graces, you’ll be invited. After all, your best Carl Sagan impersonation) they’ll still let you in.

"It’s possible for a dope to succeed on Main Street. I think Main Street is lined with dopes." —John Ciardi

Did You Know You Are Illegally Parking? You will get if you get one of these pink cards with the stick-man-in-a-wheelchair on it. You can still park your ticket on your windshield means that you’re probably parked in a space reserved for the handicapped, and this is, after all, the International Year of the Disabled.

The Portage County Community Human Services Department urges us all to become a bit more aware of the problems a disabled person encounters. (One of the problems that certain handicapped people must cope with is having to listen to Jerry Lewis sing)

Sees She’s Not Heavy (She’s My Sister)

The UW-SP Women’s Resource Center is offering three six-week workshops which begin this week.

Assertiveness training, led by Ms. Labovitz, is tentatively set for Mondays from 1 to 3 p.m. The course is designed to help women learn how to discover and nourish that “something special” inside them and emerge as a stronger person.

Starting dates have not been set for the three groups:

Self-image, interpersonal relationships and sexuality.

The UW-SP’s Women’s Center is offering to sponsor, especially if the programs carry no administrative, or financial constraints, is no money for such department activities as this year’s grammar workshop, he said and his colleagues got around the financial problem by providing free mailing lists, recognition of outstanding young pianists who either have completed a degree with the university itself or have faculty members such as Rafols and Ms. Hunt who are friends.

WinSPRING, the Wisconsin President’s Spring Workshop, will have its first organizational meeting of the year at 6:30 tonight in the Memorial Union, tentatively announced in today’s Poop.

PRG is a non-profit, non-political group that acts independently of any special interest groups. "Its purpose is to inform the media, Betsy Best: Yet it may have been the Veterans Administration will be on campus from 9 to 11:30 this morning. If you would like to ask PESANS any questions about veterans’ benefits, you can sign up for an appointment in the Records and Registration Office.

Calling All Carls

We all know that that turtlenecked space cowboy, Dr. Carl Sagan, has “BILL" run out of the “THESE” on his new book, Cosmos. Now, the local chapter of Cosmic Carl’s fan club can emulate their hero by signing up for Astronomy 101X, an Introduction to Astronomy. It’s a three-credit undergraduate course for upper level high school students and interested adults, courtesy of the UW-SP Office of Continuing Education and Outreach.

The class will be taught by Norman Higgenbotham, and the three credits will satisfy a portion of the requirements toward a general degree. The course may also be audited. Flexible scheduling of Saturday or evening sessions will be arranged to accommodate participants’ work or school hours.

Actually, owing to this editor’s droopy method of running news items, you’ve already missed the organizational committee meeting of the class (last Saturday). But how many high school students or regular adults read this paper anyway? Besides, maybe if you go to the Office of Continuing Education and Outreach in Old Main and put on a stellar display of groveling and begging your way into their good graces, you’ll be invited. After all, your best Carl Sagan impersonation) they’ll still let you in.

"It’s possible for a dope to succeed on Main Street. I think Main Street is lined with dopes." —John Ciardi

Did You Know You Are Illegally Parking? You will get if you get one of these pink cards with the stick-man-in-a-wheelchair on it. You can still park your ticket on your windshield means that you’re probably parked in a space reserved for the handicapped, and this is, after all, the International Year of the Disabled.

The Portage County Community Human Services Department urges us all to become a bit more aware of the problems a disabled person encounters. (One of the problems that certain handicapped people must cope with is having to listen to Jerry Lewis sing)

Sees She’s Not Heavy (She’s My Sister)

The UW-SP Women’s Resource Center is offering three six-week workshops which begin this week.

Assertiveness training, led by Ms. Labovitz, is tentatively set for Mondays from 1 to 3 p.m. The course is designed to help women learn how to discover and nourish that “something special” inside them and emerge as a stronger person.

Starting dates have not been set for the three groups:

Self-image, interpersonal relationships and sexuality.

The UW-SP’s Women’s Center is offering to sponsor, especially if the programs carry no administrative, or financial constraints, is no money for such department activities as this year’s grammar workshop, he said and his colleagues got around the financial problem by providing free mailing lists, recognition of outstanding young pianists who either have completed a degree with the university itself or have faculty members such as Rafols and Ms. Hunt who are friends.

WinSPRING, the Wisconsin President’s Spring Workshop, will have its first organizational meeting of the year at 6:30 tonight in the Memorial Union, tentatively announced in today’s Poop.

PRG is a non-profit, non-political group that acts independently of any special interest groups. "Its purpose is to inform the media, Betsy Best: Yet it may have been the Veterans Administration will be on campus from 9 to 11:30 this morning. If you would like to ask PESANS any questions about veterans’ benefits, you can sign up for an appointment in the Records and Registration Office.
Student Housing Abuses: Are We In Good Hands?

by Chris Celichowski

An exhausted Point student wanders down the dimly lit, all-wood, basement hallway toward his bed. As he staggered into his "room" he can see his roommate through the rusty chicken-wire partition separating their beds.

Does this fictionalized scenario sound like a bad dream? According to real estate agent Carrie Wolvin, unsafe, unsanitary conditions like the above existed as recently as ten years ago, here in Stevens Point.

"Why we didn't have a disaster ten years ago was just luck!" wonders Ms. Wolvin.

Have rooming-house conditions improved since then? Are students adequately protected from dangerous and unclean living conditions? According to those familiar with the local student housing situation, the answer to both of these questions is yes.

Carrie Wolvin has had extensive experience with all facets of the off-campus housing scene, having lived in student-housing during her college days, and while continuing her career here as a real-estate agent and landlord for the last ten years. Wolvin contends that off-campus housing conditions here have improved tremendously.

"On the whole, student housing is probably safer now than family housing because of greater restrictions."

During the mid 1970s the Stevens Point Common Council passed progressive and needed housing ordinances in the form of a thirty page document known as the Building and Premises Maintenance and Occupancy Code. This manuscript details minimum standards for light and ventilation, safe and sanitary maintenance, thermal conditions, and floor space among others.

For instance, in every "dwelling unit" of two or more rooms every bedroom must contain a minimum of seventy square feet for the first occupant and fifty additional square feet for each extra inhabitant sharing that room. These minimum standards apply to all housing in Stevens Point, but students may find themselves better protected than other residents because of strict licensing requirements placed on the owners of "multiple dwellings".

Proprietors of multiple dwellings must have their licenses renewed annually, but only after scrutinizing inspections by the building inspector. If a property fails to pass the inspection, owners receive a notice directing them to correct the improprieties within a "reasonable time."

If the owners fail the reinspection, their operating licenses are suspended, bringing anger.

Normally the landlords are implicated as the primary culprits in student housing conflicts. However, students themselves often create their own problems. Perhaps the three most pressing problems have been the student-tenant image, ignorance or plain stupidity about the nature of leases and contracts, and tenant apathy.

Student tenants have traditionally been portrayed as parasitic creatures who try to derive maximum benefit from the property with a minimum upkeep effort. The Inspection Department's figures reveal that 50 percent of all complaints involving landlords last year came from irritated local residents complaining about such roaming house parties and gross violation of laws, excessively loud doses of AC-DC, and careless disposal of garbage.

"If students want to organize, it should be to look after themselves, rather than lynching landlords," says Wolvin.

Unfortunately, many student-tenant problems resolve around ignorance of rental laws and practices.

The director of the Student Tenant Association, Ed Karshna, has found that quite a few student-tailors fail to read and comprehend their contracts thoroughly and consequently sign seemingly insignificant clauses that return later on.

Ms. Wolvin asks that students keep four points in mind regarding contracts:

One, never make an oral contract. Always have that important agreement in writing.

Two, tour the property with your landlord before you move in so that you can agree on its condition. Any damage to the property unaccounted for in the autumn can be deducted from your security deposit when you depart in May.

Third, contrary to popular opinion, your security deposit is not your last month's rent, but is "a monetary promise not to wreck the house."

Finally, student tenants should make sure that their landlord is informed that each student should have no problems verifying licensing because a city ordinance demands that the license be displayed "in a conspicuous place within the common ways of the multiple dwelling."

The third tenant-created problem may resist easy correction. Students quickly rally around causes that affect not only themselves, but society as a whole. Supporters of the ERA, the movement to dump James Watt, and decreased U.S. military involvement in El Salvador rise in defense of their causes without a moment's notice. Yet, social issues that effect them directly lie in student housing, and there are not only less enthusiastic, but severely apathetic. This University's ten thousand students present a formidable voting block which has the potential to wield tremendous political clout in local politics. Carrie Wolvin believes that the student's unwillingness to vote leaves them, as a whole, "bluntly: "It's up to the student to match if something is wrong."

Students who have problems with their landlords can get free advice, counseling and mediation from the Student Tenant Association, an SGA backed enterprise. Ed Karshna claims that they have helped drastically improve student-landlord relations.

Finally, you can pick up free advice, counseling and literature from the Student Legal Society, an independent group.

The Student Legal Society can inform you of what rights you have under current laws if you get in a jam, and much more.

The first place winners in the national poster sales, intensifying their movement to most problems without initiating official action.

The Student Legal Society can inform you of what rights you have under current laws if you get in a jam, and much more.

The final analysis, appears that many resources exist for students to protest themselves from getting screwed or screwing themselves. The major question remains whether we will efficiently use these resources to our advantage, and employ our greatest resource, ourselves.

Wildlifers

The Student Chapter of The Wildlife Society is looking forward to a fan, activity-filled year in 1981-82. Projects such as the wildlife poster and Dover book sales, intensified community involvement in the National Wildlife Week activities, speakers in varied professions, attending the annual Crane Coop, coordinating plans with other student organizations on campus, and much more.

Last year's highlights included a Raptor Symposium, participation in a statewide annual Wildlife Week activities, speakers in varied professions, attending the annual Crane Coop, coordinating plans with other student organizations on campus, and much more.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave in the Conclave.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave.

The Wildlife Society needs your involvement and ideas! All interested persons are invited to attend the first meeting of the year on September 17 at 7:00 p.m., in the Conclave in the Conclave.
Rights and Responsibilities: Tenants, Landlords

by Michael Daehn

The UWSP Tenant Association reminds college students that if they rent a house or apartment they, as tenants, have certain duties and rights. And it's important to know just what these are if you hope to survive in the housing jungle.

