OUR TOWN

Inside...
spud pollution

FOCUS ON POINT

GRIDDER'S O.T. SHOCKER
A substantive election

By Todd Hotchkiss

Editor "It was just the Freeze." That's how the higher-than-expected voter turnout at the polls on September 14 has frequently been characterized by politicians and journalists. These people, probably the same folks who predicted a very low voter turnout and now have to face the embarrassing reality, tried to minimize the election and, therefore, the freeze referendum. They make it an electoral one-night stand with the voters going shopping after without reason. Voters should take offense at this shortsighted misrepresentation.

More people turned out to vote than analysts predicted because people perceived that what they were doing was important, that their votes counted. Tight local races and the freeze referendum are the common reasons analysts have given for the turnout. The similarity in these two reasons is this: these electoral choices stimulated people because people feel directly affected by them. The ballot was close to people's lives and the people responded.

This election is particularly noteworthy, comparatively speaking, regarding apathy in our society. The common belief put forth by analysts of apathy is that apathy is in people, natural to our being, and isolated from all else that exists. This election tends to illuminate apathy residing in a series of relations rather than in isolation.

Apathy is bred in people by hands of a few decision makers—be they politicians making voter predictions or governmental representatives prolifering nuclear weapons—the people can respond with common sense.

"You shall not kill.”

"I am just the Freeze."
Week in Review

Atrocities committed against Native Americans in the past 1,000 years has been published by two historians at UWSP.

"Who's the Savage?" first appeared in paperback in 1975, the work of Professors Russell Nelson and David Wrone. But because it has undergone a major revision, the new publication with the same title is being billed as an original edition.

The hardcover book contains 185 pages in an eight and one-half by eleven inch format and graphs taken from the mid-1800s to the early 1900s are included with many maps, portraits and line drawings, some of which have created for publications during the past three centuries.

The professors include more than 100 documents, few that would help to avoid repetitious points and to free up space for illustrations and more of their own introductory commentary.

In the book's jacket cover, from the Robert E. Krieger Publishing Company, Inc. of Malabar, Fla., it was noted that "misinterpretation the Native American is an indefensible stain on America's honor."

"The federal government long sponsored the use of military force against the Native American; a policy of removal from the ancestral lands was instituted along with the internment of recalcitrant Indians in concentration camps. Political assassination and imprisonment of Indian chiefs from Tecumseh to Crazy Horse deprived the Native American of strong leadership. After the dissolution of the Indian nations, what little was left to the Native American was placed in jeopardy through the complicity of corrupt government officials and avuncious land speculators," the jacket coverstated.

A bibliography has been added which the professors believe represent some of the finest materials for people to use in introducing themselves to Native American history.

The melancholy tone of the book does emphasize "crude and brutal treatment from the age of white exploration of the Indian homeland to the nuclear era."

However, Nelson and Wrone stated in their introduction that, "the indigenous citizen has no devil to pummel. All segments of the population participated in the mistreatment. The documents reveal men of diverse cultures brought frontiermen, Presidents, city dwellers, millitiamen, regular army, immigrants, illiterates and educated men. The color of skin also varies: whites predominated but blacks as well as Mexican-Americans and Indians joined in the tragedy."

One of the more brutal incidents reported is linked to the Black Hawk War in southern Wisconsin in the early 1830s. The information quoted an early state resident and millitiaman's recollection of an Indian brave and his five sons who became overrun by white soldiers. In the process were shot, scalped and were further mutilated by having parallel gashes cut down their backs so razor straps could be made of their skin.

Nelson and Wrone said their first book (the title of which was penned by Nelson) was out of print several years after it was published, and inquiries from Native Americans, teachers and the general public "indicated a continuing interest." There has been growing interest in the subject in schools in foreign countries, particularly in Europe and South America, the experts explained.

In this part of the country, both professors were among the academic pioneers in developing specific courses on Native American history. That was in the late 1960s, and coincided with their work in developing the manuscript for their book "Who's the Savage?" Their interest in the subject comes naturally, perhaps, in view of their special interests. Nelson is an expert in 18th century frontier and Wrone in 19th and 20th century reform movements.

Nowadays, Nelson also is actively involved in museums and writing about environmental history. He is a native of Admatonaw, Pa., and holds a B.A. from Franklin and Marshall College, and an M.A. and Ph.D. from UW-Madison. He taught for the UW Extension in Milwaukee and Fox River valley campuses before joining the UWSP faculty in 1963.

Wrone, who is widely known for his research and writing on political assassinations, is a native of Clinton, Ill., and has three degrees from the University of Illinois and from Portage, Wis., since 1964. His most recent book is a co-edited commentary on the Kennedy assassination.

Formula for success

UWSP's chapter of the Society of Physics Students (SPS) has been designated as an outstanding chapter for 1981-82 by the society's national office.

Only 35 of the more than 500 student organizations throughout the U.S. received this award, which is given to recognize the highest quality of the chapter's activities during the past school year.

The SPS group was led by Kevin Aylesworth, 2701 Ellis St., Stevens Point, president; Mike Wallner, 124 Locust St., Stevens Point, treasurer; and Carol Hansen, 1520 Careful Dr., Champain Bay, vice-president-secretary.

The SPS award was originated in 1978 to give recognition for efforts in their work in the promotion of physics through their chapter. Part of their submission to honor an organization is based on Bendix Award proposals submitted and awards granted.

Aylesworth, Wallner and Diane Miehleauer, 8157 Woodland Ave., Watertown, are involved in research of the effect of temperature variance on atoms of a samarium alloy, which earned a $5,000 grant from the Bendix Corporation. Six colleges and universities were chosen for student research from the corporation, which has set aside $100,000 to support projects by members of the Society of Physics Students.
Revise early elections

To the Pointer:
The Student Government Association has just completed its second Student Senate election under the present SGA Constitution and for the second year in a row, we have experienced low student voter turnout. Last week’s Student Senate elections had a student voter turnout of 6.9 percent (national average is 6 percent). I feel the current election process is unfair to the UWSP student body because it doesn’t allow enough time to get to know the candidates and the views they support. I don’t blame students for not voting when they do not know the students they are supposed to be voting for.
The SGA Constitution, approved in 1980, requires Student Senate elections to be held the week of the second Monday after the first day of classes. SGA Policy also requires applications for the Student Senate to be open for two weeks, which would make them due the week of the second Monday. This allows for one to two days for campaigning — hardly enough time to run an effective campaign.

We felt very frustrated knowing we could not correct the constitutional problem without a Senate in session. As one can see, the election process, like almost every experiment, needs revising — and we intend to do that revising. Our apologies to the student body for the constitutional mistakes.

Sincerely,
Scott A. West
President
Student Government Association

Make energy efficiency the law

The Tenants Association supports S.P.A.R.E.’s guidelines for a strong rental efficiency code in Stevens Point.

The proposed code would require landlords to provide adequate insulation, weatherstripping-storm windows, and a furnace of appropriate size. Since nearly half of our dwellings are rented, Stevens Point would become almost twice as energy efficient. The crunch is, “Who pays?”

Landlords now have almost no incentive to make rental property efficient, since most tenants pay utility bills directly to the utility company. Tenants have even less incentive to make long-term improvements to property which they expect to occupy for shorter periods.

The city needs the new code to provide the incentives to achieve the efficiency ultimately in the best interests of everyone.

In the proposed code, although landlords will pay for the improvements, their property value will increase. Other towns who have adopted similar codes have found that landlords do not pass along huge shares of the costs to their renters: the rental market is just too competitive for that. Even when landlords share modest amounts of the costs, the tenants experience net savings, because otherwise their utility costs would escalate much faster.

Stevens Point needs to keep pace with the times. This reform is important.

Ernest Clay
Tenant Assn.

Mid-Wisconsin Motor Inn
Hwy. 51 & 54
Plover, WI 54467
FOR YOUR IMPORTANT VISITORS (especially parents)

- Take advantage of our visitors special for those important weekends.
- The Mid-Wisconsin Motor Inn offers visitors to the faculty or student body, a double room for two nights for $21.00 a night.
- 24 hour news, sports, movies and WGN from Chicago on our Satellite TV.
- Game room
- 24 hour desk for your convenience and security.
- Free continental breakfast from 7-9 a.m.
- Spotless rooms and pleasant desk clerks.
- Two restaurants adjoining the motel.
- Free local phone calls.

Call (715) 341-7300
for reservations
Reagan peace plan can work: Seelye

By Joe Stinson
Pointe News Writer

Amidst news of continuing turmoil in Lebanon, former Ambassador to Syria Robert W. Seelye, said that he hoped President Reagan's recent Middle East peace initiative would be looked on "as a point of departure for arriving at a peace in the Middle East."

Seelye addressed students and faculty last week at Convocation V in Quandt gymnasium. He said at the heart of the latest White House initiatives is a longstanding international framework that would require Israel to give back occupied lands in exchange for peace. In return, Arab nations must recognize the existence of Israel.

"If the recognition," Seelye explained, "is developing among Arab Nations."

The recent Arab summit conference in Morocco has provided "implicit recognition of Israel by Arab nations," he said.

"For the first time since the creation of Israel 34 years ago, there is an Arab proposal that comes forward in favor of living in peace with Israel," he said.

"What a change these summit proposals represent from the original mainstream Arab position that Israel be dismantled and all Jews expelled after 1948 should be expelled."

He told the crowd that "there was of getting in his mind" that Reagan's nation-wide address Sept. 1 helped "is a relatively pragmatic and positive position."

Reagan's proposals, he said, "is developing among Arab Nations."

The University of Wisconsin's decision to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the tragedy that led to the admission of its first black student, James Meredith, drew sneers from Merideth.

"I am developing Israel."

"if they were..." Seelye explained, "is developing among Arab Nations."

"The President's proposals offer the Israelis the only practical road to peace. It also offers Israel the only way to preserve its democratic nature and Jewishness," he commented.

He argued that if Israel continues to occupy Arab territories—the West Bank being the fulcrum of the Israeli occupation—they will need to bolster their military force there, and the projected population growth of Arabs in these areas, expected to eclipse the number of Jews by the year 2000, would leave more Arabs than Jews under Israeli control.

"Hardly a prescription for a Jewish state," he commented.

"This is why enlightened Israelis, as represented by the country's Labor Party, as well as Jewish-American organizations like APAC and B'nai B'rith have come out in support of the President's proposals."

In Seelye's view, the Israeli Labor Party will have to gain power before any peace negotiations can get a firm footing. He pointed to Prime Minister Menachem Begin's uncompromising stand on preserving and settling the West Bank as a major stumbling block in the process.

"Much of the problem," he said, "is around softening Begin's adamant rejection of the most recent American proposal."

"The United States Senate, for example, will have to develop a resolution that would end the U.S. support of the Begin regime's policies. Beyond that, he added, the U.S. government has now promised to become more than a mediator in the Middle East peace negotiations."

"The President's proposals look at the latest White House plan in a positive light."

