DRUGS AND DRINK

February 17, 1983
Volume 26, No. 21
viewpoints

Now for something completely insensitive...

Another giant step backward for mankind. This weekend, the old cliche that “boys will be boys” was once again heard around campus in defense of Rugby Arctic Fest activities. But just how far can “young bucks” go and still maintain behavior in the name of “college fun?”

As far as we’re concerned, they went too far this time. Dale Schallert, Rugby Club advisor who resigned this past Monday, said, “This year was the straw that broke the camel’s back.” Beer cans were found strewn on the indoor tennis courts and a window was also broken.

But littered beer cans were only a small part of the problem. Rampant sexism and even physical abuse marked this year’s celebration. Last week, the Rugby Club sold T-shirts degrading to women. The T-shirts depicted a brawny, hairy-armed rugger, complete with overflowing beer mug, driving a dog sled pulled by polar bears. The sled team is led by a naked, full-breasted, stud-collared woman on all fours, with legs spread apart.

Do you consider this sexism disgusting? Some groups did. But after hearing the protests, ruggers tried to thinly cover it all up. On the cover of the Festival program, the young woman is fitted with a bikini and a string.

The program is also complete with rugby terms. For instance, the referee may call “smegma,” which is defined as a “cheese-like, foul-smelling, subaceous secretion that dribbles under the foreskin (sic) or around the clitoris of forwards.” Words like this give new meaning to the popular cheer “go for it.”

Rad waste dump not final solution

On April 5, the people of Wisconsin will be asked to vote on a referendum which asks, “Do you favor a regional or national high-level radioactive waste dump being built in this state?”

Owing to this state’s concern for protecting its environment and the natural fear such a dump brings to the minds of people, this referendum will surely be answered with a firm “no.” While such a referendum reaffirms our democratic tradition, it unfortunately does not put an end to the radioactive waste question.

Keeping the waste out of our “backyard” is an easy out, one which effectively places the poisonous burden upon someone else’s shoulders.

There are, no doubt, areas in this country better suited to the ground disposal of radioactive waste than the rather pristine environment of Northern Wisconsin. The nuclear weapons testing grounds in Nevada is one that comes to mind. The federal government has been polluting that land for a generation now. But such an answer is no guarantee that the DOE will not be back at some later date. Such an answer also ignores the fact that the Department of Energy is looking for a fast exit on the radioactive waste issue.

Radioactive waste has been an extreme embarrassment to the nuclear industry and the DOE since the creation of nuclear weapons and the inception of the “Atoms for Peace” nuclear energy program. After years of telling us the solution to the waste problem was on the horizon, underground burial, replete with all the dangers such waste poses to the soil, air, and groundwater, has become one more attempt to hide the most blatant example of a deadly energy and weapons program. Radioactive waste highlights a technology that in almost every facet of operation presents the potential for unmitigated disaster, a technology that has already committed unknown numbers of people to death by radiation-induced cancers.

Let’s stop being hypocrites. Keeping the DOE from dumping on us while we in Wisconsin operate three nuclear plants and tacitly support this nation’s nuclear weapons program must surely make us look irresponsible in the eyes of other states. The decision to build a waste site has already been decided. It is only a matter of time before the “where” question is also answered, Wisconsin’s referendum notwithstanding. But before such a dump is built, no matter where that may eventually be, we must reaffirm that the final solution to the waste problem does not rest on burying it beneath our feet, but through an end to the production of such waste.

For our complicity, the price for burying this most deadly substance must be high. The price for our commitment to a thousand-year problem must be the termination of the production of nuclear energy and an end to this nation’s nuclear weapons program. For it is the survival of these programs that hinges on a solution to the radioactive waste problem. Let’s hope that we in Wisconsin do not bury our consciences along with our waste by ignoring this fundamental issue.

John C. Savagian
'Modest recovery' seen for area businesses

George Seyfarth has spent the past six months taking Central Wisconsin's business community by the hand and helping it through the recession so it won't stumble. That's not his job description in the Small Business Development Center at UWSP, but the chore fills many of his days, and it will continue to do so for some time.

Unfortunately, his office and the free assistance it provides to small businesses have not been enough to shield some firms from serious, if not fatal, falls. "Bankruptcies are high, they're part of the tapering off...There are just too many firms that don't have enough capital," he laments.

Nonetheless, Seyfarth is confident about the future of Sentry in this region. "If we can get through this, we'll have a modest recovery with an economy different than we've been used to," he observes. "Companies probably will be more lean and mean. They will need competent, professional assistance, adequate capital and carefully developed business plans," he adds.

He sees all of that beyond immediate hurries of the current high interest rates which are making many small business operations "high risks."

His upbeat attitude about the long haul, though, is tempered with several ifs. "Therein lie the roles being played," Seyfarth suggests that his office should play in helping revitalize business endeavors here.

He believes his office can make impacts in:
- Promoting the relatively new Central Wisconsin World Trade Association, which is investigating new markets anywhere on the globe for locally-produced products.
- The organization, affiliated with the Small Business Development Center, also is looking for imports needed by local firms.
- Encouraging local investment in a Small Business Innovation Research Program in which federal monies are allocated for new product development.
- Both individuals and companies will be eligible for this assistance.
- Helping a group focus on governmental procurement so Central Wisconsin can get a greater share of Uncle Sam's expenditures among businesses. Firms in this area and in Wisconsin in general, have been getting few contracts to provide services and/or products to the federal government.
- Assisting downtown revitalization in area communities;
- Assisting in the redevelopment of existing small businesses.

In the past half year, Seyfarth's office has served about 100 clients in Portage, Wood, Marathon, Lincoln, Waupaca and Shawano counties.

Seyfarth's optimism over the long range economic health of the region is based, in part, on his belief that completion of I-41 as a divided highway between Portage and Plainfield will have enormous benefits to the movements of products; that Central Wisconsin's population will continue growing; and that business and employment here is so diverse.

But Seyfarth sometimes views his responsibilities as monumental when he considers that 50 percent of the working people in Central Wisconsin are employed by small businesses (firms with 500 or less employees, according to federal government standards).

College Week for Women offers liberal education

UWSP will host more than 400 participants at a series of programs and seminars Thursday, June 21 through Saturday, June 23, for its annual College Week for Women.

Planners anticipate a turnout in excess of 400, plus a number of registrants who were here last year because of the addition of many courses which were never offered before.

Costs will be $30.50 for tuition and $48 for room and board in a residence hall. The fees include opportunities for recreation and entertainment on campus. Campers will be charged only for tuition.

Participants have the option of choosing either one, concentrated course or two shorter classes which meet each day.

 Nuclear War...Family Communication Patterns, Mary Jo Cappleweil; How Judges Decide: A Frank Look at the Supreme Court, Richard Feldman; Cat Tales and Kitty Literature, Pauline Phillips;
- Environmental Issues of the '80's, Lowell L. Klesig, Donald Last, and Byron Shaw; Fast Foods Phenomena, Bonnie L. Klino; More Food in the Middle East, Neil S. Lewis, Appearing Confident Even When You're Not: Speaking in Public, Janet Newman;
- The Many Problems of the Modern World, Arthur Herman; Aquaculture to Fitness, Carol Huettl; Getting More From Personal Reading, Nancy Kaufman; Parapsychology; New Frontiers of Psychology, Daniel Kortenkamp; Realizing Our Gifts, Fred Leafgren; Archaeology, John H. Moore; Microcomputers. The Present Revolution, Robert P. Morris; Exploring the Many Problems of the Plant World, Tod D. Planer; The Cinderella Complex, Sharon Senner; From Risk to Reality, Barbara Fitz Worman; Security Analysis and Investment Management for the Small Investor, Ergun Yener; and Exploring the Plants and Birdlife of Central Wisconsin, Ron Zimmerman.

Further information and registration materials are available through Barbara Inch, assistant director of the office of Continuing Education and Outreach, 103 Old Main, UW SP.

Sentry exec here

World trade forum tonight

A new organization promoting international commerce and trade will sponsor a program Thursday, Feb. 17, about a local business and its successes marketing products around the globe.

Loren Gilbertson, director of international programs at Sentry World Headquarters, will speak about overseas ventures of Sentry, both in international and subsidiary businesses.

Business people interested in becoming involved in the Central Wisconsin World Trade Association, which is about a year old, are eligible to attend. Reservations for the dinner, to be served during the 6 p.m. meeting, are being taken via phone by the secretary of the Central Wisconsin Small Business Development Center at UWSP (346-2004). The association is an adjunct of the center.

Gilbertson will tell the business people about opportunities in world trade, including one of its most recently profitable deals of distributing soft drink dispensing units in 10 countries on the continents of Africa, Asia, Europe and Australia.

The highest potential for soft drink sales is believed to be better in countries outside the United States where the populations are on an average, younger than in the United States.

Gilbertson also will note that broadening its base of sales beyond this country helps firms like Sentry even out the ups and downs of business cycles which are commonplace in many industries. The profit-loss situation in property and casualty insurance, for example, traditionally goes in seven year cycles in this country, from "good to bad to good to bad..."

Gilbertson has been with Sentry since joining the firm in his native Seattle, Wash., 23 years ago.
Code addressed

To Pointer Magazine, The Feb. 10 issue of “The Pointer” can be disregarded. The article that quoted and explained a dress code issued by Dennis Palmini. The dress code explains what the students are expected to wear and how they are expected to appear. In addition to this, the dress code explains that students will not be allowed into the classroom if these rules are violated.

When Palmini wrote this dress code, he must have forgotten that students pay hundreds of dollars every semester to attend this university. Most of these students have to beg, borrow or steal in an attempt to get this education. Chances are that many students cannot afford to dress like respectable members of the professional middle class of America. Unhitched shoes, double-edged razors, plastic combs, and Angora sweaters are just a few examples for students of economics. Considering this high cost of education, it would seem most reasonable for the students to enforce such a dress code on Palmini.

It’s absolutely outrageous that this discipline will prepare his students for the business world. In fact, this will make our students less prepared. If we wear nice shoes and uniforms, we'll be able to point to certain schools as examples of how to dress with clothing that is comfortable enough.

Consideration of this high cost, however, would mean much if I were so inclined. I've been reading your columns for gosh, it must be weeks now, and I've been wondering: Why are you so gollum-durned funny? Is it just that you are the oldest college student that ever lived, or because you know just right how to insert the word “fuck” into a sentence to get us all rolling in the aisles?

Just curious, Mike Starling Editor, the Record UW-La Crosse (Uncle Bob replies: Jeepers Mike, how can Uncle Bob be anything but up roarious when folks like you write him such utter-fucking-better? Here’s a complimentary “fuck” for your trouble. Insert it anywhere you like.)

Foot facts

To Pointer Magazine:

1. “In the event of coverage (Feb. 10, “Campus patrollers take to the streets”) of the GPU student security patrol, I would like to point out two factual errors made in the article.

2. First, it is stated that patrols cannot apprehend suspects because of no formal training given in law enforcement. It is true that they cannot apprehend suspects. However, graduates of the environmental law enforcement minor receive 120 classroom hours of minimum standards law enforcement training similar to that received by police and sheriff departments. The student foot patrol cannot make apprehensions solely because they lack the authority.

3. Your article reported that (UWSP) security personnel are armed (implying firearms). Security personnel on this campus are not authorized to carry firearms.

Thanks again for the coverage.

Kirk H. Beattie Assistant Director of Wildlife

Fan mail from some flounder

Dear Uncle Bob (or Dr. Science or Mr. Wacko or whoever you are):

I’ve been reading your column for gosh, it must be weeks now, and I’ve been wondering: Why are you so gollum-durned funny? Is it just that you are the oldest college student that ever lived, or because you know just right how to insert the word “fuck” into a sentence to get us all rolling in the aisles?

Just curious,

Mike Starling
Editor, the Record

UW-La Crosse

(Uncle Bob replies: Jeepers Mike, how can Uncle Bob be anything but uproarious when folks like you write him such utter-fucking-better? Here’s a complimentary “fuck” for your trouble. Insert it anywhere you like.)

Foot facts

To Pointer Magazine:

1. “In the event of coverage (Feb. 10, “Campus patrollers take to the streets”) of the GPU student security patrol, I would like to point out two factual errors made in the article.

2. First, it is stated that patrols cannot apprehend suspects because of no formal training given in law enforcement. It is true that they cannot apprehend suspects. However, graduates of the environmental law enforcement minor receive 120 classroom hours of minimum standards law enforcement training similar to that received by police and sheriff departments. The student foot patrol cannot make apprehensions solely because they lack the authority.

3. Your article reported that (UWSP) security personnel are armed (implying firearms). Security personnel on this campus are not authorized to carry firearms.

Thanks again for the coverage.

Kirk H. Beattie
Assistant Director of Wildlife

Insensitive t-shirts, cont’d

And if the scent of “smegma” is not provided, they’re willing to take it by writing an article called “landsharking.” Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the bars, you turn to see a man, hand waving fin-like in the middle of his face, teeth barred, zeroing in on your derriere. One mother related in a phone call to university staff that her daughter was bitten hard enough to make her teeth shaped bruises on her buttocks.

This is not the only abuse that the club encourages. One captioned photo in the program enforces the macho image of rugby. The words “I dedicate this to Beno” threatening his girlfriend over his right to play Rugby. The rugger didn’t fail to try their hand at cheap sexual references. The rugger who would try to bug two women, was out of town. The Rugby Club uses the acronym T.W.A.T.S. for their team name. The Stevens Point rugger, meanwhile, have extended an overt invitation to offen- and prospective “rugger huggers” (presumably females) to drop by “headquarters” anytime after midnight, to fill out applications for permanent and temporary positions. Any women who enjoy posturing nude on their hands and knees with animals may apply now. (Remember your study collar.)

If none of this raises your hackles, listen to some choice rugger’s reaction. He, and probably many others, has missed the whole point. The non-insightful rugger thought that by calling the crawling woman in a bare essence bikini on the program the wrong would be made right. He did not notice that it is a student’s own obligation to find help if they feel they need it and there is nothing that the university can or will do to make a cont. on pg. 29
Major may be unfairly denied

By Joe Stinson

President William Hanford of UWSP piano faculty to

Jankowski aald

Jankowski said he didn’t want to study with Thomas because he is an organ instructor, and he felt he could benefit most by instruction through the piano faculty.

Though Keller admitted Jankowski’s "very hard worker" his deficiencies are great enough to keep him from obtaining the level 1 proficiency necessary for a general degree in piano.

Jankowski said Keller’s assessment, adding, "Joe had made progress from semester to semester, but he does not have the aptitude." He also said Jankowski would have difficulties in an applied music program," he said.

He also said Jankowski had significant problems sight reading, his major deficiency, "Given that," he said, "(piano faculty) have serious doubts about his abilities."

