Equalitv is urged for all

Understanding required in conflict

The Pointer is a second class publication USPS 098260 published weekly during the school year on Thursday by the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point and the UW-System Board of Regents, 117 Communication Arts Center, Stevens Point, WI 54481. POSTMASTER: Send address change to Pointer, 117 Communication Arts Center, Stevens Point, WI 54481.

The Pointer is written and edited by The Pointer staff, composed of USWP students, and are solely responsible for its editorial content and policy.

Is it racism or history? Is it a call for equal rights among American citizens? Those seem to be the two most obvious contradictions that have arisen amidst one of the nation's most controversial legal states. These contradictions have been drawn and the growing ha-tedness becomes ever alarming between two peoples who were once considered friends and neighbors.

The controversy stems from a 1983 federal court ruling, upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, which states that under treaties signed in 1837 and 1842 with the U.S. government, the Wisconsin Chippewa Indians have unlimited fishing, hunting and gathering rights on public land in much of the northern third of the state.

Opponents, such as the grassroots organization Equal Rights for Everyone (ERF) and the Wisconsin Alliance for Rights and Resources (WARR), claim special rights to Indian land are denied, equal to the Constitution. Their goal is for all citizens of the United States, including Indians (advocated by) the 1934 Congressional House Resolution 188, July, 1935) to have equal rights under the law as stated in the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

I am saddened that Indians, who have made enormous gains towards equality in the past hundred years, would discriminate against themselves by reverting to ancient Indian treaties. Maybe they should heed the words of the great Chief Joseph, as he spoke to President Hayes in 1879, "The earth is the mother of all people and all people should have equal rights upon it."

The rights, claim opponents to the treaties, should be equal among all citizens of the U.S. Indians should not be allowed extended hunting rights or year-round fishing seasons with the use of gill nets and spears. What's wrong with conventional methods which would guarantee future fish and game resources? There are approximately 8,000 Chippewas and 500,000 non-Indians in the ceded territories of northern Wisconsin. According to treaty rights, one deer is allotted for each Indian, thus, if the 500,000 people, in the lands were allotted one deer each, the herd would no longer exist. This doesn't account for the total percentage of individuals not filling their tags, but in the case of deer, it seems to the author that the treaties of 1837 and 1842 are outdated and need to be abroded.

Any further rights will continue to erode, treat. Indians as second class citizens, and Indians will falter until they enter into the mainstream of American economic life.

Social and moral problems that continue to arise from this debate will only devastate the Indians, their dignity will no longer be a concern. Discrimination is destructive, it will continue to cause hatred and draw battle lines until an answer to the question of equality is reached by all.

Rick Kaufman
Senior Editor

The last week's Pointer carried the story "Smoak campaign assaults Native Americans." It detailed attempts by certain residents of Northern Wisconsin to intimidate Native Americans through a vicious series of bigoted pamphlets and bumper stickers bearing epi-thes such as "Support Walleye, Spear an Indian.

The dispute involves the so-called Voigt decision, in which the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review a federal court ruling that upheld the right of Chippewa Indians to hunt and fish on federal land in the northern third of Wisconsin from October through January pursuant to two treaties signed in 1837 and 1842. Some white residents in this region object to the court's ruling, contending it extends privileges to Native Americans not given to other U.S. citizens. A few have regrettably resorted to the kind of twisted propaganda referred to in the previous paragraph.

Webster defines treaty as "a compact in writing between two or more political authorities," Chief Justice John Marshall, writing for the nation's High Court nearly 175 years ago, noted "the Constitution of the United States declares that no state shall pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law or law impairing the obligation of contracts." The U.S. Supreme Court, in affirming the lower court ruling in the Voigt controversy, correctly understood this cardinal axiom of American jurisprudence and upheld the Chippewa's legitimate claim to rights pronounced them in their treaty (contract) with the federal government — right of the state of Wisconsin wanted to steal.

Some who criticize the Voigt ruling claim U.S. treaty obligations should be abrogated because "the treaties were made in the 1800's with full-blooded Indians, who, at that time, weren't citizens." They contend that intermarriage and granting Native Americans U.S. citizenship nullifies provisions of the treaties. Such arguments ignore historical fact and equality as stated in the Fourteenth Amendment to U.S. society.

In his book, "The Right to Be Indian," Ernest Schakosky points out that "Civil rights problems of American Indians are particularly complex because Indians can claim special rights. The fact that they were an indigenous people, treated as separate classes, converted the Indians to a minority with special ties to the federal government makes them unlike any other group in the U.S. Therefore, the assumption that Native Americans are no different than any other group of citizens is erroneous at best, ignorant at its worst.

Furthermore, detractors of the Voigt decision base their arguments on the many Native American treaties with the federal government have been clearly violated or ignored in favor of government interests or those of corporations hunting after valuable natural resources on Indian land. Steve Talbot expands on this notion in his book, "Roots of Oppressor,"

"Government spokespersons assert that it is the 'Indian culture' or 'reservation subculture' that impedes economic development, resulting in joblessness and poverty . . . But this line of reasoning seems to be disingenuous! The cause, in reality, is not the cultural patterns of Indian societies, but, rather, the economic imperatives of capitalism." Hence, personalized remarks lambasting all Indians for being unworthy of respect and support ignores the problem of racism and poverty.

Finally an examination of the economy in this region of Wisconsin helps explain why racial hatred has reared its ugly head masked as rationalism. In a letter to Governor Anthony Earl, three Ashland County officials correctly point out that whites in the area feel threatened by Native American competition in an already "tight" economy. "Studies indicate that expressions of racial hostility in America stem from feelings of ingenuity and inferiority on the social scale and predominance in the lower middle class," they claim.

Certainly, Native Americans who violate treaty terms specifying bag limit, hunting area and established seasons should be prosecuted like other violators of the law. However, to do so, the author urges that the policies of the state's government, which have been responsible for the destruction of the Chippewa's culture, should be re-evaluated as well.
Songbirds flock to Point Saturday

More than 100 high school students and sponsored guests will cross the state to attend the fourth annual Fall Choral Festival on Saturday, October 20, at UWSP.

Dr. Gary Bangstad, newly appointed director of choral activities at UWSP, will coordinate the festival and conduct a free public performance by the Festival Choir at 7 p.m. in Michelsen Hall, Fine Arts Center.

More than 100 high school students and sponsored guests will cross the state to attend the fourth annual Fall Choral Festival on Saturday, October 20, at UWSP.

Dr. Gary Bangstad, newly appointed director of choral activities at UWSP, will coordinate the festival and conduct a free public performance by the Festival Choir at 7 p.m. in Michelsen Hall, Fine Arts Center.

Singers from Eagle River, Buring, Rhinelander, Roselhit, Gillett, Stevens Point, Tomah, Rhinelander, Shawano, Waupaca, Oconto and Oconomowoc have made plans to participate in the festival. The festival will be open to choirs from any school, any grade, regardless of ability. All choirs will be given a time and a place to perform.

A presentation of the activities of the festival will be made by the directors which will include observation of student activities and a direction conducted by Charles Reichl, member of the UWSP music faculty. Also scheduled is a directors' luncheon in the Heritage Room of the University Center.

There will be a mini-concert at 3 p.m. provided by the UWSP Mid-American Vocal Jazz Singers. The UWSP Choral Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. in the University Center.

The public is invited to attend the mini-concert and performances in Michelsen Hall.

A prominent historian, author, and researcher of books and articles on Central American political crisis in El Salvador and an official representative of the FMLN,Mario M. Armstrong, will be speaking in Stevens Point on Saturday, October 20.

Robert Armstrong, on the research staff of the North American Congress on Latin America (NACLA), and Sonia Baires, one of a handful of official FDR-FMLN representatives in the United States, will be speaking in room 325 A of the University Center of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. The program featuring Mr. Armstrong and Ms. Baires will begin at 7:00 on October 20.

Mr. Armstrong and Ms. Baires are extremely qualified to discuss the history and present state of affairs in El Salvador and will be doing so in Stevens Point on October 20.

Mr. Armstrong co-authored El Salvador: The Face of Revolution in 1982, which is one of the most comprehensive books to date explaining the development of El Salvador's civil war. "Every concerned citizen should be aware of what El Salvador: The Face of Revolution has to say," said actor Edward Amer. "The reader sees the Salvadoran people not as black and white newspaper but as living, human beings."

Mr. Armstrong attended Denison University and Rutgers University Law School, and he lived in El Salvador from 1967 to 1969 as a member of the Peace Corps. He has written extensively on Central America for NACLA's Report on the Americas and the Guardian, and has been active in human rights and solidarity organizations concerned with El Salvador since 1977.

Ms. Baires has been travelling the United States as an official representative of the FDR-FMLN and the FMLN in El Salvador, speaking to people in churches, universities and community centers. The FDR-FMLN (Democratic Revolutionary Front-Farabundo Marti Liberation Movement) is the FMLN government's historic confederation. Mrs. Baires will address the meeting in this conference to the FDR-FMLN, and will address the current U.S. supplied, facilitated and sanctioned aerial bombardment of thousands of Salvadorans which has resulted in over 1,500 deaths in the first four months of 1984.

The appearance of Mr. Armstrong and Ms. Baires is sponsored by the Committee on Latin America of Stevens Point. The public is welcome to attend. Literature will be available for free and for purchase, and donations will be accepted.