"The President's proposals offer the Israelis the only practical road to peace. It also offers Israel the only way to preserve its democratic nature and Jewishness," he commented.

He argued that if Israel continues to occupy Arab territories—the West Bank being the fulcrum of the Israeli occupation—they will need to bolster their military force there, and the projected population growth of Arabs in these areas, expected to eclipse the number of Jews by the year 2000, would leave more Arabs than Jews under Israeli control.

"Hardly a prescription for a Jewish state," he commented.

"This is why enlightened Israelis, as represented by the country's Labor Party, as well as Jewish-American organizations like APAC and B'nai B'rith have come out in support of the President's proposals."

"The President's plan will require Israel to give up..." Seelye concluded, "is developing among Arab Nations."

Athletics wants more say in game security matter

By Paula Smith
Pointe News Writer

Who has the right to decide how many security people should be assigned to Pointer football games? For the last two years, this issue has stirred controversy between the UWSP Athletic Department and the Stevens Point Police Department.

In the past, the university supplied approximately five campus security officers to each game. In addition, there were usually two city officers, depending on how many city police the university felt were needed at each game.

Seelye tempered his criticism by stating a gloomy outlook for Israel.

"I explained that if Israel could not win the war, then the world would take the course of "territorial expansionism and military confrontation," he said.

"If Israel wants to protect its interests, it must help radicalize Arab nations as a whole and put itself in a position to face a united Arab assault."

Athletics wants more say in game security matter

By Paula Smith
Pointe News Writer

Who has the right to decide how many security people should be assigned to Pointer football games? For the last two years, this issue has stirred controversy between the UWSP Athletic Department and the Stevens Point Police Department.

In the past, the university supplied approximately five campus security officers to each game. In addition, there were usually two city officers, depending on how many city police the university felt were needed at each game.

The current conflict arose because now the city wants the right to determine how many officers from the Police Department should be assigned to each game. The city has decided that UWSP should budget for four officers instead of two, as they have in the past.

In response, Athletic Director Paul Hartman claims the university has lost its right to self-determination. He also feels that the present security setup is already much greater than is found at most athletic events. According to Hartman, the proposed change would take more money out of the school's football budget and is unnecessary because there have been very few problems at Pointer games in the past.

The university has to pay as many city officers as are assigned to the game, and feels that if the city wants to put in more officers, this cost should be covered in the rental contract for Goerke Field, where the football games are played. Currently, the university has to hire these officers separately while the students of UWSP pay $30,000 annually for the upkeep of Goerke Field.

Hartman suggests the university should have a little more flexibility as to how many officers are assigned to games.
WELCOME TO NEWMAN UNIVERSITY PARISH

Newman University Parish is a Catholic community for students, faculty, staff and interested persons of UWSP.

Newman Parish has its source and center in being a worshipping community. — We offer opportunities for involvement in worship, learning, growth.

MASS SCHEDULE

Saturday 4:00 p.m. 5:30 p.m. The Newman Chapel Basement of St. Stan's Church 838 Fremont Street Sunday 10:00 a.m.

Sunday 6:00 p.m. The Cloister Chapel St. Joseph's Convent 1500 Mata Drive

NEWMAN PARISH also offers

—Instruction classes for Catholics and non-Catholics
—Pre-marriage inventory (P.M.I.)
—Retreats
—Rap sessions
—Music group opportunities
—Small growth groups

Individual counseling and spiritual direction available from the Newman Staff.

Newman Center (4th & Reserve) M-F 9:30-4:30 — Phone 346-4448

Cosmic Debris

By Chris Celichowski

Plaintiff gets batedered.

A Cambridge, Mass., baker and her landlord have reached an admittedly sweet out-of-court settlement in a hassle over delinquent rental payments.

According to landlord David Pill, Janice French, a local baker, has agreed to bake one cake a week for him over a period of four years in lieu of rental payments. The unusual settlement was reached because French had no tangible assets for her landlord to recover as payment for the rent.

The problems arose when French signed a five-year lease with Pill for property in which she planned to open a wholesale bakery. However, when a local restaurant offered to hire her, she abandoned the premises under the mistaken notion that the restaurant would take care of her remaining lease. When it failed to make the payments, landlord Pill sued French.

Recognizing that French had no assets, Pill told his lawyer, "Let's get something out of it." Consequently, the unusual agreement was reached.

For her part, Janice French will simply add one additional cake to the 100 she bakes every week, and claims "it's not such a big deal."

Kids save sister.

A Newport, R.I., nun, who was drugged forcibly from her convent and nearly forced into a stranger's car, was rescued by 11- and 12-year-old students who heard her cries for help.

Police were holding John J. Armstrong of nearby Middleton in connection with the incident. The suspect entered no plea to numerous charges, including kidnapping and intent to commit sexual assault.

As Armstrong and the unidentified nun grappled outside his car, schoolchildren in recess answered her pleas by swarming all over the accused. After punching Armstrong and freeing the nun, one of the students was stepped on by the alleged assailant.

Sour Godji.

Although he has not sported an "I hate New York" T-shirt yet, Sheikh Mohammed al Fassi was clearly displeased when New York Mayor Ed Koch failed to give him a proper reception last week. At Fassi, you may remember, has been giving away thousands of dollars to American cities for civic improvements. He flew to the Big Apple in hopes of giving $100,000 to the financially strapped metropolis. But when Koch failed to send a representative to meet the Sheikh at the airport and two members of the Arab's huge entourage were robbed, al Fassi was miffed.

"I will not return to New York until the proper arrangements are made in the future," the disgruntled Sheikh declared.

A spokesman from the Mayor's office downplayed the incident and added that "the Mayor...does not meet with people just because they're rich."

Hark, is that an Ark?

James Irwin, a former astronaut who walked on the moon during the Apollo 15 mission, has decided to re­ search for Noah's Ark in Turkey.

Irwin and his group covered the north face of the mountain in August but abandoned their search when the former astronaut injured himself in a fall.

The expedition will search for the fabled ark near the summit of Mount Ararat, and plan to cover the east face of the mountain before dangerous winter weather sets in.

Irwin believes the ark is buried beneath the tons of snow and ice that cover the summit of the 16,846-foot mountain. He received rare permission from the Turkish government to scale Ararat but they denied requests for military aircraft to be used for aerial surveillance.

Irwin will be accompanied by his wife, son, two archeologists and a member of the Campus Crusade for Christ from Dallas.

Ve haf ways to make you pay

Federal marshals in Philadelphia recently began seizing the cars of persons who failed to repay their federally-backed student loans, and found a few Cadillacs, a Lincoln Continental and a Porsche among the haul.

Noting that Uncle Sam's method of reclaiming government assets succeeded in getting a car owner's attention, a U.S. attorney acknowledged that cars were chosen because they can quickly be sold for cash.

Despite some very angry debtors, the marshals accelerated their efforts and confiscated 35 automobiles in addition to bank accounts, some wages and other personal property.

In commenting on the government's get tough attitude, Aast. U.S. Attorney Virginia Powel understated, "The government has become very serious about collecting these debts."

Fat 'n proud, say it loud

Rallying around the cry that "Fat isn't a four-letter word," portly people attended the West Coast's first convention for fat activists this summer. They gathered to battle discrimination and promote their self-esteem and sexuality.

Members of the gathering felt that discrimination was the most pervasive of the problems that fat people have to face daily. They cited epidemic remarks from thinner people, public accommodations geared for the lighthearted and a lack of fashions available in large sizes as examples of shabby treatment.

SPARE to hold workshops

Stevens Point Advocates for Rental Efficiency (SPARE) will hold workshops today and Thursday, Sept. 30, to inform homeowners and renters about weatherization techniques.

The workshops will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lincoln Center, 1519 Water Street in Stevens Point.

The workshops are sponsored by the Stevens Point Energy Resource Council in cooperation with Wisconsin Public Service Corporation, the UW Extension and CAP Services.

Free information packets or door prizes will be given away at each workshop. For more information, home owners and renters are urged to call the UW Extension at 346-1319.

Licenses sold

Stevens Point bicycle licenses are sold at the Stevens Point Police Department at City Hall, 1134 Strongs Avenue, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.

IT'S HOT! IT'S WILD! IT'S THE CAMPUS CALENDAR!

There's nothing academic about it! Be among the first in your school to order the 1981-82 Campus Calendar featuring 12 of the sexiest men you'll see on American campuses this year. These gorgeous guys will hang with you all year long. To receive your copy, just check or money order for $10 and send to: Campus Calendar, P.O. Box 182, Maywood, New Jersey 07607. In 6-8 weeks, and you'll have a hot calendar for the holidays. We'll also send you a copy of our 1981-82 planner/calendar.

The Campus Calendar Contest to win a $3,000 Spring Vacation is being held. For entry blanks, see the front page of this publication.

(Bookmark inquiries welcomed.)

Yes! Please send me Calendar(s) @ $10. each.

Enclosed is my Check or M.O. for $ .

Name

Address

City State Zip

College

(If applicable to this campus)
SGA announces election winners

By Marian Young
Pointer News Writer

Twenty-three students were elected as senators to the Student Government Association on September 15 and 16. The remaining seven seats will be filled by appointment, according to SGA president Scott West.

Open applications were held thru Wednesday, September 28, in CNR and COPS. If vacancies remained, students who did not receive the mandatory 30 votes in the election were interviewed and possibly placed in the CNR or COPS’ vacancies. The appointments will be made Thursday, September 30.

Voter turnout was average, said West, with 6.9 percent of the students voting. However, changes will be made in the SGA constitution, with the objective of increasing voter turnout, according to West. Currently, elections must be held the week of the second Monday, with applications due on that Monday. This leaves students one day to do campaigning.

West said the current policy will be reviewed and changed to allow more time to campaign, thus increasing voter turnout and decreasing the number of appointment made.

One option being considered is having senators serve a full calendar year (from September to September). This would not only give new Senatorial candidates more time to campaign but it would also help SGA keep pace with the work of faculty committees, which are organized much sooner than student committees in the Senate.

Another advantage to this would be having an experienced Senate to preside over budget revisions in the fall.

Twenty-three UWSP students were elected to Senate posts last week. Listed below are the new representatives and their majors. There are still seven Senate seats that must be filled by appointment.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

SENERATOR  MAJOR
Joseph Ajeneje  Forestry
Bev Baker  Home Economics
Education
Robert Boyer  Political Science
Tammy Chen  Spanish
John Dupies  Public
Administration
Gina Eiserman  Elementary
Education
Eric Erdmann  Public
Administration
Patricia Fricker  Political Science
Susan Higgins  Undeclared
Grant Huber  Public
Administration
Scott Hull  Political Science

SENERATOR  MAJOR
Todd Kruger  Music Theory-
Composition
Craig Morris  Chemical Engineering
Jamie Morstad  Political Science
Michael Osterdal  Forestry
Becky Otto  Fashion
Stephanie Rogers  Drama
Steve Senski  Vocal Music
Education
Robert Shannon  Political Science
Joan Spink  Anthropology
Brian Syyrud  Biology
Lim Chin Teik  Administration-
Biology
Mark Welch

Trivia

1. What was the name of Clint Eastwood’s orangutan in Every Which Way But Loose?
2. What are chunks of Superman’s home planet called?
3. What NBA team did Dikembe Mutombo once score 100 points against?
4. What octogenarian comic actor and entertainer recently recorded a hit album?
5. Who were the three chipmunks that headlined the David Seville Show (later to be named after the lead chipmunk)?
6. What is the largest chain of restaurants in the world?
7. What is Lieutenant Columbo’s first name?
8. Where is Disneyland?
9. Marion Morrison was better known as...?
10. Which two letters don’t appear on a telephone dial?