Duties of a Tenant
The tenant's duties are clear: he must pay his rent and hold up his part of the rental agreement. At the end of the rental term, he must return the property to the landlord in the same condition he received it, except for normal wear and tear. The tenant is responsible for any damages he or his guests have caused. Unless otherwise agreed, he is also responsible for routine minor repairs, such as the replacement of faucet washers and light bulbs, which can be handled at a minimum cost.

Rights of the Tenant
Tenants also have important rights, the first of which is the right of peaceful possession. The house or apartment that's being rented is your home and should be treated accordingly.

With your right of peaceful possession goes the right of privacy. No one may invade your home without legally specified permission (i.e. a search warrant). Even the landlord, who has the right to repair, inspect and show your premises at reasonable times, may enter only after 12 hours' advance notice, or with your specific permission except in emergencies.

Another tenant right is one to a "habitable" home, which means that your dwelling place must be safe and sanitary. It should be free of pests and structural defects and should have proper plumbing, wiring, heating and adequate locks. In Stevens Point, these requirements are spelled out in local housing codes. A landlord must tell you about any serious defects before you rent the property.

If the property is unsafe or unsanitary, and the landlord refuses to make the necessary repairs, you may notify him in writing that you plan to move out without further obligation to pay rent. This doesn't mean that you can legally withhold rent and continue to reside in the property. In some cities you can pay rent into a city escrow fund until the landlord corrects housing code violations. Until they are fixed, the landlord will not receive any. This system isn't currently in practice in Stevens Point, although it has been developing support.

Landlord Responsibilities
The landlord is responsible for repairing major building defects and must keep all repair promises. Before a tenant agrees to rent the property, he should insist that all repair promises be made in writing and that they specify a completion date for the repairs. This is a legal right.

Your landlord must provide you with the name and address of a person who can be easily contacted regarding maintenance complaints. If you pay a security deposit (which you will), the landlord must return it to you within 21 days after you leave the premises. The landlord may deduct for unpaid rent and for actual physical damages which you have caused. If any deductions are made, the landlord must give you a written, itemized explanation for the deductions.

If you do not rent your property for a specific period of time or until a specific date, you are probably a month-to-month tenant. This means the landlord may terminate the rental agreement at any time, by giving written notice at least 28 days before the next rent date. You, as a tenant, may terminate a month-to-month tenancy the same way. Under this type of agreement, the landlord may also raise the rent at any time by giving you at least 28 days before the next rent date. If you fail to pay rent, or if you recklessly damage the property or break the rental agreement, the landlord can terminate the tenancy on short notice, either 5 or 14 days.

If instead of a month-to-month tenancy, you have an agreement to rent for a specific time (1 year lease for example), the rent may not ordinarily be raised during that period. The landlord may not terminate the tenancy during the period, unless you fail to pay rent, or recklessly damage the property or break the rental agreement. By the same token, you have an obligation to rent the property for the full lease period. If you break the lease by moving out early, the landlord theoretically has the option of going to court to recover lost rents. However, the landlord must try to minimize these losses by re-renting the property. If the property is immediately re-rented, so that no rents are lost, the landlord may have no legal claim against you. Some landlords may voluntarily release you from the lease and most will allow you to sublease the property to a new tenant. You should know the landlord's policy on subleasing before you enter into a lease agreement.

Eviction Procedures
If you refuse to leave the property after your tenancy has been terminated by the landlord, the landlord may start an eviction action against you in small claims court. You must be properly served with all notices, including notice of the court hearing. At the court hearing, if you do not feel you should be evicted, you may challenge the landlord's

Continued on p. 16
By Ann Reinholdt

The housing mandate...for some students the phrase sounds restrictive; for others, it's a relief. Still others have no idea what it is.

The housing mandate banned all freshmen and sophomores from living in the residence halls. Exemptions were made for married students, veterans, or for students living with relatives. The remaining students may apply at the housing office for exemptions from the requirement.

According to Fred Leaflgren, Executive Director of Student Services, the Board of Regents first implemented the mandate in the early Sixties. The state colleges faced then severe housing shortages because the small communities surrounding the colleges could not accommodate the increasing numbers of students. Rebuilding the campus was the universities' mission to provide a total environment that would help students learn.

At that same time, the Board of Regents believed that freshmen and sophomores should live in the residence halls at least two years in order to gain perspective on their new space. Today only Madison, Milwaukee, Green Bay and Parkside are exempt from the requirement.

The Board based its decision to require freshmen and sophomores to live in the residence halls on several studies that were conducted by the University of Georgia, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Georgia placed in the top ten programs in the country. However, Leaflgren commented, "That doesn't mean living in a residence hall is utopia. It could be much more mundane than it is, but you have to get everyone working at it—including all the residents!" Even so, he doesn't feel that the live-in requirement is a number of student conduct problems. Leaflgren could cite only one case in which a student deliberately attempted to be removed from the halls by violating university policies. Instead he has discovered that most students, when deed with the possible termination of their contracts, plead not to be removed from the halls and separated from their friends.

As for the future of the mandate, the Board of Regents reviewed the policy two years ago and voted to keep it in force. Leaflgren states that a change in the mandate is or may simply be because "there is more and more substantiation of its value."

"Do I Hafta Live In The Dorms?"

By Susan Falk

It is "virtually impossible" to get off campus without fulfilling the two-year dorm requirement, according to Mel Karg, UW-SP Resident Life Director. It may be virtually impossible to leave the dorms, but impossible? Absolutely not. Students have generally upheld its legality as long as the university can show that the mandate is required for educational goals.

At Point, the Residence Life program organizes its educational efforts not only by areas of student development: physical, social, emotional, spiritual, intellectual and occupational. Each hall is staffed by a professional director and a paraprofessional resident assistants who are trained to facilitate each individual's development. In Wisconsin, the Point mandate was challenged as recently as 1975 in a case of Platteville. The case has since been settled and upheld its legality as long as the university can show that the mandate is required for educational goals.

Researchers found, explains Leaflgren, that the university can show that the mandate is required for educational goals.

Furthermore, a four-year study by Residence Life psychologist Bob Mosler indicates that students who live in the halls experience greater success in developing autonomy and in building inter-personal relationships. Information such as that has helped Leaflgren and those similar to it in other states to survive court battles concerning the dorm policy. In Wisconsin, the mandate was challenged as recently as 1975 in a case of Platteville. The case has since been settled and upheld its legality as long as the university can show that the mandate is required for educational goals.

"I see a value in it (housing mandate)," said Schlimgen, "even though I don't feel everyone needs to learn what the program has to offer. Some students still need it after they've gone. It's like going to second grade—you have to whether you need it or not," said Jon Jury, Student Life Activities Director.

For some, the two-year housing mandate just doesn't make sense. "Why should I sacrifice my lifestyle for the school? Why can't I have both," asked Mindy Schlimgen, UW-SP Junior.

Mindy Schlimgen is one of those students whose feelings about dorm-life are negative. Although she did not attend the University of Wisconsin, she said she had had enough. "I am a forestry major she was not open to the option of transferring to any other school merely because of a housing rule," said Mindy Schlimgen.

Lying her way out of the dorm may have been an easier route, she said, but, "I didn't want to get caught up in a lie, so I battled the system. But I believe in something I believed in," she said.

Finally, housing said they would be more lenient, so she applied for recommendations from doctors that Schlimgen knew, her psychologist and the other 2 percent of those verifying the fact that she would do academically and emotionally better if she lived off campus. After those letters arrived, she again met with Mel Karg.

Those letters had no effect because the words were "twisted around" by housing, Schlimgen said.

Weeks went by and Schlimgen was finally released from the requirement to live in the dorms after the dean of her college, also Mel Karg, recommended her on behalf of her grades and academic success, she said.

On both specific cases, Resident Life Director, Mel Karg said he could not comment.

Many students are not successful after their battles with UW-SP housing. "Only about five percent of those who try to get off campus succeed," Karg said.

The lack of success is due can be shown by the educational institution then a dormitory requirement can be justified.

Another complaint brought to the Federal courts about the housing requirements at the various other universities is that it was implemented to help pay off a high mortgage. (A comment often heard of our own housing requirement). In response to that, the court has ruled that a university can make that requirement to fulfill fiscal solvency as long as that high mortgage is "legitimate and non-disclosurely.

A university can require students to live on campus during one or all of their college years. As a student who dislikes the dorm life setups, one find options are few. You may marry, lie, or refuse to comply, all of which may have serious or embarrassing repercussions, you may try to challenge the system the way Mindy Schlimgen did. It is tough, but she won.
It goes without saying that Ciardi places supreme importance upon language and the humanities, and he argues that the rest of us should too. “Language,” he says, “is an inseparable part of being a human being. When language decays, all things fall apart. The humanities, he adds, are valuable because they ask the questions that the sciences often avoid.”

This, in turn, relates to the function of criticism, which is to take us out of our immediate environment and force us “to intersect with the past.” By reading Melville, Shakespeare or Homer, the humanities “remind us which is to take us out of our humanities “remind us which is to take us out of our humankind.”

While many writers take more stock in “experience,” Ciardi believes that reading is the noblest of pastimes. It was Livy who said “Experience is the schoolmaster of fools,” and Ciardi agrees. The wonder of reading is that we can identify with anything human. For the time of the reading we can become that by vicarious experience. I don’t look it, but I have been Ophelia. It’s not hard to do. I once fell in love with Emma Bovary: thank God that was between the covers of a book—fall in love with her between any other covers and you’re in trouble.

(Another writer who supports Ciardi on this point is John Irving, author of The World According to Garp.) Appropriately enough, the current issue of Saturday Review carries an interview with Irving, who says: “People always ask writers about the experiences they’ve had that made them writers. I think experience is vastly overrated. Some of the most personal experiences for me have been the books I’ve read. It was very much reading as a young boy that made me want to become a writer.”

Perhaps even more entertaining than Ciardi’s Convocation address was his afternoon session on words and their origins. Asking Ciardi to speak on this subject is like having Alistair Wilder speak on popular music, or Leo Durocher on baseball. For those who crowded into Room 125 of the Collins Classroom Center, this was a rare chance to hear a master at work. Not surprisingly, Ciardi held forth for more than four hours (over half—and he could have gone on much longer had he not been beckoned by his departing flight).

One of the main points to emerge from his discussion was that words are not locked for rules or patterns in the development of language. “Language does what it does because it does. Try to predict it and you’re lost.”