Traveling on your stomach

The Office of Continuing Education and Outreach at UWSP will sponsor a "Dinner Travel Escape Series" beginning today.

Participants will be introduced to the cultures and people of Australia, Israel, Cuba, Germany, Mexico and the United States through lectures and slide presentations. Each program will also feature a meal of the featured country.

Richard Wilke, director of the UWSP Center for Germanic and Scandinavian Studies, will make a presentation on Australia and New Zealand. Mrs. Wilke will spend four months in these countries as a leader of a German and Scandinavian tour. The presentation will be held today in the Wisconsin Room of the University Center.

Lati Tocafort, English teacher at Stevens Point Area Senior High, will narrate a slide presentation on Israel. Her talk will cover such topics as geography, industry, Tel Aviv, the Sea of Galilee, the Dead Sea and Masada. The presentation will be held Thursday, Feb. 21, in the Wisconsin Room of the University Center.

The fee for the program is $12 per person for the dinner and program. A cash bar will open at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7 and the program at 8. Registration and further information may be obtained through the Office of Continuing Education and Outreach, 160 Old Main, UWSP.

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

Dry has been a member of the AAI public relations committees as well as the Insurance Public Relations Council (IPRC) and the Point-

Cont. p. 21

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

Dry has been a member of the AAI public relations committees as well as the Insurance Public Relations Council (IPRC) and the Point-

Cont. p. 21

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

Dry has been a member of the AAI public relations committees as well as the Insurance Public Relations Council (IPRC) and the Point-

Cont. p. 21

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

Dry has been a member of the AAI public relations committees as well as the Insurance Public Relations Council (IPRC) and the Point-

Cont. p. 21

PRSSA welcomes Dry

On Tuesday, October 23, members of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSA) and interested guests will welcome Mike Dry, Vice-President of Corporate Communications for Sentry Insurance, to speak on public relations in a corporate setting, specifically our programs instituted by Sentry.

Receiving an M.A. in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Mr. Dry sought work in advertising for seven years, completing course work on a doctorate in English.

In 1973, Mr. Dry joined the Sentry organization as a staff writer, following his tenure as an Assistant Professor at Madison College. His duties at present include supervision of advertising, public relations and corporate research.

Dry has been a member of the AAI public relations committees as well as the Insurance Public Relations Council (IPRC) and the Point-

Cont. p. 21
Overall wellness

To the Editor:

Too often, wellness and/or fitness are viewed as unrealistic lifestyle concepts in which the goals are unattainable. I don't believe this to be the case. Let me share some of my thoughts and opinions with you on this subject. Perhaps I can lay to rest some false notions and promote a clearer understanding of what it means to live a wellness lifestyle.

The first thing to remember is that wellness is more than just the physical. It's been my experience when speaking with others about wellness, that the first thing they want to discuss is the physical component, and that is certainly an important part of wellness. But, it must be remembered that it is just a part, not the whole. It must be supported by other aspects of wellness. Unfortunately, we often use the image of the bronzed, well-conditioned Greek god as a description of physical wellness. That is a superficial and inaccurate definition of what it is to be well.

Wellness is a whole piece, made up of many parts. There is no magic solution, no potion to make you well. But there are some guidelines and there is a key to moving toward a wellness lifestyle. That key is balance. Balance in our lives is very important. We must combine good nutrition, exercise, stress management, relaxation, and, most importantly, a healthy, positive attitude in order to achieve the balance necessary for a wellness lifestyle.

By combining the body and the mind in our quest for wellness, we pull together a most powerful resource: ourselves. We can be ourselves and still follow a realistic, healthy lifestyle. No need to be a "health nut" to be well. In fact, by setting unrealistic goals, we doom ourselves to failure and disappointment. It is better to approach our goals with moderation and employ variety in order to reach them.

So follow your own path and listen carefully to yourself. If you do, you'll find the answers you seek. Remember, there is no one else like you, so be the best that you can possibly be.

Thanks for being interested enough in yourself to take the time to read this. Be well and be happy!

Stephen Anderson

New party formed

To the Editor:

There is a new political party active in America today. It is organized in every state and is on the ballot in Wisconsin. This is the Populist Party and its candidates for president and vice president are Bob Richards of Waco, Texas and Maureen Kennedy Salaman of San Francisco.

Bob Richards is best known as a two-time Olympic gold medal winner in pole vaulting. A former college professor, Richards is now a successful businessman in oil and real estate. His life and work have been depicted in numerous radio and TV documentaries. Richards has served as a professionally appointed goodwill ambassador to Asia.

Maureen Kennedy Salaman is a radio and television personality, editor, author and longtime advocate of freedom of choice in medical care and nutrition. She is president of the 100,000-member National Health Federation and has been active in Project Freedom, an organization that has led the flight for a full accounting of American service men missing in action.

Richards and Salaman are asking the American people to rally behind the Populist Party platform. The basic premise of the platform is this: "Power to the people — not to the special interest." The Populist Party places America first.

The party recognizes that the state of the economy is the No. 1 concern of many Americans, and has laid out a platform that forthrightly offers bold solutions to problems the major parties ignore:

- Enact fair tariff laws to protect American jobs and industry from foreign competition.
- Restrict immigration to protect employment for American workers.
- No amnesty to illegal aliens.
- Repudiate the ever-shrinking national debt, except the federal debt, held by investors who have actually paid for government securities with the money they deposited earlier.
- Revitalize the family farm and encourage public support for American farmers. Provide parity to family farmers and support development of fuels derived from farm commodities, thus reducing our dependency on foreign oil.
- Restore to Congress the authority to coin money and regulate the value thereof. Abolish the privately owned Federal Reserve System, which creates high interest rates for the personal profits of the international bankers.

The Populist Party believes that a strong economy at home and peaceful dealing with all nations will place America first.

Those interested in helping the Populist Party in Wisconsin should contact: Constitution Party, Box 356, Manitowoc, WI 54220. (414) 920-7765 Chairman Joseph Birkenstock.

The Populist Party National Committee (membership $10 per year) may be contacted at PO Box 78737, Washington, D.C. 20033, or at (202) 546-6506.

Arlene Zimmerman

Ferraro criticized

To the Editor:

In recent days many comments have been made by some Republicans concerning Congresswoman Ferraro. Mondale has called for an apology from Vice President Bush. Mrs. Bush and Betty Teasley, Bush's press secretary, some may consider those off-the-record, yet reported statements as being in poor taste. Yet their statements about Mrs. Ferraro hit the nail right on the head and reflect many people's impressions.

During last week's debate, a majority of those people polled agreed with Vice President Bush's assessment that he kicked some — that right and won the debate. Throughout this campaign, Walter Mondale and Mrs. Ferraro have taken numerous cheap shots at President Reagan and the Republicans.

Mrs. Ferraro patroizes the American people on the issues and appears very arrogant and cocky in her statements. In listening to Mrs. Ferraro, one would think that she is the one running for President instead of Mondale. In her speeches, Mrs. Ferraro has been both bitchy and pompous. Mrs. Bush had the guts to say something which reflects the opinions of many people following this campaign.

Despite Mrs. Ferraro's attempts to hide the fact, she is one of the richest people ever to run for vice president. She can't hide the fact that her net worth is $3 million. Yet by the way she comes across, you would think that she is living on welfare. She certainly doesn't live in Archie Bunker's neighborhood. After all, how many families can afford to send their children to two of the most expensive and exclusive colleges in the country and have a daughter working on Wall Street? How many mothers are eager to have their daughters drafted into the...
Canfield comments on first two TV debates

UWSP Political Science Professor Jim Canfield, who is currently teaching "American Government and Elections," was recently interviewed by Polkter Page. He said he believes Mondale, clearly Mondale, was the perceived winner.

In the second debates, between the vice presidential candidates, it’s more difficult to analyze because the surveys are available. There were already some slight margin for Bush over Ferraro but I think I’d analyze Mondale’s performance. I would say the vice presidential candidates was the more convincing or better, I would say that Mondale’s leadership style is more familiar, somewhat by contrast, after Mondale’s leadership style is more familiar, even though they’re quite different in terms of their ideologies and their positions on a number of other issues. I don’t think either one has definitely spelled out "A New Beginning." But it doesn’t have the same context, I think, as some of those past overall themes. So, no, I don’t think I saw a grand theme from either candidate in the first debate. However, in terms of specific issues, I think Mondale did a little bit better. He does better, I believe the president could argue that the strength of the United States in the international arena, the respect for the U.S., our prestige, our ability to look strong in relation to potential threats—those will be his strengths.

For some Mondale will capitalize on: I think, Central America—although that was kept to a minimum in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.

Of course, that conjures up the whole subject of arms control. I think that he is more related in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.

For some Mondale will capitalize on: I think, Central America—although that was kept to a minimum in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.

For some Mondale will capitalize on: I think, Central America—although that was kept to a minimum in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.

For some Mondale will capitalize on: I think, Central America—although that was kept to a minimum in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.