Answers on pg. 24
unemployment rate of 9.8 percent "is a necessary price that must be paid" if the economy is to improve.

Dreyfus, who accompanied GOP gubernatorial hopeful Terry Kohler at a meeting of governors and Republican gubernatorial candidates in Washington, D.C., also took time to blast Kohler's opponent, Democrat Anthony Earl. "He (Earl) wants to restore big government in Wisconsin," said Dreyfus. "I think he believes so strongly in government as necessary to control events in society that his programs would radically increase revenues and taxes."

Meanwhile, Earl and state Senator James Flynn, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, posed with Earl's two opponents in last week's primary, Martin Schruber and James Wood, in a display of party unity.

Earl and Kohler squared off Tuesday on the same platform at a luncheon meeting of the Milwaukee rotary club. Kohler, a successful businessman, said, "We are all in the same boat together. There can be no jobs without the expansion of business." Kohler later criticized Earl's stance on the creation of jobs. "As a businessman, I have news for you, Tony. Government does not create jobs. Government only consumes taxes."

Earl countered by claiming he was not a spendthrift, nor a rigid ideologue and not anti-business.

Earl said that as secretary of the State Department of Agriculture in 1975, he submitted a budget that increased spending in his department by 7 percent, not the 20 percent increase of Gov. Dreyfus' last budget.

Dreyfus, soon to become the President of Sentry Insurance, said former acting governor and Sentry Vice President Martin Schreiber, will have a job at the insurance company if he wants it.

Dreyfus, who defeated Schreiber for the governorship in 1978, said that politics "won't come into play," in his hiring decisions as Sentry's president.

Schreiber has refused to say whether he will return to the company.

---

Homecoming parade returns

By Paula Smith

Point news Writer

Homecoming '82 activities will begin this Monday, September 27, and continue through Saturday, October 2. The theme for this year is "Point the Way!"

In the spotlight this year is the parade, which is being organized and run by UAB. The UAB people in charge of the parade are Tracy Lee and Lori Scheipke.

Until 1980, the parade was always a part of the Stevens Point Homecoming activities. Lee explained that in 1980, a certain minority of people created disturbances from the sidelines which angered the visiting bands, putting the university in an embarrassing spot. It was then decided that in order to prevent such a situation from recurring, the parade would be discontinued.

This year, UWSF will have its parade back. "Last year, some students on campus expressed the want to see the parade return, so steps were taken to bring it back. And now, we're ready to go full-speed in less than two weeks," Lee explained.

Security measures have been given special attention this year. Along the parade route, there will be campus security, a few Stevens Point police and many students who have volunteered to help with security.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. on Saturday, October 2, and will follow a route through the campus area.

---

Homecoming Events

Monday, Sept. 27: Intramural "Decathlon" starts. Inner Tube Relay, 7 p.m., pool. Archery (Darts), 7:30 p.m., Phy. Ed. Bldg. UAB Film, "Knute Rockne," 6:30 p.m. & 9:15 p.m.

Tuesday, Sept. 28: Frisbee Toss, 3 p.m., west of Quandt. Obstacle Course, 3:30, Fitness Trail. UAB Special Programs presents: Paul Zimmermann, Comedian-Magician, 8 p.m., PBR, Free.

Wednesday, Sept. 29: Chariot Race, 3:30 p.m., west of Quandt. Pie Eating Contest, 6:30 p.m., UC Concourse. Center-Nite: Get acquainted with your campus, UC 6 to 9 p.m. UAB Dance with "Big Twist and The Mellow Fellows," 9 p.m., $1.00.

Thursday, Sept. 30: Tug-O-War, 4:15 p.m., east of Debut. Hot Shot Basketball, 6:30 p.m., Berg Gym. UAB Film, "Victor Victoria," 6:30 p.m. & 9:15 p.m.

Friday, Oct. 1: Water Balloon Toss, 4 p.m., west of Quandt. Ice. Center-Nite: "RHC Tri-Celebration Traveling party from Debut to UC to Allen.

Saturday, Oct. 2: Parade, 10 a.m., campus route. Homecoming game, 2 p.m. kick-off against La Crosse. Black Student Coalition cocktails, dinner & Billy Brooks, 5 p.m. Tickets $10.00 at Info. desk.

---

ACADEMIA

By Joseph Vandeu

Senior News Editor

Now hear this

In times of low federal assistance to higher education, college administrators would be well advised to pare school services and concentrate on assisting students, says Steven Muller, president of Johns Hopkins University.

Muller, who recently appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation" said, "Most of the institutions...are absolutely committed that we do not restrict our services to those who are affluent and can afford them."

---

Ties that bind

Strengthening ties between UWC's educational and high technology industry is the goal of a planned Center for Applied Microelectronics at Madison.

The Center's new Director, Henry Guckel, has three purposes for the center: to improve training of students, help companies develop high technology specialty items and provide custom-made integrated circuits with practical applications.

Guckel said the center is necessary to keep pace with high tech developments. "If we don't watch it, we're all going to be obsolete. It will be a very large laboratory physically rather than the isolated lab we have now. Our work in this area has grown up sufficiently that it can start to do useful things."

---

Hardee's

Now Open 24 Hours A Day

3 Hamburgers for $1.10

every Monday,

Tuesday, Wednesday

617 Division St.

Under New Ownership
By Michael Daehm
Pointer Directing Editor

Well, three whole weeks have passed and you're still hanging in there, one of those proffs sport Fangs or Talaro. All of your classes include members of the opposite sex you're dying to meet. Your roomie turned out better than you expected and there's not a single Moonie on the wing. So why are you becoming more and more bored with each passing day? It's hard to believe that personal inflection is one bred by ignorance or in other words, you just don't know what this book has to offer in the way of diversion.

We've decided to give you a hand. In a move designed to keep you from living through one more yawn-filled day, the Pointer presents in its Passing Time with Pastimes Primer.

A is for Athletics and All Sports throughout the area and the city take their sports teams very seriously. Winning isn't played up as regular 'the only thing,' but it sure coinage. Cable TV. Numerous to coach, watch or money.

Friday to find a good cause Wisconsin River. The Point area. By Dan Reitzel, secretary Jo Bis "Me Tasts,(A.C .T.).

Bis Park, local-regardless of the are plenty of fellow volunteers offer their time and efforts for little or no are nearby pizza specialists basketball, softball, baseball, etc., which is for Whatever it is that you are unfamiliar with your discipline. For more on the ' there are few pastimes more unbearable winters are the result of a sport-daily in front of your image a real hang-overitis .

C is for Camping, Coffeehouses, and Cable TV. Camping equipment can be rented from Rec Services at a moderate price. Coffeehouses feature top musical entertainment on a regular basis for little or no charge and an acquired off-campus pursuit which involves large monthly reentry transmitters. Keep Teltron TV, Inc. from pulling the plug on your 24 Free Sorority, Kappa Alpha. The most mentioned is for Frisbees and Football. Once you make the initial investment, buying a frisbee or football that is, there are plenty of fellow video addicts on campus and off. With the new USFL league coming on strong, you're kingpins craving for crushing tackles and downfield spirals should be satisfied.

D is for Date and Department Stores. Dates are great tedium breaking undertakings anytime, regardless of the result—which everybody already knows. Department stores (K-Mart, Shopko, Penney's, Woolworth's, etc.) are great places to browse but lucky places to take a date unless you own one.

E is for Excellent Restaurants and the Edna Carlsten Art Gallery. You can even make a night of it.

Joe's, & J's and Pizza Hut are nearby pizza specialists and new high quality sub shops open up regularly.

F is for Frisbees and Football. Once you make the initial investment, buying a frisbee or football that is, there are plenty of fellow video addicts on campus and off. With the new USFL league coming on strong, you're kingpins craving for crushing tackles and downfield spirals should be satisfied.

G is for Golf. Sentry's new course is right around the corner or better yet, patronize either of the two intramural sports (football, basketball, softball, volleyball, and that's just a few), cool off with a cone at the colorful Town Clown or nearby Happy Joe's. If you prefer frozen custard, try IQ or A and W.

H is for Hanging. Anyone out there willing to subject their bodies to this sort of exhausting activity must already know a lot more about it than I do.

I is for Kite Flying and Knowledge. Point autumns and springs are ideal for orbiting your kite. The unbearable winters are excellent for reading that long anticipated novel, or picking up a few facts of existence.

J is for the Laundromat. All Pointers should acquaint themselves with this place early in the semester and visit it on a regular basis also for the LRC which is a nice place to get lost with the greatest minds of our or any other time.

K is for Movies and Museums. For cinema lovers, there are two local movie houses. The LRC and the Campus Film sponsors. Check out the daily newspaper or listen to local boards to see what's playing and when. Both the LRC and the theater offer an array of spotlighting wildlife, life and stuffed.

L is for Nothing. Laying around doing this is just the thing for a speedy recovery from midterm post mortems or Square hang-overitis.

M is for Outdoor Activities like biking, hiking, taking to a hike, or doing the same thing in a park. REMOTE. Not there yet. Take a walk through the University. C Concentrate Monday through Friday to find a good cause Wisconsin River. The Point area. By Dan Reitzel, secretary Jo Bis "Me Tasts,(A.C .T.).

N is for rehearsals. The UWSP has some of the best rehearsal spaces in the country. For more information, check具体情况 or call the box office. The Point. A very large and open area which allow students to range around and find out how the other arts do their thing.

O is for Religion and Recycling. The community offers many kinds of denominational and non-denominational religious experiences. For your convenience, check the yellow pages, or stop in at Campus Ministries or Peace Lutheran Center, or meditate for divine instructions. If your image of God is a thirsty situation, you might want to contact the local recycling agency and find out more about how they do their thing.

P is for Schmeeke cont. on p.14
JOSTEN'S
GOLD RING
SALE
$15 off 10K Gold $30 off 14K Gold
SEE YOUR JOSTENS REPRESENTATIVE.
DATE October 7 & 8
TIME 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.
PLACE The University Center Concourse

HOMECOMING '82
SPECIAL PROGRAMS brings you this exciting line up of events to make HOMECOMING '82 THE BEST YET!

TUESDAY

WEDNESDAY

THURSDAY

SATURDAY

"POINT THE WAY"
A review of how to get around town

By Lora Holman

I have found the Point Transit Bus System to be generally reliable and hassle-free. And from what I've been told by their manager, it's going to get even better.