It has done it now you can trace it, but sometimes a link is broken and you lose the trace.

Similarly, a linguist could drive himself crazy trying to trace the exact origin of certain words (“nincompoop,” “gringo,” “honeymoon” and “hobo”). After it has been known whether he thought the Reagan budget cuts would have an adverse effect on the future of the humanities, Ciardi seemed unconcerned. He has always been skeptical of arrangements wherein artists are subsidized by the federal government; ideally, artists should not seek favors from legislators, and the humanities should flourish regardless of federal funding. And if the Reagan cuts bring about the end of Ciardi’s NPR show, then so be it. He’ll be out $10,000, but that’s about the extent of his concern over the new budget and the future of the humanities.

At 65, does a man of Ciardi’s many accomplishments have any goals left? He claims he would like nothing better than to have a word of his own coinage enter the language (and thence the dictionaries). Does he have a candidate? As a matter of fact, yes: KLMMOP, deriving from and pronounced like the alphabet. A KLMMOP, he says, is “a straight line through the middle of everything leading nowhere. For example, the middle line of a T-shaped figure.”

He’ll be out $10,000, but that’s about the extent of his concern over the new budget and the future of the humanities.

It has done it now you can trace it, but sometimes a link is broken and you lose the trace.

Similarly, a linguist could drive himself crazy trying to trace the exact origin of certain words (“nincompoop,” “gringo,” “honeymoon” and “hobo”). After it has been known whether he thought the Reagan budget cuts would have an adverse effect on the future of the humanities, Ciardi seemed unconcerned. He has always been skeptical of arrangements wherein artists are subsidized by the federal government; ideally, artists should not seek favors from legislators, and the humanities should flourish regardless of federal funding. And if the Reagan cuts bring about the end of Ciardi’s NPR show, then so be it. He’ll be out $10,000, but that’s about the extent of his concern over the new budget and the future of the humanities.

At 65, does a man of Ciardi’s many accomplishments have any goals left? He claims he would like nothing better than to have a word of his own coinage enter the language (and thence the dictionaries). Does he have a candidate? As a matter of fact, yes: KLMMOP, deriving from and pronounced like the alphabet. A KLMMOP, he says, is “a straight line through the middle of everything leading nowhere. For example, the middle line of a T-shaped figure.”

The poet suggests that we do him a favor and use this word at least three times a day as daily weeped his creation into the dictionaries.

Next year’s speaker is anywhere near as good as John Ciardi, no one dares accuse UW-SP Convocations of being an academic KLMMOP.
Coping With Utility Bills: Don't Get Behind

by Kasandra Boaman

Students who move off campus are trapped into paying the monthly game of the bills. So how does one handle the ever spiraling, cost of electricity, heat, and gas varies from house to house. Studies show the yearly costs of energy for an average household in Wisconsin have more than tripled since 1970 to $1,264. Don't get behind in the monthly payment, or it will cost at least $20 to get your clocks ticking again.

Face it, we all love the convenience of having a phone at our fingertips. Getting a phone installed, off campus, costs $23.35 if your house is equipped with the easy push button plug-in attachment in your wall. Most houses have them, but if not the telephone company requires the device put in with all new phone installations, at extra cost to the customer.

The phone company takes an advance payment of $50 which is credited toward your first bill. They claim they charge this to everyone, not just students. They also tack on a service charge which covers local calls and the rest of your phone. Rent is $1.35 a month for a dial phone, $3.35 for a trimline, and $1.20 extra for the push button model. Nowadays, it is possible and practical to buy your own phone and legally escape paying the monthly phone rent. Prices range from about $50 and up.

Incidentally, the rates for local calls have risen 9.1 percent, effective September 1, 1981. If cable isn't enough, Stevens Point now has HBO for $9.00 extra. Cinemax, the 24 hour movie channel, was recently established and costs $7.00 more a month with HBO, $9.00 with cable or by itself. There is also a new music channel that can be booked up to a stereo, for $1.75 extra. So, if you aren't an avid TV watcher, you can get cable, HBO, Cinemax, and the music channel at $35.25 monthly. Or you can avoid it altogether, and curl up with a good book.

There are few solutions to the rising utility rates, but you can do more than complain. In the past year, legislators have created the Citizens Utility Board, comprised of persons who speak up for residential utility customers at Public Service Commission meetings. CUB sends out envelopes included with utility bills and asks for contributions and memberships from citizens. They claim to have 68,000 members already.

CUB is currently trying to stop the phone company from initiating a proposal which would require the customers to pay for every local call they make and charge according to how long you talk, and when and where you call. CUB says, "we fear they will raise the rates so high that you will no longer be able to afford the flat rate local service we enjoy today." CUB won't pay your bills, but it's a voice for the people at the PSC hearings, a voice trying to curb the rising rates of utilities.

A proposal for receiving Fuel Assistance in Portage County is tentative for the 1981-82 heating winter. Everything is up in the air until the Federal Government decides if funding will be available this year. The people that would be eligible to apply include Food Stamp, SSI, and AFDC recipients. Payments would be made in monthly installments rather than one or two checks. Last year it was estimated that about 250 people were allotted in Portage County, but it is up to Washington to see if we will receive any money this winter.

Meanwhile, don't get behind in the bill paying game, learn to cope with the costs, and remember—at least you can't complain that you never get any mail.

Solidarity Day Saturday

"Solidarity Day", a massive rally organized by the CIO-CIO, has been slated for Saturday, Sept. 19. Seven large labor unions and about 150 other organizations have pledged support to this protest of Reagan administration policies. The United Council of UW System Student Governments has passed a resolution supporting Solidarity Day, according to Jack Buswell, UW-SP student government president.

The day-long rally will concentrate in Washington D.C. and will demonstrate American labor's dissatisfaction with Reagan's lack of response to, and disintegration of, labor unions and social organizations.
GM Steers to Run Over Immaculate Conception

The Immaculate Conception Church is located in an area of Eastern Detroit known as Poletown. As such, by all accounts, a beautiful, historic structure. To its parishioners, longtime residents of this integrated, lower-middle-class neighborhood, the church has invariable spiritual and cultural significance.

But not to the giant General Motors Corp. GM has stipulated that the church must be demolished to make way for a parking lot attached to a new Cadillac assembly plant the automaker proposes to Poletown community. One attacted to a new Cadillac wants to gobble up the entire cultural significance. for by a lower-middle-class assembly plant the factory in a way that would save the Poletown neighborhood of 3,500 residents, 1,500 households, 12 churches, a hospital and 12 schools, a hospital and 12 churches.

GM is demanding that this entire community be demolished and cleared by the city of Detroit, to be paid for by a $200 million federal, state and local taxpayers subsidy. Although the proposed assembly plant itself would cover only 70 acres of land, General Motors wants to gobble up the entire 465 acres that includes the Poletown community. One hundred four of these acres now comprise the old Dodge Main auto plant presently being razed by the city to make way for the Cadillac factory.

But General Motors and its chairman, Roger Smith, are not bending to reason. They have presented Detroit with what they think is an invincible ultimatum in writing: Clear out the residents by May 1, 1981, make the taxpayers pay for preparing the site and

Continued on p. 10

University Center Maintenance Employment Opening
Asst. Student Manager
Leadership, managerial, and organizational skills desired.

Must have a minimum of 6 credits;
GPA of 2.0 or better, and have at least 2 semesters left on campus.

Job applications can be picked up at the University Center: Maintenance Office Rm. 206.

Applications Due By Sept. 25

ATTENTION
ALL STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS WHO HAVE NOT UPDATED THEIR OFFICERS BY FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1981 WILL BE ASSUMED INACTIVE AND WILL NOT BE ABLE TO USE UNIVERSITY SERVICES.

STOP AT THE STUDENT LIFE ACTIVITIES & PROGRAMS OFFICE, LOWER LEVEL OF THE UNIVERSITY CENTER AND P-LE-A-S-E RECOGNIZE YOUR GROUP!!!
Father Joe Tries to Convert General Motors provide a 10-year property-tax abatement if you want the new, robotized factory within your city limits.

Continued

Earlier in this century workers had to sacrifice too much of their health, their time and their labor to the nation's industrial barons. Now, the people of Poletown, whose neighborhood includes businesses that generate more than 1,000 jobs, have to sacrifice their homes, their businesses, churches, schools and community ties for a GM plant. What's more dismaying is that GM refuses to consider other ways of building its plant that could save this neighborhood. GM wants all of that acreage. Where 19 churches and many homes now stand, for instance, GM wants to locate a 30-acre parking lot.

Karasiewicz — or Father Joe, as he affectionately is called — is not giving up. Nor are other members of the clergy in Poletown. In a pleading letter that turns the Middle Ages on its head, Father Joe has written to GM chairman Roger Smith begging him to save the church. The church is begging the corporation for physical salvation! Father Joe's exact words are worthy of repetition:

"Please, do save at least our church, which is both an architectural gem and historic structure as well. While I am aware of the fact that His Eminence, Cardinal Dearden, made it known that he would not oppose your project, I dare to presume more 'on the spot' appreciation of the situation here in our parish. If our church should be demolished, the resulting harm inflicted on our people would be devastating, causing, as I can envision it, irreparable personal harm."

The church pastor offered to give the corporation chairman a tour of the church. So far, the moguls of General Motors have spurned repeated requests from the Poletown community to meet with them and discuss alternatives whereby the neighborhood could be saved and the plant still be built.

If cities under pressure can condemn churches for corporations to build plants which can be built on less land (the proposed Cadillac factory itself will take up less than one-seventh of the total land appropriated for the project), then surely the corporation has become the sovereign power. To GM the 465 acres is valuable real estate; to the people of Poletown this acreage has been the site of their homes, churches and workplaces for decades.

Readers who wish to help save the churches and community of Poletown can write to Poletown Neighborhood Council, Immaculate Conception Church, 3414 Tromley, Detroit, Mich. 48211. (Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1981)

---

PIG ROAST

Coming Sunday, Sept. 20th
Club Forrest
Pig Roast
Starts At 12 Noon, Sept. 20th
Complete dinner for only $4.00

Country Music By Oakwood Boys
From 2 To 6 P.M.
Bernie At The Piano 7 P.M. Til 2 A.M.
Dottie's Beauty Salon
Now located at Club Forest Between Plover & Wis. Rapids Hwy. 54

Send It United Parcel Service, Steve

Just be sure to wrap it properly, then take it to the Information Desk Monday through Friday from:
8:00 a.m.-10:00 a.m.
or 4:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m.
or
All Weekend
You Can Send Almost Anything Anywhere!
Over the years, dorm rooms have been compared to a number of unpleasant things—cracker boxes, prison cells, rubber rooms. The fact is, despite everything Residence Life puts into its housing programs, living with another person in a tiny room, on a wing packed with other people living in tiny rooms, in a building filled with other wings filled with other people living in—oh well, you get the idea.