For some Mondale will capitalize on: I think, Central America—although that was kept to a minimum in the last couple of days with possible negotiations there. But, I think, overall that is a concern. I’m thinking of El Salvador, perhaps, and influences on Nicaragua. But beyond that, I think Reagan’s lack of any statements, any statements with the Soviet Union over nuclear weapons and the perception that he is not interested in those agreements—most of all the proposals that he put forward have really been for political purposes, knowing that the Soviet Union will not go along with these agreements over the issues as they have been spelled out. So, I think that there’s no there Reagan is the most vulnerable.
Obey rips Reagan record on "human issues"

by Lynne Goldberg
Staff reporter

The issue facing us in 1984 is quality of leadership," Rep. Dave Obey told a group gathered in the Heritage room of the UC Tuesday. Referring to the presidential candidates, he com pared the record of President Reagan with the proposals of Democratic candidate Walter Mondale. He spoke of a $60 billion cut in domestic programs during this administration, while military spending has been boosted by $10 billion.

Obey also stated that by 1989, "the Republicans are planning a 34 percent reduction in allocations to higher education." In comparison, Obey stressed, we need a president who will put the "long-term instinct of the people of this country... and who will care about human issues." The proud stories of his personal contact with the president, Obey intimated that Mr. Reagan's age, and find it should be a key issue in this election.

Since religion in politics has been an issue in this election season, Obey made his case for his personal views in the speech to the audience. "I believe in the social gospel," he said, and the Democrats must take a "soft" approach to use religious values to promote programs that are right, not just fair."

He furthered his stance by stating that "we need a president who will deal with the subject of hunger. We need to be willing to dig into our pockets, or else we won't get very far. If it were up to me," he claimed, Obey said Tuesday that if "the nation was to accurately link traffic safety with drinking privileges, no man between the ages of 21 and 50 would be allowed to drink. In fact, statistics really show that females 18 to 21 are safer drivers than male adults." The bill he proposed in Congress would also ban alcohol from military bases.

Obey was reminded that it is not only the Republicans who think of the subject of hunger was raised. In response, he said, "It is not a question of the programs... we need to be willing to dig into our pockets, or else we won't get very far. If it were up to me," he claimed, "I'd freeze spending on every single program and say to everyone, 'OK, society, which ones do you want bad enough to raise taxes?'

Rhetoric can't erase Reagan environmental record

by Noel Radomske
Young Democrats

We know election time is near when the candidates are reminding us of their deep, personal commitment to the environment. In an effort to shine some light on the impact of military spending has been boosted by $10 billion.

Obey also stated that by 1989, "the Republicans are planning a 34 percent reduction in allocations to higher education." In comparison, Obey stressed, we need a president who will put the "long-term instinct of the people of this country... and who will care about human issues." The proud stories of his personal contact with the president, Obey intimated that Mr. Reagan's age, and find it should be a key issue in this election.

Since religion in politics has been an issue in this election season, Obey made his case for his personal views in the speech to the audience. "I believe in the social gospel," he said, and the Democrats must take a "soft" approach to use religious values to promote programs that are right, not just fair."

He furthered his stance by stating that "we need a president who will deal with the subject of hunger. We need to be willing to dig into our pockets, or else we won't get very far. If it were up to me," he claimed, Obey said Tuesday that if "the nation was to accurately link traffic safety with drinking privileges, no man between the ages of 21 and 50 would be allowed to drink. In fact, statistics really show that females 18 to 21 are safer drivers than male adults." The bill he proposed in Congress would also ban alcohol from military bases.

Obey was reminded that it is not only the Republicans who think of the subject of hunger was raised. In response, he said, "It is not a question of the programs... we need to be willing to dig into our pockets, or else we won't get very far. If it were up to me," he claimed, "I'd freeze spending on every single program and say to everyone, 'OK, society, which ones do you want bad enough to raise taxes?'

Mondale-Ferraro ticket fails leadership test

by WUWP College Republicans and Students for Reagan Washington Vice President Bush and Mr. Ferraro debate on television brings up an interesting test of leadership ability. Mondale's administration reflects its running mates. Howard Baker told Time that when he was considered as a running mate by President Reagan four years ago, his finances were thoroughly reviewed. Reagan requested 10 years of tax returns, personal wealth statements, medical reports—and the amounts of evidence "accurate," according to the magazine. The list was said to consist of 100,000 to 100,000 records, including personal records, and over with a fine tooth comb. There were "follow-up questions for weeks and written explanations on whatever questions came up in the learned."

The WUWP College Republicans are an organization of United States Senator, the Portage County Citizens for Reagan. Speaker was the rally will include new political candidates Walter John Chilson, 7th District is the former candidate Mark Michaelson, State Chairman Nick Fuhrman, and state chairman of the Students for Reagan, Nick Hurtgen. There will be no charge for the rally and potatoes and beer will be served.

Augsburger

JOE HUBER BREWING CO., MONROE WI

"The world's best 'imported' beer is from our own Milwaukee.

"Good character, plenty of taste in the flavor... a big flavorful beer.

"Great American Beer Book

"uses a blend of two extremely expensive German malts, which certain English caramels from olling are the peasants lovingly age the stones..."

"San Francisco Examiner

"...a beer like the German brewers. Huber, Bubus Augsburger to fit the supreme European bier test." Rockford Register Star

"Extraordinary, crisp flavor"—Judge the best tasting American beer in their blind taste test. Kansas City Star

"Augsburger—one of the most highly regarded among concentrated beers..."

Vogue Magazine

"America's best answer to an imported beer..."

Money Magazine

"One of the country's best beers. Great taste and character..."

Consumers Digest

UWSP Student

Taste Augsburger for yourself and...

DISCOVER THE ULTIMATE

REGULAR AND DARK

MAIL US YOUR COMMENT

PUBLISHED COMMENTS WILL RECEIVE PRIZE

PREMIUM BRANDS, INC.
6201 Clay Drive
Stevens Point, WI 54481

Cost, p.?
International

LA PALMA, EL SALVADOR—Government and rebel leaders finally met for talks in an effort to put an end to five years of fighting. The two sides agreed to form a joint commission to prepare the way for peace talks. President Jose Napoleon Duarte called on the leftist guerrillas to take part in the commission, while the rebels asked for social reforms and war crimes trials. Earlier, a group of rightist death squads warned President Duarte that he would be a target of military action for offering to talk with leftist guerrillas.

Awareness of handicapped urged

by Liz Melbott
SGA

Have you ever thought about how life would be if you suddenly lost the use of your leg? If you were in a wheelchair, for example, how would you live? What about the student from Collins Classroom Center? Or if you suddenly became deaf, how would you fulfill your foreign language requirements?

Over 200 students today at UWSP are permanently disabled. Even more are partially disabled. Did you ever stop to think that those wearing eyeglasses have a handicap? Not many of us are aware of the special needs to these individuals.

In an effort to increase campus awareness about the needs and lives of handicapped individuals, New Student Programs and Academic Affairs of the Student Government Association have planned Handicap Awareness Days to be held next Mon­day and Tuesday (Oct. 22 and 23). Plans for the days include a guest speaker, Jane Jar­dou, who will be speaking about the disabled students in the campus. She will speak on campus about handicapped individuals, an infor­mational booth in the Center and a ramp, where anyone can offer her suggestions will be also offered. Every­one on campus is encouraged and welcome to attend all the events.

These two days are designed to make people aware. Hopeful­ly through that awareness everyone will gain a better understanding of the special needs of handicapped individuals.

United Council desires support

by Sue Buelow

October 23 is an important day for many students of UWSP. Do you recall signing one dollar for the academic year over to United Council at check point? On October 23 there will be a campus wide vote taken to de­termine the tax a student is willing to pay to want to continue membership in the United Council.

United Council represents approximately 130,000 UW System students on federal, state and campus levels. Representing us at over a dozen legislative and advisory boards and lobbying federally, we work concerning students-U.C. has accom­plished a lot. In the past, U.C. has effectively lobbied the resto­ration of 11.7 million dollars to the UW System budget, the elimination of sales tax on resi­dence hall food, and passage of A.C. 1134 that ended in landlord-tenant reform.

U.C.'s current undertaking is the lobbying against raising the drinking age to the federal level of twenty-one. Federal legis­lature has decided that Wisconsin does not raise the drinking age, they will withhold approximately 21 million dollars to state highway funds. United Council plans on lobbying this with the proposal being that Wisconsin not substitute the highway funds. This, being an issue that concerns a large portion of our student body, is food for thought when it is time to vote.

Since its formation in 1966, U.C. has represented UWSP. As of now, ten out of thirteen UW System presidents are represent­ed by U.C., the exceptions being Platteville, River Falls and Eau Claire. United Council is the larg­est advocacy and student research group in Wisconsin.

United Council is a non-profit organization: the funds received go to paying salaries and funding the efforts United Council takes on behalf of the students. This bi-annual referendum will decide if UWSP will continue on campaign in the United States. Congress. Congress will vote to decide if having a voice in government is worth one dollar a year. You can vote on Oct­ober 23 at the University Center Concourse between 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

The semi-annual meeting of the United Council will be held at UWSP this weekend. If you have any questions or are just interested, check the Daily as to where he events will be.

Debates, cont.

had the ability to gain the intel­ligence information and general­ly the knowledge of what's going on in these countries in great detail as Reagan, and he (Reagan) might be able to use that to his advantage.

Most incumbent presidents, I would generally say, going into a debate on foreign policy have a distinct advantage. Although, I think of Jimmy Carter in '78, it did not turn out that way, because Ford made that rather silly statement about the lack of Soviet or communist control over Poland. The world couldn't be any more usual. You would think an in­cumbent president, based upon his experience in office and his access to national security infor­mation, should have a distinct advantage. So, I think Reagan will do better.