The major, self-admitted downfall of the present system is not the system itself. It's the printed information about Point Transit. There are no brochures or flyers and the map currently circulated, which was originally intended to help riders understand and use the bus line, is, well, less than helpful. I once spent an entire day trying to figure out what it could possibly mean.

I then went to the downtown depot on 1200 Union St. and asked the woman working the desk to help me out. I told her where I lived, she told me what time the bus came by my apartment. I left there out of the building wondering why I had found it all so difficult to understand.

I returned home to study my map. I walked up and down streets to plot exactly where the closest stop was from my apartment. I noted that the times pick-up were on the bus stop sign.

Well, I thought, unless I want to hide in the bushes and watch it go by for a few minutes. I never would have been able to get on with it. Tomorrow...

Point Transit Manager Van Chesnut says that there's a surprisingly low number of students who ride the bus. I wonder if others also felt the same sort of intimidation that I had felt before I became a Point Transit customer.

If so, let me tell you my story. The first day, I felt like a six-year-old again getting on my school bus. I was a nervous wreck worrying whether I would get to campus, as hoped, or end up at Piggly Wiggly on the eastside. Not trusting my own inept navigating skills, I asked the bus driver when I boarded.

He was polite and helpful. My questions flowed. He patiently answered each. I sat back and sighed. Five minutes later, I was on campus, safe and sane.

Last February, the Point Transit became the proud, new owner of a bus line from the Bluebird Company in Fort Valley, Georgia. These new buses are a pleasure to ride. They are the result of a grant applied for in 1978 and received in early 1982.

The Student Government Association was also supportive in bringing in this new route. SGA went even further by agreeing to foot 50 percent of students' cost. Thus, the regular 40 cents fare is reduced to 20 cents for students with I.D.s.

The Green Route, bus No. 114, runs Southeast-Northeast and East-West. This route will get you out towards Dixon and Minnesota, on campus, downtown, or towards the Greyhound bus depot.

The Red Route, No. 110, runs Northeast-Southwest and will take you to campus, The Village apartments, or Point Bowl. The Blue Route, No. 113, runs North-South and will get you out to Shopko, K-Mart on the northside, or downtown.

Check with the bus station for all the specific stopping points and the times of each stop.

Van Chesnut's high priority this coming year is a Transit Development Plan study of the present routes and services. We'll closely study the campus schedules, he said. If the study says that we need to, we'll change our routes," he added, emphasizing that they'll be paying close attention to the needs of students.

In the more immediate future are plans for new maps. They will be available in a few weeks. They are larger, more clear and professionally drawn, says Van Chesnut, adding that he hopes that these will also better serve the community.

Most interesting, perhaps, are the backgrounds of many Point Transit drivers. I talked to one man who had graduated from the history department at UWGS. Another, Rich Ekins, had served as SGA Executive Director at the time of the push for the Bluebird buses.

"At least half the drivers have college degrees," said Van Chesnut. "One in Soil Conservation from (UW) Madison, "happy in Art," he added. The hours of the drivers range from as little as 12 hours a week, to explained, to a 40 hour full-time schedule.

All drivers are carefully screened at preliminary interviews, Van Chesnut emphasized. "I like to find people that are naturally courteous and friendly," he continued. "Courteous but also can make it clear that they're in control of the situation," he quickly added.

New class, reduced student fares, available routes, courteous drivers and yes, kids, they're safe too! The last recorded accident was in 1974 with only minor injuries. And reassuringly, it wasn't the bus driver's fault.

The buses are one of the most luxurious that students can afford.

...And if the bus isn't your route

By Lora Holman

I thought about calling a friend but I just couldn't do it. I wanted to find my own way. At least I could pay for a cab as a legitimate business transaction.

I walked the mile and a half back to the dark.

The following day I called Checker Cab and talked to a man who said that he wasn't on duty that Tuesday night. He apologized and promised that he would find out what had happened. He said that he'd call me back. When I inquired as to the company name, he called the company back.

I'm honestly not sure that I was talking to the same man. He was terse and said that he didn't know what had happened. I asked why no one had answered the phone that night and he said that maybe the "man who ran the house." I asked him if that happened a lot and he said that sometimes they just forgot to go. I was leaving me with the impression that the man would be "up at the house." I asked if the cab would be there next Tuesday. "Well, yeah, probably," he said indifferently.

The bus had not failed me since I have been picked up and dropped off efficiently. It's too bad that my future experiences were so bad. As advice, I would have to caution against depending solely on this service.

If I have to be somewhere at 11 a.m., I take the cab at 10 a.m., just in case. This is unfortunate but I feel that I have good reason to be suspicious.

As I mentioned before, having feature of this company, however, is its drivers.

They're fun, easy-going and friendly. I've talked to Tuesday and I, and there's now another, Princess Grace, the new mail project, "Martha" who rides on Tuesday and the big divorce rate today. They give me a healthy taste of the townspeople.

Hopefully, we all will find this cab company a more reliable source in the future.
A step closer

By Barb Harwood
Pointe Features Writer

A new program involving UWSP students will begin in October at the Lincoln Center. Every Wednesday afternoon, members of the international, minority or student body will join Stevens Point senior citizens for lunch.

Judy Lokken, Program Coordinator at the Portage County Commission on Aging, the Lincoln Center, said that the idea for the lunch stemmed from a racial class taught at the Lincoln Center. In addition, a retired university professor contacted her after the incident with the Nigerian students at the Outer Limits. He felt that older people needed to learn more about racism and its effects today.

COMMUNITY

It was then decided that a lunch with UWSP students, including foreign students, would be held in connection with the class. "It's a step in the direction of getting more interaction between senior citizens and university students," Lokken said.

Each visiting student will have 15 minutes to entertain or speak to the senior pupils. Lokken suggested that students could use this time to "sing, dance, show displays, make audio-visual presentations or demonstrate any type of unique talent." 80 to 125 senior citizens will attend the lunch and in November, the seniors may become the mentors and also give presentations.

While Lokken is in charge of the program at Lincoln Center, Tracey Mosely and Deb McDonald are handling matters at UWSP. They are co-chairmen for Minority Affairs.

Independently, Judy Lokken, said that the idea for the Downtown development plans

are gathering steam

By Wong Park Food
Pointe News Writer

There is a good possibility that a major department store will take up the third store space still available in the downtown mall project. Disclosing this in an interview, Mr. George Seyfarth, coordinator of Wisconsin Small Business Development Center, said he is currently corresponding with six major department stores about taking up the third store space.

The six department stores are: Boston Store, which is based in Milwaukee; Gimbel's, based in Milwaukee; Dayton's, based in Minneapolis; Donaldson's, based in Minneapolis; Kohl's, based in Milwaukee; and Herbergers, based in Minneapolis. One of them is now conducting a market study in the Central Wisconsin area. If the study turns out well, the department store will take up the store space in the mall.

Mr. Seyfarth said there are a number of advantages to locating a store in the mall. One of them is that Stevens Point is centrally located in this region. There are highways serving Stevens Point which lead to many other communities. The mall will not only serve the Stevens Point population but also the total population of the communities close to Stevens Point which amounts to 257,000.

An issue which is of great interest to the people of Stevens Point is the preservation of the historic character of Main Street and the Public Square areas. These areas are important to the social, cultural and commercial history of the city.

Mr. Seyfarth also said there are a few further changes in the drawings of the proposed site plan of the mall project. The latest plan drawing, which is the 53rd so far, outlines some changes in the siting of a number of major stores. These changes will involve rearrangement of parts of the Shopko, J.C. Penney and Woolworth stores.

Mrs. Seyfarth said the changes will make the entire mall look more refined. He said he expects there will be more drawings coming up, possibly raising the total number of plans drawn to 75.

Come See Our
NEW
Fashion Wear For Women
uwsp center
university store
346-3431

Kids Korner Pizza
We make 'em--You bake 'em
Now featuring subs & salads!

Open for lunch
2 locations
Stevens Point
2772 Church
341-4350

Plover
1788 Fowler
341-2188

Make This Campus Safe!
Join The Escort Service
Contact Lisa
At
346-4851

Women's Resource Center
Community survey

Loves us...loves us not

By Lauren Cauer
Pointers Features Writer

Stevens Point, a small community in Central Wisconsin of 23 thousand, is composed of two major groups. One is the general, year-round population of people found in any city. The other, located just north of the business district, are the employees and students of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. Some people believe to both of these groups. Established in 1894, UWSP has been both a friend of the community as well as an adversary, but always a part of Stevens Point.

In May of 1982, a group of students in Myrvin Christopherson's interviewing course (sociology 336-338) conducted a survey to receive feedback on community attitudes and feelings toward the University and its presence in Stevens Point.

Dave Marie, Jessie Griffin, Tish Zimmer, Bob Maier, Jeff Gavlin, Janelle Zeman, Paul Rosenow and Robert Welhoefer designed a three-page questionnaire consisting of 19 questions designed to cover "the perceived social, financial and educational aspects of Stevens Point. . .as a group and students of the University." 49 percent of the people had been to the university for one reason or another.

The survey ended by asking the question, "If given the choice, would you attend Stevens Point?" Students suggested the University community In more positive ways than others.

The survey group then interpreted and published the information and indicated that there are mixed feelings about the popularity of the university in the community. Over 90 percent of the people surveyed in the 20-29 age group held a favorable view of UWSP. A majority of them, however, were former students or had been closely associated with the university.

An interesting correlation was discovered principally in the 40-49 age group. The closer the subject lived to the campus, the more often they mentioned vandalism. Also, the further away the subject lived, the more they perceived the university as a source of disturbance that offered many benefits.

8 percent of the entire group surveyed felt that UWSP was an asset to the social life of the community and that the programs offered were of great value. The one constant negative point associated with the university was "The Square." Residents of ages 40 and above felt that watching students more carefully as well as limiting alcohol consumption would help ease the tension between the residents and the students.

Overall, the majority of the residents believed that good relations between the university and Stevens Point were necessary for the university, not the community. The students then concluded that since close to half the respondents didn't know what the university did as a cultural event, that public relations could have an impact on the way in which Stevens Point residents accept, appreciate, and perceive UWSP.
Sentry scores a hole-in-one

By Mike Robillard
Polster Features Writer

If Stevens Point is graced by the Sentry Insurance building, then the Sentry Insurance building is surely graced by its new golf course.

Open to the public since August 19, a fee of $25.00 entitles the golfer to 18 holes on a course which resists description in words. It must be played to be appreciated.

I did this on Sunday morning with two friends, one the pro shop attendant, and both much better golfers than myself. Our threesome played 18 holes (par 72), with the final scores being: an 83, a 95, and a 110. Mine was not the best since golf is essentially a game of numbers, there are a few worth mentioning here that reveal what makes this course so special. Designed by golf course designer Robert Trent Jones Jr. and Sentry Insurance board chairman John Joanis, the course complies with US tournament standards.

Boasting a 200 acre layout that reveals what makes this potential, the course is actually four courses in one. Each hole sports four tee areas designated as: Championship, Intermediate, Club, and Forward, with Championship being the most difficult and Forward the easiest.