Then there are things like limited visitation, which means persons of the opposite sex have to be somewhere besides your room during certain hours when you’d prefer to have them nearby. Add three helpings per day of rather bland institutional food and you have a potentially depressing situation on your hands. Here are a few tips for making life in a cubicle a little more bearable:

You can’t make your room bigger (actually you can, but RA’s frown on the use of explosives in the dorms) but you can unscrew most of the furniture and move it around. You can also spice up the cube atmosphere with favorite furnishings from home, plants, rugs or carpet remnants, wall hangings, and posters. A few concrete blocks and some boards make instant (and cheap) bookshelves and tables. Check out the Stevens Point Journal and Pointer classifieds and the Tri-City Shopper’s Herald for cheap used furnishings.

Don’t feel like you and your roommate have to go everywhere and do everything together. Sharing a small room with somebody is difficult enough without trying to be the two musketeers. If you’re having problems with your roommate, let him or her know—the sooner the better. If the two of you can’t work the problem out, talk to your RA, your Director, or the Residence Life office.

A pair of inexpensive stereo headphones (you can get decent ones for about $20) are handy for late-hour listening, especially if you’re into acid rock and your roommate is a Carpenters fan.

Small refrigerators can be rented from Residence Life for $28 per semester. They’re great for keeping six-packs handy, and you can fill them with snacks to break the monotony of Food Service cuisine.

There are TV rooms in the halls, but you can never be sure the show you want to watch will be on. A small TV in your room makes private viewing a little easier.

Get yourself a “hotpot”—a small cooking pot with a self-contained heating element. They’re great for making hot drinks and instant hot cereals, soups, boiled eggs, hot dogs, and dozens of different “boil-in-a-bag” foods. Look for one with variable temperatures. Some are available with no-stick interiors, for easy cleaning. Check out department stores like K-Mart and Shopko for the best prices. Popcorn poppers are nice gadgets too, especially when you have hungry friends over. The hot-air types are best, since they don’t require messy oil.

Smoking dope is illegal nearly everywhere in the US—including your room. If you choose to smoke anyway, the idea is to avoid getting caught. Locking your door is a swell idea. So is putting a rolled-up towel under the door to prevent illegal odors from creeping out into the hallway. An exhaust fan placed in the window is a good bet, though simply blowing the smoke out the window is cheaper, and less conspicuous during the cooler months.
Secretary Has Plans for Education Department

Sources in the Department of Education report that Secretary of Education T. H. Bell has prepared four alternative proposals for the reorganization of his department, all of which involve downgrading it from the cabinet level. Although Bell originally favored the creation of the department at the cabinet level, he has joined President Reagan in calling for the change. The Department of Education is slightly more than a year old. President Jimmy Carter called for the change, and the new President has prepared four Department of Education proposals for the slightly more than a year old. The rationale was that a separate Education Department would give education issues added visibility and importance, and that a Secretary of Education could argue more forcefully for issues in the area.

President Reagan campaigned on a platform that promised to eliminate the Department of Education. He used the Department as an example of the Federal government interference in local matters. He often referred to the Department when he talked about getting government out of the affairs of the people. Secretary Bell is reported to have prepared four plans that would reduce the Department in importance and distribute most of its programs to other parts of the government bureaucracy. The President does not presently have the power to reorganize the government at the cabinet level. The Government Reorganization Act, which has expired, specifies the manner in which a President may change the departmental structures. The Act is expected to be renewed, and the President will probably act on one of Secretary Bell's proposals within the coming year.

President Reagan can expect to encounter some opposition in Congress to the downgrading of the Department of Education. During the budget deliberations, for example, the President met some of his strongest opposition in the matter of aid to education. Although Congress generally went along with his plan to lump Federal aid into block grants to the states, it resisted in most of the education-aid programs. Had they been included in block grants, education aid funds could have been used by the states for a variety of other purposes. Congress insisted on retaining at least 40 programs in education outside of block grants. These included programs of compensatory and vocational education, and education of handicapped students. The President did, however, succeed in cutting Federal aid to education by almost 25 percent. Anticipating budget deficits in the next few years, he may well propose additional cuts in domestic programs, with education being one of the major target areas.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

Germans React To American Policy

Continued on p. 20

D.M. MOORE, O.D.
JOHN M. LAURENT, O.D.
DOCTORS OF OPTOMETRY
1052 MAIN STREET
STEVENS POINT, WISCONSIN 54481

TELEPHONE: (715) 341-9455

Advertising Correction
The Cloister Chapel
Sunday Mass is at 11:30 A.M.
By Matthew Lewis

How many of us associate this mutant called "new wave" music with qualities such as charm, wit, sophistication, or musical and vocal excellence? May I see a show of hands? Ah, just as I thought; precious few (hands down, that is). To many, new wave conjures up visions of ultra-cool British bands comprised of short-haired, narrow-tied chaps. Their lyrics are often, well, tough to decipher. One man, however, makes a capital r, 1981-style. How many of us associate this mutant called "new wave" music with qualities such as charm, wit, sophistication, or musical and vocal excellence? May I see a show of hands? Ah, just as I thought; precious few (hands down, that is). To many, new wave conjures up visions of ultra-cool British bands comprised of short-haired, narrow-tied chaps. Their lyrics are often, well, tough to decipher. One man, however, makes a capital r, 1981-style.

But before we get carried away, let's not forget the other three members of Squeeze: bassist John Bentley, drummer Gilson Lavis, and temp keyboardist Paul Carrack. It is their significant contributions which put this album over the top, so to speak. Among the outstanding cuts are: "Someone Else's Heart" and "Tempted," both deal with very real situations in a modern relationship. In "Someone Else's Heart," the lovers "get noisy" and read each other's letters from past flames. At first they do not react to this fact. It's a refreshing surprise, then, to learn that a bright sun has learned that a bright sun has

1) Woolworth's 49' bin material
2) Not up to snuff.
3) Snuff
4) A sound investment
5) Eargasm

We do, because it turns out that all parties involved actually sold themselves. Lowering the tone arm onto the disc, we're first hit with a quintessential Squeeze number called "In Quintessence." The introduction is a nifty R&B vamp (so much reminiscent of Otis Redding's "I Can't Turn You Loose") and we're suddenly halfway through Difford's breezy vocals before we get our bearings. As with much of the album, the lyrics of "In Quintessence" are so good — and fly past in such a way — that you can barely do justice to the song with just two or three hearings. Like all albums, Squeeze Story should be absorbed slowly, and it yields new and different meanings with each subsequent listening. Of course, it's still too early to tell whether this recording is some kind of "classic," but the fact that we're wondering something about it certainly

So we both took someone else's heart and walked it through the dark, And it turned out I rich I turned around to laugh. We had both indulged in each other's flames. To find out that our love was true enough to last. Same words, different meaning.

Tempted" is a professional (and the excellent, and most are sung by Glenn Tilbrook, the possessor of a sparkling clear tenor voice. Just as Tilbrook and Difford's compo...
Checkpoint

Stand in Financial Aids line—lose one turn

Surprise! You’re going to Grad School! Return to Checkpoint

Roommate char-broiled while trying to clean oven—lose 10 Sanity Points

Landlord error in your favor—get entire security deposit back. Gain 10 Sanity Points

Upstairs renters control thermostat—your aquarium freezes. Lose kissing gouramis and 15 Sanity Points.

Roommate wets the bed—your bed—lose 15 Sanity Points

Roommate is a transvestite, so you can’t borrow his/her clothes—lose 10 Sanity Points

Garbage disposal eats Senior Honors project. Lose 15 Sanity Points

Last Lease Row

Tomato hits your mobile home court—Dorothy, I don’t think you’re in Stevens Point anymore. Go to top of Old Main.

Roommate flunks out—Inherent single room. Gain 10 Sanity Points

Roommate has attained final form and loses your lunch and 5 Sanity Points

Roommate has actually died—gain 10 Sanity Points

Roommate is a druid—Convictions are shaken

Roommate is a judge—My religious convictions are shaken

Housing’s computer slips up—Advance to Off-campus

DORMIELAND

- Lose your packet and 10 Sanity Points at Text Rental

- Survive Checkpoint—visit the Square

- Landlord error in your favor—get entire security deposit back. Gain 10 Sanity Points

- Roommate flunks out—Inherent single room. Gain 10 Sanity Points
Rules for Play

Markers. We recommend using bottle caps, checkers, buttons, shell casings, frisios, peyote buttons, or markers from other games. Do not use "U-{lul for President" buttons, live marbles, twe. or battery-operated toy buzzers.

Starting The Game. Each player selects a marker and places it at Checkpoint Start. Players take turns rolling one die to determine order of play — highest number goes first. Players then take turns rolling one die to advance along game boards, and must follow all instructions on the spaces they land on.

Sanity Points. The object of the game is to avoid losing Sanity Points. Players begin with 36 and lose or gain points according to spaces they land on. Players who run out of Sanity Points and then land on a space with more points to be lost must discard one article of clothing. Players who run out of points, and then get back later in the game, can put their clothes back on. Players who roll on Sanity Points lose articles at the mercy of the other players.

Winning. The first player to reach City Limits as an exact roll gets 25 Sanity Points. The second player to do so gets 15 Sanity Points, the third player gets 10, and the fourth player gets 5. Other players get Sanity Points for finishing. The winner is the player with the most Sanity Points left at the end of the game — clothes don’t count.

Top of Old Main. Roll again, and lose as many Sanity Points as you need to roll 1 (40). If you roll 1, do 3 shots or tokens; if you roll 2, 4, 6, etc. you may roll shots and tokens, and you may give one of your shots or tokens to any other player on the board. (Players do not have to be at the same point). If you don’t want to do shots or tokens, lose 11 Sanity Points and go to Health Center. If you do your shots or tokens, you may return to the space on the board from which you left immediately.