I think the one thing that hurt Reagan—his advisors for the first debate apparently fed him detailed questions and answers. In other words, he was full of statistics, lengthy explanations of data and analysis; I think he sound like him to react, generally, off-the-cuff. I think he'll do considerably bet­ter doing that. I think he'll be more comfortable.

I don't think Mondale is going to do nearly as well versus Rea­gan in this second debate.

AVAIL OF FRIDAY FISH FRY

Tasty, Tender Fillets, Battered
Tasty, tender fillets. Battered and deep fried. Served with your choice of potato salad or french fries. Complemented with cole slaw and fresh bread.

ONLY $3.95
210 ISADORE 341-4990

P | 2 | 0 | 3 | 7 | 6 | 0

Abortion in the country.

DETROIT—One man was shot dead, dozens were injured and at least 34 were arrested when rival world boxing claimants turned the celebration into a vio­lent riot. Cars were torched dur­ing the fist public face of the rowdy fans, leaving the streets littered with burnt-out vehicles and broken glass.

Vote Nov. 6

Rhetoric, cont.

Administration has asked Con­gress to wait a year and has opposed many proposals for spending cuts on the EPA and dumpers.

Looking at it from another an­gle, four more years will give Reagan the chance to appoint up to five Supreme Court Justices. In recent years, the conserva­tive-leaning court has already handed down some dubious envi­ronmental decisions, upholding the Reagan Administration's de­cision to loosen clean air stand­ards, to lease more offshore oil and to allow companies to keep secret the chemicals they use.

The political action wing of the environmental movement, the League of Conservation Vot­ers (LCV), which rates politi­cians for their stands on envi­ronmental issues, has its own clear view of the presidential contenders: Mondale gets a B plus and Reagan a D.

Under Reagan, ignoring the law has become the smart way to do business and save money—we cannot afford to keep the chemical companies under the auspices of Ronald Reagan.

As Mondale said, "We did get rid of Anne Gorsuch (Burford). And we did get rid of James Watt. But now we must get rid of the person who appointed Anne Gorsuch and James Watt."
DON'T FORGET TO SIGN UP FOR YOUR SENIOR PORTRAIT

SIGN UP AT HORIZON OFFICE, U.C. ANYTIME BEFORE OCT. 22

• FREE— PORTRAIT IN THE 1984-85 HORIZON YEARBOOK BYWAYS EDITION. SIGN UP FOR THE TRADITIONAL 5 POSE SITTING—THERE IS NO SITTING FEE OR OBLIGATION TO BUY ANYTHING—AND WE'LL PRINT YOUR PORTRAIT IN THE HORIZON YEARBOOK FREE.

• SITTINGS—ARE FROM OCT. 22-26, AT 9 A.M.-8 P.M. IN THE COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, U.C.

---

JOB OPENINGS FOR RESIDENT ASSISTANTS

• APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE — October 15
  DUE — November 2

• INTERVIEWING BEGINS — November 7
  ENDS — December 3

OPENINGS IN THESE HALLS:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Male</th>
<th>Female</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Neal</td>
<td></td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Watson</td>
<td>X</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burroughs</td>
<td>X</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pray Sims</td>
<td></td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

POSSIBLE OPENINGS:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Male</th>
<th>Female</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Knutzen</td>
<td>X</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roach</td>
<td>X</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PICK UP APPLICATIONS AND OTHER INFORMATION FROM THE RESIDENCE HALL DIRECTORS OR AT THE MAIN DESK OF THE RESIDENCE HALL IN WHICH YOU ARE APPLYING.
The Institute for Lifestyle Improvement (ILIM) has been experiencing growth since it was developed in 1977. It was newly re-located in South Hall last year and now takes up the space for further progress.

The institute was established after Dr. Dieterich, director of the university health center, gave the initial impetus to the Lifestyle Questionnaire to the UWSP Foundation. As one of the primary sponsors of ILIM, Dieterich knew of other colleges that wanted to buy the questionnaire, yet he had no way of handling the accounts.

In 1987, Jane Opatz, Ph.D. was the first full-time employee hired by the institute. He was the Executive Director. Office space was provided for him by Student Life, where he also shared the office with the director's secretary. To assist Opatz, a part-time student accountant was hired.

Jane P. Jones, Ph.D. was the second full-time employee hired as an assistant director. She arrived in 1985. Then Diane Dieterich became director in October of that same year. The institute re-located then from first floor of Deuel Hall to the third floor in the Counseling and Human Development Center.

The institute also has a Board of Directors that includes representatives of Denis Elserath, Ed.D., director of Counseling and Human Development Services; Candace Hettler, M.D., and Fred Leaflgren, Ph.D., assistant chancellor for student life and associate professor of psychology, Bill Hettler, M.D., and Fred Leaflgren, Ph.D., assistant chancellor for student life and associate professor of psychology. Now a new secretary, Diane Dieterich is now an administrative assistant. The institute will also host a "Knowing Your Health" conference. To fully reach out to others the institute has established three separate programs that will provide national leadership in wellness and health promotion. The institute also has a board of directors.

Alternatives to alcohol
by Amy L. Schroeder

People Encouraging Alcohol Knowledge (P.E.A.K.) is the organization on campus that works toward promoting responsible drinking and alcohol awareness.

P.E.A.K. was organized four years ago by Stu Whipple, the coordinator of the counseling service. Since then, P.E.A.K. has sponsored many activities to encourage alcohol awareness.

"This year one of our main goals is to interact with the halls," said Kris Sveum, president of P.E.A.K. "We want to reach out to the halls and help promote activities which do not involve alcohol.

One such activity will take place this Saturday, October 21, at 4 Easts Baldwin Hall. This wing will be sponsoring a "Whipple Street." A Whipple Street is a non-alcoholic version of the ever popular Bourbon Street. Jerre Sveum, the Resident Assistant on 4 east, says she has total support from her wing and the hall.

"We have a lot of it, but the first of it's kind ever," she said. "And we're all excited about it.

Sveum added that she went to Stu Whipple with her idea, and he was also excited about it. He supplied the wing with an abundance of ideas for games and activities, plus a big box of tastes non-alcoholic drinks.

Included on the list of beverages are a variety of ice-cram, Virgin Marys, Mexican Sunsets, High Balls and near beer.
Support group offers aid for the grieving

by Lor A. Herake

Support group

At some point in our lives, each of us will lose someone that is very dear to us, and the pain stemming from that loss can be overwhelming. There is help available for those who have recently experienced this loss. Grieving family and friends can participate in the grief support group offered on the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point campus.

The support group began on October 11th in the Dodge room of the University Center. Anyone who is interested in joining can do so by coming to the meetings held every Thursday night. The meetings will run for six weeks, from 4:06 to 5:36 p.m.

One of the sponsoring organizations, Lutheran Campus Ministry, is represented by Reverend Art Simmons, who helps run the group. Art has been involved with the group for three years, and he feels that it has been a great help to those who need support in handling grief.

"People who are experiencing grief feel a lot of pain and anger, and they need to talk about these strong feelings," said Art. "It's not good to keep them bottled up inside of you as this might lead to more serious problems." A

"Many people who don't express their emotions after a loss could end up with a range of physical problems," said Art. He said that many people do not talk about their feelings often because the loss of a loved one does not be cause they have never dealt with the grief that normally accompanies a death.

How does the group operate?

"Not everyone knows how to share their feelings or show their discomfort doing that sharing," said Art. The group wants the participants to better understand their feelings, how they start, and how to manage them. If a person wants to just listen then there is no pressure on them to speak.

"One of the first things we do in the group is to establish that feelings are perfectly normal," said Art. Many people seem to think that they have to be tough and it's so much easier to say "I'm over it" and get on with your life. The sad part is most people aren't really "over it," and the symptoms usually come back to haunt you at a later time.

The second thing the group establishes is that there is no set way for a person to grieve. "A person can handle their feelings according to their own emotional maturity," says Art. He goes on to say, "Some people prefer to grieve quietly, while others like to display their emotions to others, whichever way they decide it's OK in our group."

The grief support group has helped a lot of people deal successfully with their grief. At the end of each six week session, most of the people have openly expressed their feelings. They seem to be able to deal with their strong emotions because they have talked with others who are experiencing something similar.

"We have each participant fill out an evaluation at the end, and this also lets us know how the group has helped," said Art. "Most of the responses have been very positive, which tells us we're doing something right!"

If someone is experiencing a high amount of grief after the six week session is over, there is a possibility of continuing on. Said Art, "They can either participate in the next group, or seek out help from either myself, or one of the other staff members. We also provide them with a resource list that will encourage them to keep the hard work in dealing with their grief going, because it may not be over."
Nutritious dieting

by Cyle C. Brueggeman
Staff Reporter

"Setpoint Challenge," an eight week course worth one physical education credit, is offered to anyone who is at least twenty pounds above their desired weight. The course combines an exercise program with a diet designed to be nutritious rather than excessively low in calories.

Sandra Rustoo, a Registered Nurse who works at the Health Center, is the course instructor. She said that the course objective is "to provide students with an effective plan for lifelong weight control and offer a nutritious way of eating."