Regardless of which tee the golfer chooses, there are 33 acres of sprangfed lakes and streams, and 83 white silica sand traps, all of which come into play at the least opportune times. One bunker alone spans a full half acre and comes into play on both holes No. 2 and No. 5. This mammoth bunker, however, is not the most hazardous on the course. This hole: goes to "The Thing" - a cavernous, sheer-faced trap with an appetite for 180 yard sliced drive. Once inside this bunker, the golfer must rely on either expertise or a prayer to deliver the ball from its entrapment.

My prayer must have been heard.

What will surely be the most talked about hole on this course, however, is No. 7, the "Flower Hole." With over 80,000 individual flowers covering the 4 1/2 acres surrounding the green, this par 3 is both spectacular to see and challenging to play.

its beauty can prove sinister though, for if the drive does not reach the green with precision, this massive beauty devours the ball. Incidentally, the ball cannot be retrieved, which makes the flowers the equivalent of the water hazards in penalty potential. The flowers must be replanted each year, and each year will bring a different design to this picturesque and frustrating hole.

Scattered bogs remind the players of the land from which the course was sculpted. Dense woods and swampy lowlands were selectively thinned and filled to form a golf course rich with natural beauty. 3,200 sprinkler heads help keep the grounds a lush green, while the two $40,000 lawn mowers keep the fairways and tee areas in putting surface condition.

The "Flower Hole" has already developed a reputation as the most talked about hole on the course.

The entire Sentry World sports complex, which cost approximately 10 million dollars, hosts six indoor and outdoor tennis courts, five racquetball courts, and a sodded softball diamond soon to be lighted. But the golf course, the magnum opus of the complex, will soon be drawing national attention. This it truly deserves, for few golf courses need not be played to be enjoyed. The Sentry World Golf Course is one of this elite few.

University Film Society presents
George Cukor's
ADAM'S RIB

Starring Spencer Tracy
Katharine Hepburn

"Comically nourishing...one couldn't ask for more." - New York Times
Tuesday and Wednesday
Sept. 28 & 29, UC-Wisconsin Room
7 & 9:15 p.m.

A, B, C's cont.

Continued from page 9
Reserve located just north of dormland, east of K-Mart. If you're a nature lover or simply looking for peaceful repose, this vast expanse of woods and water is for you.

T is for Trinity '83. The top notch campus radio station (WWSP) spares nothing or no-one when it comes to putting together this annual weekend extravaganza. If you know Catherine the Great's favorite kind of animal or the size of Wimp'hy's waffle then this contest's for you.

U is for UAB, those wonderful folks who bring you concerts, trips, flicks and the most fun you can have with your clothes on.

V is for Various Pasttimes that we would never recommend but know you're probably going to do anyway. Some examples are repelling from high places, getting stoned and playing doctor with a willing patient.

W is for World-wide Trips. The campus International Programs include semesters in Britain, Malaysia, Spain, and in the near future, Australia. If crowned princes or kangaroos are your cup of tea, don't miss this opportunity.

X is for Extras Effort which accurately describes the volunteer work done by the UWSP's A.C.T. group. Students with big hearts are encouraged to lend a helping hand to the community by working for this organization.

Y is for YMCA. The Y in Point has everything you ever wanted to use when exercising but were afraid was sweat provoking. Membership fees are a bit stiff but at least for preppies, this is an essential.

Z is for Za Rest of Da Stuff that I'm sure I left out. Being the resourceful optimist that most of you are, you'll find them on your own. Enjoy.
From me to us in one simple fest

By Michael Robillard

Remember those turbulent 60's, when America's youth joined forces to combat social ills and to protest the Vietnam War? What about the 70's, the "Me" decade? Don't you remember the decade of decadence? Calley? Probably Cap'n Crunch's cousin.

But you do remember the 70's. It was the "Me" decade when the streets were filled with joggers instead of demonstrators, and sitcoms replaced sit-downs. What some say was revolutionary about the 70's was the degree to which a population could become self-centered.

The Validine serves several purposes, the most important being food service. Regardless of which meal plan you have, your student I.D. allows you to eat your meals. Your Validine will be a variety of musical styles with performances by Woodstock veterans Santana and The Grateful Dead. Jerry Jeff Walker kept things down to earth, and the always popular Fleetwood Mac closed the festival Sunday night.

The price of $37.50 entitled the visitor to all three days of music; roughly $2.00 per band, which in Bruce's opinion, was a good deal. Plentiful open shawls offered the crowd relief from the California sun, a sharp contrast from the scattered water hoes available to the rain-soaked Woodstock crowd 13 years earlier.

Similarities do exist, however, between the US Festival and the legendary Woodstock. According to Buschman, large quantities of illicit drugs were available at both the massive gatherings, and neither was marred by violence or other disturbances.

The relatively few disturbances at the US Festival may perhaps be attributed to the fact that alcohol consumption was restricted to "beer gardens," located a considerable distance from the stage area. These areas were complimented by concession stands which, according to Bruce, drew the largest crowd, offering a variety of munchies ranging from Mexican to Oriental.

Relay towers carried the music to the farthest reaches of the crowd, and upon each of these were video screens presenting close-ups of the performers on stage.

Keeping in line with the unity theme, Saturday night featured a live hook-up to Moscow where a concert was also taking place. The crowds could view each other simultaneously, and this "simul-cast" was opened with the fitting line, "Live from Moscow-it's Saturday Night!"

Don't feel alone if you're envious of Bruce's attendance at this remarkable festival. And don't let your disconsolation overwhelm you, for there is always the US Festival for next year. Bruce feels certain it would be worth attending again, providing he can "scrape up the funds".

From what I've heard of this festival, I'm tempted to save my milk money and perhaps to forego a few happy hours in an attempt to collect the pennies needed to attend next year's gathering. It is gatherings such as these that may lead to the 80's being remembered as the "Us" decade.

Vali-dine: your visa to UWSP

By Bonnie Miller

Your Validine card is your ticket to life on campus. Your Validine card includes not only your picture, but also your social security number, birth date and signature. It is a very important form of identification and should be treated as such.

The Validine serves several purposes, the most important being food service. Regardless of which meal plan you have, your student I.D. allows you to enjoy your veggies. It is also necessary for many other activities, such as checking out materials from the library, buying activity tickets, cashing checks and using the Health Center facility.

Your student I.D. must be validated each semester to be renewed, and this is accomplished by inserting the card into the computer which ascertains the validity of your card. The machine indicates this with a light and a beep. This entire process takes only a matter of seconds.

Should you lose your student I.D., you should immediately let the office at 346-34025. Your I.D. will then be invalidated and a temporary card will be issued to you for one week. You will be charged $2.50 for this service.

The validity of your student I.D. will be revalidated at no extra charge. However, if your permanent card isn't recovered, you must have your picture taken again and a new card will be issued at the additional cost of $2.50.

Although you may want to let someone use your Validine card, this is not allowed. If the picture on the Validine is not that of the person presenting the card, the checker will confiscate it. The owner must then go to the Valldine office, located in the basement of Debot, to claim it.

Cards must be taken to keep your Validine card in good condition. If the card is bent or scuffed, it will not work in the checking machine. If this happens, you must buy a new Validine at the price of $5.00. Also, the card must be kept away from magnetic fields, such as clocks and stereos, or else the magnetic strip on the back of the card, which contains your social security number and school code, may be decoded. If this happens, it will have to be given a new code at the Valldine office.

Food service points are available to all students, staff and faculty members. If additional points are needed, they can be purchased by going to the Debot Validine office and paying the person and you will be billed through the university.

Any originally purchased points that you may have left over at the end of the semester will not be refunded. However, if you have extra additional points after first semester, these will transfer to second semester. Any additional points that you may have left at the end of second semester, however, will not carry over to next year, nor will they be refunded.

A dream unfilled

By Chris Cieblewski

As the result of a violent attack on four Nigerian students this summer, the rural Stevens Point community and minority students have come under increased scrutiny.

While discussing the issue with a counselor, they were struck by the diverse opinions expressed. Some are for change, others are against change. However, they all reach consensus on one point: the problem has become serious enough that we can no longer ignore it.

Jim Vance, a professor at Stevens Point since 1963, now serves as the Associate Director for Programs and Policies at the Office of Minority Affairs. He believes that, although there is a good deal of support for minority students, there is a negative attitude that exists to continue and are manifest in subtle and overt ways. "This environment condones racial aggression, but not just racial aggression. There is no real penalty to punish people who perform violent acts on all levels," Vance said in a telephone interview.

Social scientists have noted that poor economic conditions in this nation have caused many persons to seek scapegoats as a way to explain their economic problems. Unfortunately, minority groups have received much of the blame.

The Office of Minority Affairs reports that the problem extends to the USP. 24
BOWL
University Students, Faculty & Area Residents
JOIN A CAMPUS BOWLING LEAGUE

• 6 convenient times—
  Mondays at 4:30 and 9:00
  Tuesdays at 9:00
  Wednesdays at 4:30 and 9:00
  Thursdays at 4:30
• 3 to a team—guys or gals
• Trophies will be awarded and there will be an awards banquet.
• Bowling starts on Monday, September 27.
• Sign up at Rec Services in the U.C., or at Point Bowl
  If you can't get a team together, sign up anyway. We'll make every effort to get you on a team. Sign up by Sept. 29!
• For more info, call Point Bowl or Scott Prokash at 346-4917 Rm 233

POINT BOWL
DIXON & WELSBY
SPONSORED BY CAMPUS BOWLERS

sigma tau gamma fraternity invites YOU

LEADERSHIP TRAINING
MANAGEMENT EXPERIENCE
SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT
CAMPUS IDENTIFICATION
WIDE CIRCLE OF FRIENDS
INDIVIDUAL IDENTITY
ALUMNI CONTACTS
JOB REFERENCES
RESPONSIBILITY
COMMUNITY SERVICE
TRAVEL
NATIONAL AWARDS
CHARITABLE PROJECTS
ATHLETICS
FUN

MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION MEETING
nicolet room upper level univ. ctr.
thurs. Sept.30 7:00p.m.

REFRESHMENTS AVAILABLE
DRESS: Casual (no. T-shirts or jeans)

WATCH THE POINTER DAILY FOR DETAILS
Citizen's action planned on the Great Lakes

By Todd Hothckiss
Pointe Environment Editor

An international citizens' organization which formed in May to "establish a Great Lakes organization to provide an information exchange and a forum for working together on issues in the Great Lakes Ecosystem" will be meeting in Windsor, Ontario, on November 20-21 to finalize and ratify by-laws for the organization.

Fifteen citizens from eight states and two provinces bordering the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River met this past summer, coordinated by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCU) and financed by the Joyce Foundation. A Citizens' By-Laws Committee elected to draft the by-laws has finished its work, and these by-laws are now available for public review.

The proposed amendments to the draft by-laws may be submitted in writing by November 5 to MUCU.