Jankowski maintains that "it’s a problem most piano students have."

"I might read to a level 3, but it has been two years since I last worked on it. And Jankowski lacks the skill that you can sharpen," he said.

Charles Reichl said last week that "our department came to a decision by reviewing Joe's progress from semester to semester, and we felt that because he had made such little progress, he shouldn't be a major."

"He doesn't preclude Joe from getting his major in another instrument," he said.

"Joe accomplished everything we are doing because we don't like Joe. If anything has gotten in Joe's way, it's 'Joe placing things in his own way,'" he said.

Jankowski is studying Piano with Martha Thomas, yet he is still undecided about his major. Nevertheless, Thomas also said the letter that has apparently ended Jankowski's candidacy.

Thomas, who returned last semester from sabbatical, Cont. on p. ?
Wisconsin considers higher drinking age

By Joseph Vanden Plas
Senior News Editor

Remember those driver education training films you saw in high school? The ones that depicted what happens to people who drink and drive. Remember the impact all that auto wreckage and human misery was supposed to have on you? Remember how that impact eventually wore off and you decided to drink and drive anyway?

The state of Wisconsin has now come to the conclusion that scary driver training films aren't going to stop teens from drinking and driving. There are currently two bills before the state Senate that concern the state's legal drinking age. Senate bill number one (SB I) would simply raise the state's legal drinking age to 19. Senate bill number two (SB II), sponsored by Rep. John Antaramian (D-Kenosha), would increase the legal drinking age to 19 and make it illegal for out-of-state residents to drink in Wisconsin if they are too young to drink in their own state.

SB I is chiefly concerned with regulating teen drinking in state high schools. SB II not only deals with high school alcoholism, but highway safety too. Teen involvement in traffic accidents is especially high in the southern part of the state, where a number of teens from neighboring states cross the border to either drink or purchase liquor in Wisconsin. “This situation creates danger on our highways and must be controlled,” Antaramian said at the time he introduced SB II in January. “This is what our proposal would do,” he claimed.

The drinking age issue is being pushed to the fore in the state Legislature. “We expect SB I to pass in the Senate some time in March,” said Curt Pawlisch, legislative affairs director of United Council. “Originally we expected them to call an emergency session in January, but we just embarrassed them.” Pawlisch is referring to efforts to delay and possibly defeat current drinking age legislation. He said he is concerned that the rights of 18-year-old college students would be violated by attempts to curb high school alcoholism. In January, Pawlisch appeared on a Madison talk show with Tom Grogan of the Coalition to Change the Minimum Drinking Age to 19. Pawlisch made his point about student rights clearly enough to convince Senator Tim Cullen (D-Janesville) of the need to take a closer look at the present drinking age legislation. “You don’t just railroad a bill through the state Legislature,” declared Pawlisch.

Pawlisch’s efforts paid off recently when Senator Jerome Van Sistine (D-Green Bay) urged a delay in voting on SB I.

Nevertheless, there remains considerable pressure on the Legislature to do something about teen drinking. Last year the Legislature passed more stringent drunk driving laws for adults, but that hasn’t satisfied concerned county boards, cities and citizen groups.

In Green Bay, there was talk of penalizing tavern and liquor store owners who sell to minors. According to Dave Nennick, an assistant to Green Bay Mayor Sam Halloin, the proposal, introduced by a city alderman, never picked up steam, despite the efforts of the Northeastern Wisconsin Citizens Organization. Nennick said that NEWCO pushed the Green Bay city council to adopt a proposal for automatic license suspensions for tavern or liquor store owners who were first time offenders.

Analysis

Wisconsin’s Legal Drinking Age: Is 19 the answer?
Mayor, Bullis, and Muhvic named in $1.15 million suit

By Chris Celickowski

Citing alleged violations of their constitutional rights, the owners of Stevens Point Silvermint Arcade have filed a $1.15 million civil suit against the City of Stevens Point and several of its officials.

The suit, filed in US District Court on Monday, February 7, accuses the city of "oppressive and malicious" treatment of the Arcade, which, according to the plaintiffs, has been forced to close its doors to cover economic losses. In addition, the defendants are seeking recovery of court costs and legal fees.

Zinda, who is running for re-election for Stevens Point Mayor, has not yet appeared in court. His elected Council action against the arcade violated his First Amendment right to free speech because it was done in response to his posture on controversial local issues.

The complaint further alleges a violation of the owners' Fourteenth Amendment right to due process. The electronic amusement license was revoked by the Common Council, according to the plaintiffs, in violation of the Silvermint out of business when other methods had failed.

Finally, the complaint contends Zinda and Kluck's Fifth Amendment rights providing fair treatment were violated when another arcade was granted a license near the Silvermint.

The Silvermint Arcade has been the focus of controversy since it opened its doors. Local merchants and downtown property owners expressed concern over alleged acts of vandalism and nuisance behavior by the Arcade's juvenile patrons. Last June 30, the City Common Council responded to this alleged nuisance by refusing to renew the Silvermint's electronic amusement license in a 7-4 vote.

Owner Gib Zinda has maintained all along that the real problem is a personality conflict between city officials and himself.

Last September Zinda told Pointer Magazine, "There is no tyranny, even if I was Jesus Christ himself, that I could get a license from them...I'd probably have fewer problems if I were running a whorehouse or massage parlor.

The Arcade remained open, however, under a court injunction until the injunction was vacated. By that time the Arcade has been subject to fines ranging between $25 and $100 per day for violation of the arcade ordinance. It remains in operation.

In December, Arcade owners Zinda and Kluck received separate citations covering August and September that total $3,647. When contacted by Pointer Magazine, Bullis and Muhvic refused comment on advice of their legal counsel.

"They did enough talking. I don't think they could do any more," said Zinda when informed of Bullis and Muhvic's choice to remain silent.

"They've already cooked their goose," Zinda added.

According to Zinda the city officials have 20 days to answer the suit. At press time no action had been taken.

According to Mayor Michael Haberman, the city attorney's office would respond to their response to the lawsuit by Monday, February 21.

A local branch of the Wausau legal firm Terwilliger, Wakeen, Fiehler, Conway, and Kugerski is representing Zinda and Kluck in the suit.

According to Haberman, if he appears in court, it certainly won't be the first time he has appeared in a courtroom.

---

Ode to a silly code

Recently, a UWSP economics professor required his students to dress "casually" in class.

His definition of casual attire excluded blue jeans (what the uppercrust refer to as dungarees), hats and sweat suits—dreadful things found only on society's dregs. Econ students are required to wear a suit in the classroom. They are notorious for showing up no wonder so many former students are lost in the corporate world.

Moreover, without a "feel and sense" of professional oplnl, they aren't prepared for the real world. They are woefully woefully ignorant of the corporate atmosphere, prepared to ignore things, ignoring things, because they aren't even a part of it.

Furthermore, without a "feel and sense" of professional oplnl, they aren't prepared for the real world. They are woefully ignorant of the corporate atmosphere, prepared to ignore things, ignoring things, because they aren't even a part of it.

Beige jeans, their shirts and sweaters instead of slacks and sweaters instead of shirts, are always in keeping with the corporate look. Five years ago, the corporate look was slacks and sweaters instead of shirts, and tube socks in a drab color. Nowadays, however, it's a spiffy professor, who would undoubtedly make everyone's best dressed list, has never find one of those hideous-looking blue jeans—(what the uppercrust refer to as dungarees), hats and sweat suits—dreadful things found only on society's dregs.

The students are not spared from this requirement. They are always in keeping with the corporate look. Five years ago, the corporate look was slacks and sweaters instead of shirts, and tube socks in a drab color. Nowadays, however, it's a spiffy professor, who would undoubtedly make everyone's best dressed list, has never find one of those hideous-looking blue jeans—(what the uppercrust refer to as dungarees), hats and sweat suits—dreadful things found only on society's dregs.

By Joseph Vanden Plas

Senior News Editor

A Wisconsin Rapids man reversed his plea to guilty in Circuit Court to homicide by reckless conduct in the death of UWSP student Dean Smith last February.

Ricki Krueger, 21, who had pleaded innocent to charges of arson and homicide by reckless conduct on Aug. 31, also pleaded guilty to the charge of causing property damage after it was changed from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Judge Fred Fleisbaugh set bond at $15,000 and ordered a pre-trial investigation into the incident. He said sentencing will take place on a later date.

Krueger allegedly set fire to a couch at the home of Smith at 1218 Franklin St. on July 30, Smith, who was sleeping upstairs, died from first and second degree burns when he was unable to climb out of his bedroom window.

The fire took place following an argument involving Krueger and Smith's roommate Steve Grzadzielewski. When the argument concluded, Krueger approached Grzadzielewski for a book of matches and a cigarette and set a book afire.

According to Grzadzielewski, who had gone upstairs with a girl friend, heard the front door open and close. Minutes later they smelled smoke, went downstairs to investigate and saw that the living room was on fire. They left the house immediately, not knowing they left Smith behind.

Smith was taken to the University Hospital Burn Center in Madison where he died the next day. Stevens Point Police did not arrest Krueger until after he admitted setting the fire.

At the time, Krueger told police he only meant to set fire to the couch. Krueger's attorney, John Runde, tried to get the homicide and arson charges dismissed last August. He claimed that no warrant was issued for Krueger's arrest and questioned whether officers had probable cause to make the arrest.

However, Judge Robert C. Jenkins denied Runde's motion to dismiss the charge. Jenkins ruled that Krueger should have realized the fire would spread.

Krueger could face a prison sentence of up to twenty years or pay a $10,000 fine and serve up to 10 years in prison or both.

Music Student, cont.

has not had Jankowski as a student for two years, but he still wants to reach the student, because she was "going on the professional judgment of Howard Ross.

"A level 5 could be as far away as two or three years, but she might not be able to reach it," she said.

"But really, I don't think at this moment in my teaching that I can make a determination about whether someone can or can't do something." Jankowski said he could also be "happy that I've at least got lessons." He also said he would support any student government to resolve the matter.

"It is the right of the student to be heard," he said through my letters, but I got turned off everywhere.

"Mostly I just want to get my major back," he said.

"And I still want a different advisor."
By Wong Park Pook
Poetier News Writer

The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point can take disciplinary action against any student found guilty of violating state laws, even though the state might already be taking action against the student, according to John Finn, legal counsel at Student Legal Services. Such university action might mean the suspension or dismissal of the student.

However, if any student is involved in disciplinary action for a violation of state laws or campus rules and regulations, which could cause dismissal from the university, the student will be accorded the rights described in the UW Administrative Code Chapter 17—Student Disciplinary Procedures. This could mean that a dismissed student might be able to appeal to the university.

According to the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), a person found to be in possession of any amount of marijuana in Wisconsin could be fined up to $500 or imprisoned for up to 90 days for the first or second offense. Cultivation or sale of the drug could result in a fine of up to $15,000 or an imprisonment of up to 5 years.

An effort to check the abuse of drugs, the state legislature has enacted numerous laws with penalties. According to the State Statutes, under Chapter 161 Uniform Controlled Substances Act, the legislature has differentiated among those who violate these laws into three groups. The first group concerns persons who habitually traffic in controlled substances (drugs) commercially. Upon conviction for trafficking, such persons would be sentenced in a manner which will deter further trafficking from them, and protect the public from drug trafficking.

The second group concerns persons who habitually or professionally engage in commercial trafficking in controlled substances. They would be sentenced to terms of imprisonment. However, persons addicted to or dependent on drugs would be sentenced in a manner most likely to produce rehabilitation.

The third group identified concerns persons who casually use or experiment with drugs. They would receive special treatment geared toward rehabilitation. The sentencing of casual users or experimenters would be as such as will best induce them to shun further contact with drugs.

Common drugs such as marijuana, morphine or heroin are listed in a section called Schedule I in the Uniform Controlled Substances Act. Under Prohibited Acts A in the chapter, any person who manufactures or delivers a controlled substance classified in Schedule I which is a narcotic drug may be fined not more than $25,000 or imprisoned not more than 15 years or both. Any person who violates this law with respect to any other controlled substance (not a narcotic drug) classified in Schedule I may be fined not more than $15,000 or imprisoned not more than 5 years or both.

According to the statutes, “narcotic drug” means any of the following, whether produced directly or indirectly by extracting from or separating the substances of vegetable origin, or independently by means of chemical synthesis, or by a combination of extraction and chemical synthesis. The following are considered narcotics: a) Opium and opiate, and any salt, compound, derivative or preparation of opium. b) Any salt, compound isomer derivative or preparation thereof which is chemically equivalent to, or identical with, any of the substances referred to in par. a) but not including the isomeric alkaloids of c) Opium, poppy and poppy straw. Under Prohibited Acts B in the Uniform Controlled Substances Act, it is unlawful for any person knowingly to keep or maintain a drug store, warehouse, dwelling, building, vehicle, boat, aircraft, structure or place, which is resorted to by persons using controlled substances for the purpose of using these substances, or which is used for manufacturing, keeping or delivering them. Any person who violates this law may be fined not more than $25,000 or imprisoned not more than one year or both. A bill which would have changed criminal penalties for possession of a small amount of marijuana, in effect, decriminalizing the offense, was not passed by the state legislature rather than a controversial bill, the Assembly Bill 893, was referred to the Committee of Criminal Justice and Public Safety but stayed there since Aug. 5 last year. According to the Legislative Reference Bureau's analysis of AB 893, a possession of half an ounce of hashish or one and a half ounces of regular marijuana would be reduced in criminal stature to a misdemeanor. Anyone caught in possession of the two amounts would not be fined more than $50. A gift of the drug to a minor would result in a fine of up to $100 and $500 in fines or a jail sentence of 60 days or less.

Drinking age, cont.

"Instead, the council sent a letter to Madison calling for the drinking age to be raised back to 21," Nennich said.

Moreover, according to the Milwaukee Journal, a proposal in Dane County would make it illegal to sell to people younger than 21 alcoholic beverages in cans, bottles or barrels.

One alternative may be a plan by John Medinger (D-La Crosse) to raise the drinking age to 19 and exempt 18-year-olds with a high school diploma. According to Curt Pawlisch, Medinger chairs the Committee on Children and Human Development, which has some jurisdiction over drinking age legislation.

Any drinking age bill passed by both houses of the state Legislature will reach the desk of Gov. Earl if it is to eventually become law. Earl recently said he supports the concept of a higher drinking age but has warned of “cosmetic” solutions to the problem.

Earl’s caution is wise. Simply raising the drinking age to 19 will not completely eliminate alcohol abuse in state high schools. Included in the debate over whether to raise the drinking age should be several other related factors.