Health Center. On your next roll, roll a 2, 3, or 4 and return to the space on the board from which you left. Any other roll and you’re unable to fill the plastic specimen cup — lose 3 Sanity Points and try again next time.

Top of Old Main. You’re at the top of Old Main with a high-powered rifle. On your next roll, roll a 1 or a 2 to give yourself up and go to Health Center for counseling. Any other roll and you start shooting. Players lose 20 Sanity Points and you escape to the Square.

The game UWSP Housing Life was created by Michael Darbon, Bob Ham, and Mike Hein.

How Do You Rate in the Game of UWSP Housing Life?

- Sanity Points Left
- Near naked
- Naked
- Naked and comprehensively dirty
- Naked and occupied in another room of the house

Popcorn Popper is on the refrigerator, been busted for smoking dope, received two tons and explaining things to your parents.

Crab Colony founded in your shorts — go to Health Center.
Continued from p. 5
request for a court order to have the sheriff evict you. Until a court eviction order is carried out by the sheriff, the landlord may not confiscate or lock in your personal belongings, or use deception or force to remove you from the property.

On the other hand, if the court finds that you were not justified in refusing to leave the property, you may be required to pay damages and court costs to the landlord. If the landlord has suffered rental losses, you may be required to pay twice the amount of those losses.

Evictions are in many cases situational and the procedure for defending yourself varies with the specific case. For this reason you are recommended to contact the Stevens Point Tenant Association, c/o the Student Government Association.

A copy of the state rules may be obtained free of charge from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, P.O. Box 8011, Madison, Wisconsin, 53708.

To the Editor:
The following letter is in response to Dan Walsh's letter that appeared in the September 10, 1981 edition of Pointer:

Dear Saviors of UWSP's Women:
Thank you for your concern about our welfare and appearance, and for wanting to save us. But don't do us any favors please. You will not be admired and looked upon for your great tapeworm plan to save us "chicks." Some day maybe you will realize that there is more to a woman than her Calvin Klein jeans and tight fitting sweaters. Due to your rather narrow view of women, it is little wonder that you cannot find someone that lives up to your chauvinistic standards.

Women have various reasons for wearing jeans and sweatsuits one day, and something dressy the next, with the most obvious reason being comfort and mood. It may be a blow to your ego, but most women dress for themselves, not for the men around them.

Not only was your letter a put-down on UWSP's women, but it was also an insult to men on this campus who do not share your findings, those men who look upon a woman as a whole person, not only in the future you will be able to understand this.

Kathy Gerg
Nancy Gelhar
Michelle Melchior
"Cujo" Demands Rabid Interest

Reviewed by William Vought
and Kreston Packham

Cujo
By Stephen King

For all you Stephen King addicts, the master of the macabre recently put out another fine novel. "Cujo" is King's latest work, and, in our opinion, it's well worth reading.

The title refers to a two hundred pound Saint Bernard that goes rabid. But let's not confuse this story with most of those animal-stalking man trashers like "Lair" or "Rattlers." In "Cujo," we find pity for the once cuddly Saint Bernard, who just happens to be a victim of circumstances.

As in his other novels, King sets up the horror in vivid, hair-raising descriptions, when it's there. You see, the story also dips into a troubled marriage, and an advertising business struggling to stay alive. The three plots weave together neatly, and all are written well.

 Compared to King's other novels, all best sellers, "Cujo" doesn't get to the meat as fast, so for those who look mostly for the horror, the story may drag at times. The last seventy pages, however, is constant suspense, interrupted only by gut-wrenching horror. So if you can sit through the slow climb to the top of the rollercoaster, you'll never forget the trip down.

In many of King's earlier works, for example "Salem's Lot" and "The Shining," we find that he has a firm grasp on children's minds when writing from their point of view. Very simplistic but also very real. The never resting mind and imagination of a child provides the story with a frightening point of view. It's quite a creepy feeling to experience horror through the eyes of a five-year-old.

It should also be noted that this is King's first novel that doesn't deal with the supernatural or telepathy—oops! Maybe not, but that's for you to decide.

The ending of "Cujo" is typical of all King's endings. The reader is left feeling disturbed, sad, empty—but with that small glimmer of hope...Thank God!
UNIVERSITY THEATRE
Presents:

JENKINS SERIES
1981-1982

The Madwoman of Chaillot
October 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10
Directed by: Thomas F. Nevins

Oklahoma!
November 13, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21
Directed by: Edward J. Hamilton

Wait Until Dark
February 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13
Directed by: William W. Vought

The Matchmaker
March 12, 13, 14, 18, 19, 20
Directed by: Edward J. Hamilton

Series Tickets/Coupons:
$12.00
(includes all 5 Jenkins shows)
Individual Public: $3.00
Individual Student: $1.50
(with current I.D. and Activity Card)

STUDIO SERIES
1981-1982

It Would Have Been Nice
September 18, 19, 20
Directed by: Patricia Potter

Murder at the
Howard Johnson's
October 23, 24, 25
Directed by: Paul Gracyalny

I Believe In Santa Claus
December 18, 19
Directed by: Susan Vagnoni

Poverello
February 19, 20, 21
Directed by: Linda Martin Moore

Reservations may be made now for the entire season in the theatre
box office, college of fine arts, or by calling 346-4100. Box office hours
9-4 weekdays.

RESERVATIONS MAY BE MADE NOW FOR
THE ENTIRE SEASON IN THE THEATRE
BOX OFFICE, COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS, OR
BY CALLING 346-4100. BOX OFFICE HOURS
9-4 WEEKDAYS.

STUDIO SERIES
1981-1982

It Would Have Been Nice
September 18, 19, 20
Directed by: Patricia Potter

Murder at the
Howard Johnson's
October 23, 24, 25
Directed by: Paul Gracyalny

I Believe In Santa Claus
December 18, 19
Directed by: Susan Vagnoni

Poverello
February 19, 20, 21
Directed by: Linda Martin Moore

More To Be Announced!

No Series Price Available
Individual Public: $1.00
Individual Student: $.50
(with current I.D. and Activity Card)

The Flame
Maria Drive Near Second St.
Six Blocks From The Dorms
Under New Ownership
(Former UWSP Grad)

NEW WAVE
NIGHT
EVERY MONDAY

PITCHER NIGHT
TUESDAYS
$1.65 Half-Gallon All Night

LADIE'S NIGHT
• 2 For 1 Mixed Drinks
• 8 To 11 P.M. Wednesdays

SOLID GOLD
ROCK & ROLL
THURSDAYS

"T.G.I.F."
• 7 To 10 P.M. Fridays
• 2 For 1 Mixed Drinks

LIVE POLKA MUSIC
SUNDAYS 7-11 P.M.
• NO RIP-OFF ADMISSION CHARGES
• FULL MEASURE SHOTS

University Film Society
Presents
Alice's Restaurant

TUES. & WED.
SEPT. 22 & 23

WISCONSIN ROOM
7:00 & 9:15 P.M.
ADMISSION $1.25

90 FM
89.7 MGz

WE'RE NOT JUST PROGRESSIVE ANYMORE . . .

Featured Artists
6 a.m.-6 p.m.
Quiet Hour
6 p.m.-7 p.m.
Jazz Size
7 p.m.-10 p.m.
(Sun., Mon., Wed.)
Album Side Eve.
10 p.m.-2 a.m.
(Sun.)
Mellow Mornings
6 a.m.-8 a.m.
Two Way Radio
6 p.m.-7 p.m.
(Mon.)
11th Hour Specials
There's More To You
There's More To Us
Saturday, September 19
ART IN THE PARK — Over one hundred artists will display, demonstrate, and sell their work along the lagoon at Babolt Park, in the 12th annual edition, of this extraordinarily popular community event. Though children’s activities are emphasized this year, there’s plenty to see and do for all you hip college types too! Real music will be plentiful, and entertainment will be provided throughout the day by the Wild Turkey Band, SPASH Jazz Ensemble, Suzuki Strings, and the Stevens Point Sweet Adelines. Art and activities will include rock painting, paper bag puppets, sand paintings, and much more. The UWSP Children’s Theater will also be on hand to perform two plays. Admission to the park, children’s activities, and entertainment are all free. Hours for the event are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., so come on down!

Saturday, September 19
MORE POINT FOOTBALL — Get SET for another Pointer game, this time against Whitewater. The game (played earlier in the day) will be broadcast at 10:30 p.m. on cable channel 1.

Sunday, September 20
GET HIGH ON YOURSELF — NBC kicks off a week of anti-drug programming with this 7 p.m. hour-long special which, according to TV Guide, will feature “high-spirited music and some down-to-earth talk” from a group of additive-free superstars, including Muhammad Ali, Carol Burnett, Anni-Frid, John Travolta, Paul Newman, and, uh, Mr. Bill. The last time we tried getting high on ourselves, we OD’d and had to be sedated.

Saturday, September 19
CHUCK MITCHELL — The Pack takes on the ailing Los Angeles Rams at Anaheim, California. Why settle for TV when you can watch it on the UC Coffeehouse :ueoBeam? Game time is 3 p.m.

Monday, September 21
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL — It’s the Cowboys against the Patriots, on the VideoBeam in the UC Coffeehouse, from 7:30 to 11 p.m. Free popcorn too.

Saturday, September 19
WSWP 11TH HOUR SPECIALS — This week your campus radio station brings you the following: Thursday, Never Gonna Give You Up (attention Police fans); Friday, Harlequin, Love Crimes; Saturday, Montrose, 1st LP; Sunday, Tom Grant. You Hardly Know Me; Tuesday, Michael Franks, The Art of Tea; Wednesday, The Claire Lawrence Band. Tune in to WSPF at 11 p.m. Saturday, September 19
PUBLIC RADIO — Check out WHRN 90.9 FM from 3-7 Saturday evenings and catch Prairie Home Companion, one of the few live radio shows on the air today. Host Garrison Keilor brings you a variety of folk entertainers as well as the latest happenings of a place called — would you believe — Lake Wobegon. You owe it to yourself to check this one out.

Sunday, September 20
WSWP SUNDAY FORUM — Get any old coins-stashed away in your sock drawer? They might be worth something, man. To find out, tune in to 98FM at 10 p.m., when Sunday Forum’s guest will be Bill Pettit of Wisconsin Rapids, coordinator of the Standard Catalog of World Coins and an expert on the value of old coins and paper money.