Amendments should be in at this time so proposals can be organized for consideration before the Ratification Meeting. MUCU encourages anyone submitting amendments to attend the meeting because "it is unlikely such amendments would be adopted if you are not there to explain and defend them.

The Ratification Meeting belongs "to all those who wish to contribute to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River," according to MUCU. Issues which this organization will face are the presence of PCBs in some of the lakes, the effect of acid rain on the lakes and the possibility of shipping some of the water from the lakes to the western United States. This meeting has a dual purpose: to gain final consensus for the by-laws, and elect a Steering Committee. This committee would nominate candidates for leadership positions, plan the first Annual Meeting in 1983 and propose a budget and source of funding. Memberships in the organization will be $75 to $200 per sample to be tested. Fortage County handles the sampling of samples, while the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources pays for transportation of the samples to the laboratories of Union Carbide where the samples are handled to see if they contain aldicarb. Wisconsin Legislative Committee approved funding for a state facility. The type attitude of the Ban changes that is due to Morris. Local Assemblypeerson Dave Lodenberg is a member of that committee. Aldicarb hearings in Stevens Point.

On November 1 and 2, state hearings will be held in Stevens Point regarding the temporary ban. Some people would like to see the temporary ban become a permanent rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of.

Professor Shaw was extremely critical of the temporary ban and would like it to be strengthened. The ban, said Shaw, "isn't following sound scientific logic," especially when areas with aldicarb use banned are only those near drinking water supplies. Aldicarb in ground water is dangerous. It is used in any food or drink we consume.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture is currently testing a few acres of farm fields to determine whether aldicarb is present. To date, aldicarb has not been found in any food in Wisconsin. Professor Shaw indicated that foods are "very difficult to analyze. We can't even monitor groundwater contamination.

Doug Mormon said one of the chief prohibitors to testing groundwater is the expense. He said he's been offered $70 to $200 to see if the ban is working. He would like to see the Wisconsin Legislative Committee adopt a temporary rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of. Aldicarb hearings in Stevens Point.

On November 1 and 2, state hearings will be held in Stevens Point regarding the temporary ban. Some people would like to see the temporary ban become a permanent rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of.

Professor Shaw was extremely critical of the temporary ban and would like it to be strengthened. The ban, said Shaw, "isn't following sound scientific logic," especially when areas with aldicarb use banned are only those near drinking water supplies. Aldicarb in ground water is dangerous. It is used in any food or drink we consume.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture is currently testing a few acres of farm fields to determine whether aldicarb is present. To date, aldicarb has not been found in any food in Wisconsin. Professor Shaw indicated that foods are "very difficult to analyze. We can't even monitor groundwater contamination.

Doug Mormon said one of the chief prohibitors to testing groundwater is the expense. He said he's been offered $70 to $200 to see if the ban is working. He would like to see the Wisconsin Legislative Committee adopt a temporary rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of. Aldicarb hearings in Stevens Point.

On November 1 and 2, state hearings will be held in Stevens Point regarding the temporary ban. Some people would like to see the temporary ban become a permanent rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of.

Professor Shaw was extremely critical of the temporary ban and would like it to be strengthened. The ban, said Shaw, "isn't following sound scientific logic," especially when areas with aldicarb use banned are only those near drinking water supplies. Aldicarb in ground water is dangerous. It is used in any food or drink we consume.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture is currently testing a few acres of farm fields to determine whether aldicarb is present. To date, aldicarb has not been found in any food in Wisconsin. Professor Shaw indicated that foods are "very difficult to analyze. We can't even monitor groundwater contamination.

Doug Mormon said one of the chief prohibitors to testing groundwater is the expense. He said he's been offered $70 to $200 to see if the ban is working. He would like to see the Wisconsin Legislative Committee adopt a temporary rule while others feel the ban should be disposed of. Aldicarb hearings in Stevens Point.
The need for what about the need, alluded they see fit. The emotion with dependent on the economic livelihood is yields. To balance the need to preserve some wetland areas with the need to provide assistance to the agricultural community, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) worked together to create AB839, a statewide wetlands protective bill which was debated in Wisconsin legislature in the Fall of 1981. AB839 called for protection of wetlands in both incorporated and unincorporated areas and the proposed law would have been administered by county and municipal agencies, with DNR oversight.

Despite the unique cooperative effort between the DNR and the DATCP, AB839 encountered fatal opposition. The Muck Farmers Association took a hardline stance...agriculture should be "totally exempt from any regulations", Wisconsin Conservation Decade took an equally unyielding stand...AB839 was "not sufficiently protective and complete."

Although statewide protective bill AB839 could not withstand the barrage of opposition amendments leveled at it, a Substitute Amendment AB889, which requires protective zoning of shoreland wetlands in cities and villages, is on its way to successful passage. Both the State Assembly and Senate voted in favor of this substitute bill, which is now awaiting the signature of Governor Dreyfus. Dreyfus has until May 5th, 1982 to sign or veto Substitute AB889. If he does neither, the bill will automatically become law on that date. The passage of this substitute bill would indeed be a positive step toward greater protection of Wisconsin's wetlands.

Do you know the animals?

Most Americans don't know very much about animals or wildlife conservation issues and are more likely to see wild animals on television or in zoos than in the wild, according to a study conducted for the Interior Department by the American Museum of Natural History. The study, which has been published in the summer 1978 and Involved states to protect livestock, 75 percent of those surveyed did not know that the public is not prepared to make informed decisions about wildlife problems and controversies that we will undoubtedly face in the remainder of this century.

Among Kellert's findings were the following:

Most Americans know relatively little about animals. Although coyotes are often killed in western states to protect livestock, 75 percent of those surveyed did not know that the coyote is not an endangered species. Half of the public did not know that the scientific name of the "rattlesnake" is misleading. Only slightly more than half knew that insects do not have backbones and real venom does not come from lambs. Seventy-five percent said they knew about ecosystems or population dynamics of wild animals.

Fifty-eight percent of the public said they cared more about the welfare of individual animals than about species population levels. This is an important finding for wildlife managers, whose work is generally more concerned with conserving populations of animals than with the welfare of any individual member of a species.

Watching animal television shows, owning pets, and visiting zoos are among the more common animal-related activities. During the two years before the study was conducted, 78 percent had watched a wildlife television show, 67 percent had kept a pet, and 46 percent had visited a zoo.

Twenty-five percent of the sample had hunted at some time during their lives, and 14 percent had hunted in the two years before they were interviewed. Fifty-three percent of those who had hunted at some time no longer hunt, primarily because of a loss of interest or other opportunity. Forty-three percent hunted primarily to obtain meat, 37 percent for sport or recreation, and 11 percent to close to nature.

Twenty-five percent said they were birdwatched in the preceding two years. Of these, 3 percent were "committed" birdwatchers who could identify more than 40 species. Contrary to the popular stereotype of the little old lady in tennis shoes, the average committed birder was a 42-year-old male.

Fifty-four percent had fished during the preceding two years. The most common recreational fish are bass, trout, and fresh fish (28 percent). Twenty percent fished primarily for sport.

Eleven percent belonged to a conservation-organized group, and 6 percent belonged to a conservation-organized-organization during the preceding two years. Of these, 18 percent had cont. on p. 22.
The curtain rises on both sides of ocean

by Jeff Gavin

What an opportunity I had only a few months back. In that time I was able to take in over 12 major productions on the stages of London. Many of these played in London's West End, the Broadway of the London theatre district.

Now let's see, if I were to attend the same number of performances in New York City, getting the same seats, that would run me, on the average, around $250.00. I spent considerably less than half that. Fortunately, being a student made me eligible for "Student Rush" tickets, tickets made available at a considerable discount a half hour before the performance.

Now New York also has student discount and reduced matinee prices, but to a measurably lesser degree. Is that to say Broadway is an over-priced rip-off? Well, over-priced yes. Current ticket prices are topping $40.00. As to being a rip-off, I guess that depends on whether the play was worth the $40.00. But is any play?

If theatre has a slogan, it's that "theatre is for everyone." In N.Y., the bigger the hit, the more status for those who can afford to see it. In London, a city larger than N.Y., the "everyone" is stressed much more. It will cost for a front row, but seats scale down to an affordable price. In fact, theatre-going competes favorably with movie-going in London.

With the price advantage in mind I made a point to see those productions that were also current hits on Broadway, plays like Amadeus, Evita and The Phantom of the Opera. As it turned out, the weakest of the three held the highest ticket price. They're Playing Our Song is a lightweight Neil Simon musical based on the love affair between the two composers who wrote the score—Marvin Hamlisch and Carol Bayer Sager. There were some very funny jokes, maybe two standout songs, but a paper thin plot.

Alright, so you hear the N.Y. critics cry that Manhattan's theatre fare is often weak, lightweight, or safe. So they look to the British import for quality, strong and provocative theatre. This past year it was Amadeus that won several Tony awards. Amadeus came from England. A theatre event for New York, it took place last fall named Nicholas Nickely. It ran eight hours. It was a gift from the Royal Shakespeare Company. Top ticket price was $100.00. The British had a chuckle over that.

Oddly enough, London theatre critics have lamented over the past season in London as well, and for the same reason seeing the current theatre as unprovocative. Well, why have critics if they can't complain about something? London then craves for American imports. Amadeus finished up a successful two year run over there. Children Of A Lesser God. For the most part our hits become their hits and so on.

Their biggest trade to us will be Cats, their hit dance musical. It's a show as spectacular as Theatre can get. The entire theatre is transformed into a giant junkyard, all, of course, from a cat's point of view. Thus everything is in giant proportion. The actors, all portraying cats, prance about your feet. It's all part circus and part Kiss concert, but when they all break into dance it becomes a weird and wonderful celebration. The hit song, "Memory" has already been recorded by American songstress Barbra Streisand and Judy Collins. The music, by Andrew Lloyd Webber, is set to the poem "Old Possum's Book Of Practical Cats" by T.S. Eliot. So what you have is a very thin story, but an enchanting moral allegory—Cats are a lot like people.

It certainly isn't fair to leave the impression that the majority of London theatre is really American. There are many British plays as well that unfortunately may never make it over here. Perhaps the funniest theatre I've ever sat through have been two political farces—Can't Pay, Won't Pay and Accidental Death Of An Anarchist, both by a man named Dario Fo. Technically he's an Italian playwright, but the British adaptations make it for an evening of Monty Python-vintage I Love Lucy hysterial energy. Both plays deal with political upheaval and repression, yet they are played out through comic远离recreation. Each night is different and unpredictable. An actor may call someone over for a encore, break character, or pull a stage hand out of stage. It's wild, but the humor has a target without soft-pedaling its subject.

Right now, I could never afford Broadway theatre. But then again, I also can't afford to go back to London. I guess that leaves me with the National Touring companies that bring big-name productions to Chicago or Milwaukee. The British may be too hard on themselves, always striving to be better. So is New York, I would like to think. The differences is New York critics hold the weight of Nettie points when it comes to the success or failure of a play's run. Theatre is not television. If the buck has to rule, why not a little more judiciously? Maybe they could lower their ticket prices? O.K. New York, it was only an idea.
Sudden death in Whitewater

Pointers shock Warhawks

By Tom Burkman

Assistant sports editor

In the playbook it's called the Whirlwind, an audible at the line of scrimmage set up Tim Lau with the ball 24 yards in, in sudden death overtime against UW-Whitewater last week.