First, the state must crack down on those who supply liquor to minors. Stiff fines and license suspension or revocation is advisable. Without adequate penalties for liquor suppliers, any positive effect a higher drinking age may have would be negligible.

Second, raising the drinking age would create a negative side effect—illegal, irresponsible 18-year-old college drinkers would be violated. The proposal authored by state legislator John Medinger could prevent this if it is added to a drinking age bill.

Third, a broad program to deal with symptoms of alcohol abuse is needed in Wisconsin high schools. As a national group for the prevention of alcohol abuse found out in a television commercial, we must learn to "respect that stuff."

Finally, there is a moral issue involved with raising the state's legal drinking age. Is it fair to say that 18-year-olds aren't mature or responsible enough to drink and yet expect them to be mature and responsible enough to serve in the military? This seems to be a cruel double-standard that needs to be addressed responsibly.
Transcending history and creating new possibilities

By Todd Holchikis
Pointe Environmental

The chief messenger and exemplar express what I mean to you. At the borders of the ordinary, the possible, the accepted. I must add to my preconceptions of what this should have been, a recount of the life of Brother Miller Day last Sunday. I must venture into a discussion of the idea of transcendence and, by nature of this inquiry, write an unusual and extraordinary article.

For you see, the chief messenger, Dr. Denis Goulet, presented an address in honor of Brother James Miller, a Catholic Brother from the Polonia who was killed in Guatemala on February 13, 1982, provoked me to examine this paradox. This concept means going beyond the realm of what we already know. It means transcending the ordinariness of existence, to "establish the boundaries of the possible." Obviously, by nature of such an inquiry, Goulet, O’Neil Professor of Knowledge who has written a number of books on Education for Justice at the University of Notre Dame, from the moment he attained the possible, we only think we have. This day of commemoration testified to this. But as the present agitations in Michelsen Hall: "Why was Brother Miller killed when he was working in Central America?" This statement is a paradox, and contains the elements of the unknown and uncomfortable which all such paradoxes contain. However, rather than shying away, Miller persevered and he helped people who were and are under siege from their own government. He went where few have gone. He dove into the abyss of ignorance in search of knowledge. He blazed a trail in the unfathomed depths of the darkest wood. He went beyond the borders of the possible to establish a new boundary of the possible. However, he did not entirely solve the dilemma. Nor have any of the other few who have experienced a similar realm of knowledge, which we who have not done so cannot even imagine. These pursuits of knowledge cannot definitively ascertain the situation. They have not acquired the answer, nor have they learned everything there is to know. They have only reached a pioneer realm of knowledge which becomes part of our world, and thereafter struggle to understand it. This is what Jacob Timmermann, author of Prisoner Without a Name, Goulet referred to when he said that there are times when we can only feel comfortable with others, who, like himself, have experienced torture.

The struggle of understanding, of comprehension, of truth, lies between the horns of any paradoxical dilemma: do you pursue the question or do you call it quits based on the assumption that beyond this point it is unknowable? This is the struggle of learning, of coming to know anything. This is how we come to know, how we learn the truth contained in the world.

And when do you know you know? Is there ever an end to knowledge? How do we know this?

Via this process we look for meaning in our lives. We approach situations and wonder. Sadly, our world has become dangerously polluted, with such paradoxes. We can't eat red apples, and simultaneously called the world without stepping on top of someone. We must create nuclear waste to put national interests and our problems because we want to destroy the world, and thereafter struggle to understand it. It is what Timmermann, author of Prisoner Without a Name, Goulet referred to when he said that there are times when we can only feel comfortable with others, who, like himself, have experienced torture.

This rapidly accumulating chatter is piling up because we shrink away from the task of learning. We do not want to know. We want truth to be elusive, and therefore choose to act as blindly in the world as possible.

To understand this question, Goulet said, we have to go beyond the borders of thought. We must come to grips with this contradiction. This contradiction has existed for many years, you might say. And, indeed, you are right. Martyrs such as Brother Miller have existed for time immemorial, and a martyr is what Brother Miller has now become. Therefore, what will be different? Is not such a contradiction normal? I mean, don't we all accept such paradigms as constitutive of what life really is? The obvious answer is yes. We do.

Philosophical inquiry and history would seem to reflect this perspective also: we have acquired all the knowledge that is possible, and we struggle with skepticism, and the colloquial cliché from this philosophical exhaustion is: "That's just the way it is."

Thus as it is for any of the too numerous paradoxes which constitute life as we

University Film Society
Presents
Johnny Guitar

Directed by Nicholas Ray
Starring Joan Crawford and Sterling Hayden
Tuesday and Wednesday
February 22nd & 23rd
7:00 and 9:15
U.C. Program Banquet Room
Admission Only $1.50

Black History

Dr. Robert L. Carter Jr. kicked off Black History Week by urging all of us to live in harmony. Carter was one of several speakers scheduled for Black History Week, which concludes Saturday. (Photo by Rick McNeil)

MATH (MAJORS/MINORS/APITUDE)

You're Needed All Over the World.

Ask Peace Corps Math volunteers why their degrees are needed in the classrooms of the world's developing nations. Ask them why ingenuity and flexibility are as vital as adapting to a different culture. They'll tell you their students know Math is the key to a solid future. And they'll tell you that Peace Corps adds up to a career experience full of rewards and accomplishments. Ask them why Peace Corps is the toughest job you'll ever love.

Register now for interviews Thursday, Feb. 17, at the Career Service Office, 134 old main, visit our booth Feb. 16 & 17 at the Unv Center Concourse

PEACE CORPS
By Joseph Vanden Plas
Senior News Editor

True to his word, Gov. Anthony Earl reversed a decade-long fiscal trend of cutting the UW budget. Earl's 1983-85 budget proposal contains a small increase in outlays for higher education as promised in the 1982 gubernatorial campaign. The budget requests an additional $7 million for instruction and library costs, nearly $900,000 for permanent equipment and about $1 million to improve salaries of exceptional faculty members who would otherwise go into other fields.

More warnings
Two members of the state legislature have expressed reservations about Gov. Earl's budget links between the university and business communities. Sen. Lynn Adelman (D-New Berlin), in an exchange with UW president Robert O'Neil, said that the state and the UW have "ignored a whole lot of dangers...that should be talked about before we go any further."

Rep. Marjorie Miller (D-Madison), accused the state and the UW of not protecting the integrity of the UW System. The governor's budget requests $1.7 million for special economic developments projects and $1.5 million technology development grant for research projects.

Reciprocity snag worked out
An agreement is being worked out between the governors of Wisconsin and Minnesota that would allow tuition reciprocity to continue.

Two weeks ago, Minnesota governor Rudy Perpich said he may phase out tuition reciprocity because it cost his state $7 million each year. However, after consultation with Wisconsin governor Anthony Earl, Perpich announced that the two agreed to reduce the cost incentives for Minnesota residents to attend school in Wisconsin. Minnesota residents currently pay in-state tuition at all Wisconsin schools. Since tuition in Wisconsin is lower than in Minnesota, twice as many residents of Minnesota attend school in Wisconsin than vice-verse, and Minnesota loses money.

Regents ignore morality
The UW Board of Regents went on record opposing regulations linking draft registration with financial aid eligibility but did not formally condemn the proposal. By a vote of 13-2, the Regents passed a resolution to protest what is known as the Solomon Amendment, which would require a young man to prove he has registered for the stand-by military draft if he wants to receive federal financial aid. The Regents said they objected to the amendment because it would place "inappropriate responsibilities and undue burdens" on university administrators. However, three board members refused to vote on the resolution because it did not address the moral implications of the Solomon Amendment, which is scheduled to go into effect July 1.

It doesn't add up
Enrollment statistics from UW-Madison reveal last autumn's entering freshmen were unprepared to handle what the math department considers entry-level math-calculus. This year's new students, however, performed better than their recent predecessors in English grammar and usage exams.

Brother Miller, cont.
...dilemma as he prompted us all to expand our queries into the mysteriousness of the world, yet this search was sealed within the Kingdom of God. Seek knowledge, justice and truth like Brother Miller, was Goulet's message. Don't shrink from the task of acquiring knowledge. His address could not have been more appropriate in this sense. This is the most accurate testimony to what Brother James Miller was: a manifestation of the undeniable drive toward truth and justice via knowledge.

The Lords of Discipline

Opens February 18th at a theatre near you.
Guest edit—

Are drinking laws the answer or part of the problem?

Raising the drinking age is an issue sure to stir passions no matter which side one is on. Most of us will agree that some way must be found to keep alcohol out of the high schools and away from minors, who are generally too immature to drink responsibly. However, drinking age laws only serve to treat a symptom and not the disease. The problem is that many “adults” are no less susceptible to alcohol than are the “minors.”

Alcohol abuse is not unique to any city, state, or country. Throughout the world, government officials are wrestling with the problem. In the Soviet Union and Poland men and women drink too much alcohol and government, religious, and intellectual leaders have sought ways to deal with that difficulty. The problem has not been changed but the song remains the same, a tired dirge of broken marriages, ruined careers, suffering families, other forms of misery, and death.

The problem is that many “adults” are just as likely to drown in the gutters as are the young. Most alcohol abuse out of the high schools and parks, passing out on the side one is on. Most adults are just as likely to be taken in by the temptation as are the young. All of us have been told by the piano player or the teacher or the preacher that alcohol abuse is as varied as humankind.

Many of us have gotten drunk ostensibly to “have a good time” only to find ourselves later on with headaches, nausea, and tongues which feel as if they had been run over with a manure spreader. But why? And to what end?

The problem of alcohol abuse and the things which lead to it will always be with us. However, we must dedicate ourselves to finding positive means and values to deal with those daily difficulties and teach our children to do the same. We can make sure high schoolers and minors have less access to alcohol and drugs, but as long as we choose to treat the diseases our older patients will have every right to respond with the biblical admonition, “Physician, heal thyself.”

John Celichowski

Cruising-choosing: Which bar for you?

By Kim Jacobson

Pointers Features Writer

It isn’t uncommon for UWSP students to go to local bars on the weekends. But what type of bar do they look for?

In a random survey of UWSP students, the question was asked “What do you look for in choosing a bar?” Without much hesitation, many people said they look for an atmosphere that matches their mood. For example, people who feel like a little class may choose a place like Holidome, or The Restaurant.

On the other hand, many people feel like being a little less formal so they look for a place to fall somewhere between the Square and The Restaurant, like Elsa’s or Bruiser’s.

The Square is where people go for a rowdy night. Many of the people polled said they like the Square for drink specials, and as one student put it, “to get trashed without having to give up my right arm.”

Less on the side of specific bars, and more in terms of the things a bar has to offer, people noted the kinds of music they liked to hear when they went to a bar. The kinds of music ranged from jazz to country. Few people I talked to insisted on country music, although it seems that many people in Point do like country music.

The majority of students polled said they would go to a bar where they could mingle with other students. Very few people said they would go to a bar if they didn’t know anyone. In the cases where students were unfamiliar with the bar, many said they liked to study the people inside. The men surveyed said they would “check out the women.” Likewise, women surveyed said they would scope the scene for men. Often, personal taste members of the opposite sex determined whether they would stay or leave. One man said it wasn’t “the way women appeared, but the way they presented themselves” that made him feel like staying and talking to them.

Another man gave an answer that no one else mentioned. He said he looked at the bartender’s attitude. He said he liked an attentive and considerate bartender. In bars where the good bartender won’t slam your beer on the bar, spilling half of it. He commented that the good bartender helps business and gets people coming back.

As for the decor, many people preferred having a fireplace to gather around. A number of people said they continued on pg. 13

Even with the new seals, fewer people are cracking bottles open for relief. (Photo by Mike Gerich)

Fewer are grabbing the bottle

By Mary Ringstad

Pointers Features Writer

"Take two Extra-Strength TYLENOL capsules and call me in the morning, if you can,"Insisted .

Dr. Lawrence H. Block, one of America’s most respected pharmacists, agreed with Brater. Block felt the average American uses too many drugs. "The problem is that most Americans feel shortchanged if their doctors don’t write a prescription for them,” he said.

Culp stated that every drug has the potential for doing good and for doing harm. Proper dietary habits, he added, can often correct a health problem, eliminating the need for a drug.

For the teetotalers, we’d like to help out with a few non-alcohol drink ideas. Others are mixed throughout this section. Enjoy!

The Bellevue

Whip 1 egg white with 4 tablespoons of rich cream. Add 3 tablespoons of pineapple syrup. Put into a shaker and add soda water. Shake well and strain into a tall glass. Put a spoonful of whipped cream on top.

The Mount Vernon

Put 3 tablespoons of chocolate syrup and 1 scoop of chocolate ice cream into a glass that is nearly filled with milk. Stir well and add a spoonful of whipped cream colored with caramel. Serve with a spoon.
Underground Comix

All the print that gives you fits

By Bob Mal

"The first thing the reader notices is that these comics deal with the "taboo" subjects: drugs, sex (including accurate drawings of prosectives, vagnas, and other necessary equipment or snot, politics, etc. Worst of all, notes this anthropological person, these stories come from people's On, and the editors who screw and take drugs and and God knows what else too, gonorhea, overdoses of speed, or a bolt of lightening from Olympus..."

Mark James Estren

Underground Comics

"That stuff is going to rot your mind, you know." -Author's Memo

Before I discovered sex, drugs, rock 'n' roll, and the various other perversions that have become so much a part of my endearing aberrant lifestyle, I was a fairly normal lot. I pedaled trikes, sand boxed, played battleships, watched monster movies and cartoons, guzzled beer, played baseball, and read comics by the armload. Those were, as they say, the days of innocence, and I've turned into a typically screwed up adult. I peddle comics pieces, take cold showers, drink real beer, and the last time I asked someone to play horse, I got my face slapped. Monster movies and cartoons aren't what they used to be, either.

Fortunately, I still have comics. Sort of. You see, I've given up Spiderman, Superman, Fantastic Four, and the other super-heroic mags of my childhood for titles like Harold and Helld, The Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers, and Commiss from Mars (kidnapped by the DC, and Gold Key for Rip Off Press, Kitchen Sink, and Last Gasp). But I still read underground comics.

The ancestry of underground comics can be traced all the way back to the fantastically sleazy "Tijuana Bibles" or "Eldorado's" of the Thirties and Forties, which specialized in detailing the unlkely and often highly amusing sexual exploits of well known persons and cartoon characters. Underground comic artists also claim to have been influenced by things like Walt Kelly's Pogo; Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, and Roadrunner cartoons; and those gruesome old EC horror comics with titles like The Vault of Horror and Tales from the Crypt. The most famous EC comic of all, and an obvious ancestor of today's undergrounds, was Harvey Kurtzman's Tales Calculated to Drive You Mad, which today survives as Mad Magazine.