The course is based on principles outlined in "Low To Lower Year Fat Thermostat" by Remington, Fisher, and Parent. This book describes an entirely new concept in weight management. It suggests that by lowering the fat thermostat (setpoint) and changing the body's hormonal, enzymatic, and metabolic systems, all of which protect fat stores, a person can lose weight without dieting. Moderately intense exercise at regular intervals is the key factor in causing fat to be mobilized and burned in the muscles. It concludes that aerobic exercise done for an hour each day is the most critical.
The Results...

YELL LIKE HELL CONTEST
- First Place—Nelson Hall
- Second Place—Roach Hall
- Third Place—Burroughs Hall

FLOAT CONTEST
- First Place—The Embassy
- Second Place—Non-Traditional Students Organization
- Third Place—Nelson Hall

DECATHLON
- First Place—Ski Club-CLA
- Second Place—Hansen Hall
- Third Place—Knutzen & Thomson

BANNER CONTEST
- First Place—Roach Hall
- Second Place—Hansen Hall
- Third Place—Smith Hall

KING AND QUEEN CONTEST
- First Place—Nelson Hall—Don Harris and Katie Johnson
- Second Place—Burroughs Hall—Mike Zajdel and Sue Rauen
- Third Place—Ski Club-CLA—Pete Samuelson and Maripat Tolan

Make 'em laugh, make 'em laugh!

How 'bout them Pointers?!
WANTED

News Editor—Knowledge of Politics Desirable.

Ad Managers—the Pointer needs 2 Ad Mgrs., for graphics and Ad Sales. Advertising Experience preferable.

Environmental Editor—Knowledge of environment with fresh open ideas.

Application Deadline: Friday, Oct. 26th
—By Appointment Only—

Halloween Stuff
Fill a bag with selected clothing for only $3.00
Open: 1-5 P.M.

SECOND STREET SECOND-HAND BAG SALE
Today & Tomorrow (Oct. 18th & 19th)

IN 1960, THE PILL GAVE WOMEN A NEW FREEDOM.
IN 1984, THE SPONGE GIVES WOMEN A NEW CHOICE.

It's been a long time. Twenty-four years, and there hasn't been a sensible new option in birth control. Until Today. Today, the 24-hour Contraceptive Sponge. Today is a soft, comfortable sponge that contains Nonoxynol-9, the same effective spermicide women have been using for over 20 years.

The Sponge is easy to use. You just moisten it thoroughly with water and insert it like a tampon, and it works for a full 24 hours. With The Sponge, you don't have to worry about hormonal side effects. And no other non-prescription vaginal contraceptive has been proven more effective. It's been through seven years of extensive testing, and over 17 million Sponges have been sold.

Of course, you don't need a prescription for The Sponge. It can be found at your local drug store and at selected supermarkets. In the 3-pack or convenient 12-pack.

And the Today Sponge is the only contraceptive that comes with someone to talk to: our 24-hour Today Talkline. If you have any questions, or you're just wondering if The Sponge is right for you, visit your student health center or give us a call at 800-223-2729 (In California, 800-222-2329).

Finally, you have the spontaneity you want and the protection you need. But, best of all, you have another choice you never had before.

Until Today.

SAVE $100 ON TWO 3-PACKS OR ONE 12-PACK.

Offer Expires 1/26/95

*Clinical tests have concluded that women can expect an annual effectiveness rate of 99.9% if they use the Today Sponge correctly and according to label instructions. © 1984 NYH Corp. Today and The Sponge are trademarks of NYH Corp.
Earthbound

Eagle man exhibits raptors

by Timothy Byers
Environmental Editor
On Thursday, October 4, a large crowd packed into the Wisconsin Room of the UC for a chance to see live eagles. Al Harmata was the presenter who brought the eagles, one bald and one golden, for a program about these raptors. Harmata has spent the last few years studying bald eagles in the West, particularly in Colorado.

The show began with a slide presentation which extensively outlined the results of Harmata's research. His experience with radio-tracking and rehabilitation was also emphasized. One tracking experience found Harmata and his crew driving deep into the back country of Alberta, Canada. Al has also perfected land-trapping techniques which give researchers valuable data about these predatory birds without harming them.

Wildlife biologist Dr. Ray Anderson invited Harmata to come to Stevens Point. The student chapter of the Wildlife Society, the Environmental Educators and Naturalists Association, and the Environmental Council were co-sponsors of the event. The Environmental Council in particular has an interest in Harmata's research because of their annual Walk for the Eagle. Each spring members of the council walk 200 miles to raise money for preservation of bald eagles in the West.

Harmata showed off his bald eagle following latest presentation.

by Andy Savagian
Two weeks ago I was asked to write an article for Earthbound that focused on a current issue. I thought to myself, "Out of the hundreds of issues being discussed in our country today that deal with the environment, what topic would arouse the most interest in people going to this university? Acid rain? Ground water? Wildlife?" This was my answer: simple. The most read, most heard, most talked about issue in America today is the 1984 presidential campaign. With this answer I seem to have come up with a paradox. How can the election arouse the most interest in environmentally minded people when the biggest problem election officials will face November 6 is how to keep voters from falling asleep? If Ferraro had not been chosen as Fritz' running mate, the pollsters would have had less of a question to answer. "Are you more bored now than you were four years ago?"

Though this year's presidential race has been rather mundane, it is of great importance not only to nature "oriented" Pointers but to every student and faculty member at UWSP.

The 1984 campaign, like all others before it, has focused on issues that are relevant to our society, issues that the public is concerned about. The politicians place maximum stress and importance on topics they feel are important to voters, and less emphasis on other not so important subjects. Key problems Democrats and Republicans are addressing are the environmental, national debt; school prayer, economic programs, foreign policy and taxes. Each candidate has a key issue prevalent in this year's race.

What about the environment? What is the key issue in '84? Is there enough emphasis being put on the "environment and the candidates' views on the environment?"

The answer is no. Environ.

Eco-Briefs

by Cindy Minnich
Staff Reporter
This is a job for a beaver! The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is using beavers to control flooding on Current Creek in Wyoming. The program has cost the government $2,000, less than the $100,000 it would have spent on a man-made dam. Beavers have slowed the stream flow and regulated spring flooding that was damaging to adjacent land. Thanks Mother Nature!

The Canadian geese are prepping for their long flight south. Many of the birds will stop in Central Wisconsin. About 30,000 geese have already congregated at Horicon Marsh. It is estimated that by mid-October 100,000 birds will be at the marsh.

Wisconsin's five largest sulfur emitting power plants have been required to hold emissions to 500,000 tons per year. This regulation was set by the state as an acid rain control. The utilities believe they could do better than that. In a recent plan sent to the Department of Natural Resources, the utilities stated that the emissions should drop to 470,000 tons per year. This is partly due to the decrease in cleaner burning power plants that will be coming into service.

When the U.S. space shuttle was launched last week, it was carrying a radar camera. The camera's 35" by 7" antenna will beam radar waves into the earth and receive signals. The messages will then be relayed to the earth. Many scientists await the black and white photos that will be produced. The United States Geological Survey is interested in identifying ancient river beds and lost cities. Rain forest researchers will study the photos in hopes of discovering areas of standing water where mosquitoes are prevalent. This research that will bring German scientists to the radar camera photos. In Hawaii, others are concerned with using the pictures to study lava flows. New groundwater supplies will be available for use in the event of a nuclear confrontation. Brown officials have assured the press that the pill will not be supplied. Students feel that consciousness has been raised.

Caffeine may soon be marketed as an insecticide. A Harvard scientist has discovered that caffeine inhibits an enzyme in some insect's nervous system. This discovery makes natural insecticides its power to control certain insects increases up to 10 times. Students believe that the caffeine that occurs naturally in plants is their own mechanism for warding off insects. If research success continues people may be able to use this natural chemical compound to eliminate potentially damaging insects.

Students at Brown University in Providence, R.I. are concerned about the threat of a nuclear war. They are protesting bombs or calling for a weapon freeze. They have instead opted for suicide pills. The students are requesting that the University stock cyanide pills to be available in the event of a nuclear confrontation. Brown officials have assured the press that the pill will not be supplied. Students feel that consciousness has been raised.
Earthbound

Brute adventure in the Himalayas

Moose Brute and Grim Determination are two adventurers who had taken a number of aces to the Himalayas to experience what it would be like to witness the golden eagles, the native birds of the world of those who can afford to do the thing. The Himalayas, a remote area of the world, is known for its tenacity, virtuosity, and utter reluctance to give up in the face of the worst odds. Grim had accompanied me on many expeditions and had never let me down.

Several hours passed before I reached Grim at his remote camp some 40 miles from the North Pole. Forced to crash-land my Beechcraft Bonanza on an iceberg, I jogged the last 75 miles, ignoring the pain from a bruised thumb incurred in a bout with an angry polar bear. I found Grim tired, hungry, and badly needing a haircut, but he agreed to join me in Nepal as he'd been stuck in a blizzard there and could use the exercise. "As soon as I get a haircut," he said as I left. In return for his hospitality, I left the new polar bear rug I'd acquired.

The Beechcraft was badly damaged, so I fashioned some pontoons, strapped the battered flying machine to my ankles and swam home to Dublin. Rough seas and the extra load of the plane slowed my progress, and so I was later in arriving for breakfast. Luckily I was in time to have a spot of tea, which my chilled bones were grateful for.