On the first play of the overtime, only 58 seconds after point, quarterback Dave Geissler threw his fourth touchdown pass of the game—this one a 74 yard reception to Lau for a dramatic 30-24 come-from-behind victory.

Just 35 seconds earlier, Point scored the tying touchdown on a 14 yard pass from Geissler to halfback Rod Mayer. Randy Ryskoski then kicked the PAT to assure the tie and force the sudden death overtime period.

Point won the coin toss and elected to receive the ball. Then on the first play, Geissler audibled and Lau sprinted into the end zone.

"I called an audible at the line," said Geissler. "We were going to throw an angle pass to the halfback but I saw their safeties come up and changed to a fly pattern."

Geissler finished the day completing 23 of 49 passes for 353 yards and four touchdowns while Lau caught five passes for 130 yards and two touchdowns. Lau commented on the winning score. "Someone tried to bump me at the line but missed, and I just shot past the safety to get open."

He added that, "Geissler deserves a lot of credit for staying so cool. The crowd was really noisy but he yelled out the call at the top of his lungs."

The Pointers jumped out to a quick 10 point lead on Lau's first touchdown reception—a 13 yarder in the first quarter. Then, as time ran out at the quarter, Randy Ryskoski kicked a 29 yard field goal.

Whitewater got on the scoreboard at 2:03 of the second quarter when halfback Mike Miller ran it in from the five. But the point after failed and Point led 14-6. It could have been worse for the Pointers, however, as Whitewater failed to score from the two yard line right before the half.

Coach D. J. LeRoy said, "There were many important plays in the game, but that completion (14) passes for 54 yards when we stopped them on the two was crucial, along with Lau catching an extra point the first quarter."

After the half, Whitehawk got their running game going and finally took the lead at 13-10 on a 13 yard touchdown pass from Brown to flanker Joe Gerlach.

As LeRoy had predicted, "You know Whitewater will make great adjustments at halftime"—they did by changing to the lead for the first time.

But then, just 1:13 after the Whitewater score, Geissler connected with Mike Gaab on a 69 yard touchdown pass to tie the Pointers back on top at 17-13.

The Warhawks then came back and scored most of the fourth quarter. All, when Whitewater scored 11 points in the quarter to lead 24-17 with three minutes to play. Their first score of the period was a one yard plunge by Dave Brower, but the extra point was missed by Pat Pierce—his second miscuse of the game. But Pierce came right back and split the uprights on a 49 yard effort to give the Pointers the lead.

LeRoy explained why the running game was so ineffective. "It's pretty hard to establish a running game when you're behind like we were," he added. "This was by far the most exciting game I've ever been in as a player or coach. They (Point players) could have given up after the blocked punt, but they were able to overcome adversity and a team that does that has a lot of character. Our younger kids really did a lot of growing up. They played with feeling and pride."

The Pointers, now 2-0, open their home schedule Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in a non-conference game against St. Norbert at Goerke Field.

Varsity gridders off to winning start

By Tom Burkman

Pointers Sports

The talk around the WSUC involves the 1982 edition of the Stevens Point football team. After three key players from last year's team got a shot at playing with the pros (Brion Demski, Chuck Braun, and Andy Shumway—all of whom are now coaches at UWSP), some people called this season a "rebuilding" year for the Pointers. But the Pointers are the first to disagree.

Point is off to a good start this season after crushing Augsburg College 33-6 in their season opener, then coming from behind to beat Whitewater 30-24 in overtime last week.

Leading the way for the Pointers is first year head coach D.J. Leroy who took over coaching duties from Ron Steiner who resigned after last season.

Point, 25, is the youngest head coach of any collegiate football team in the nation. He came to Point in 1981 and coached the running backs that season. He graduated from UWEC in 1979 compiling 2,666 yards rushing in his career and is Eau Claire's all-time leading rusher.

"I realize I'm young," said Leroy, "but we have some very experienced players on defense (defensive coordinator), Lance Royer (linebackers), Jack Renken (offensive line), Steve Swan (receivers), Tom Schrempp (defensive line), and Doug Kraeger (special teams)."

Leroy sees this year's strengths "at the skilled positions. The offensive line has really come around. They are improving with just a couple of key positions. We're commenting on the defense, he says, "We have key individuals at key positions." And even Point has all 12 starters back on defense, D.J. says. "We need experience to be great. We also need to have better depth to start making the big plays."

Leroy doesn't like to single out certain individuals, but through the first two games of the season, he cited a number of players for their strong play. Among them were Dave Geissler, Mike Gaab, Tim Lau and Randy Ryskoski on offense and Gary Van Vreede, Bob Lewitzke, Jeff Rutten and Doug Ron Whitmore on defense.

Coach Leroy hopes to use the lessons learned from the sunrise game, while trying out for the New York Giants of the National Football League. As he put it, "We've changed a number of things, including how we were treated as a professional to get some kind of a professional atmosphere here. I hope they'll prosper and learn but even when the season is over, hopefully they will be able to respect what I taught them and learn from it."

Gauging the relative strengths of remaining rivals, the coach says, "Superior should have a good year. Eau Claire's Ed Burkman and Cari Czarre will improve over the season. Stout has both a solid offense and defense and they don't make any mistakes."

But don't be surprised if a high spirited Pointer squad stands on equal ground with the best of them. After the first three weeks of the season, the nation's youngest coach could be one of its most successful.

Season outlook for frosh gridders

By Mary-Bargaret Vogel

Pointers Sports Editor

With a current record of 1-0, the freshman Pointer gridders are "happy" according to one coach, Tom Madden.

"They're a little slow for added strength and added speed, but they're coming along," the coach said. "They're well conditioned to the football program and they're coming along."

But don't be surprised if a high spirited Pointer squad stands on equal ground with the best of them. After the first three weeks of the season, the nation's youngest coach could be one of its most successful.
Basketball clinic slated

SID—STEVENS POINT—The Seventh Annual University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point Basketball Clinic will be held at the school October 22 and 23. The clinic director Dick Bennett has announced.

The clinic, which has become one of the most popular in the state, includes another highly respected and talented staff.

Shooting expert Dick Baumgartner heads the group which also includes Dick Lien of UW-Green Bay, Diane Jones, UW-Whitewater; John Schell, Stevens Point Area Senior High School; Joel Maturi, Madison Edgewood High School; and Dick Bennett of UW SP.

Baumgartner is regarded as the top shooting expert in the country and he conducts camps nationwide. He established himself as one of the most successful high school coaches ever in Division I school UW-Green Bay. He served as an assistant at the school before stepping up to his new position. Lien was a highly successful high school and junior college coach as well as an assistant at the University of Minnesota before moving to UW GB.

Hartlich honored

Freshman Karri Hartlich has been named harrier of the week by Pointer women's cross country coach Rand Strachen, after the Marquette Invitational, September 25.

"This was undoubtedly Karri's best race of the year and one of her best total performances ever," Strachen said. She set a personal record time for 3.1 miles by more than a minute, and was a mainstay in "pack-running" strategy, with other team's 4th and 5th runners back in the pack.

"Karri is one of the long distance runners and is finding the extra mile in collegiate cross country much to her liking." "We're looking forward to her contributions in the future," Strachen added.

Hartlich has been honored for her performance in the Women's Cross Country Update.
Gacey's retains crown

By Steve Kesly
Special to the Pointer

Gacey's Boys Club, captained by Jim Jerg and winner of last years tournament, repeated as winners of this years Fall Intramural Softball Tournament. Gacey's defeated The Porch 11-10 in the championship game to claim the title. The deciding run was scored on a home run by Mike Williams of The Porch. The double-elimination tournament, which was held at Goerke Park this year, fielded ten teams.

To reach the championship game, Gacey's defeated the 69'ers in the finals of the winner's bracket. The 69'ers then moved to the loser's bracket where they were again defeated in the loser's bracket finals by The Porch. The 69'ers finished in Third Place with a 6-2 record. The Porch, after fighting their way through the loser's bracket, took second place with a 6-2 record. Gacey's finished the tourney with an unblemished 6-0 record. The Intramural Dept. is also planning a tournament for the Spring.

Upcoming events also include the last day of the Turkey Trot on Sept. 27 and Pass, Push, & Kick on Sept. 23 and 28. Also, a Track Meet is being scheduled for Sept. 27. Homecoming Decathlon entries are due on Sept. 30.

Roger:

Congratulations and best wishes on your new job.

Thanks for everything

University Film Society

Spikers open with win

(SID) OSHKOSH—A new version of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point volleyball team looked much like their predecessors' here in Oshkosh. Miller defeated Ripon College 15-10, 15-15 and 15-13 and UW-Oshkosh 15-12 and 15-14. The victories were the first of the year for the Pointers in as many tries. Only three letterwinners return from last years powerhouse team. For that reason, they are a team to be reckoned with.

UWSP played well against Ripon and appeared to be on the verge of a two-game sweep only to be stymied by Ripon's defense which was the first contest and gaining a 10-4 lead in the second. However, the Ripon women bounced back and scored the last 11 points of the match to force the third game which Point won.

UWSP was keyed by the serving of freshman Karla Miller with five aces and 11 team points and Point also scored 10 points behind the serving of Chris Samp and nine with Carol Larson. Melanie Breitenbach had 11 offensive kills.

Point coach Nancy Schoen felt her squad played well but noted the team needs more consistency.

"I thought we played well against Ripon especially considering it was our first contest," Schoen said. "At times we showed mental lapses with a lack of concentration and let them score in streaks. That was the case in the second game.

The third game was tied 13-13 and we pulled it out. I think we had a case of first game jitters as a number of our hits were going out of bounds."

The first game against Oshkosh was close throughout and UWSP made a run at the end to sew up the win. In the second contest Point fell behind 14-18 but hit back to gain the 16-14 win.

Bird art flies north

More than 120 original paintings and carvings from the world's leading bird artists will be on display at the Leigh Yawkey Art Museum in Wausau. The exhibit, which began September 11, will run through October 24.

The exhibition features the latest works of 99 painters and sculptors from Argentina, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, the United States and Zambia. Midwestern artists are also represented with displayed paintings and sculptures from Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois. They include original paintings of the Federal Duck Stamp by David Maass and the Wisconsin Duck Stamp by William Koelpin.

This new collection of bird art continues on page 54
ATTENTION ORGANIZATION TREASURERS
The annual SGA treasurers Workshop will be held this Saturday September 25th from 12:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m. in 101 Collins Classroom Center. Topics: UWSP and SGA Budget forms, General bookkeeping, Red tape and how to work with it. Treasurers—We need you to be there!