Thursday, September 17
THE BIRDS — Hitchcock’s terrifying vision of nature gone awry will be shown in the Steiner Hall Pit Area at 8:30 p.m. They don’t make them like this anymore.

Chicago — Better known as the Windy City when you visit.

Thursday, September 17
DINER — Hitchcock’s terrifying vision of nature gone awry will be shown in the Steiner Hall Pit Area at 8:30 p.m. They don’t make them like this anymore.

Tuesday & Wednesday, September 22-23
ALICE’S RESTAURANT — Arthur (Little Big Man) Penn directed this offbeat comedy-melodrama, based on Arlo Guthrie’s famous ballad. Lots of laughs, but watch out for the ending. This week Alice’s brought to you by the WUSP Film Society, and will show at 7 and 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room.

Thursday & Friday, September 24-25
CADDYSHACK — Chevy Chase, Bill Murray, Ted Knight, and Rodney Dangerfield drive each other into the rough at a posh country club. Funnier than the critics would have you believe. Screenings of this UAB flick are at 6:30 and 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room. $1.50.

Continuing
FOUR WISCONSIN PHOTOGRAPHERS will show representative work in the Edna Carlsen Gallery, through September 27.
EVERY TUESDAY
DEBOT PIZZA PARLORS
PASTA SPECIAL

Free 12 oz. Soda or
9 oz. Tap Brew

With Any Lasagne,
Spaghetti or
Regatoni Dinner

Germans React  Continued from p. 12

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

EVERY TUESDAY
DEBOT PIZZA PARLORS
PASTA SPECIAL

Free 12 oz. Soda or
9 oz. Tap Brew

With Any Lasagne,
Spaghetti or
Regatoni Dinner

Stereo 98
Presents:
BICYCLE AWARENESS DAY
SEPT. 23

10:00 A.M.-5:00 P.M. Front Of University Center

Mini Courses
Speed Bike Maintenance 1:00 P.M.
Single Speed Bike Maintenance 3:00 P.M.

Bike Touring Techniques 4:00 P.M.
Bike Licensing
Stevens Point Police Dept. 12:00-5:00 P.M.

Live Broadcasting By WSPT
Free Raffle • Bike Locks • Albums

In case of rain: Program Banquet Room.
Golfers fifth in Point Invitational, look to WSUC schedule

By Tom Burkman
In the 11th annual Pointer Invitational played last Friday at the Stevens Point Country Club, the host Pointers placed fifth out of a field of 14 teams.

The Pointers came into the meet as the defending champions, but were beaten out this year by the 1979 champion, UW-Madison which totaled 387. UW-Oshkosh and UW-La Crosse tied for second with 380, UW-Green Bay captured fourth place at 396 followed by UWSP, 404; UW-Eau Claire, 405; UW Platteville, 408; UW Stout, 411; UW-River Falls, 413; UW Parkside, 418; UWSP no. 2, 423; Marquette, 425; St. Norbert, 434; and UW Milwaukee, 447.

Even though the Pointers captured fifth overall, they won a triangular meet played with Platteville, (400), and River Falls, (413). As a result, Stevens Point is unbeaten in WSUC play at 4-0.

Junior Kurt Hoppe led the way for the Pointers as he was the runnerup medalist with a score of 75. He was followed by Mark Schroeder, 80; Mike Donlan, 81; Bob Van Den Elzen, 83; Brian Johnson, 85; and Jeff Fox at 86.

The Pointer no. 2 team was led by former SPASH player Andy Gradzielewski who carded a 78, followed by former SPASH player Terry Flesch of UW-Oshkosh tied Hoppe for runnerup honors with a 75.

This year's Pointer squad includes junior Kurt Hoppe, a transfer student from Wisconsin who is a native of Wisconsin Rapids, sophomore Mark Schroeder, junior Brian Johnson and senior Bob Van Den Elzen.

Also expected to see considerable action throughout the year are Dick Rebne, a transfer from UW Rice Lake and freshman Dave Lemler from West Bend.

Head Coach Pete Kassen noted that any of the latter players could be replaced by any of up to eight candidates who are challenging for positions. These players include local products Greg Bisbee and Andy

Harriers First

The UWSP men's cross country team captured first place in the Milwaukee Invitational Saturday.

Coach Rick Witt's runners easily outdistanced the rest of the five team field scoring just 20 points while runnersup UW-Milwaukee tallied 67. Rounding out the team scoring were UW-Whitewater, 81, Carroll College, 84, and North Park, 116.

Darrell May from North Park was the individual winner in a time of 20:12. Point's Greg Schrab was only three seconds off of the winning pace to take second place.

The Pointers showed their team strength by capturing the next six places. Ray Pryzbselski finished third at 20:35 and Chuck Paulson, Mark Witteveen, Dave Parker, and Dan Schoepke all were timed at 20:46 to give them the next four positions. Hector Fisher ran to a 20:49 clocking which gave him eighth place.

Witt was pleased with his team's performance and particularly with placing seven runners within the top eight positions.

The Pointers next action will come on Saturday when they host the Pointer Invitational.

Brian Johnson shows his form on the tee during Pointer Golf Invitational

Stickers bop Platteville 9-0

By Shannon Houlihan
It was a dreamy afternoon when U.W. Platteville's field hockey team arrived in Point Saturday, but their dreams soon turned into a nightmare as they were slaughtered 9-0 by the Pointer stickers.

Platteville was rudely awakened as Point scored three goals in the first five minutes of the game. Left wing Nancy Luetske issued the tidy opening-90 call just two minutes into the game. Her goal was assisted by left defender Carolanne Allendorf.

Two minutes later left link Cheryl Montanye slipped past her defender in an unassisted goal, and within seconds Boehnlein dodged around Platteville's defense and slammed in the first goal of her hat-trick.

The Pointer's new offensive strategy paid off as all six attack players scored in the first half. Center link Barb Bernhardt scored on an assist from Boehnlein and Boehnlein slapped in the next goal on a pass from Bernhardt. Platteville had their entire team back to defend against the Pointer onslaught, but to no avail as right wing Michelle Anderson scored unassisted. Right inner Jane Christiansen then took a pass from Anderson and smacked it between several defenders for a score.

In a last effort to subdue the Pointers, Platteville's goalie sat on the ball, but she was whistled for the illegal maneuver and Boehnlein scored on the penalty stroke.

Head Coach Nancy Page substituted all seven of her first year players in the second half and they kept the ball rolling for the Pointers. Although veteran co-captain Bernhardt put in the only goal of the half on an assist from Anderson, it was the consistent play of the rookies that kept the ball on the Pointer half of the field.

"I was extremely pleased with the rookies," said an elated Page after the game. "They will come on strong as they get more playing time."

Point unleashed fifty shots on goal and were awarded fifteen penalty corners. "Our attack in the first half was superb. We backed each other up and moved the ball well," commented Page. "It was an outstanding team effort against a pretty green Platteville team."

Continued on p. 22.
Stevens Point victory in the annual Shrine Game at Goerke Field Saturday night.

Milton turned the ball over eight times. The Pointers capitalized on six of those turnovers, scoring 32 of their points by doing so.

However, it was Milton which scored first following a Pointer miscue. Mike Bauer’s 52-yard field goal gave the Wildcats a short-lived 3-0 lead. The score came after Point punt-end Chuck Braun coughed up the ball after a wicked hit by safety Ted Powell.

More importantly, Braun was helped off the field with what is thought to be a sprained knee. Braun’s knee was extended into a sprinters stretch as he hit the turf. Nothing in Braun’s knee was expected to be ready for this week’s game as a precautionary measure. Braun is expected to make up the difference.

Despite the loss of Braun, it didn’t take the Pointers long to make up the difference. After two Randy Ryskoski field goals put UWSP on top, Milton quarterback Larry Schliem fumbled again and UWSP recovered on the Milton 28.

Eight plays later Demski passed to Tim Lau for the touchdown, making the score 26-10 with 3:10 left in the third stanza.

This time it was fullback Dan Milz’s turn to fumble it away. Linebacker Bob Lewitzke recovered the ball for Point on the Wildcat 34. Two plays later Demski hit tight-end Rick Stewppack on a 23-yard scoring strike.

On their next possession, the Pointers put together their only sustained drive of the game. The key play was a perfectly executed 48-yard sweep by halfback Andy Shumway. Pullback Jerry O’Connor capped the six-play, 83-yard drive on a two-yard run with 13:14 left in the game.

Shumway led all rushers with 108 yards in 13 carries.

Milton did manage to score a touchdown on a three-yard scamper by Mark Wilson with 9:51 remaining. But it was too little, too late as Stevens Point handed the Wildcats their second loss in as many outings.

Despite the loss of Braun, it didn’t take the Pointers long to make up the difference. After two Randy Ryskoski field goals put UWSP on top, Milton quarterback Larry Schliem fumbled again and UWSP recovered on the Milton 28.

Eight plays later Demski passed to Tim Lau for the touchdown, making the score 26-10 with 3:10 left in the third stanza.

This time it was fullback Dan Milz’s turn to fumble it away. Linebacker Bob Lewitzke recovered the ball for Point on the Wildcat 34. Two plays later Demski hit tight-end Rick Stewppack on a 23-yard scoring strike.

On their next possession, the Pointers put together their only sustained drive of the game. The key play was a perfectly executed 48-yard sweep by halfback Andy Shumway. Pullback Jerry O’Connor capped the six-play, 83-yard drive on a two-yard run with 13:14 left in the game.

Shumway led all rushers with 108 yards in 13 carries.

Milton did manage to score a touchdown on a three-yard scamper by Mark Wilson with 9:51 remaining. But it was too little, too late as Stevens Point handed the Wildcats their second loss in as many outings.

Despite the loss of Braun, it didn’t take the Pointers long to make up the difference. After two Randy Ryskoski field goals put UWSP on top, Milton quarterback Larry Schliem fumbled again and UWSP recovered on the Milton 28.

Eight plays later Demski passed to Tim Lau for the touchdown, making the score 26-10 with 3:10 left in the third stanza.

This time it was fullback Dan Milz’s turn to fumble it away. Linebacker Bob Lewitzke recovered the ball for Point on the Wildcat 34. Two plays later Demski hit tight-end Rick Stewppack on a 23-yard scoring strike.