Those of you who have never seen underground comics, besides being terribly deprived, are no doubt curious about them. You'd like to see what they're all about, but you don't want to actually touch one, because you might catch some dreadful contagious disease—or worse yet, become addicted. Here are some things you'd probably like to know: How are underground comics different from normal aboveground comics? Will I know one if I see one? What are the names of some? What are they really like? Are they really printed underground? Will my mom freak if she finds one in my sock drawer?

Will they warp my mind and turn me into a dangerous, winged fiend who chops teenagers' dros极 excessively, and breathes through his mouth? Let's take these actually rather-silly questions one at a time.

How are underground comics different from normal, aboveground comics? Underground comics differ from their tame cousins in a number of sociallly significant ways, none of which need concern us here. The most crucial difference is that undergrounds thumb their noses at the Comics Code Authority (which controls the content of regular comics), stomp all over decent, traditional American values, and deal openly with sex, violence, religion, drugs, and a number of other facts of life that many people would prefer to suppress, keep quiet, and generally ignore the actual existence of.

Will I know one if I see one? Definitely. When confronted with a suspected underground, ask yourself these key questions: Does it say ADULTS ONLY on the cover? Is the word "comics" spelled C-O-M-I-X? Is it for sale in a head shop, or some other unusual place? Does it cost more than a regular comic? Does it contain any violence? Is there sex lurking about? Any references to dope? Is the stuff inside printed in black-and-white? Does it actually feel sleazy in your hands? If the answer to any of these questions is, "Yes," God help you, you probably have an underground comic.

What are the names of some? Let's see, there's Mr. Natural, Biju Funnies, Paranola, Stash, San Francisco Comic Book, Young, Lust, White Lunch, White Whore Funnies, Bizarre Sex, Fear Dreams, Adults Only, Smart, Slow Death, Psychotic Adventures, Dopin' Dan, Dr. Atomic, Wimmen's Comix, Freak Brothers, Tits & Clits, Deviant Slice, Insect Fear, Mean Bltch Thrills, God Nose, Cherry Popart, Cocaine Comix, Weirdo, 50's Funnies, Zippy, Zap, Inner City Beasts, A Cartoon History of the Universe, and Arachry, to name just a few collections of lots more than 33.

What are they really like? Jeez, I can't even say. Some, like Gilbert Shelton's Fabulous Furry Freak Brother (J-10) are absolutely hilarious, honest, irreverent, and comparatively tasteful. Then there's White Whore Funnies and Adults Only, which are euphemistically referred to as "erotic.."

Incredible Facts O' Life Sex Education Funnies contains actual information on birth control, abortion, and VD. Some comics, like Cherry Popart, are sexually oriented parodies of straight comics. Others, like Zap, are difficult to describe without getting into the really disgusting areas, such as sex between adult women and transvestites. Other undergrounds contain a cartoon in which "three giant chickens catch Colonel Sanders at Atlanta alleyway and proceed to 'Southern fry' him piece by piece." Filipino Food contains a strip in which cops bust the participants of The Last Supper. I could go on and on, but I think you get the general idea. The best way to find out what undergrounds are all about is to get hold of some. For information on how to do that, see the end of this swell article, which is almost upon you.

Are they really printed underground? No, that's just an expression.

Will my mom freak if she finds one in my sock drawer? Yes.

Will they warp my mind and turn me into a dangerous, ax-wielding, etc.? Probably not, but there are no guarantees in life.

So much for silly questions and equally silly answers. The only thing left to be revealed is how in the world a regular person with no underworld connections goes about getting his or her hands on some underground comics. Most people have to send away for them, unless they live in a decent-sized city. You, however, can get some right out of their hands off places and waiting around for the merchandise.

Underground comics can be bought, delivered, and even purchased in Stevens Point at a place called The Galaxy (101 Division (North), in the basement level of the little K-Mart parking lot, The Galaxy features underground comics and postcards, war games, regular superhero comics, used and new science fiction books, and hobby equipment such as models, figures, and paints. If you don't find the undergrounds you want in stock, Galaxy owner Tom Glavich will do his best to special order them for you. Special orders usually take about two weeks. The Galaxy is open from 1-7 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 1-8 p.m. Friday; and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday. Why not sprint on over there right now and spend a few fistfuls of dollars on some boffo underground comics? It'll make you a better (or at least more interesting) person.

The Pittsburgh

Cut several kinds of fruit into small pieces, sprinkle with sugar, and let stand several hours or overnight. When you are ready to serve, put 2 tablespoons of it into a tall glass with a scoop of ice-cream and a good dollop of soda water and serve with a spoon.

Grape Royal

Put 2 tablespoons of grape juice, 1/4 tablespoons of lemon juice, and 1/4 tablespoons of orange juice into a tall glass, half filled with cracked ice. Add some sugar and soda water. Stir well, and fill up glass with ice-cold water. Garnish with a slice of orange or a piece of lemon peel.
Stress on coping without doping your way through

By Scott Carlson

Pointe Features Writer

Stressed? That pain that runs down the back of your neck, creating throbbing temples can be the uptight feeling you get when you meet someone you're attracted to. Stress is the anxiety or emotional pressure that affects your physical health.

In the book Well Being by Dorothy Kiplinger and Schuchman, stress is put into three stages: alarm, resistance and exhaustion. In the first stage the body is pumped full of hormones that increase the heartbeat, respiration and perspiration.

In the second stage the body tries to slow down the accelerated body functions. If stress continues into the third stage, the body will fail, becoming over stressed and muscle and body aches will appear and persist.

Is stress bad? Not necessarily, Dr. Hans Selye, the anxiety or emotional pressure that affects your physical body is slow down the accelerated body functions. If stress continues into the third stage, the body will fail, becoming over stressed and muscle and body aches will appear and persist.

The absence of stress is only a dream awaited letter or a long awaited letter or a dream come true. In a chart that showed the progression of stress levels, the chart showed the emotional pressure that affects your physical health.

1) Extent of Marijuana Use

An estimated 70 million Americans, 18 percent of the adult population, have tried marijuana. Over 30 million Americans, 18 percent of the adult population, use marijuana on a regular basis.

The most recent study on use of marijuana by high school students found a decrease in their daily use of marijuana for the third consecutive year. The decrease in use by high schoolers has declined nearly 40 percent since 1976.

2) Economics of Marijuana Use

Retail sales of marijuana in the U.S. generate over $25 billion each year. The sale of marijuana imports into the U.S. annually. Colombia accounted for 75 percent of the marijuana imported in 1980. Domestic marijuana cultivation increased 35 percent of the national marijuana supply in 1982.

Marijuana is the third largest cash crop in the U.S. behind tobacco and soybeans. Marijuana has an estimated value of $314 billion each year.

As many as 200,000 Americans engage in marijuana cultivation for their primary source of income.

3) Social Costs of Marijuana Use

A. Arrests

4,520,788 marijuana-related arrests have occurred since 1970, approximately 90 percent were for possession of small amounts of marijuana. In 1981, there were 400,300 marijuana-related arrests. Marijuana arrests accounted for 72 percent of all drug arrests in 1981.

B. Dollar Costs

More than $4 billion in law enforcement resources is spent annually on marijuana arrests and prosecution, handling funds from the American taxpayer that could be applied toward the national debt or the education of our children.

C. Health Problems

The physiological effects produced by Delta-9-THC probably result from actions at sites within the central nervous system and elsewhere that have led to the likelihood of complicated effects depending on dose, duration of use, and many other considerations.

Dose of marijuana varies widely. It must be considered both in conducting and interpreting studies of marijuana effects, particularly when friends, taking care of plants and exercise are some of the known ways of reducing stress.

Jeremiah's and Happy Joe's

Jeremiah's and Happy Joe's are two places with such a mood, he feels.

Biofeedback, the monitoring of electrical activity in the body that tells the patient how much stress the body is under, is another good aid for reducing stress. It interested, just set up a time with the counseling center in Delzell, Whipple said.

Stress can be handled if understood. Only then can people cope with it.

Sunset Cooler

Mix 4 tablespoons of strawberry syrup with 4 tablespoons of sweet cream. Add 2 teaspoons of crushed strawberries with a little of the juice. Put into a glass one-third full of cracked ice and fill up with soda water. Decorate with whole strawberries.

Horse's Neck

Peel a lemon in one long strip and put it in a glass so that one end hangs over. Toss the juice of the lemon into a shaker with cracked ice, 1 tablespoon of sugar, and the juice of half a grapefruit. Shake well, and when cold, turn into the glass with the peel, and fill up with ginger ale.

BAR EXAM DAILY, 4:30 TO 7PM. ATTENDANCE IS REQUIRED.

Every afternoon we hold an exam where cramming is not only expected, it's enjoyable.

First study our free hors d'oeuvres, then get a rugged testing of your will from our drink specials and generous wine bar.

And if you're not too weakened for the weekend, there's dancing to the Dave Peters Jazz trio from 7:30 to 11 PM on Friday and 8 to 12 PM on Saturday. The next time the classroom gets you down, pick your spirits up at the classiest room in town, bar none.
Defining and dealing with drug-alcohol problems

By Janelle Hunt
Pointker Features Writer

According to Stu Whipple, alcohol educator at UWSF, 270 to 650 students at UWSF are alcoholics. Another 20 percent are habitual drinkers. Habitual drinkers are the drinkers who constantly drink to relieve themselves, have memory blackouts and have feelings of guilt during or after the bout with the bottle. Addicts, or alcoholics, drink and make excuses, have grandiose and aggressive behavior, and efforts to control their drinking fail repeatedly. They eventually have a loss of control and their drinking continues in a vicious cycle until help is sought to put them on the road to recovery. An important step in helping someone you think might be having a drinking problem is to confront their inappropriate, intoxicated behavior. Also, don't make a judgement and don't make a diagnosis (i.e. "you're an alcoholic"). Simply express concern for them and explain the details of their drinking behavior. Tell them how you felt during the incident and after that, tell them of the services offered at the Counseling and Human Development Center.

Whipple said that their services have helped some 200 students this year, either for themselves or for counseling about a friend or relative. (This shows a big increase from the last few years.)

Marijuana, cont.

trying to predict health consequences."

"The scientific evidence published to date indicates that marijuana has a broad range of psychological and biological effects, some of which, at least under certain conditions, are harmful to human health. Unfortunately, the available information does not tell us how serious this risk may be."

B. The Harvard Medical School Health Letter

"No convincing report has yet been published to show that marijuana permanently damages the brain."

"Marijuana opens the air passages of the lungs, but 'heavy' smoking can narrow the air passages and inflame their lining. Evidence does, not yet exist that shows how much marijuana smoking creates a risk of lung cancer."

Marijuana use can reduce production of the male hormone testosterone and of sperm, however, the effects are temporary and reversible."

V. Changing State Laws — Decriminalization

The National Academy of Sciences included the following in their 1983 report: "The effectiveness of the present federal policy of complete prohibition falls far short of its goal-preventing use. An estimated 55 million Americans have tried marijuana, federal enforcement of prohibition of use is virtually nonexistent, and 11 states have repealed criminal penalties for private possession of small amounts and for private use."

Statistics from these states show "it can no longer be argued that use would be much more widespread and the problematic effects would be greater today if the policy of complete prohibition did not exist. The existing evidence on policies of partial prohibition is as effective in controlling consumption and has entailed considerably lower social, legal and economic costs. On balance, therefore, we believe that a policy of partial prohibition is clearly preferable to a policy of complete prohibition."

(This compilation of current facts and statistics about marijuana in the US was provided by NORML — the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, a nonprofit, public-interest lobby.)
Alcohol Knowledge Test

1. Mixing different kinds of drinks can increase the effect of alcohol.
   T F
2. The average four-ounce drink of wine is less intoxicating than the average one-ounce drink of hard liquor.
   T F
3. A can of beer is less intoxicating than an average drink of hard liquor.
   T F
4. A cold shower can help sober up a person.
   T F
5. A person can be drunk and not stagger or slur his speech.
   T F
6. It is easy to tell if people are drunk even if you don’t know them well.
   T F
7. A person drinking on an empty stomach will get drunk faster.
   T F
8. People’s moods help determine how they are affected by alcohol.
   T F
9. A person who is used to drinking can drink more.
   T F
10. A person who weighs less can get drunk faster than a heavier person.
    T F
11. Out of every ten traffic deaths, up to five are caused by drinking drivers.
    T F
12. The surest way to tell if a person is legally drunk is by the percent of alcohol in the blood.
    T F
13. People who are drunk cannot compensate for it when they drive.
    T F
14. In a fatal drunk driving accident, the drunk is usually not the one killed.
    T F
15. Drinking black coffee can help sober up a person.
    T F
16. Alcoholic beverages are a stimulant.
    T F

Tap Test

So you think you’re a regular Funk and Wagnalls when it comes to beer. Turn the conversation to the frothy brew and you’re above reproach, right? Want to make sure? The following quiz is excerpted from an interscholastic competition held last year in California.

1. What are hops—a fruit, vegetable or what?
   2. What is the second largest selling beer in the world? (Bud is the first).
   3. In the brewing process the word “wort” is used. What is it?
   4. In 1487, the dukes of Bavaria laid down the first party requirement that beer be brewed from only five ingredients. What were those ingredients?
   5. What product is used to force beer from kegs?
   6. What is the symbol associated with bock beer?
   7. Where is the world’s largest beer hall?
   8. The names of ten cities where Bud is brewed is printed on each can. Can you name six of those cities?
   9. In what city is Leinenkugel beer made?
   10. How many gallons does a standard U.S. barrel of beer contain?
   11. How much alcohol is in premium U.S. beer?
   12. What event caused Schlitz to become “The beer that made Milwaukee famous?”

Pot Shots

Well, is it an aphrodisiac or not? Scientists at the University of Texas think they have the answer to the contradiction between scientific findings that pot decreases the sex drive and the experience of users who laugh at such claims. The researchers in Texas have discovered that the drug affects male sexual activity in two phases, raising the levels of testosterone and other sex hormones in a point where the brain senses the increases and shuts down the pump. In previous tests, it was suggested that there had been too much of a time lapse between the smoking and the testing for anything but the secondary phase to be recorded.

A team of researchers at the Harvard Medical School compared surveys of Seniors at a New England University conducted in 1969 and 1978 and found that drug users (mainly pot) and non-users were “essentially indistinguishable” in terms of academic achievement and participation in school activities.

Scientists at UCLA report that they’ve developed a kind of breathalyzer that will detect marijuana use. The device was introduced at a meeting of The American Academy of Forensic Sciences and consists of a tube that contains a kind of filter that extracts the THC from the breath of motorists for later analysis.

Treatement, cont.

