More parking meters installed?

Student input needed

by Paul Jankowski
News Editor

Are parking meters going to be installed on such streets as Madison, University, Lincoln, and Maria? The answer is still up in the air. However, student input is needed for this decision according to James Haine, 8th Ward Alderman and Chairman of the Parking Meter Study Committee.

Haine invites everyone concerned about the parking meters to attend the committee's meeting tomorrow. The committee will meet at 9:00 AM in the City Conference Room in the Stevens Point County/City Building. He stresses that the proposed installation of meters is still just that: proposed. Why are the meters needed? According to Haine, there are two reasons. First, meters would encourage parking turnover. Haine notes that "right now, people park in some of these spots and stay there all day."

Dukakis speaks at UWSP

by Stephen M. Barrett
Staff Writer

Before primary elections Tuesday, Michael Dukakis finished off his campaign in Wisconsin, giving a speech Monday night in the Berg Gymnasium. Competing for the Democratic presidential nomination, the Massachusetts governor addressed almost all issues, then opened the floor to audience members who questioned him on several other issues. Dukakis, saying he is "fighting for the best America," started his 35-minute speech by speaking of his successful career in politics. He cited being a Massachusetts state representative (1962-1970), then a three-time elected governor in that state (1974,82,86).

One of Dukakis' main platforms is that if he is elected president he would focus much attention on the homeless. Dukakis said, "When Gorbachev comes back to the White House for another summit, he is not going to ask us why we have homeless people in our country.

Mike Dukakis says he believes college students are the greatest resource that this country has. Without significantly raising taxes, he believes he can increase student scholarships and grants. To do this he proposes to first redirect tax money which is being sent to the Nicaraguan Contras. The second source of income he plans to facilitate is the $110 billion owed since tax compliance has fallen to 81 percent. If this money were collected, these funds could be used for programs and housing for the homeless, along with its use for higher education.

Democratic presidential hopeful Michael Dukakis gave UW-Stevens Point a sampling of his views Monday night in the Berg Gymnasium.

Another concern is the balancing of the budget. He pressed the fact that in nine years as governor, he has balanced nine state budgets. He also says he realizes that the national budget will not be an easy task, but he is the only candidate to have ever balanced a budget.

The governor then said he intended to make lowering unemployment a goal. Since he has been governor, unemployment

Attention all, that’s what happened in 1979.

K.O. FOR THE KKK
Following protests by local black leaders, U. of Kansas officials have canceled a campus visit by members of the Ku Klux Klan. The KKK representatives had planned to visit a journalism class and a campus radio station. Now, the students and reporters plan to interview Klan members of campus.

"A HORRIBLE JOKE."
Thats what one U. of Georgia student has called the school’s fledgling student government. Resurrected last spring after a nine-year absence, the organization attracts little student interest. A student newspaper editor worries that “it’s only a matter of time before someone...will run...on a platform of ‘If you elect me, I’ll abolish it.’” After all, that’s what happened in 1979.

Shaw's plan, "a good intention""

By Blair Cleary
Chairman of the SGA Shaw Subcmmitee

Several weeks ago the Student Government Association set up a subcommittee to work on the proposal set forth by UW President Kenneth Shaw.

The six-person subcommittee worked in conjunction with Minority Affairs Director Debbi Sakai to come up with a position paper on how student government feels on the plan.

The entire subcommittee agreed from the start that Shaw's Plan, also known as "A Shared Commitment," was a good intention. The subcommittee also felt that the plan, from a practical standpoint, could never work without causing problems.

The most notable problem was the question of fairness. The plan would give minority students free tuition. Some of this money would come from the tuition of non-minority students. The subcommittee felt that this would lead to hard feelings between minority and non-minority students. These "hard feelings" could lead to increased racism and in the end do more harm than good to minority students.

The position paper, which is in its final stages of construction, states that although the plan itself is a bad idea, the idea of dealing with the minority recruitment and retention problem was an excellent one.

In addition to the position itself the subcommittee offered several suggestions for minority recruitment and retention. I say that "any group could just sit and judge this plan, but we felt that by giving some of our own suggestions we could be much more constructive."

These suggestions include increased minority support groups on campus. Also, there include low interest rate loans to students based on financial need not on minority status.

The position paper should be before student government within a few weeks. All the subcommittee needs to do is iron out a few details about the suggestions.