On their next possession, the Pointers put together their only sustained drive of the game. The key play was a perfectly executed 48-yard sweep by halfback Andy Shumway. Pullback Jerry O’Connor capped the six-play, 83-yard drive on a two-yard run with 13:14 left in the game.

Shumway led all rushers with 108 yards in 13 carries.

Milton did manage to score a touchdown on a three-yard scamper by Mark Wilson with 9:51 remaining. But it was too little, too late as Stevens Point handed the Wildcats their second loss in as many outings.
Netters have experience

A veteran cast returns for the 1981 UWSP women's tennis team and that is a cause for optimism for third-year coach Dave Nass. With four letterwinners returning, Nass has a good idea of who will be his frontline players in 1981, but it still is up in the air as to who will earn the No. 1 position as the four are fairly equal in ability. The four are Kerry Meineberg, a senior; Kim Gabrovich and Linda Huebner, juniors; and Julie Reihsen, a sophomore.

Nass feels that he has some "able-bodied hitters" amongst his newcomers and feels they will make strong contributions to the team. They are Lynda Johnson, Sarah Schalow, and Caren Christenson. An added bonus is that all three have tournament tennis experience and Nass feels "that definitely helps with mental conditioning."

Nass looks for improvement from his team which finished fifth in the Wisconsin Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Meet in 1980.

"We will be strong in singles at the No. 4, 5, and 6 positions and we should be good at doubles in general. Our strategy will be very simple, we want to go out and win three singles matches for sure and then fight like crazy for victory in two of the three doubles events," Nass explained.

"We have 17 fairly good players on the court practicing this fall and my only concern, and only to winning everything, is to encourage and train people we have coming up for future seasons," he added.

Last Thursday UWSP defeated Stout 5-4.

Strong doubles play at No. 3 and No. 5 pulled the Lady Pointers through. Julie Reihsen and Lynda Johnson took the No. 2 match 6-2, 6-2 while Sarah Schalow and Linda Huebner teamed up to take an easy 6-4, 8-4 match at No. 3.

UW-SP coach Dave Nass was pleased with the play off his two new doubles combinations.

睁开眼和然后战斗像疯狂
[25x593]Kim
[25x380]for victory in two of the three [25x607]cause for optimism for third year coach Dave Nass.
[25x307]as to who will earn the No. 1 position as the four are fairly equal in ability. The four are Kerry Meineberg, a senior; Kim Gabrovich and Linda Huebner, juniors; and Julie Reihsen, asophomore.
Nass feels that he has some "able-bodied hitters" amongst his newcomers and feels they will make strong contributions to the team. They are Lynda Johnson,
Sarah Schalow, and Caren
Christenson. An added bonus is that all three have tournament tennis experience and Nass feels "that definitely helps with mental conditioning."

Nass looks for improvement from his team which finished fifth in the Wisconsin Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Meet in 1980.

"We will be strong in singles at the
No. 4, 5, and 6 positions and we should be good at doubles in general. Our strategy will be very simple, we want to go out and win three singles matches for sure and then fight like crazy for victory in two of the three doubles events," Nass explained.

"We have 17 fairly good players on the court practicing this fall and my only concern, and only to winning everything, is to courage and train people we have coming up for future seasons," he added.

Last Thursday UWSP
defeated Stout 5-4.

Strong doubles play at No. 3
and No. 5 pulled the Lady
Pointers through. Julie Reihsen and Lynda Johnson took the No. 2 match 6-2, 6-2 while Sarah Schalow and Linda Huebner teamed up to take an easy 6-4, 8-4 match at
No. 3.

UW-SP coach Dave Nass was pleased with the play off his two new doubles combinations.

睁开眼和然后战斗像疯狂

"Doubles saved us," he stated. "Although our veteran team lost, our two new combinations at No. 2 and No. 3 won handily which is a pleasant surprise."

In singles play, Reihsen opened play at the No. 1 spot with a 6-1, 6-1 win. Veterans Kerry Meineberg and Kim Gabrovich suffered losses at No. 2 and 3 respectively. Johnson captured the match at No. 4 6-2, 6-2 and Schalow took the No. 5 match 6-1, 6-1.

"This was our first meet and we'd only had five days of practice which caused us trouble," said Nass. "Our singles play was weak in general but Lynda Johnson at No. 4 showed fine control at the net in beating a very steady opponent."

Reihsen did a good job at No. 1 singles. She took control on the first point of the match and never let up," he continued.

Next Week:

Pointers Cross Country Invitational

The first road trip of the young season produced a weekend split for the UWSP women's tennis team as it defeated Carroll College 9-4 and fell to UW-Whitewater 7-2.

The split gives the Lady Pointers a 2-1 dual meet record going into Friday's match against UW-Milwaukee and UW-Oshkosh in Oshkosh.

Doubles play started the match against Carroll and UWSP got off to a bad start as it dropped two of the three matches. The only win was by the twosome of Linda Huebner and Sarah Schalow at No. 3 as they claimed 6-1 and 6-4 wins.

The Lady Pointers won the contest by winning the No. 3 through No. 5 singles matches. Each of the wins came in straight sets with Kerry Meineberg, Kim Gabrovich, Sarah Schalow and Huebner doing the honors.

"We did much better at singles than I expected," UWSP coach Dave Nass declared after the match.

"Kerry Meineberg did very well against Eileen Rogers who has been one of Carroll's steady winners. It was her win that gave us the team victory."

"Sarah Schalow played an impressive singles match and was also on top of her game in teamming with Linda Huebner in No. 3 doubles," Nass added.

Schalow was also won of UWSP's few bright spots in the loss to UW-Whitewater. The young freshman claimed the team's only win in singles as she beat Janice Ryan at No. 5 6-1 and 6-3.

Point's only other victory came at No. 2 doubles where Lynda Johnson teamed up with Julie Reihsen and won 4-6, 4-6 and 6-4.

"Whitewater is strong, they beat us badly in every singles but one. Schalow again looked good in winning our only singles match. Lynda Johnson and Julie Reihsen showed good determination in beating a good Whitewater duo," Nass observed.

"Saturday's performance provided me with concrete information as to what we must work on," Nass concluded.
Women Harriers Seek Return to Nationals

When a team advances into and places 13th in a national meet in just its first year of existence, it is hard to imagine it coming up with an encore.

But such a situation existed at the UWSW in 1981 and first year coach Deb Lindert looks for her team to be just as strong, if not stronger, than last year.

The Lady Pointer harriers capped an outstanding first year by placing 13th in the national meet last year, completed the 5000 meter course in 18:26. UW-La Crosse's Tori Neubauer captured the race in 18:10 and UW-La Crosse won the team event with 22 points. Central placed second with 48 team event with 22 points. Central placed second with 48

Despite the fact that her team is smaller in terms of total numbers than last year, Lindert feels the overall team is stronger.

“Our team is smaller than last year. It is stronger in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh positions and that should mean improvement for the team,” Lindert observed.

“I think we are going to have a very competitive team and I look for us to be going to nationals again,” she added.

Lindert also feels that the team is in excellent shape because of a summer of strong running and an extensive weight lifting program.

On Saturday, the Pointers were led by Dawn Buntman's second place finish, as they took third in the national meet.

Buntman, a competitor in the national meet last year, returned to the Point squad with just 15 minutes and 10 seconds behind her. Buntman was 25th at 24:44.

Lindert is very optimistic despite the fact that her team is smaller in terms of total numbers than last year. The UW-SP coach Deb Lindert felt the meet was a good confidence builder for her team.

“Women Harriers Seek Return to Nationals”

The Pigskin Prophet

By Quince Adams

The rash of upsets continues in the NFL as Sunday's 7-6 mark puts the Prophet's overall record at 15-12 or 56 percent. On to week three.

BUFFALO 17, PHILADELPHIA 14—It's Chuck Knox vs. Dick Vermeil.

JACKSONVILLE 21, MINNEAPOLIS ST. 19, CHICAGO 17, TAMPA BAY 10. LOS ANGELES 24, NEW YORK GIANTS 21, DENVER 14, NEW ENGLAND 20.

Highlight: Tampa Bay's Tim Hills drops a touchdown pass with 2:20 left in the game to preserve his team's 7-6 record.

Sun., Sept. 19.

Good things in Wisconsin that never change...

The only beer we brew... Point Special

Point Special
AMERICA'S FAVORITE SMALL BREWERY "WE BREW IT BECAUSE WE CAN"
Questions:

1. In 1971 Dan Devine suffered a broken leg in his debut as coach of the Green Bay Packers. Name the New York Giant player who collided with Devine, causing the break.

2. Who was the NFL's rookie of the year in 1972? Hint: He's still an active player.

3. What is the hometown of Wisconsin's All-Big 10 nose guard Tim Krumrie?

4. Who had the longest run from scrimmage in the WSU last season?

5. Name the school that ended UWSP's 1989 field hockey season.
Get Your Chance NOW To Win A Complete Cross Country Ski Package and many other prizes sponsored by the following area merchants:

- Eat-More Products
- Hoff Distributors
- Shear Dimensions
- Golden Hanger
- Point Bowl
- The Restaurant
- Shippys Shoes
- Happy Joe's
- Saga Foods
- Instant Printing
- Antlers
- Altenburgs Dairy
- Hostel Shop
- East-Bay Running
- Holiday Inn
- Barefoot Shoes
- Bean Eddy
- Coca-Cola
- Gress Fisheries
- Tony Menza Pottery Shop
- Dave Martin Pottery Shop
- Bill's Pizza
- Mens Wear 1000
- West Bend Co.
- Sportco
- One Stop Sport Shop
- Graham Lane Records
- Point Bakery
- Book World
- Super Bowl
- Skipps Bowl
- Chrysalis
- Campus Records
- Bernard's

50¢ Buy As Many As You Want. Drawing To Be Held Oct. 9, 1981 6:00 Student Union

Raffle License No. R-4446-R-181

---

What's Happenin' with SGA

By by Jack Buswell and Ed Karshna

The SGA Senate elections are taking place all over campus this week and the Student Government Association would like to thank all those who participated and worked at this year's elections.

Even if you decided not to run for a Senate position, you can still have some input with what is happening on campus. The new Senate is being elected by proportional representation in each of the four colleges, so each individual Senator reflects the views of a specific constituency. Get to know who your representatives are! They can make a difference involving issues of concern for your group. If you have any questions about this or any other topics, stop by our office in the Student Activities Complex of the University Center.