A number of outpatient and counselling treatments are offered. They include individual and group discussions and a RAP group (Related Alcohol Problems) for students who are close to someone with a drinking problem.

When students with a problem first come in, their problem is evaluated and they are offered a diagnosis. Most students who come in to see Whipple are habitual drinkers, which he said is just the beginning of alcoholism. It’s good when they come in at this stage since alcoholism is easier to treat effectively in its earlier stages, he explained.

If the problem is really into the late stages, the patient might be referred to the Portage County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. If the patient requires inpatient treatment they will be sent to the Marathon County facilities or St. Michael’s Hospital if help is required immediately. They also have a day service which is like inpatient treatment, only its patients stay only during the day. This is mostly for Portage County residents, and students usually get their treatment from the services offered here on campus. There is also the local Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon for additional help in dealing with drinking problems.

If you think you or a friend need help but you can’t face anyone, there is a number of tapes you can listen to by simply dialing HELP (366-4337) and a tape will be played on your request.

Society today has set up the abuse of these drugs, and as Whipple said, “The more we say and do, the better.”
PHI SIGMA EPSILON PRESENTS

SPRING BREAK IN DAYTONA BEACH

MARCH 4 - 13, 1983

Arrangements by
ECHO TRAVEL, INC.
MC152571F
UW (St. Pk.)

SIX PER ROOM
$197

TRIP INCLUDES
• Round trip motor coach transportation via modern highway coaches to Daytona Beach, Florida leaving Friday, March 4.
• Seven nights accommodations at the exciting Plaza Hotel of Daytona Beach. Located at 600 North Atlantic Ave., it is the most demanded hotel on the strip at that time.
• A truly great schedule of activities including our famous pool deck parties and belly flop contest.
• Optional excursions available to Disney World, Epcot, and several other attractions.
• Numerous bar and restaurant discounts.
• The services of full time travel representatives.
• All taxes and gratuities.
• Guaranteed kitchenette or oceanfront available at small additional charge. (4 per room only)

FOUR PER ROOM
$209

A QUALITY TRIP - A LOW PRICE - A GREAT TIME
The Plaza Hotel, located right in the middle of the strip, is definitely the place to be during spring break. Ask anyone who has been to Daytona. The hotel has a pool, big party deck, restaurant, four bars, color TV, air conditioned rooms and plenty of activities. Pictures are available where you sign up. Our motor coaches are nothing but the highest quality highway coaches. We also give you more extras with our trip than anyone else. Don't blow it and go on a lower quality trip. LAST YEAR OVER 8,000 PEOPLE ENJOYED THIS TRIP.

SIGN UP NOW AT OUR BOOTH IN THE UNIVERSITY CENTER OR BY CALLING

We still have space available, but going fast!
345 cases of beer will be given away the week of our stay!

Four days left to sign up. Check our booth on the Concourse Friday, Monday & Tuesday. Final payments no later than 5 p.m.
Four days left to sign up. Check our booth on the Concourse Friday, Monday & Tuesday! Final payments no later than 5 p.m. Tuesday!

Bonus for Resident Hall with the most students on the trip — $500 towards beverage of your choice!

Providing your own transportation? Let the Phi Sig's providing rooming at the Plaza for only $110.00 (4 per room)—be guaranteed a roof over your head!

Hurry Limited Space Available! last day for final payment is February 22!
The Not-So-Straight Dope on Dope

During the rebellious heyday of the 1960s, consumption of recreational drugs on college campuses was almost as popular as the video game experience today. In some corners, failure to partake branded one an establishment sympathizer or at least set the abstainer apart as some form of social deviant. The times, they have changed. Drug use is still a fact of social life nationally, on state campuses, and even at our own institution of higher ed—but it is no longer a frenzied rite. Drug use is no longer associated with showing the world you’re fed up with your parents’ values and world views. No, recreational drug use is simply that—another way to unwind for those who wish to supplant or supplement their alcoholic tastes.

Pasteur Magazine does not advocate the ingestion of any foreign substances into anyone’s bodies. Of course, we also don’t advocate husband beating or kitty juggling, yet these practices continue to flourish. So in other words, no matter what we think about potentially harmful activities, some fun-seeking Don Quixote type is going to blindly pursue them anyway. Consequently the best we can do is try to pass along the inside poop on what they’re getting into and hope some discretion follows as a result.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Drug Name</th>
<th>Availability in Point</th>
<th>Cost</th>
<th>Advantages</th>
<th>Disadvantages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Alcohol</td>
<td>Almost as available as tap water</td>
<td>Varies with type and proof %</td>
<td>legal with no social stigma damages brain, muscles, liver, stomach, kidneys</td>
<td>circulation, and anxiety level physically &amp; psychologically addicting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marijuana</td>
<td>Homegrown in area is always available. Sensimilla &amp; Indigo usually around Brown colored pot depends on political climate</td>
<td>From $10 an oz. (homegrown) to $200 an oz. (exotic)</td>
<td>both stimulant and depressant; relaxing</td>
<td>promotes lung cancer, affects reproductive organs, can cause loss of memory and poor judgment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hashish</td>
<td>Seasonal availability</td>
<td>5 to 8 dollars a gram; 25 to 40 a half gram - more intense same as pot but claims to $10 a shroom</td>
<td>same as pot but more potentially harmful</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hallucinogens</td>
<td>Sporadic (mushrooms) (LSD, Mescaline, most common) Peyote, Peyolchiny</td>
<td>From as low as .50 cents a tab to as high as $200 an oz.</td>
<td>Can be used by some users to claim to see God</td>
<td>Psychological addiction, hallucinations, flashbacks, potential brain damage, paranoic tendencies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Speed (Amphetamines) Especially avail. during midterms &amp; Finals weeks</td>
<td>Tab prices vary by potency. Crosses go for $15-$30 a 100</td>
<td>You can easily stay awake all night. Euphoric, Great love</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cocaine</td>
<td>Depends on who you know</td>
<td>Usually about $50 a half gram</td>
<td>Great love, drug</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heroin</td>
<td>Everybody we know is scared of the stuff</td>
<td>Before or after addiction? Heaven on drugs</td>
<td>Heavenly trip is short lived w/o dose increase, so addict is usually short lived too.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Inhalants (glue, thinner, et.al.) - so incredibly dangerous and repugnant, we refuse to check.

Keep your head about you (when other tokers are losing theirs)

Use paraphrenalia safely (Ask Rich - the life you save will be your own)

Don’t go shopping - food and toy stores are especially dangerous on a limited budget.

Allow getting high to run your pocketbook, your ambitions, and in general, your life.

Don’t visit video arcades if you’re saving for a Daytona Beach vacation.

Don’t attempt activities that are too physical - a brisk walk or a game of catch is plenty healthy for most drug users.

Don’t sell drugs to minors - They usually can’t handle them and you won’t be able to handle what’s going to happen after their parents find out why Jr. likes you so much.

Don’t attempt activities that require much detailed precision (like building a ship in a bottle) sound judgement (like jumping from your roof to the neighbors), or memory skills (reading your archeology text the night before finals).

Don’t get arrested.

Keep your head about you (when other tokers are losing theirs)

Use paraphrenalia safely (Ask Rich - the life you save will be your own)

Don’t go shopping - food and toy stores are especially dangerous on a limited budget.

Allow getting high to run your pocketbook, your ambitions, and in general, your life.

Don’t visit video arcades if you’re saving for a Daytona Beach vacation.

Don’t attempt activities that are too physical - a brisk walk or a game of catch is plenty healthy for most drug users.

Don’t sell drugs to minors - They usually can’t handle them and you won’t be able to handle what’s going to happen after their parents find out why Jr. likes you so much.

Don’t attempt activities that require much detailed precision (like building a ship in a bottle) sound judgement (like jumping from your roof to the neighbors), or memory skills (reading your archeology text the night before finals).

Don’t get arrested.
Red eyes (color in yourself)
Nose permanently enlarged and deformed by cocaine
Unusual hair growth on face (or breast development in men)
God knows what's in here--probably your little brother's milk money
Long sleeves to hide needle marks
Clever device for rolling "joints" (marijuana cigarettes)
Invisible aura of irresponsibility
Marijuana stains
Long pants to hide unshaven legs
Obscure and/or out-of-date political button
Reflecto glasses to hide dilated pupils and scare little kids
Laughs at anything
Obvious smoking paraphernalia
Cheap swill, used to wash down "ludes"
"The Teachings of Don Juan," or some other pseudo-mystical dope book
"Ticonderoga Brown" (Actual marijuana, cleverly disguised as pencil shavings)
Obnoxious bandanna (or other passe' 60's accoutrement)
Unbelievably cheesy getup
Veins
Unusual pets (too small to be seen with the naked eye)

How to spot a Dope Fiend (21 dead giveaways)
The Verdict upheld by Newman's performance

By Chris Celichowski

Revolver News Editor

The popular decision on "The Verdict" is in, and it is no miscarriage of critical justice to rank this picture among 1983's finest.

Despite the film's seamy opening to its quiet, contemplative final scene, the viewer is immersed in the life of a jaded Don Quixote resuming his search for lost idealism and self-respect.

"The Verdict" portrays the life of Frank Galvin, a once-promising Boston attorney now reduced to an incoherent alcoholic. Paul Newman's powerful character has sunk so low he solicits business from bereaved relatives at the funerals of complete strangers.

Into Galvin's rapidly crumbling life enters his ex-partner and mentor Mickey Morrissey (Jack Warden). After seeing Galvin in a drunk tank and examining his unused, disheveled office, Morrissey offers his ex-protege an opportunity to make some easy money.

He gives Galvin a case neither side hopes will get to court. It concerns a medical malpractice suit filed against the Archdiocese of Boston by the sister of a girl who needlessly died in an archdiocesan hospital. She was given an anesthetic too soon after eating and was unapprehended by her result as a result.

The Archdiocese offers Galvin $210,000 to settle out of court, emphasizing his one-third retainer. The sister of the deceased, and especially her husband, are anxious to take the money and flee to Arizona where the unemployed husband has found a job.

After seriously considering the out-of-court settlement, Galvin decides to proceed with a $700,000 malpractice suit, much to the consternation of the Archdiocese and the victim's family. For Galvin the case represents not only a chance to restore justice, but a desperate effort to put some spirit into a dead life.

However, Galvin's rebirth is foiled when a judge and respected lawyer who hopes to kill Frank's professional career做得 for all. For those who have any Pietistic illusions about the way justice operates in this nation, the underhanded collaboration between lawyer Ed Concannon (James Mason) and Judge Hoyle (Milo O'Shea) graphically illustrates the reality of urban justice.

Recent divorcée Laura Fischer, played by English actress Charlotte Rampling, complicates Galvin's climb to respectability. Their affair, following a casual meeting in a Boston pub, is a blemish on the character of the protagonist. Galvin's growth but ends up tragically as an unexpected test of his resolve to change.

Paul Newman portrays Frank Galvin with all the convincing moxie that has marked his distinguished career. Unlike many celluloid heroes, Galvin has all the fallible characteristics of his audience. His climb from disillusioned drunkenness and lost idealism become ours, as does his success or failure.

Newman has received five Academy Award nominations for such cinematic gems as "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Absence of Malice," and "Cool Hand Luke." However, he has yet to win an Oscar. Newman's performance in this film will undoubtedly garner another nomination, but may not be enough to withstand Dustin Hoffman's wonderful performance in "Tootsie." Critics around the globe agree "The Verdict" is Paul Newman's best performance, and considering the vitality he has given his character, it should earn him the elusive Oscar.

Newman's supporting cast wins up on the list of Academy Award nominations. Jack Warden plays Mickey Morrissey with the strength of humanity present in many of his character roles of the past. James Mason is very effective, and despicable, as the cunning patent lawyer intent on winning the case and destroying Galvin.

Charlotte Rampling's sultry performance as a double-crossing divorcée is the strongest female role in many years. Blackmailer Elke Cruse plays her five minute part as a key witness with stunning effectiveness.

The relationship between Newman and Rampling is one of the film's high disappointments. Although cultivated carefully throughout the film, the relationship never comes off.

Continued on pg. 29

Stooges give Trivia a swift kick-off

By Fred Posler

Polter Feature Writer

Trivia is back, in fact, and Stoogefest '83, presented by 90FM, will get the contest rolling in a conversation with Dave Schmookler, 90FM trivia organizer and Three Stooges enthusiast, he offered information about the dates and events involved with this year's trivia kickoff.

Trivia will mark the 50th Anniversary of the Three Stooges. It will begin on Monday, February 21, with a special edition of two-way presenting interviews with Joe Beisser (one of the actual Stooges in 1937 and '38), Emil Sitka (who worked with the Stooges as a character actor for 30 years), and Moe Feinberg (Larry's brother who runs a Stooges fan club out of Philadelphia).

Then, and more the Three Stooges film festival on Friday, February 25, at 11:30 p.m. and Saturday, the 26th, at 1:30 p.m. at Campus Cinema on Division Street. Schmookler commented that the film festival will include cartoons all for $2.50 with the proceeds going to 90FM.

Giving a brief history of the Stooges, Schmookler accounted for their beginning in Vaudeville where they started with organizer Ted Healy as "Ted Healy and the Three Lost Souls." Originally the Three Stooges included Moe, Larry and Shemp with the later addition of Jerry Howard (brother of Moe and Larry), known as Curly.

The Three Stooges first short film was in 1933 and they continued until 1940

THIS WEEK IN MUSIC

By Mark Holf

Special to Pointer Magazine

Chris Christie of the Pretenders added a new member to her family by the birth to a baby girl on January 22. The father is Ray Davies of the Kinks. Christie is now in London, taking it easy and getting used to the idea of having a baby.

Meanwhile, the Pretenders will soon begin rehearsal with two new members. Robbie McIntosh, formerly with Night, is new on guitar, and Malcolm Foster, formerly with the Foster Brothers, is the new bassist. However, McIntosh and Foster are not on the "Chain Gang" single. They were recorded with Billy Bremner on guitar and Tony Butler on bass.

In September, the new lineup recorded seven tracks, about two for each side of the album. The band will return to the studio in April.

Reportedly, the sound of the new Pretenders is much like that of the old. Pete Farndon, the original Pretenders bass player, left the group only a day before honeymoon-Scott Rice, guitar, last past summer. McIntosh and Foster, however, are filling the two vacancies with new musical styles and are gearing up for a spring tour...Jaco Pastorius is recording two new albums, one live and the other studio-recorded. Featured on the live disc, recorded during Pastorius' recent Japanese tour, are Randy Brecker, Peter Erskine, Oteil Miles, Toots Thielemans, Bobby Minn, Don Alias, and Paulinho da Costa. The new single by Country Joe McDonald is "Blood On The Ice," about the annual slaughter of baby seals in Canada. The B-side is about the String Quartet. Bob Welch, The Black William, Felder, Joe Sample, Lou Rawls, B.B. King, The B-5's, The Pretenders, The Pretenders, The Pretenders, The Pretenders, The Pretenders. The next project is an LP of big band standards to be done...Continued on pg. 29
"The Little Foxes" take audience by the tail

By Hope Benalin
Special to the Pointer

"The Little Foxes," written by Lillian Hellman, is currently playing in Jenkins Theater here on campus in the College of Fine Arts. The show is directed by Linda Martin Moore.