Immensely prepared were needed for the expedition, and it was Tuesday before we finally took wing. The mostly-repaired Beechcraft fairly leapt into the late evening sky, and we leaned back and set the auto-pilot for Nepal. We'd be arriving in the Himalayas at the height of the winter storm season but, as I explained to Grim, there'd be far fewer tourists so hotels should be cheaper. I was disturbed to glance over and see Grim nod in agreement.

The stage was now set and the players in motion for the Himalayan adventure to come. Unbeknown obstacles waited for them; perhaps they'd have abandoned their expedition right then if they'd only have known...

(Continued...)
Marsh loses to money

by Christopher Dorsey

A funny thing it is—nature. For what really is nature? Webster gives us one meaning: The forces at work in the universe independently of man or his acts. Truly an interesting commentary, for man is no longer a part of nature—most often he is an enemy.

A week ago I returned to a favorite marsh, where my genesis as a hunter took place. During the long drive in the early morning shadows, I remembered how friendly the farmer was to us. How he directed us to his favorite sloughs where an untold num ber of ducks would surely be, the excitement in my brother’s eyes and my feeling of enormous anticipation. These, as much as the hunt itself, are my strongest memories. Now I am returning to recapture the excitement and anticipation I once experienced at the marsh.

Each mile-marker brought me closer to this promised marsh. Just as it was eight years ago, the sky was full of lingering gray clouds accented by the still hidden sun. In the distance, characteristic flocks of ducks and geese were silhouetted against the frothy clouds. No perfect “V” formations for these flocks, they had feeding to do before their long treks southward, and finding a freshly picked cornfield was first on their minds.

As I passed the last mile-marker before my exit, I noticed several other cars and trucks loaded with canoes, decoys and camouflage. Perhaps others were returning to favorite haunts? My anticipation swelled even more as I turned off the freeway and headed down the last road to my destination. All the sights, though a little dark, came back to memory. The old farm with the huge, round wooden barn. Only a mile past the old farm was the granary. Enormous metal bins served as a portal to the area corn harvest. Now there were even more bins, taller and wider to hold the increased production due to modern tractors and equipment. Following the granary, I passed several fields of corn, more than I remembered before. Oh yes, where were the woods? The magnificent oak trees would reach over the road and the crunch of acorns under tires could always be heard. I wondered what had happened. There wasn’t even a trace of a woodland along the road.

Moving past the round barn, granary and missing woodland, I approached the final hill before the marsh. Nearing the top, I let off the foot-foad to once again recall what I was about to see. The yellow poplar trees would be strewn about the perimeter of the marsh and would prohibit any view of water from the road. A few cars would be parked along the big bend as they, too, discovered the joy of this marsh. And, of course, separate flocks of mallards and teal would be flying about the sky.

I was motionless, the car almost stopped by the hill without acceleration. I was stunned. I could see everything. The shape of the framed marsh, no ducks flew about and not a single hunting vehicle was parked along the road. A vast sea of green turf stretched as far as I could see through the mist. Like a monstrous football field the green was broken in square patterns by ditches of incredible length. Long narrow canals were filled with very shallow water. I quickly checked my directions to be certain this was the place. I desperately hoped I was wrong. Unfortunately, this was it, the center of my enthusiasm was no longer. Disappointed, I drove further to the farmhouse where the once accommodating farmer lived. Again I was shocked. The rickety old house was no more. In its place stood a new redwood-paneled split-level with a freshly paved driveway and a new Cadillac sparkling in front. Confused, I headed toward the door of this mansion. Before I could ring, a pleasant old gentleman opened the door.

"Something I can do for you?" he uttered.

Not yet to the door I came closer. "Is this the Mickelson residence?" I asked.

"Yes, it is," he replied.

I could hardly believe it. This man did not even resemble the man I saw eight years ago, who wore denim overalls and leather boots. I went on to explain to him that I had hunted here before and I wondered what had happened to the marsh, the wooden marsh. He told me that his brother was a sod dealer and that he had drained the marsh and planting sod—damn good money! Damn good money indeed.

I could hardly believe what had happened. I was angry and upset at the farmer for "selling out." How could he do this to the marsh? What about the ducks and the great sloughs full of birds? Was there not even any remorse? I wondered why an area so rich in wildlife was considered nothing but a wasteland by so many people. Man seems merely a spectator of nature. I guess it is true then—man can no longer be a part of nature.
UNITED COUNCIL WORKSHOP SHOULD WE?
SHOULD WE NOT?
Help make the decision for the future course of student representation in the next 2 years.

ATTEND:
Semi Annual United Council meetings, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 19 & 20 in the University Center then, (check daily for times & places)

CAST:
Your vote on October 23 in the University Center Concourse

YOU MAKE THE CHOICE
(Sponsored By Your Student Government Association)
An intent Todd Emслиe watches the Pointer defense from the sideline.

It's definitely helpful when you can get those three points when the offense can't score. Kim Drake is getting more confident in his kicking, and that will help us in future games.

It was Drake who set the record, but it was an outstanding job by sophomore quarterback Todd Emслиe who led the Pointers to 16 second half points and thus a happy Homecoming crowd. With just over one minute remaining in the first half, Emслиe replaced the injured Dave Geissler and filled in more than admirably. Emслиe completed 12 of 15 passes for 94 yards, and sparked the offense that reeled of 16 unanswered points. For his days work, Emслиe drew nothing but praise from LeRoy.

"I give the offensive coaches and Todd a lot of credit. Having Todd as prepared as he was came from hard work by the coaches during the week. Todd deserves a lot of credit too. He was mentally ready to play, and that's a credit to him as a ballplayer."

LeRoy wasn't only pleased with his reserve quarterback and his sophomore kicker, but also his entire defensive unit. In total the stingy Pointer defenders gave up just 80 yards of total offense. The Titans who supposed to be a strong running team, could muster up just 50 yards on the ground, something LeRoy attributes to improved line play.

"Our whole defense is becoming more aggressive, but we're just getting better play from the line, and that's what's happening."

Harriers still not running well

by Alan Lemke
Staff reporter

If you would tell Pointer cross-country coach Rick Witt that lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place, he may be inclined to disagree with you. Witt's squad had another poor race Saturday at UW-San Claire after a disappointing 15th place finish the previous week at Notre Dame. The Pointers finished sixth in a field of 10 teams.

"We ran very poorly and I wish I had an answer for it, but I really don't understand it. I don't think the kids know what they're doing either," said Witt. The Pointers were able to place two of their runners in the top 10. Arnie Schrader was Point's first finisher in eighth place while Don Reiter pulled in behind Schrader in ninth place. Rounding out the Pointers' top five were Kevin Seay in 20th, Mike Butcher in 35th, and Jim Kowalczyk in 38th. Chris Celichowski and Fred Hohensee both sat out of this week's race because of illness or injury. Witt noted what he thought may have been part of the Pointers' undoing. "I think maybe they read too many press clippings. I think they kind of forget what got them where they were in the first place. The way it looked was that some of the other teams were just a little bit hungrier than we were. We handled people pretty easily earlier in the season and now all of a sudden people are finding out that it's not as much the physical effort but the mental side, the fact that they've been letting other things occupy their minds."

Witt said he saw other problems with their race strategy last week. "We wanted to keep a group of about seven or eight guys together after the first mile or two. We didn't expect everyone to be able to stay with Arnie and Don, who got out ahead, but we thought we could have a group of people that can be 30 or 40 seconds behind those guys. The problem was that we didn't even make it one mile by doing that. That's one of the things I mean by mental concentration because it wasn't the fact that it was that fast of a mile, it was just a matter of people who did not have their minds on what we talked about doing."

Another thing Witt felt might have been a factor is the fact that they were coming off a poor race. "Any time you have a bad race you're going to come back and perform well the next time. We have a saying that you can't ever tell how fast you have to let yourself run fast and I have a feeling that may be what happened. Saturday, people wanted to bounce back and in running you can't press and try to do too much. I think physically they were trying to make themselves do some things they weren't capable of doing."

Witt did mention some concern over the fact that Fred Hohensee had twisted his ankle. However, he does feel Fred will be fine for the conference meet in three weeks. "Fred is in good shape. We had two really good workouts last week and he was made both of those and the times he did miss were the so-called easy days. He was still"
by Kent Walstrom

The lady netters suffered a good-old-fashioned whipping at the hands of UW-Eau Claire, 9-4, last Tuesday, but regrouped to win a pair of weekend matches over La Crosse State University and conference foe UW-La Crosse.

Although the loss to Eau Claire marked the second time this year the Pointers had been shutout, the weekend sweep pushed their record to 9-4 and assured coach David Nass of a winning season.

"We're going to write this off as a one-time bad experience," said Nass, attempting to put loss to Eau Claire into perspective. "We made an inordinately high amount of unforced errors. If we're going to beat teams like Whitewater or Eau Claire, we must stop giving away points."

In looking toward the weekend matches (against La Crosse on Friday and Lawrence on Saturday), Nass remained hopeful, but cautious. "This is a pivotal weekend for us. If we don't fare well against La Crosse and Lawrence, our season is in jeopardy."

Nass was uncertain about the momentum of his team following the 9-4 victory over La Crosse he had no doubts. "I really believe that the women in that match could have played any better," said Nass (referring to his team). "To snap back and beat a team like La Crosse after being drubbed by Eau Claire three days earlier is an indication that we are a team that can perform like a championship. We have that potential."