Planetary hours changed

The beginning of Daylight Savings time causes changes in the times of evening planetary programs and observatory activities at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

Throughout the remainder of the spring semester, the planetarium shows will be on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 8 p.m., an hour later than during winter months, and telescopes will be available for use in the observatory after 8:30 p.m. on the same days.

This was a common sight Tuesday. Wisconsin voters chose Bush and Dukakis as winners in the state primaries.

Fund runs gearing up

by SHAAFF

About 55 students from Stein­ er Hall will be participating in the 8th annual Stein­ er Hall Alcohol Awareness Fund Run (S.H.A.A.F. R.). The group is running to raise money for alcohol awareness and education on the UWSP campus and to promote responsible drinking. This year's run, scheduled for April 22-23, is being sponsored by Pepsi-Cola.

The student runners will leave the East Washington Avenue Entrance of the State Capitol in Madison on Friday evening (April 22) and run through the night through five counties covering 138 miles before reaching Stevens Point. A ceremony for the send-off will be held at 7:30 p.m. on the East Washington Avenue Entrance steps of the State Capitol. The runners will run in pairs for two miles before handing off a baton containing an official proclamation signed by Governor Tommy Thompson to a fresh pair of runners. The runners should reach Stein­ er Hall at approximately noon on Saturday, April 23.

All funds collected through donations will go toward alcohol awareness on the UWSP campus. Anyone interested in donating can contact Stein­ er Hall at 366-3356 or stop by the S.H.A.A.F. R. booth in the University Center Cour corree between April 11 and 15th. If you have any questions please contact either Brian Brashaw or David Paulson, Co-Presidents of S.H.A.A.F. R. at either 366-6711 or 366-2276 respectively.

UC costs explained

by Steve Cady and Paul Stolenwerk

Special to the Pointer

About this time every year, SGA is inundated with complaints that the food service is a rip-off and some feel t hey are getting rich off the students' money. This hardly is the case. It is somewhat complex, but we believe that it will benefit students and food service alike to inform students where their money is going.

The University Center costs $6.1 million a year to operate. This is a fixed cost, for the most part. Every student pays a segregated fee of $73.30 that pays to support operation of the UC. However, this only covers 19.41 percent of costs. The remaining 80.59 percent of UC expenses must be picked up by other revenue-raising areas; the last 4% of these is food service, at 58.08 percent, and the bookstore, at 10.05 percent. Every time a student buys something at any of the food service areas or the bookstore, the proceeds go directly to support UC operations. The food service accounts for 4.34 percent from food service and $1.94 million from the bookstore, annually.

Two things to keep in mind: the UC is not operating totally from food and operating revenue, just as other "auxiliary" areas are. Schools are by having higher food service and bookstore prices, faculty/staff people, conferences, and the numerous guests who make use of these facilities throughout the year help pay for the building's operations. People other than students therefore pay for their use of the building as well.

Yes, it is conceivable that food service prices could come down. However, for every drop in food prices, there will be a proportional rise in the University Center segregated fee. By supporting the UC through food service purchases at the UC, these people help use the facili­ ties most often share the greatest burden for the cost of operation. They help answer a tough question: Do we charge all students more in segregated fees and cut food prices, or do we continue charging a users' fee of sorts, through the food service prices? Food for thought.

Second, revenue is needed for Stevens Point. He notes that “the city cancelled most of its public works projects last year (and) there’s been very little street resurfacing done...property taxes can only go so far in generating this revenue, so you have to look at user fees.”

Concerning the possibility of using this money for a downtown parking ramp, Haine says “In my opinion the possibility of parking meters financing a ramp is possible somehow down the road. However, he noted that, “the first primary use of these funds would have to go for street resurfacing.” He also added that “we’re a long way off from a ramp downtown. Nobody’s talking about taking student’s money and putting it into a ramp downtown.”

Parking meters are also being proposed for the downtown areas in Stevens Point as well as the streets around campus, Haine added.

Steve Cady, President of the Stevems Point

Dukakis,
in his state has dropped from 7 percent to 2.9 percent. This is partially because of plant closings laws which he would like to make federal, referring to the Kenosha plant which was recently closed, in his own words “a federal group of laws that protect workers and their families when there are plant closings and layoffs.”

Student Government Association, thinks differently. He says that “they’re targeting students unfairly.” Cady claims that this money will be used to finance a downtown parking ramp.

Cady added that “unless there’s a major uproar” from students “we’re going to get parking meters.” Just read the writing on the wall.”