Ms. Moore takes ten students, envelops them in a well written script, and creates a feeling between these performers and the dramatic work by Lillian Hellman. There is emotion and energy in the interaction between characters, no matter how much or how little involvement there actually is. She develops her own "family."

The play itself takes place in the South at the turn of the century. There are ten characters, including: Addie and Cal, the servants; Oscar, Leo, and Birdie, one family of Hubbards; Horace, Alexandra, and Regina, another family of Hubbards; Ben, Oscar and Regina's brother; and, Mr. Marshall, a businessman from Chicago.

James Marita plays the part of the Chicago businessman. He appears briefly and charms everyone with his deep voice and his polite manners.

Addie and Cal are played by Julie Tatham and Drew Wimmer, respectively. Both do a fine job performing, remaining in character at all times and keeping in their "proper" places as the servants.

Jay Leggett, the man who plays Bruce Buschmann, also has the advantage of our reduced menu items:

- McChicken Sandwich™
- Quarter Pounder™
- Quarter Pounder™ w/ Cheese™
- Big Mac™
- McChicken Sandwich™
- Chicken McNuggets™

ANNIVERSARY COUPON BONANZA

Celebrate McDonald's® Anniversary!

Use the coupon below to take advantage of our reduced prices on our popular selection of these McDonald’s® menu items:

- Quarter Pounder™
- Quarter Pounder™ w/ Cheese™
- Big Mac™
- McChicken Sandwich™
- Chicken McNuggets™

LIMIT 4 ITEMS PER COUPON

2128 8th Street South, Wis. Rapids
127 N. Division, Stevens Point

Bring this coupon to McDonald's® in Wisconsin Rapids or Stevens Point and get any of these items...

99c

Continued on pg. 29
By John C. Savgian

More details on the Department of Energy's plans for a radioactive waste dump at a site near Wausau, Wisconsin were revealed before the students involved in the Environmental Education Network (EEN) last Thursday, February 18, in the Environmental Education Center of the University. Two members of the State of Wisconsin Radioactive Waste Review Board, Naomi Jacobson and William Clare, were on hand to share their knowledge and thoughts on this highly controversial issue.

Although Naomi Jacobson spoke following William Clare's presentation, her talk focused on the technical aspects of the proposed dump site, and it would be best to review his account first. What those present discovered was that the Department of Energy might be something of a federal agency formulating plans, and at the present there are two similar but distinct plans under consideration that deal with the granite substructure beneath Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Upper Michigan.

Both plans deal with a high-level waste site, the only type Wisconsin is being considered for at this time. The waste consists of spent fuel rods from this nation's nuclear power plants and the by-products of the nuclear weapons program. The fuel rods, which are about the diameter of a pencil but 13 feet long, come in assemblies of 100. A total of 406 megawatts of power will be generated at the new nuclear reactor's core. Every year, a third of these rods radioactive waste. These rods can then either be disposed of in their present form or be disposed of in a converted, acid base, and stored in concentrated form in glass or ceramic canisters. The DOE is looking at over 15 sites in Wisconsin. The deposit would cover about 12 square miles (6,000 acres) above the surface and cover from 1,600 to 1,800 acres of mined area 2,000 feet below the surface. Within this mine would be some 3,000 rooms, each one 500 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 18 feet high with a trench running through the middle of the 13 foot-wide room. If the room were the waste from the light water reactors, and in between there would be part of the granite substructure, the waste would be the waste from the light water reactors, and in between would be part of the granite substructure. If the room were the waste from the light water reactors, and in between would be part of the granite substructure. If the room were the waste from the light water reactors, and in between would be part of the granite substructure.

Once the canisters are in place, a process that must be done by 2000, the DOE said the inevitable pressure will be created by the granite and then pulled back. If those pressure, then it is possible that the granite would be solid and full. "So whole thing they have drilled out is solid and full," she noted. Yet even after filling in the cavities, they will still leave the mines open, allowing for possible retrieval for about 15 years of the amount of time before the intense heat would need to be retrieved. Why would the government want to be able to retrieve their waste after they have taken such efforts to bury it? Mrs. Jacobson noted that, "If it's retrievable, then it is possible that this could be taken out and reprocessed at some time in the future for use of the uranium and plutonium in weapons."

While the DOE is still in the process of being mined, those rooms that were already completed would be filled with high-level waste, then backfilled. Mrs. Jacobson noted that "if they run into problems with flooding, they say right in their book that they will backfill those areas that have problems."

William Clare provided the audience with an historical overview of the DOE's plans for a radioactive waste dump. Placed within these caves would be placed waste drums, located at the mine opening, as the DOE expects to have an accident. Other states have been provided with plans of their own for a radioactive waste dump. Wisconsin has not been selected as a site for this type of dump.

1. Be cautious of using industry analyses for construction impact. It is not valid to assume the DOE will not fabricate jobs that will be created by such an activity. Lower unemployment should not be assumed because of the creation of a mine site. The unemployment figures may actually rise as the area becomes a magnet for job seekers who will find that the jobs are not what they had been predicted to be.

2. Watch for potential routes to and from the area. Transportation of waste is handled by either train or truck. While trucks tend to be more involved in more accidents, a rail accident is of much greater concern because of the magnitude of the load.

3. The state should actively pursue liability coverage, and the DOE should be aware of the existence of that coverage.

4. The DOE assistance in the event of an accident. Other states have been given the bill for any cleanup of radioactive waste resulting from an accident, which occurred on state highways and rail lines. "Mind you," said Clare, "the Department of Energy is going to cooperate with Wisconsin." The DOE has told the state that the chance of any accidents occurring is virtually nonexistent, that it is truly safe, and yet they're not willing to accept the liability for it.

Mr. Clare mentioned that the Radiation Council had followed the recommendation of its Policy Council and voted to support the national radioactive waste repository in Wisconsin. He summarized the situation as the department's own, "The lack of proven technology, when you go through what has happened in the other state, in whatever containers they put radioactive waste in, shows that nothing has worked, nothing has been proven. Today there is no safe technology for the radioactive waste). What they are going to do here is basically experimental. We are going to be their guinea pigs."

S.A.N.E. opposes nuclear waste dump in Wisconsin

The UWSP student organization Student Action Network Against Nuclear Extension (S.A.N.E.) is sponsoring a meeting to discuss the meeting next week, Monday evening, February 17, at the University Center. The meeting is being held in conjunction with the Attorney General of Wisconsin and with citizens of Wisconsin regarding DOE's plans for the nuclear waste site in Wisconsin. This state may be one of the two national high-level nuclear waste repositories.

Citizen crucial citizens are invited to attend from in the UWSP University Center at 5:30 p.m. and will return at 11:30 p.m. Ms. Jacobson said that this will be the best way to discuss the meeting. She pointed out that the DOE's plans for the nuclear waste site in Wisconsin might be reconsidered.

The importance of this meeting has been emphasized by S.A.N.E. President. Last September 8 the DOE was to meet in Wausau with representatives of the State of Wisconsin. The Nuclear Waste Review Board is responsible for determining the safety of the nuclear waste site. The DOE is responsible for determining the safety of the nuclear waste site. Wisconsin is responsible for determining the safety of the nuclear waste site.

Professor Donald G. Cummings of the University of New Mexico, which offered a number of guidelines and suggestions on the proposal. He was aware of the decision on a radioactive waste site.

1. Be cautious of using industry analyses for construction impact. It is not valid to assume the DOE will not fabricate jobs that will be created by such an activity. Lower unemployment should not be assumed because of the creation of a mine site. The unemployment figures may actually rise as the area becomes a magnet for job seekers who will find that the jobs are not what they had been predicted to be.

2. Watch for potential routes to and from the area. Transportation of waste is handled by either train or truck. While trucks tend to be more involved in more accidents, a rail accident is of much greater concern because of the magnitude of the load.

3. The state should actively pursue liability coverage, and the DOE should be aware of the existence of that coverage.

4. The DOE assistance in the event of an accident. Other states have been given the bill for any cleanup of radioactive waste resulting from an accident, which occurred on state highways and rail lines. "Mind you," said Clare, "the Department of Energy is going to cooperate with Wisconsin." The DOE has told the state that the chance of any accidents occurring is virtually nonexistent, that it is truly safe, and yet they're not willing to accept the liability for it.

Mr. Clare mentioned that the Radiation Council had followed the recommendation of its Policy Council and voted to support the national radioactive waste repository in Wisconsin. He summarized the situation as the department's own, "The lack of proven technology, when you go through what has happened in the other state, in whatever containers they put radioactive waste in, shows that nothing has worked, nothing has been proven. Today there is no safe technology for the radioactive waste). What they are going to do here is basically experimental. We are going to be their guinea pigs."
Cagers win three to lead USWC

By Mary-Margaret Vogt

After three impressive victories, the UWSP men's basketball team emerged alone at the top of the USWC. 1 1/2 games ahead of second-place La Crosse. The Indians suffered their second conference loss at the hands of Whitewater, 77-64 last night. The Pointers posted wins over Platteville, 89-56, Whitewater 69-63 and River Falls 66-54 to give them a 12-1 conference record and an 18-3 overall mark.

Things started out great for the Platteville Pioneers last Wednesday night as they won the opening tipoff, came down the floor and hit a layup to take a 2-0 lead over conference leader UWSP. But from that point on, things couldn't have gone any worse. UWSP reeled off 12 straight points to take a 10-point lead after just three and a half minutes of play, and kept right on going, building an insurmountable 54-16 halftime lead on their way to an 89-60 throttling of the outclassed Pioneers.

The Pointers could do no wrong in the first half, as they hit on an amazing 24 of 32 field goals for 75 percent, while holding Platteville to seven of 21 field attempts for 33 percent. John Mack scored 16 of his 18 points in the half while Terry Porter added 10.

For the game, Porter was outstanding, hitting nine of 12 field goals for 75 percent, grabbing six rebounds and handing out five assists, all in just over 18 minutes of playing time. Fred Sternmeler added 10 points, while Dave Schlundt, Tim Hagen and Chris Wadewitz were also in double figures.

The Pointers shot 39 of 61 floor shots for 64 percent while Platteville managed to make only 21 of 54 field goals for 39 percent. The Pointers also outrebounded Platteville 38-27 and forced the Pioneers into 21 turnovers while committing only three themselves.

Point just dominated. They took everything away from us. Their defense was excellent and created numerous opportunities for them. We also didn't play with any intensity. We finally got aggressive about midway through the second half but the game was over by halftime.

Pointer head coach Dick Wadewitz said simply,

Other top scorers for USWP were Dawn Mannebach with 12 points and Regina Bayer with 11. Anne Bumgarner played a complete game for the Pointers as she had a game-high 11 rebounds, dished out six assists, scored eight points and had three steals.

Pointer coach Bonnie Gehling was very pleased with the performance of her entire team. "This was truly a team victory. Everybody knew what they had to do and I don't think we could have played any harder.

"Our emphasis on defense is really working to our advantage and it was a big part while slipping to 17 of 26 from the free throw line for 66 percent. The Warhawks made only 29 of 65 floor attempts for 45 percent and are second in the conference in free throws with 63 percent.

John Mack scored 14 of his team-high 25 points in the first half. For the game, Fred Sternmeler and Brian Koch chipped in for 17 and 13 points apiece while Brad Soderberg added 10. Koch also snared a game-high 13 rebounds.

Head coach Dick Bennett cited the start of the second half as the turning point of the contest. "We played well in the second half, especially in the first five minutes. We had a much better selection which was our big offensive advantage. We also played exceptional team defense, applying good pressure inside. Brian Koch did a super job shutting down their big man, Mark Linde, holding him to two points on one of five field goal attempts. We also didn't give them many good shots, which took away their offense.

The Whitewater offense was limited to the heroics of Andre McCoy, who drilled 12 of 22 field goal attempts and three of four free throws for a game high 27 points. Bennett stressed that the Pointers must keep the win in perspective. "We can be happy with the win," he said, "but we want to move on. There are a lot of tough games coming up." Although those tough games came Tuesday night, as the Pointers took away River Falls' chance for a second place finish in the USWC by finishing them off 66-54.

River Falls put the first two points on the board but led up to the seven minute mark Continued on p. 24

---

Pointers’ pristine record tacks on two wins

By Julie Denker

Pointer Sports Writer

The UWSP women's basketball team remains un-beaten in 1994 with a 5-0 record with wins over UW-Oshkosh 68-57 on Feb. 6 and UW-Platteville 75-56 on Feb. 11. Their season record is now 11-4.

Against UW-Oshkosh the Pointers' defense was excellent as they won by a 17 point lead, 68-57. They outrebounded them 32-18 and moved into a tie for first place in the WIAC. Against UW-Platteville, the WIAC,...
Grapplers take ninth in WSUC Meet at home

By Tom Barkman
Pointers Sports Writer

The UWSP wrestling team finished sixth in the Wisconsin State University Conference Meet here last Saturday. UW River Falls, rated fourth in the country in the latest NAIA poll, captured first place in the meet.

River Falls had five individual champions and totaled 89 points for the title. Defending champion UW-Oshkosh was second with 72.25 points while UW-Whitewater had 71 points for third place. Rounding out the scoring were: UW-Platteville (honorable mention in the NAIA poll), 47.50; UW-Stout, 35.25; UW-La Crosse, 29.50; UW-Eau Claire, 17.50; UW-Superior, 15.75; and UWSP, was the champion on a for third place. Rounding out the Munson said "Shane was in UW-Eau Claire, 17.50; UW-Terry Keller (River Falls), had three champions with Rick Gruber at 118 (a three-time conference champ and the runner-up in the NCAA meet last year) also placed first for River Falls at 190.

Second place Oshkosh had three champions with Tom Gallagher at 134 and Dave Brandvold at 177. Tim Potratz at 126, and Rich Tomaszewski at 142 (a two-time conference champ and a fifth place finisher in the NCAA last year).

The other champions were Duane Grosholz of Platteville at 167 and Jim Viane of Superior in the heavyweight division.

As Coach Munson said, "We weren't too lucky. We lost the champions in the first round of some of our matches (actually five, which included: Scott Carlson at 134 who lost 16-4; Vic Schluga at 142 who lost 10-2; Bryan Yenter at 187 who lost 25-0; Dan Umnus at 190 was pinned and Mike Kumm was eliminated in the heavyweight division)."