Dolores Much, who played one of the best matches of her career at UWSP in winning the No. 1 singles match 75-75, also thanked her doubles partner Robin Hasley for notching a straight set, 64-64, victory in the No. 1 doubles contest. In other singles action, Jodie Loomans, the No. 4 seed, and No. 8 Lori O'Neill overcame stiff competition to post victories and split the singles matches at three apiece.

The Pointers, featuring Lisa Brunner and Jodie Loomans in the No. 2 doubles match, followed with a 63, 63 decision to seal the victory over La Crosse. According to Nass, it was the first time in the history of women's tennis at UWSP that the lady netters beat La Crosse.

The netters carried their enthusiasm over to Appleton for Saturday's meeting with Lawrence University, and even Nass was surprised with the convincing 7-2 victory. "Lawrence is a team with eight veteran players," Nass quipped. "With that in mind, our match could have been very tight. The fact that it ended up not even being close tells me that our players now are no longer satisfied with just winning. That want to beat people badly."

Nass gave special credit to the No. 2 singles performance of Robin Hasley, who, according to Nass, "out-thought an opponent and himself to the potential to beat her badly." Hasley won the match 64-64, 6-1, and in the process started the Pointers on a string of straight set victories that continued through the remainder of the singles matches. Jodie Loomans and Lisa Brunner, after winning their singles matches by comfortable margins, won the No. 2 doubles match in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. Wendy Patch and Lori O'Neill, after winning their singles matches by straight sets, won their bid for the No. 3 doubles victory with a decisive 6-3, 6-2 decision.

Nass, however, was again dissatisfied with the efforts of his doubles team in their two matches. "Even though we won two of out the three doubles matches, our team could have done better in all three," he said.

Lady Pointers finish at Eau Claire

by Alan Lemke

Staff reporter

A fifth place finish was all the UW-La Crosse women's cross-country team was able to come up with at last Saturday's Eau Claire Invitational. The host team UW-Eau Claire took top honors while Oshkosh, Stout and La Crosse took the second, third and fourth positions.

Kathy Ausloos, who was the top finisher for the Pointers while teammates Beth Gonsfeldt, Andrea Beroza, Jane Brelowitz, Maggie Krochak and Jan Murray rounded out the Pointer field. Head coach Len Hill said he was pleased with the way the girls ran but felt they could have finished higher.

Once again this week the Pointers were without the services of their top runner, freshman Kris Hoel. Hoel has been out for two weeks with an injury to her leg. "We know what the cause of the problem was, but we don't know if the injury is just what the exact injury is. Kris won't be able to start running just a bit. She has to be able to go out and lead the pack somewhat, but she always has games left. Pointer's next and last home meet is against the Milwaukee Westside Harlequins on Oct. 27 at 12:30 p.m. on the intramural field."

Ruggers

The Stevens Point Rugby Club continued winning ways with a 30-12 victory over Northern Michigan and a 66-40 win over Ripon College. In the Ripon match, Tim Zidek lead Pointy scoring five trys. Scoring one try each were Joe Papp, Joe Regner, Dave Pianisait and Nick Clemens. Joe Albert rounded out the scoring by kicking three conversions and one penalty kick. Stevens Point has improved their record to 9-2 overall and 5-4 in league play with 2 straight wins. The Pointers are third in the conference.

Harriers, cont.

able to do some swimming and some cycling so he really didn't miss much. Most people would tell you I am running 75 percent mental and this is really important to Fred because he sat out a whole semester just so he could use this last semester to run. He's in good enough shape that when the chips are down he'll run well, I have no doubt about that.

The Pointers will head to Carnegie College Saturday where Witt said they will have to bounce back once again. "From here on in we don't have any easy meets. We'll be seeing a lot of teams that we'll run across again at the Regional meet, so the guys are going to have to work on their mental toughness. You need that when you run cross-country."
Everything you've always wanted from a ski trip, for less...

Jump into the action on the slopes of Colorado's premier ski resort—STEAMBOAT. Travel Associates, the NCSA and Lite Beer from Miller have put together a program of Wild West skiing, parties and fun you won't want to miss. The official 1985 NCSA "National Collegiate Ski Week" package includes:

* Round-trip transportation
* 6 nights deluxe lodging at one of Steamboat's finest facilities
* A lift ticket for 5 days of unparalleled deep powder skiing
* Two "Wild West" parties with bands
* A major concert
* A special "on-mountain" Beer & Cheese Party
* Entry fees to two races with prizes for the top male and female winners
* Special appearances by Lite "All-Stars"
* A discount coupon program for area bars, restaurants and services
* All applicable taxes
* Services of Travel Associates' professional on-site staff

Contact: S.L.A.P. OFFICE
Tour Date: Jan. 4th to Jan. 12th

SOFT CONTACT LENSES

For Only $34.50

Get top-quality soft contact lenses at a price that's easy on the college student's budget (standard spherical lenses only).

50% Off Extended Wear Lenses
Save 50% on the soft contact lenses you can wear for days at a time. Eye-care accessories available.

50% Off on All Frames When Purchased With Lenses.
Save 50% on our entire inventory of frames, including the latest designer styles.

Please show student I.D. cards for these special offers. Sorry, other discounts do not apply.

214 W. Division St. Stevens Point 341-0198
Eyes examined by Licensed Wisconsin Optometrists

University Film Society presents the Marx Brothers in "A Day At The Races"

Tuesday and Wednesday
October 23rd and 24th
Time 7 and 9:15 P.M.
U.C.-Program Banquet Rm.
Only $1.75

Mixing Up A Brew of Hallmark Halloween Cards For You!

HOPE YOU LIKE THEM!
Today's the leave when the...

Did bye!"

...about all Betsy. (Okay, Daya, fashioned treatment has people you find rently military by supporting the Tod's dead!

after which all sat around In silence

Ferraro answered questions .

as the room, but stayed to

...about it. Vice

Mrs. Ferraro has

...be

...and didn't interpret

the man of her

Candy, comes to Point

Thursday and Friday, October 18 &

Premiere An American Werewolf in the fourth ranked Lady Spikers try to improve on their 17-3 record this weekend as they host the Stevens Point Invitational beginning at noon. Come and cheer the ladies on!

Saturday, October 20

Sweetest Day! — Today's the day for everyone to respect diabetic people in your life. Send your your loved one a card... Saturday, October 20

Sweetest Day! — Today's the
day for everyone to respect
diabetic people in your life. Send your your love one a card...
For rent
FOR RENT: Need one female to sublease single room for next semester. House is block from campus. Please call 223-5678 or e-mail Collegepersonal@college.edu for interested.
FOR RENT: Two-bedroom duplex with garage. 1714 Vincent Court. For rent $245 monthly.
FOR RENT: Single bedroom for female student; located on campus. $275 per semester plus utilities. 2 blocks from campus.
FOR RENT: Needed to sublease. Close to campus. Building has three apartments. Each has all utilities available, heat and water paid for each tenant. Must be leaving: grad student.
Mai 24-4117.
FOR RENT: Storage space available for motorcycles and lawnmowers.
FOR RENT: Female needed to sublet single room for spring semester. Reason: Must move out.
FOR RENT: Downtown single bedroom block from campus. Beautiful building, available for a female in a large house. For rent $275 per semester plus utilities. 2 blocks from campus. $250 per semester.
FOR RENT: Wanted two to three people to share a furnished, perfect room apartment. Call Tanya at 213-4259 or ask for Ann or Cindy.
FOR RENT: Wanted to sublet single rooms for spring semester, block from campus.
FOR RENT: I have to go next semester. With the money I have saved, I can rent my single room. Rent is cheap, landlords, and the three others are great people. Two nice rooms, large kitchen, large living room, large kitchen, and two living rooms. Contact student for low price. Call Paul, 342-4911.

For sale
FOR SALE: "Peavy" (CS-400 Stroh) $200; "A" (CS-200A) $125. Call Sam Johnson. 473-4560.
FOR SALE: Clean, used, 1972, 240 cubic inch engine. Call Sam Johnson.
FOR SALE: Men's complete three-piece dark pin-striped suit. Tails, dress, vest, and tie. Purchased for $20 at Parkinn's two-piece suits are $69.95. Honest seller who can't use for the job interviews and formal occasion. Selling for $25 or less. Call 341-4601 or 342-9917 for information.
FOR RENT: Must sell! 1973 black Ford Mustang II, V-8, 302, 2-door. Body is nice, interior is not. 25,000 original miles. Auto transmission. Original paint, easy to work. Automatic. Many new parts included. $1,000 or best offer. Call 341-4801 after 7:30 p.m.
FOR SALE: Marcantis AM-FM cassette car stereo, pushbutton tuning, looks forward, easy to install, professionally cleaned. Asking $90. Call Dave at 250-6891.
FOR SALE: RCA 17" portable black and white TV, 2-room or apartment. First $25 takes it. Call: 341-4801 after 7:30 p.m.
FOR SALE: Picture-disc collection for sale (LP's with designs or pictures)). They are in a box as a whole. For sale. For collection. 341-6503.
FOR SALE: Pre-recorded (store bought) cassette tapes. Many different styles and selections including: easy listening, classical, country, rock, the Who, etc. Call for details and price. 713-5725. Condition: 341-6503.
FOR SALE: One year old Audio Technica AT-2000 turntable set. Complete set includes: turntable, 45,600 watts, acoustic suspension speakers, and amplifier. Unit is perfect. $200. Excellent condition. Perfect for mid price audio. In excellent condition. Will sell for $125 or pair. Call Rick 223-5678 or e-mail Collegepersonal@college.edu for information.
FOR SALE: One male to live with roommate. Must be clean and neat. Contact: Venture Electronics Systemics Ultra Acoustic Series 6000 professional speakers; 125 watts, 8 ohms. H.N. 12-inch woofer, two midrange drivers, and two treble drivers. Five-year warranty. Retail price is $500. Selling for $275. Call Rick at 434-4203 evenings and weekends. Available Saturday and Sunday only. These are speakers of the highest quality. Buyers must see and hear to fully appreciate.
FOR SALE: Fujica ST 70W 35mm camera, 35mm, 35-70mm, shutter speed to 1600, black body, and many accessories included. Black plastic case, lens case, filters, shutter release button. New price was $165, extra cost an offer. Call Rick at 434-4203 evenings and weekends. Available Saturday and Sunday only.
FOR SALE: Will do spring cleaning. Charge $1.00 per hour. Call Sarah at 341-1127.
FOR SALE: 1972 Nova 350 SS, good condition, new tires, original engine, black interior. Offer price on the columns. $175 and you can take it home.
FOR SALE: Research: Catalog of the great works of the world. 472 G. Dearborn, Chicago, IL 60661. 341-6894.
FOR SALE: The Great Pumpkin! Actual pumpkin for sale.