Women's Resource Center & Horizon Yearbook—Looking for new homes?

It has come to the attention of SGA that two of our student organizations will be looking for office space in the next few months. Both the Women's Resource Center and the Horizon Yearbook will be looking for new homes.

The Women's Resource Center is presently housed in the old home extension house with the Suzuki Institute. Because of the tremendous growth of the Suzuki program, they will be taking over the whole house. One idea was to contact Resident Hall Programs, but they have stated they are not interested in housing offices in the basement of the Residence Halls, as that space belongs to students who reside there. There is no space presently in the University Centers, and with the renovation going on this year, space will be even tighter than ever.

"What's Happenin' " is submitted each week by the UWSW Student Government Association.

The renovation of the University Center dining area will include one of the two rooms presently used by the Horizon yearbook staff. Renovation is scheduled to begin November 15th. Because of the journalistic skills learned by the Horizon staff, some felt the Horizon would be better served if located in the Communications building. Roger Bullis, co-chair of the Communications Department, has indicated that they have no space available for the Horizon.

We clearly have a problem before us, and we cannot let these two worthwhile organizations go without homes. What do you think we should do about it?

Acronym of the week:

--

SORC—Student Organization Recognition Committee is a committee which is chaired by the SGA Vice-President and staffed by seven senators with at least one senator coming from each of the four colleges. SORC can review any student organization as directed by the president or the Senate in regards to an organization's status of recognition by SGA. Student organizations already recognized by SGA may also have their recognition reviewed if so directed by the president or the Senate. SORC will recommend to the senate whether an organization should be recognized by SGA. Why should an organization be recognized by SGA? A student organization must be recognized by SGA to receive any funding by SGA.

---

Important Dates...

September 19 — Senator's Workshop at Iverson Park.
September 20 — First Senate meeting, 7 p.m. in the Wright Lounge.
September 25-26 — United Council meeting at UW-Stout.
PIZZA AND MORE... RIGHT TO YOUR DOOR!

That's right. Now you can enjoy Pizza Hut®, Pizza, Pasta, and all our great food right in your dorm room. Because the Stevens Point PIZZA HUT RESTAURANT will DELIVER it right to your door. Just give us a call, order what you like, and we'll RUSH it right to you. Thanks to our new packages, your food will arrive oven-fresh and hot!

Delivery 7 days a week, 4:30-closing to university dorms only. (No delivery South & Nelson Halls.)

Delivery Special:
Clip this coupon and get $1.00 off any large or medium pizza.
(Slight delivery charge extra)
Coupon must be presented for discount.

Call: 341-2100

PIZZA Hut

Expires 10/31/81

LESIONS: Guitar lessons.
My name is Jim. I am a guitar major and have teaching experience. Group or private, call 345-0778.

SEX, DRUGS AND 'THEE OBSESSION'!
Make your next party come alive with real rock and roll music! 344-2105 Call now!

FOR SALE: Radio Shack (Casio) calculator with complete array of scientific functions, LCD & memory. $30.00 new, will sell for $15.00. In excellent condition. Call Joe at 341-9334.

FOR SALE: Bicycle, Motobecane Gram Record 10" Racing-Touring frame, alloy components. New one piece cross country ski suit size medium. Handlebar bag, Rod and reel. 40 lb bow recurve. Call Joe 344-0749 evenings.

FOR SALE: Scheduling for interviews will begin today (9-17) for the guardianship of one (1) Fred and one (1) Barney (kitties par excellence). Don't poop much. References required. If you don't apply, they're gonna die. Call Mary, Sarah, Peggy or Judy at 344-3319.

FOR SALE: A 65 watt dependable Sony 7065 receiver, multiple tape player capabilities, mike mixing and a fine wood cabinet. Call 344-5203 ask for Peter.

FOR SALE: Refrigerator, dorm size. Best offer. Call Tim at 341-3319.

FOR SALE: 10 gallon aquarium with everything. Make offer. 345-0016, ask for Bob.

FOR SALE: Used furniture, TV's, stereo's, SPARHAWK'S SALES AND SERVICE one block N of HWY "B", just E of business 51, in Plover. 344-3666...

SHARP

46 scientific functions at your fingertips

MODEL EL-506S
Extra Full-Featured Scientific Calculator with Built-In Statistics Functions

- Some of the 46 scientific functions performed at the touch of a key are: hyperbolic (sin, cos, tan), and their inverses, trigonometric (sin, cos, tan) and their inverses, rectangular/polar coordinate conversions, exponential (base 10 and base e) and their inverses (logarithms), power (y^x) and its inverse (x root y), factorial (!), mean, sum, and standard deviation.
- 3 levels of parentheses with up to 4 pending operations.
- Scientific notation (8-digit mantissa, 2-digit exponent).
- Comes in its own attractive wallet.

UNIVERSITY STORE
UNIVERSITY CENTER
346-3431

lost and found

WANTED: Girl or girls to share beautiful house. $85.00- mo. plus utilities. Call Nancy at 341-2729.

WANTED: Blender in working condition. Call 345-0016 ask for Bob.

WANTED: Room for working girl. Quiet lifestyle, willing to do house or yardwork in exchange for low rent. Call Jan after 5 p.m. at 344-8673.

WANTED: I dare you to sell me your old electric guitar or bass. Instant cash and a new forever. Call Vic at 344-3552.

WANTED: Garage to rent store car. Call Tom at 341-4998.

WANTED: Open Kadette for parts. Preferably drivable. 887-4391 evenings.

UNIVERSITY CENTER

employment

46 scientific functions at your fingertips

$27.95

MODEL EL-506S
Extra Full-Featured Scientific Calculator with Built-In Statistics Functions

- Some of the 46 scientific functions performed at the touch of a key are: hyperbolic (sin, cos, tan), and their inverses, trigonometric (sin, cos, tan) and their inverses, rectangular/polar coordinate conversions, exponential (base 10 and base e) and their inverses (logarithms), power (y^x) and its inverse (x root y), factorial (!), mean, sum, and standard deviation.
- 3 levels of parentheses with up to 4 pending operations.
- Scientific notation (8-digit mantissa, 2-digit exponent).
- Comes in its own attractive wallet.

UNIVERSITY STORE
UNIVERSITY CENTER
346-3431

lost and found

WANTED: Girl or girls to share beautiful house. $85.00- mo. plus utilities. Call Nancy at 341-2729.

WANTED: Blender in working condition. Call 345-0016 ask for Bob.

WANTED: Room for working girl. Quiet lifestyle, willing to do house or yardwork in exchange for low rent. Call Jan after 5 p.m. at 344-8673.

WANTED: I dare you to sell me your old electric guitar or bass. Instant cash and a new forever. Call Vic at 344-3552.

WANTED: Garage to rent store car. Call Tom at 341-4998.

WANTED: Open Kadette for parts. Preferably drivable. 887-4391 evenings.

UNIVERSITY CENTER

loss and found

WANTED: Girl or girls to share beautiful house. $85.00- mo. plus utilities. Call Nancy at 341-2729.

WANTED: Blender in working condition. Call 345-0016 ask for Bob.

WANTED: Room for working girl. Quiet lifestyle, willing to do house or yardwork in exchange for low rent. Call Jan after 5 p.m. at 344-8673.

WANTED: I dare you to sell me your old electric guitar or bass. Instant cash and a new forever. Call Vic at 344-3552.

WANTED: Garage to rent store car. Call Tom at 341-4998.

WANTED: Open Kadette for parts. Preferably drivable. 887-4391 evenings.

UNIVERSITY CENTER

employment

PIZZA AND MORE... RIGHT TO YOUR DOOR!

That's right. Now you can enjoy Pizza Hut®, Pizza, Pasta, and all our great food right in your dorm room. Because the Stevens Point PIZZA HUT RESTAURANT will DELIVER it right to your door. Just give us a call, order what you like, and we'll RUSH it right to you. Thanks to our new packages, your food will arrive oven-fresh and hot!

Delivery 7 days a week, 4:30-closing to university dorms only. (No delivery South & Nelson Halls.)

Delivery Special:
Clip this coupon and get $1.00 off any large or medium pizza.
(Slight delivery charge extra)
Coupon must be presented for discount.

Call: 341-2100

PIZZA Hut

Expires 10/31/81

LESIONS: Guitar lessons.
My name is Jim. I am a guitar major and have teaching experience. Group or private, call 345-0778.

SEX, DRUGS AND 'THEE OBSESSION'!
Make your next party come alive with real rock and roll music! 344-2105 Call now!
PRESENT THE 3RD ANNUAL TALENT
SEARCH
SUNDAY, SEPT. 20TH THRU WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 23
FINALS: SUNDAY, SEPT. 27TH

ROCK—COUNTRY—JAZZ—FOLK

6 BANDS / NIGHT

THE ALIBI: YOUR ENTERTAINMENT CENTER 7 NIGHTS A WEEK

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUNDAY</th>
<th>MONDAY</th>
<th>TUESDAY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>DOWNSTAIRS (LOCKER ROOM)</td>
<td>DYNAMITE</td>
<td>UPSTAIRS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NFL HAPPY HOUR</td>
<td>DOLLAR NIGHT</td>
<td>LADIES NIGHT</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12:00 Noon-6:00 P.M.</td>
<td>$1.00 Pitchers</td>
<td>7-10 (NO MEN)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50¢ Supa-Beers</td>
<td>7-10</td>
<td>35¢ B-Brand, 35¢ Taps</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50¢ Shots After</td>
<td></td>
<td>45¢ Cordials</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Every Packer Touchdown</td>
<td></td>
<td>DOWNTASTAIRS:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>8-10 Little Sisters</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UPSTAIRS</td>
<td></td>
<td>Happy Hour</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LIVE ENTERTAINMENT</td>
<td></td>
<td>$2.00 All The Beer You Can Drink</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Doors Open At 7:00 P.M.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THURSDAY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOP BOTTLE NIGHT (LOCKER ROOM)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heineken-Moosehead-2 Lowenbraus</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$1.00</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DOWNSTAIRS</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(LOCKER ROOM)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUGBY HAPPY HOUR</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$2.00</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All The Beer You Can Drink</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WEDNESDAY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OLDIES NIGHT</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>65¢ BLATZ</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 oz. Bottle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Win A Bar Light</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRIDAY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HAPPY HOUR</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4-8</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beat The Clock</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SATURDAY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROCK ’N ROLL</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>