"Being an average team resulted in our drawing five No. 1 seeded wrestlers in the first round," said Munson. "You have to have champions to score points."

"The funny thing, though," he added, "was that we beat La Crosse, Eau Claire and Superior in other tournaments this year. You just have to be a little luckier than we were."

On River Falls' performance, he mentioned, "They are the best team I have seen in the WSUC in eight years. They have a good shot at winning the NAIA championship."

Both Bohnen and Giaimo will travel to Whitewater, Wisconsin to compete in the NCAA regional tournament which will conclude Saturday.

Men's basketball, cont.

When John Mack scored six unanswered points to give the Pointers a permanent lead. UWSP continued their at 118 (a three-time conference champ and the runner-up in the NCAA meet last year). The other champions were Duane Grosholz of Platteville at 167 and Jim Viane of Superior in the heavyweight division.

As Coach Munson said, "We weren't too lucky. We lost the champions in the first round of some of our matches (actually five, which included: Scott Carlson at 134 who lost 16-4; Vic Schluga at 142 who lost 10-2; Bryan Yenter at 187 who lost 25-0; Dan Umnus at 190 was pinned and Mike Kumm was eliminated in the heavyweight division)."

"Being an average team resulted in our drawing five No. 1 seeded wrestlers in the first round," said Munson. "You have to have champions to score points."

"The funny thing, though," he added, "was that we beat La Crosse, Eau Claire and Superior in other tournaments this year. You just have to be a little luckier than we were."

On River Falls' performance, he mentioned, "They are the best team I have seen in the WSUC in eight years. They have a good shot at winning the NAIA championship."

Both Bohnen and Giaimo will travel to Whitewater, Wisconsin to compete in the NCAA regional tournament which will conclude Saturday.

field goal attempts for a respectable 45 percent, but hit only 6 of 18 free throws compared to 16 of 24 for UWSP. The Pointers also won the rebounding battle 24-23, while committing more turnovers, 14-12.

River Falls coach Stan Jack said, "Point's defense cost us the offense. We also go in foul trouble down the stretch."

Head coach Dick Bennett attributed the win to constitutional defense and patience on offense. "We took good shots, unlike River Falls, and Brad Soderberg put excellent pressure on the ball. This was a tough game."

Looking forward to the final four games of the season, Bennett said, "Every team is a special challenge. No team is to be overlooked."

Hockey

SID-The UWSP ice hockey team jumped out to a 1-0 lead with a goal only 18 seconds into the first period, but lost to the Badgers 4-1 in the NAIA meet.

The first Pointer goal came on a shot by Craig Maduing. The Badgers scored one minute later to tie the score. Madison did all of the scoring in the second period, as the Badgers jumped out to a 4-1 lead. The Badgers had extended their lead to 6-1 before Point was able to come up with another goal.

The loss brought the Pointers' record to 5-29, and they will conclude their season this weekend when they travel to Bethel (Minn.) for a 2-game series.

Men's swimming

SID-The UWSP men's swim team were edged by the University of Wisconsin in Madison in the best performance by the Pointers against Wisconsin in a long time.

The UWSP team lost by a score of 51-52 while they qualified five individuals and two relays for nationals, and earned first five places.

The Pointers' next meet is the WSUC Championships at UW-LaCrosse February 17-19.

Women's swimming

SID-The UWSP women's swim team concluded its dual meet schedule on a successful note in River Falls Friday as it defeated UW-River Falls 52-38.

The win improves UWSP's dual meet record to 7-3 for the season. The Pointers will now look to host the Wisconsin Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Meet which will begin Sunday, Feb. 18, at UW-LaCrosse.

The Pointer women swimmers captured firsts in 11 of the 18 events run and added seven seconds to easily win the meet.

Kim Swanson, Sue Vincent and Elaine Cole were double winners for the Pointers.
FREE!
Deep Fried Mushrooms
Cheese Curds
Or
Onion Rings
With The Purchase Of A
Large Pizza
Dine-In Or Delivery
341-4990

On Business Highway 51 So., Next To Shopko
Open Daily 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.-Sundays 9 to 6

Our Warehouse Grocery Prices
Will Save You Money!
You'll be pleasantly surprised at the low prices in the bright and clean aisles thru-out our store!
You help by marking some of the grocery prices; you help by bagging your purchases; you save the money!

OUR SUPER SAVER SPECIALS
SAVE YOU MORE MONEY!
Get one Super Saver Coupon with each $5.00 purchase. Six coupons fill a card! Use the filled card to obtain a Super Saver Special!
We Have The Lowest Grocery
Prices Plus Super Saver Specials
Too!

SEMESTER IN SPAIN
For full information—write to:
2442 E. Collier S.E., Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506
(A Program of Trinity Christian College)
CANTERBURY TALES—The actors of The New Vic Theatre of London combine traditional dramatic skills with music, dance, mime, and clowning, to involve the audience (that’s you) in the bawdy, booby, good-spirited fun of Canterbury Tales. Why not make a pilgrimage to the Sentry Theatre at 8 p.m. and check this show out. Tickets are $1.50 with current student ID and are available from the Arts & Lectures Box Office in Fine Arts Upper. Free bus transportation to and from Sentry is available from Hyer, Pray, Baldwin, Burroughs, Thomson, and the University Center, at 7:15 and 7:40 p.m.

SPEEDO

Speedo suits America.

*Speedo is a registered trademark of Speedo Knitting Mills, Pty Ltd.

The New Vic Theatre of London combines traditional dramatic skills with music, dance, mime, and clowning, to involve the audience (that’s you) in the bawdy, booby, good-spirited fun of Canterbury Tales. Why not make a pilgrimage to the Sentry Theatre at 8 p.m. and check this show out. Tickets are $1.50 with current student ID and are available from the Arts & Lectures Box Office in Fine Arts Upper. Free bus transportation to and from Sentry is available from Hyer, Pray, Baldwin, Burroughs, Thomson, and the University Center, at 7:15 and 7:40 p.m.

THURSDAY & FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17 & 18

RAGTIME—Milos Forman’s powerful film of love, racism, and revenge stars James Cagney and Elizabeth McGovern. UAB screens this one at 7 and 9:15 p.m. in the UC Program Banquet Room. $1.50.

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22 & 23

JOINED THE TITAN—Nicholas Ray directed this film, which many consider one of the most bizarre works of all time. Film Society shows it at 7 & 9:15 p.m. in the UC Program Banquet Room. $1.50.

Music

Fridays & Saturdays, February 18 & 19

SCOTT ALLARIK—A Minnesota boy with lots of musical talent, Scott is a great storyteller, a fine musician, and a superb performer. He’ll prove it in the UC Encore, at 9 o’clock.

TELEVISION

KABEL—The New Vic Theatre of London combines traditional dramatic skills with music, dance, mime, and clowning, to involve the audience (that’s you) in the bawdy, booby, good-spirited fun of Canterbury Tales. Why not make a pilgrimage to the Sentry Theatre at 8 p.m. and check this show out. Tickets are $1.50 with current student ID.

Wednesday, February 22

KABUKI—Arts and Lectures presents an evening of Japanese Dance Theatre, starting at 8 p.m. in Michelle Hall of Fine Arts. Tickets are $1.50 with current student ID, and are available from the Fine Arts Box Office.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17

STUDENT EXPERIMENTAL TELEVISION—SET kicks off this week with Perspective on Point at 6:30 p.m. There’s an interview with Dr. UT at 7, followed by Music Montage at 7:30. At 8, it’s Vitrines with Entropy. A movie follows at 8:30. SET will replay this schedule on Sunday, February 20. It’s on Cable Channel 3.

Classifieds, cont.

PERSONAL: Women of JW Smith. Thanks for a super nice party. Mary and Paula, if you ever get bored just come up to Collas-Merrill...Love Evan.

PERSONAL: Steve: Happy second anniversary! Here’s to go more years together. I love you, too! Love, Nancy.

PERSONAL: To: “The House”—Lori, Lisa, Liz, Tammy, Joan, Ellen & Cathy. I want to thank you all for making Feb. 14 & this past week bearable for me. I don’t know what I would have done without all of you. A girl just couldn’t ask for better friends like you, who needs a boyfriend anyway! You all are very special and I love you. Love, Cindy.

PERSONAL: Sebastian: This is the 10 month marker in a race we both can win. Thanks for all the fun. Love, M.D.T.

PERSONAL: Norby—does the big day happen to coincide with that other big monthly day? Get that trailer bouncing. Good Luck...The Phone Screamer.
Leases for the 1983-84 school year now available.
9 MONTH ACADEMIC YEAR

FOR INFORMATION AND APPLICATION
CALL 341-2120
MODEL OPEN
10 to 6 weekdays
12 to 5 weekends
or by appointment

FOR INFORMATION AND APPLICATION
CALL 341-2120
MODEL OPEN
10 to 6 weekdays
12 to 5 weekends
or by appointment

INDIVIDUAL HEAT CONTROL
PANELING IN LIVING ROOM
TELEPHONE OUTLET IN EACH ROOM
LAUNDRY FACILITIES
SEMIPRIVATE ENTRANCES
EACH STUDENT IS RESPONSIBLE FOR ONLY HIS SHARE OF THE RENT.

EVERYBODY'S TALKING . . .

about UAB's

DIAL AN EVENT

Call Today!

346-3000
WELCOME BACK
Every Tuesday
All You Can Eat
$3.59
Pizza & Salad

Delivery Coupon
$2.00 OFF
any TWO ingredient
Large Pizza
Invalid with other coupons
Expires March 3, 1983

VITA
Are you stumped over this year's income taxes? Do you need help deciding whether to use the long or short form? If you're having problems or just need some questions answered then you should see VITA.

Volunteers Income Tax Assistance is provided to you on campus free of charge. Starting February 12th you can stop in room 108 COPS and have your tax problems solved.

Services are available from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. every Wednesday through April 13, 1983 (except March 9th Spring Break.)

Services provided by ABES

---

THE MAN OF THE CENTURY

The Motion Picture of a Lifetime.
The Best Picture of the Year
Best Actor of the Year - Ben Kingsley

"The best film of 1982" - Variety

"There are very few movies that absolutely must be seen. Sir Richard Attenborough's "Gandhi" is one of them. Ben Kingsley gives what is possibly the most astonishing biographical performance in screen history."

"The movie of the year. No person who cares about what greatness the movie screen is capable of should miss it." - tribute, New York Post

"Gandhi" is without question one of the year's major films. A film of rare beauty, excellence, and intelligence."

William Wolf
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

"One of the great epic films of all time. If you see no other film this year, do see "Gandhi." - Leonard Maltin, Syndicated Columnist

"Gandhi" is a monumental achievement." - Steve Williams, PLAYBOY

"Ben Kingsley is nothing short of astonishing as Gandhi." - Richard Riedel, TIME

GANDHI

His triumph changed the world forever.

The Man of the Century. The Motion Picture of a Lifetime.

---

RAGTIME

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY!
UC-PBR
6:30/9:15 P.M. $1.50

Saturday Matinee
Feb. 12

THE LITTLE PRINCE
1:00 P.M. U.C.-PBR
Only 25c

---

THE MURDER OF THE CENTURY...
THE SCANDAL OF THE CENTURY...
THE LOVE AFFAIR OF THE CENTURY...
AND THE CENTURY WAS JUST BEGINNING.

---

Gandhi

His triumph changed the world forever.

THE MAN OF THE CENTURY...
THE SCANDAL OF THE CENTURY...
THE LOVE AFFAIR OF THE CENTURY...
AND THE CENTURY WAS JUST BEGINNING.

---

UC-PBR
6:30/9:15 P.M. $1.50

---

Gandhi

His triumph changed the world forever.

---

UC-PBR
6:30/9:15 P.M. $1.50

---

Gandhi

His triumph changed the world forever.
named Curly Joe and was featured in the Stooge films of the 1960s. Shmookler concluded that the Three Stooges had 190 short films, which is more than any other comedy team including Abbott and Costello or Laurel and Hardy. He also asserted that the 50th Anniversary of the Stooges has shown a resurgence in the popularity of the Stooges for all ages, especially college students. Shmookler finished by saying that a fund in the name of Moe and Helen Howard has been established by Moe's daughter to help fight cancer. A $10 tax deductible donation can be sent and made payable to City of Hope, c/o Joan Howard Maurer, Box 634, Culver City, CA 90230.

Verdict, cont'd
egregious at the end. To an audience accustomed to seeing cinematic relationships turn out well, the love interest in "The Verdict" was disturbing. To this end, however, the fault lies more with unrealistic audience expectations than with any defect in the script. In an era when many pictures purport themselves through illusively promising advertising, "The Verdict" does justice to the concept of cinematic art. It is guilty of excellence.

Music, cont'd
with producer Peter Asher...Uriah Heep founder Ken Hensley has joined Blackfoot keyboardist...Drummer Bill Ward, one of the founding members of Black Sabbath has rejoined the band...X has just recorded two new tunes with ex-Doorsman Ray Manzarek producing...The Chieftains, Irish traditional band, has recorded a track for Dan Fogelberg's upcoming LP...Notable releases this week include Ultravox, "Quartet;" Melissa Manchester, "Greatest Hits;" Berlin, "Pleasure Victim;" Ph.D., "Is It Safe;" Donald Byrd, "With Clare Fischer and Strings;" Soft Cell, "The Art Of Falling Apart;"

Letters, cont'd
student reach out for this help. Yes, directors and RAs provide programs to better study habits, increase motivation, etc. Yet these programs are purely voluntary and thus cannot be taken as the "legitimate" excuse for violating our right to confidential records and disclosing them to third parties without consent or knowledge. So, I ask you - Who is responsible and what is your excuse?!

Signed,
A Disturbed Student

Stooges, cont'd
the midst of telling a joke and lighting a cigar in a cab. The Stooges, needing lighting the last two years of their contract, went to Joe Besser who was working in Vaudeville under contract with Columbia. Shmookler added that Besser went on in these two years, completing 18 short films with the Stooges. After Besser left, Moe and Larry brought in Joe De Rita, who later was added to the Stooges.

Foxes, cont'd
of turn-of-the-century decor. Technical execution is effective, because the show runs smoothly from action sequence to action sequence, act to act.

I highly recommend the show to everyone. In my six years at this university I have seen a few dramatic performances that equal this one. Ms. Moore and her cast have successfully interpreted expectations...The show is a resurcense in the theater for all ages, especially college students.

Dr. James D. Hom
Dentist
1025 Clark
For Appointment
Call
341-1212

Black Student Coalition
University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point

Thurs., Feb. 1
Michelson Hall
Roslyn Walker Lecture and Films
7:00 p.m. Reception following.
Curator of Research National Museum of African Art, Smithsonian Institution.