Help wanted
HELP WANTED: Campus rip for sale. For more information call Campus Travel Unlimited, P.O. Box 6083, Station A, Daytona Beach. Florida 32222, inc.
include phone numbers please.
WANTED: Students wanted for the above brick-and-mortar chain dedication and enthusiasm towards the sale of fine wines. If you can carry a heavy load without always seeing a 'heavy load,' we have a job for you. Call the man responsible for a weekend shift: David, Earthwork Chairperson. Stop in Monday through Saturday.
WANTED: Woman roommate for second semester. $85 per semester. Includes all utilities, must be clean, and very good living conditions. Call 531-9735. Condition: 341-6503.
WANTED: For rent, one bedroom apart-
WANTED: Single room to sublease for second semester. $65 per semester plus utilities. One block from campus, washroom, gas and electricity included. Close to shopping. Includes all utilities except phone. Call 341-4801 after 7:30 p.m. Sue or April, 341-4801.
WANTED: We are looking for someone to sublease two-bedroom, two-bathroom apartment. We do not smoke and are close to campus. Very close to campus. Laundry room is included. Heat, water, and garbage included. For more information call: 713-5725. Condition: 341-6503.
WANTED: Roommate for second semester. $85 per semester. Comes with one bedroom and two-bathroom apartment. Laundry room is included. Close to campus. Please contact: Sarah, 342-8928.
WANTED: Dear Amy: This is a personal message. I want to have someone on campus as a roommate for the fall. If the Peterson doesn't end up, we will be married. Call me at 341-4801 after 7:30 p.m. Thank you.
WANTED: Roommate for second semester. Call back. 341-6894.
WANTED: Roommate for second semester. $85 per semester. Comes with one bedroom and two-bathroom apartment. Laundry room is included. Close to campus. Please contact: Sarah, 342-8928.
Shore Drive again soon. Can we go for a swim this time at Oak St. This is the first time since that I have not said the name. Sounds like a good weekend to me. I can't wait to go down L.S.D. Love, Beatrice. P.S. I'm not doing a fun year, keep on the good works.

PERSONAL: Betty: Let's watch TV after dinner tonight. This day so, here's to loving you. Do you like the new coat? This is my favorite coat! Ah! It looks good and I think you look lovely. Don't forget to call me back on my birthday? Yv, Nanc.

PERSONAL: Beth: The Sweetest Day: Show a friend you care by giving a BIG HEART COOKIE! Beth's Advisory Council is having a cookie sale—THURSDAY-THURSDAY in the 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

PERSONAL: Mike E.: Here's your daffodil. Now, quit your chatter- ing and play. That's all. I'll be at home until 1 p.m. and then we will have to go downtown.

PERSONAL: Gal: I don't know how you can do without this last week without you. You really made this Homecoming special. Thanks for the best time, Gal.

PERSONAL: Dear Brownie House: You've made my day. You're so kind and considerate. I'll be around all day, and I can't wait to see you again. I really enjoy having you around. Keep up the good work!

PERSONAL: Oamia: Thanks for being such a great friend. I really appreciate your kindness. I love you too! The lights are on. No more questions or comments, please.

PERSONAL: Dear Dr. Smith: When I fell in love with you I could feel deep down inside that it would be the kind of love that would never leave and you know something? My feelings were not shared. I don't even know how to look for love again. Because in you I've found all.

PERSONAL: Party at Piffner Park: Beer and potato this Saturday at 8:00 p.m. Thanks for the Chinese food. I didn't mean to say that you were great but just to say that the candy! Next time you're there, let's go. I've been to Piffner Park. Signed, A. N. E.

PERSONAL: Karlly, N.-I don't want you to worry about things. You are way too young. And you can do anything you want.

PERSONAL: Dad: Glad to see you actually made it to the sec- ond exam. Are you still having an affair with Mr. Fisher? Why don't you ever come over? We need a good laugh.

PERSONAL: Babe: Thank you for being my best friend for the last three years. I have never been happier. I love you forever and ever. Babe, I'm so glad that we can be together. I love you and you're the best.

PERSONAL: Marj and Pete would like to thank all the families making Homecoming candidates for making it such a fun week. Congratulations again. Special thanks to you on our first date.

PERSONAL: No, you can't have a good time without going to the beach. Let's get together sometime and have a good time. You're the best.

PERSONAL: Guy in the lamb costume: Thanks for making the game exciting.

PERSONAL: Dear Nanc: You're the best. You're always there for me.

PERSONAL: Happy Birthday! You are one year older and a day. We are getting so old. You aren't too bad for an old person, though. Take care of yourself. Love, Jerry and Gal.

PERSONAL: Dear Charlie: It's good to hear from you again. I hope you're doing well. I miss you.

PERSONAL: Dear Sheela: Happy Father's Day. I'm going to miss you. I love you.

PERSONAL: Dear Marilyn: With each passing day our television becomes more exciting. I love you. Rose. I wish I could meet you. I'm going to miss you.

PERSONAL: Dear Betty: Remember, the big green corner house is your house. We will be there Monday at 6 p.m. Don't forget to bring your sweetie.

PERSONAL: Dear Keith: Congratulations on being Homecoming Queen! You will be my Queen forever and ever. Love, Jerry.

PERSONAL: Dear Pete: Sorry, I can't make it. I'll talk to you later. Love, Jerry and Gal.

PERSONAL: Dear Sheela: Happy Father's Day! I love you.

PERSONAL: Dear Dad: So, you want an ex-em? Do take care of yourself. I'll be there for you.

PERSONAL: Dear Jerry: Happy birthday! And remember, the big green corner house is your house. We will be there Monday at 6 p.m. Don't forget to bring your sweetie. Love, Jerry and Gal.

PERSONAL: The Sweetest Day: Show a friend you care by giving a BIG HEART COOKIE! Beth's Advisory Council is having a cookie sale—THURSDAY-THURSDAY in the 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

PERSONAL: Mike: Truly, Bill and Joan. Stay as you are. I'll be here soon.

PERSONAL: Mike: Well, I think you've been good. Love, Jerry and Gal.

PERSONAL: Mike: There's no need to write anymore. I'll call you tomorrow. Love, Jerry and Gal.
NO JOKE! FREE COKE! NO COUPON NEEDED JUST ASK!

FREE DOMINO'S PIZZA BEER MUG!!!

Use this coupon to receive one FREE Domino's Pizza Beer Mug with the purchase of any Pizza with 2 or more toppings. One coupon per pizza. Good while supplies last.

P.S. Use this coupon to receive a FREE Domino's Pizza Beer Mug with your pizza and Coke!

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS™ FREE.

4 FREE cups of Coke with any 16" pizza.

2 FREE cups of Coke with any 12" pizza.

That's right, Domino's Pizza has brought back your favorite combination: Pizza and Coke. Enjoy free Cokes with any Domino's Pizza. You buy the Pizza, we buy the Coke... Remember... No coupon needed... JUST ASK!... NO JOKE — FREE COKE!

All Pizzas Include Our Special Blend of Sauce and 100% Real Cheese.

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12" Cheese $4.49
16" Cheese $7.49

Additional Items
Pepperoni
Mushrooms
Ham
Onions
Green Peppers
Sausage
Hot Peppers
12" item $6.99
16" item $9.99

Prices do not include tax. Drivers carry less than $20.00. Limited delivery area.

The Price Destroyer™
9 carefully selected and portioned items for the price of 4. Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Green Olives, Green Peppers, Ground Beef, Sausage, Ham, Onions, Black Olives.

Domino's Sausage Supreme (For you sausage lovers)
Double sausage and extra cheese
12" $6.17
16" $9.92

DAILY SPECIAL
Any 5 items for the price of 4.

Coke available

Open for Lunch 11 a.m. - 2 p.m.
Sun.-Thurs. 11 a.m. - 3 a.m.
Fri.-Sat.

345-0901
101 Division St., N-
Stevens Point, WI

1983 Domino's Pizza Inc.