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION (715) 346-3721

WONDERING HOW TO PAY FOR THE REMAINDER OF YOUR COLLEGE DEGREE?
If you are a junior or senior majoring in math, physics, chemistry or engineering with good grades we might be able to solve your problem with a scholarship worth from $10,000 to $20,000.
For more information, call toll free 1-800-242-1569

UWSP Students
The 1981-'82 Horizon Year books have arrived.

We will begin distribution Monday-Wednesday from 9-4 in the concourse. After Wednesday you may pick up your yearbook at the Horizon Office (off the Main Lounge). Hours are posted.

Don't miss this opportunity to pick up your Yearbook and put your order in for the 1982-'82 book!
Grads to exhibit work

Michael Jacobson of Rosholt, and Jeffrey Johannes of Wisconsin Rapids, former art students at UWSP have been selected to show their work in an exhibition of new state artists at the Cudaby Gallery of Wisconsin Art in Milwaukee.

Continued from page 22

According to Daniel Fabiano, member of the UWSP art faculty and past member of the Milwaukee Art Museum Advisory Board, the two artists were brought to the attention of the exhibition's planners through his representation on the board. He says more than two-thirds of the board members are from the southeastern part of the state and artists chosen to show their work have traditionally been from the Madison and Milwaukee areas. It will open next summer.

Normal museum hours are Tuesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, 1-5 p.m. Tours for large groups can be arranged by calling the museum at 715-847-7070 at least two weeks in advance. The museum is located at Franklin and Twelfth Streets, Wausau, Wisconsin.

Continued from page 15

university community. The report cited instances where snakes were put in minority student's rooms, minorities received threatening notes and some suffered physical and verbal assaults.

Tracey Mosley leads the recently created Minority Affairs Committee (MAC) and agrees with Vance in maintaining that the majority of people in town cause few problems for minorities. The problem resides in a small but vocal minority in town.

Continued from page 22

art includes sporting scenes, portraits of songbirds, game birds, and birds of prey. Old section, titled “The Old Man's Corner,” shows a sampling of works by Allan Brok, who is recognized by many as “one of North America’s most accomplished painters and naturalists, living in the early 1900's.”

Some participants in last year's Bird Art Exhibit were selected to take a world-wide tour last October to Edinburgh, Scotland; London, England; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. This year's exhibition is also expected to make a tour in the continental United States.

The MAC will send speakers to a local nursing home in order to give senior residents an opportunity to contact minorities directly. This grass-roots approach is central to the efforts of the Minority Affairs Committee.

James and Robert (not their real names) are foreign students who have spent a minimum of three years in this country, at least two of them in Stevens Point. Both maintain that they do not want any special treatment because they are minorities, preferring, instead, to be treated equally.

James, a 28-year-old Ugandan, felt that he was treated like everybody else and had experienced no major problems because of his color. However, he seemed to accept verbal abuse from passing motorists and pedestrians as a matter of fact.

Neither James nor Robert go out much, preferring the confines of their home near the university. James admits that he would like to go out more often but he dislikes the atmosphere of taverns which are the center of much student socializing.

"Being a minority and a foreign student, I know that there are places where you just do not go," he added. No one is naive enough to believe that any of these ingrained problems can be eradicated overnight. However, Tracy Mosley reflects the tenacious attitude of proponents of increased minority awareness.

"We want to wipe away the negative connotations of the word 'minority.' If we can reach 2 percent of the community, that's progress for me."

Answers:

1. Clyde
2. Kryptonite
3. X Games
4. George Burns
5. Alvin, Simon, and the Hendersons
6. McDonalds
7. Philip
8. Anaheim, Cal.
9. John Wayne
10. Q & A

On Business Highway 51 So., Next To Shopko
Open Daily 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.-Sundays 9 to 6

Our Warehouse Grocery Prices Will Save You Money!

You'll be pleasantly surprised at the low prices in the bright and clean aisles thru-out our store!

You help by marking some of the grocery prices. You help by bagging your purchases; you save the money!

More savings in our complete Meat Department! Complete Produce Department! Complete Liquor Department! Frozen Foods and Dairy Foods, too!

SHOP, COMPARE, WE HAVE THE LOWEST GROCERY PRICES!
PROGRAMMING YOUR ENJOYMENT

THIS WEEK'S

Wednesday, September 29
BIG TWIST & THE MELLOW FELLOWS
—This Chicago-based rhythm & blues band has performed with the likes of B.B. King, George Thorogood, Ray Charles and James Brown. None of those guys will be around tonight, but stop by anyway and give a listen to the 285-pound Big Twist and his R&B buddies. The music starts at 9 p.m. in the UC Program Banquet Room. UAB is bringing you this one for $1.

Thursday & Friday, September 30 & October 1
VICTOR-VICTORIA—Would you believe Julie Andrews as a girl playing a guy playing, well, never mind. This Blake Edwards comedy comes at you at 6:30 and 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room, courtesy of UAB-UAB. $1.50

Friday, October 1
WELCOME BACK U.W.S.P. STUDENTS

HIGHLIGHT

Music
Thursday-Saturday, September 29-30
SCOTT JONES—Music, comedy and a variety of weird gadgets are elements of the Scott Jones Show, which will come to the Encore (formerly the UC Coffeehouse) at 9 p.m. all three nights. Free, of course. So bow down before the uttery adorable folks at UAB.

movies
Thursday & Friday, September 29 & 30
AN AMERICAN WEREWOLF IN LONDON—This zany spoof of old werewolf movies will have you howling in your seat. UAB brings you this John Landis monster movie at 6:30 and 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room. $1.

Sunday & Monday, September 26 & 27
KNUTE ROCKNE—ALL AMERICAN—Before he became Prez, Ronald Reagan was a simply awful movie star. Find out just how awful he was by taking in this UAB film featuring RR as a football star. 6:30 & 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room. $1.

Tuesday & Wednesday, September 28 & 29
ADAM'S RIB—Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy square off as a husband and wife lawyer team on opposite sides of a murder case. University Film Society screens this feminist flick at 7 & 9:15 p.m. in the UC Wisconsin Room. $1.50.

PROGRAMMING

WELCOME BACK U.W.S.P. STUDENTS
 Bring this coupon in and purchase any large sandwich* and
"DESSERT'S ON US"
Choose one dessert from the following:

- Nutty Sundae
- Apple or Cherry Pie
- McDonald® or Choc. Chip Cookies
- Soft Serve Cone

*Big Mac® , ¼ lb’er or ¼ lb’er w/cheese, McChicken® or Filet of Fish.

FREE!
1-lb. Macaroni Salad with this coupon and the purchase of a lb. or more of Deli Baked Ham at the Delicatessen of the IGA Foodliners.

Coupon Good: thru Saturday, Sept. 25, 1982

Expires 10/5/82

12 / N. Division
Stevens Point
Get Ready For

"An Evening At The Center"
September 29th at 7:00 p.m.-12:00 midnight in the Main Lounge.

Check out what organizations exist on campus, Also what services are available to you in the University Center. There will be plenty of fun for everyone:

- Live entertainment in the main lounge and Jeremiahs
- Hall directors competition
- Import night at Jeremiahs
- Air band contest
- Big twist and the Mellow Fellows

A great way to celebrate HOMECOMING '82!

Also: At 9:00 p.m. in the PBR room Chicagos hottest bues band. "Big Twist and The Mellow Fellows"

---

Once More From the "Encore"
(Formerly The UC Coffeehouse)

SCOTT JONES
"A Wizard On The Piano & Guitar Who Also Happens To Be Hilarious"
Thurs., Fri., Sat. 23, 24, 25
THE ENCORE
9:00 P.M. FREE!

Homecoming Dance

Big Twist and The Mellow Fellows
Wed., Sept. 29
Program Banquet Room
9:00 P.M. $1.00 At The Door
SALE: 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

SALE: Aloe Vera personal grooming products are now available. Enjoy the benefits of aloe vera skin and hair care. Call 341-3847 for more information.

SALE: FOR RENT: Large storage room, large yard, just $150. Call Rental Services at 341-8022.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, only $135. Call Rental Services at 341-8022.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR SALE: Auto: 1972 Mustang 4-speed manual with air conditioning, tilt steering wheel, 55,000 miles. $1,300. Call 344-7799.

FOR SALE: Old 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR SALE: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.

FOR RENT: Lots of storage space, kitchen, utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: attic for bedrooms and family room, includes utilities, $75 per month. Call 341-3847.

FOR RENT: Apartment for rent. Includes utilities, and parking. Check with owner.

FOR RENT: Vacation rental for 1970 Honda motorcycle. 175 cc, electric start. Must meet at 1,075 First St. $275 takes it. Phone (715) 445-8224 evenings.
"In light of what happened this summer, how do you feel minorities are treated in this community?"

Kathy Lee

"I'm from Madison and attended an integrated high school, so I'm used to minorities. When I was in a bio class here, one minority came in and everyone looked at him like he was really different. I don't think they're treated badly overall."

Gene Lemmenes

"I think that you'll find that the community itself has lots of prejudice, but so will any other town in central Wisconsin. Stevens Point is a good town to start a fight in. There is an element of people here who would start a fight about anything. The oldsters in town aren't hostile, just a little leery because they don't know much about them. It's going to be a matter of time before they are accepted here."

Kurt Krueger

"I'm from Madison and attended an integrated high school, so I'm used to minorities. When I was in a bio class here, one minority came in and everyone looked at him like he was really different. I don't think they're treated badly overall."

Christopher Jop

"I never see any sign of segregation where I have been. In the university I never see any sign of segregation. Most students here this summer were American natives and they treated them well. Some farmers - I have these guys who beat them up were rude always - they could've beaten up whites as well as Nigerians."

Shamsuddin

"Both sides are to blame. I cannot generalize - I feel whites as a collective group are harmless, but there are a few bad ones."

Pablo Hernandez

"Well, I did not have many problems with anybody. I think that there are a lot of people that do not like minorities, because I heard one of my friends got scared while she was shopping downtown. When I went to the Alibi this summer, people looked at me like I was a stranger. It's not everybody. I don't have good attitudes about Point. I expected other things. It's especially bad in public places. Like when I was in the Alibi somebody said 'I don't know what that nigger is doing here.' I felt very bad."

Donna Rae Batzko

"I don't know that much about it. They are not treated too badly on the whole, but sometimes they are noticed unfavorably. Some people act as if they are invisible - they look right through them."

Richard Hafner

"When I lived here in 1979 I never came upon any scuffles. I don't feel they're treated that bad, from what I've seen. Something should have been done about the community's lack of awareness before those students were beat up."

Drew Clark

"It seems like they're shunned. No one pays attention to them. They're in their own little cliques and that's the fault of everyone. Their culture is not really understood. In Debrot a nigerian walks in and everyone starts staring at him and talking about how he's dressed. People choose to be ignorant. The minority students - the Africans - don't talk much to you because they're afraid. They choose to be ignorant. The minority students - the Africans - don't talk much to you because they're afraid. Students don't care one way or the other. The townies shun them. Whenever you hit a small town in the mid-west there is prejudice."