Fri., Feb. 19
7:00 p.m. Wisconsin Room
"Fashion Extravaganza"
Fashion Show.

Sat., Feb. 19
8-11:30 p.m. Wisconsin Room
Dance

For additional information on any of the above events, please contact Deborah Harris at 346-3828.

Next Week:
Rock 'N' Roll

LIVING IN HARMONY
UAB BLACK HISTORY WEEK '83

Dr. James D. Hom
Dentist
1025 Clark
For Appointment
Call
341-1212

Scott Alarik
Entertainment

FREExIN
THE ENCORE

Humorous Folk Music
This Fri. & Sat. 18, 19
Starts at 9:00 pm
FOR SALE: Women's long camel colored wool coat with scarf, size 12-13. Also includes: REO, 1985 AC-DC, the Cars. Call Kris in 136, 346-2733, all prices negotiable.

FOR SALE: Waterbed superking with padded rails and brown headboard, $170, also 2 sets of sheets. $30 apiece. Call Peter 344-7757.

FOR SALE: 40 channel Cobra XLR CB radio, trunkmount antenna, coax & operating instructions. All necessary components included. $75. For more info call Tom at 341-6335.

WANTED:

WANTED: Desperately need someone to share ride with from Wisconsin Rapids. My classes are 1 p.m.-4 p.m. daily. Phone Chris, 424-1501.

WANTED: College roommate to live with non-traditional student in Plover Pine Village. Ride to downtown Point available every weekday. Cost negotiable. Call 344-1227 after 4 p.m.

WANTED: Commuting from central area? It would like to share a ride. Call John at 677-5420.

WANTED: Riders to Florida for spring break. Have reliable, comfortable van, but need 4 or 5 others to share gas and driving. Call 344-4772 days or 345-0660 nights and ask for T.J.

WANTED: Can I want that 2'st mirror. Please contact the Potter office.

FOR RENT:

FOR RENT: Student housing for next year. Singles and doubles available. Male preferred. Two blocks and closer to campus. Reasonable rates. 341-2865.

FOR RENT: 2 private rooms, 3 blocks from campus—men—fully furnished—kitchen etc.—available now this semester only. 344-2232.

FOR RENT: Available for someone to stay next semester. 1 bedroom, air conditioning, separate thermostat control in each room. $320/month included water. Close to campus. Call Doug or Karen 344-5261.

EMPLOYMENT:

EMPLOYMENT: The Women's Resource Center is now taking names of people interested in applying for the Peer Counselor position next year. You must be a student to be eligible. Apply at the WRC, 10 Watson Hall; phone call 346-4861.

LOST and found:

LOST: Reward offered to the one with 344-5742 as phone number.

LOST: To whoever took a blue backpack Monday, Feb. 7, from Allen Center, please return to UC lost and found. Contains vital notes for classes that cannot be replaced, need immediately.

LOST: Blue & white leaf binder contains notes and for philosophy class. If found, please call 344-5745 after 4 p.m.-anytime weekends.

LOST: One dark blue ski glove. Lost in the Smith Hall Alley, please return. If found, please contact Tony, Rm. 326 at 346-4118.

LOST: Black purse with sentimental items inside. If found please contact Luann, 341-9255 after 3 p.m. No questions asked.

LOST: One pair of men's brown suede gloves with brown for lining. Sentimental value, reward offered. Lost at Partner's Pub Fri. evening. Call Doug or Karen, 344-5561.

ANNOUNCEMENTS:

ANNOUNCEMENT: "Par- sychology": Professor Walter Upjohn will present and discuss evidence of psychic events through film and taped experiences. The attempt to separate fact from fraud. In the Wisconsin Room of the Union, Feb. 24 from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Jim Feldinger will perform at the Pitt Mu Alpha Folk Dance Fri., Feb. 18, 7 p.m.-10 p.m. Admission is $1 at the door.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Peak- ers (People Encouraging Alcohol Knowledge) would like to thank all the people who were involved with the Air Band Contest. Congrats to the winning group "The GoGo's." Hope everyone else gets involved with Peak Week (April 25-May 2). Look for upcoming events. Thanks again.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The Home Economics Scholarship committee announces the availability of a $500 Wisconsin Rural Rehabilitation Scholarship. Interested persons may obtain application blanks from Marlene Kloc, 310D. Completed applications are due March 15, 1983. This scholarship is based upon: family situation, interest in Home Economics, qualification for a loan, leadership ability, and problem-solving ability.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The UWSP Fishery Society is sponsoring the first Annual Schmeeckle Lake Fisherie this Saturday, Feb. 19, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Participants must have to start at $7. $1 donation for contest registration is necessary to the Conservation Commission. A Swedish ice auger, Beaver Dam tip-up, and more! Just show up at the weight stations located on the far east side of Maria Drive at the south entrance with your gear and editor. We will have and a nice day. The winner will go to the Eagle Walk (March 4-12). Parking will be in the lot behind Allen Center and on Maria Drive.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The Canterbury Club will be having a meeting at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 22 in the Blue Room of the University Center. The film "The Music Man" will be shown. Any questions? Call Paul Roth at 346-1904.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The Canterbury Club will be having a meeting at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 22 in the Blue Room of the University Center. The film "The Music Man" will be shown. Any questions? Call Paul Roth at 346-1904.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Want to gain experience and lead a new student organization? Contact Deb X-2785 if you want to help plan and promote a new organization.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Are you creative? Great, you're just the breed with me. The Peakers (People Encouraging Alcohol Concerns) are having a logo contest—first prize is $25, please write up your suggestions including your name and address and drop them off in 400 Neale Hall. Encouragement Voting is Feb. 26–Mar. 3. You must have your entry in by Feb. 25.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Ty- ing-Editing. Under- employed new UC editor votes type your papers, 75 cents per page. Editing and typing, $1.50. For more information, call 346-3776, Mary "M" Taylor.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Watson Hallers, history repeats itself! We need twosomes to the Encore, Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. College life is something to be joked about!! P.S. Don't eat any live scorpions! From the book.

ANNOUNCEMENT: People of the Campus! Has your twosome gone grue- some? Monday, Feb. 28, 25-00 to beck to the Encore on Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. for College life! Saturday Night Live. Prof. Luci M. Tender.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The UWSP Fishery Society will be holding a fishing contest on the Wabicon River. Entry fee is $5. $1 donation is required to cover the prizes. It starts 7 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

ANNOUNCEMENT: The Student Associates Board (STAB) is accepting nominations for CTR teacher of the year now until Feb. 28. Nominations should be available in the CNR lobbies. And at the STAB desk in Rm. 105. They should be placed in the STAB suggestion box in the Union. For more information, contact STAB headquarters, 346-1904.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Has your twosome gone grue-some? Relax and be yourself. What you'll find in the Encore on Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. Learn about your special lady, the informative and entertaining style. What more do you want to know? See me and ask for reminder? That date!!

ANNOUNCEMENT: Photographers! Have you been giving the chance to shine. Now until March 4, Middle East will be accepting entries in our Photo Contest. Compete in either black & white or color categories. If you follow the rules stop at Middle Earth. First place: free copies of SPOH papers, plastic sheets of paper and free hour in darkroom. 3rd place: 3 hours in darkroom. Honorable mention: develop 1 roll film free. Call 346-4479 for more info.

PERSONALS:

PERSONAL: To the lovers: what will it be? Do you know how much I miss you and all those long talks we had on the way home. Don't just miss the name without you. I'll bet you're showing the women of Alpha well. How to party—Wisconsin style! Promise to come and visit. Don't forget—be there on point. Love ya! The Defendant.

PERSONAL: I am East and North, #50. I hope you got all the letters and support—I couldn't have made without you. I need all of you to do the best. Good as Point. I miss you all and those happy hours! Keep them up! Thanks and love! The Defendant.

PERSONAL: Happy 20th birthday Christine Burch. You're a great gal and I hope you have a drink and enjoy it! Love, Roso Parks.

PERSONAL: Daine—"Per- sonally wants a rim job." Ski Big Powderhorn and black out! We had a great time. Hang on to your friends, Susie and Louie. P.S. Happy Valentine's Day.

PERSONAL: Love and Louie darling, I'll love you forever. Thank you for these and all other things we do together. Remember: Wikkii! Love always, Susie.

PERSONAL: Hang in there and stay so happy for you and Donny. Take it easy though (If you don't know, you can be a great friend). Love, Susie.

PERSONAL: M. Remember, the first step in organizing isn't always the best window! And K. Happy Belated 24th. Love, Maturity Man.

PERSONAL: To my "sons" of East Pray! I hope you will have a Happy Valentine's Day. Thanks for being such devoted sons. I love you! Love, "Momm" (Nancy).

PERSONAL: Attention all you students! We are seeking: Baiters: I want to see you next Sat., Feb. 26, at the UWSP Lobby! Bring your own gear, even pour your own fish or a free Brebisi or bowl of chili. Thanks to Premium Brand Distributing and the Stagers of the World for fishin' will be great. Ex- flashing champ, Ving. N. Ward. To the women of 4 South Burroughs: You sure do know how to throw a Valentine's Party. Thanks for all the help!! And who said that you weren't having a good time? You certainly did—Mike—thanks for the funs.

cont. on p. 31
Clauifieda, I told you on one of our first dates that you were a "Rainy Day Person." That seems even more appropriate now that we've gone out for almost 1 yr. & 4 mo. I can't wait until Dec. 25 when you'll be my "Rainy Day Person" for the rest of my life. I love you! Kathy.

PERSONAL: Hey RB! The new semester is here—crank it rock again—of course! Keep trying to remember who's on the list! K.T.

PERSONAL: To my secret sweetheart Kenny—Have a good day today! This weekend should be a great time! Remember who loves ya baby! 146. Your secret sweetheart.

PERSONAL: Dear GIMP: Thank you for the wonderful 12 months. Only a few more to go and we can start a new life together. Happy Anniversary. All my love, PERSONAL: To Donna! Cheer up, will ya, huh? Joseph.

PERSONAL: A.D.P.: May all your dogs be blue, your trucks red. And your cows never lay down causing it to rain. Happy Birthday my friend, Love, Moo.

PERSONAL: Happy 20th Birthday Mary! I hope this year is the best yet. Thanks for all the happiness you've added to my life. I love you! CMC.

PERSONAL: To Bart-Roommates are great, but friends are best. Let's see if we can make this a weekend to remember and maybe have a "pizza" with Dandy and T.J. Happy 19th birthday. Let the Sirroch's and the good times roll, Emerson.

PERSONAL: To Donna! Cheer up, will ya, huh? Joseph.

PERSONAL: To Cindy: Don't forget your promise for March 18th! Dinner's on me. Borgie.

PERSONAL: To Toby: Remember the poster of Mr. Murphy—okay, the one with the frenchy in the background? You can see me on it. Thanks again. And Happy Valentine's Day! Stroh's.

PERSONAL: Liebs: Happy Hour this week is on me, so I can finally see you sloshed in '83! Guess who?

PERSONAL: Wes, I just wanted to say "I hope you get the job in E.R. Good Luck!!! Love ya much!" Woof, Woof.

PERSONAL: At last the day has arrived. Who'd have thought that "4 become 3" could be such a relief! (We should have filled up her tank.)

PERSONAL: Jayne's house of Ill-Repute is now open for business. (Don't expect to go all the way—we've heard that Jayne only gives facts.)

PERSONAL: Thanks to all who made University Writers Open House a success! See you at the open reading tonight.

PERSONAL: To those brave souls of IE: Hansen who rescued the trapped Yout from the icy grips of the snowbank last week early Wed. morning. Happy hour was just too much for ourselves to handle. Next time we get stuck between Hansen & Neale, I hope you're still awake. Look forward to M.A.S.H. B.A.S.H. info next week.

PERSONAL: Note: Party Hotline is a service of The Entertainment Company, a student government recognized organization. (Dear Punk: Please don't call on March 21, it's Too Close to the Announcements.)

PERSONAL: Becky 428 Roach: Your cookie was a great treat in the shower. Becky Schiek when it comes to clean shower fun, you're the best. "The Cookie Monster."

PERSONAL: Jerry Pomerienieke: You're right, I don't owe you one, but I like to stay one up. Bobby Sue you have the cutest squid lips. J.H.

PERSONAL: Gina "The Grumpin'" Your bubble bath in our sink awaits you. With your new 3" shoes you will have no problem climbing in. "The Cookie Monster."

PERSONAL: Margie, Mary & Pati: The ski jumps await us. Be careful not to get too drunk or you might become a human sled. You're in charge of bringing the sofa this year—Hope we can put it to some good use. Matt & John.

PERSONAL: B.G.M. I would never want our relationship to end! On Feb. 22 in the Encore, you'll find out how to keep me! Mercy, Dale.

PERSONAL: Per Bear, too bad about the girl "grusome" from RU. Turn your twosome around! Read the announcements, you are so bad! In cordial friendship! T.J.

PERSONAL: Dave, remember—it's always good to be aware of everything!" So remember Feb. 22 and your twosome with Brenda! An old soda fountain jurk.

PERSONAL: Surje, John Ho, Schultz, Groznie, and Yogi all think your twosome has gone grimz. You're going to make Kathy from 1-N and cut this Russian spy stuff with the binculars. OK? Drew.

PERSONAL: Terry Pomerienieke: You're right, I don't owe you one, but I like to stay one up. Bobby Sue you have the cutest squid lips. J.H.

PERSONAL: Gina "The Grumpin'" Your bubble bath in our sink awaits you. With your new 3" shoes you will have no problem climbing in. "The Cookie Monster."

PERSONAL: Margie, Mary & Pati: The ski jumps await us. Be careful not to get too drunk or you might become a human sled. You're in charge of bringing the sofa this year—Hope we can put it to some good use. Matt & John.

PERSONAL: Dear Roberta—if you don't comply to our demands—the Pope Dies! The Big B.

PERSONAL: Jeff, I want the rug but I've lost your number. Please give me a call X-415 and come pick up the bucks. Thanks! Evan.
The original inspiration to the Blues Brothers, hear them sing their big hits "Soul Man", "Hold On I'm Coming", "I Thank You", "You Got me Hummin'", and many more!

University Night Every Thursday
Happy Hour 4:30-7:30
All Draught Beer & Bar Highballs Only 95¢
Free Mexican Taco Buffet
Stay For The Show! No Cover Or Entertainment Charge!
All Draught Beer And Wine Only $1.00!
All Bar Highballs Only $1.25 Every Thursday!
(With a valid University I.D.)

Holiday Inn &
HOLIDOME
INDOOR RECREATION CENTER