Haine foresees two major results from the parking meter installation. First, more commuter students would use pool. Second, students would have to use the campus commuter parking lots more often.

Cady, though, noted that he is going to request sharing the revenues from the meters since it’s “directly a tax on the students.” He stresses that this proposal could be turned into a “win-win” situation between the university and the city with both dividing the meter revenues.

Opposed to Haine, Cady asserts that the proposed downtown parking ramp has a fair amount to do with the city’s need for money and the proposal for parking meters. Says Cady, “if they weren’t building a ramp, they wouldn’t face the need.”

Haine stresses the need for student involvement at this stage of the proposal. He’s “not surprised by the few responses he has already received. He says, “I’d like to see some people there,” at tomorrow’s meeting.

“T’d like to see the student views represented...I thought my phone would be ringing off the hook...with student complaints about this. I’ve received no complaints, no input whatsoever.”

He also added that “if you people are going to have any say in it...you’d better get involved. It’s a little late to get involved after the meters are going up.”

Haine stressed that students should look at this proposal from the city’s perspective before making up their minds. “Why is it that the university can charge people to park in university lots and the city can’t charge people? If you look at the amount of work that’s necessary to keep the city’s streets up, somebody’s got to pay for that work. It’s either got to be taxpayers...or it’s got to be some kind of user fee. If people drive cars into Stevens Point and park them all day, then why doesn’t the city (change them for it?) Is there some constitutional right that people have to have free parking?”

Haine stressed that students alone wouldn’t be targeted for the meters, “if parking meters are going to go up anywhere, they’re going to go up everywhere,” he said.

UWSP students take a non-traditional holiday

by Jodi Ott
Staff Writer

"It's a nice place to visit but I wouldn't want to live there," said David Kenney, a UWSP Russian studies major.

While most students were returning from Spring Break with sunburns and T-shirts, a group of students returned from a tour of the Soviet Union with addresses and memories of new friends.

The Wisconsin Soviet Seminar UWSP Program Jeff March 12 and toured the Soviet Union for two weeks. The UWSP delegation consisted of Dr. Sarah Kent, a Russian history professor, a retired couple from the community and 11 UWSP students.

The students said they felt the Soviet Union has a very practical society and that America is more glamorous. However, they did find the people just as friendly.

"The Soviets were so friendly. I felt safer in Moscow at night than I do in Stevens Point," said Brian Koller, a psychology major.

They also found people were proud to be Soviets and they were proud of their beautiful cities. A few Soviets wanted to defect and asked the students for visas. Some just wanted to see what life was like outside the country.

"There are misconceptions of what America is like because of the media's influence. We said we were from Chicago and they asked us if that is where everyone is in jail, referring toinker," said Lisa Lietz, a political science major who also went on the trip last year.

The students get to see Lenin-grad, Tank, Kazakhstan, Alma-Ata and Moscow. They were on supervised tours during the day but had their nights free. Students visited local bars where they had the opportunity to meet people and talk openly. Students said they met people from Sweden, Germany, France and Italy.

"Once we were taken back to the hotel by a tall guy in a trenchcoat," said Lietz.

Students said Americans were given priority over native citizens. When in line for a bus, the Americans were allowed to board first, just as they were allowed to enter stores and taxis first. Soviets also liked American possessions.

"People just harassed you. They wanted your jeans, shoes, hats and American dollars. They were willing to trade black lacquer boxes for them," said Vicky Saab.

"You can't trade American Trains," said Jeff Shaw, a psychology major.

Shaw, a member of the UWSP men's swim team added, "I was a swimmer and they wouldn't let me talk to swimmers there. They said it was still too much of a bureausocratic country." Dr. Kent felt there was evidence of glasnost, or more openness, in Moscow where they were from Chicago and they

The life of a college student isn't always Bell's and Point. In fact, a lifestyle such as ours is often marked by unpleasant stresses called exams, papers and indebtachment.

Drugs: Where Are We? will be a two-part program. The guests will include entertainer David Crosby of Crosby, Stills & Nash, actors Holly Robinson of 31 Jump Street, Blair Underwood of L.A. Law, and Danny Goldberg, who founded Rock Against Drugs. The program host is former MTV vee-jay, Martha Quinn.

The first program segment is titled "Facing Drug Abuse: A guide for Victims & Helpers." It begins at 8:00 p.m. Monday. Topics during this part of the broadcast will provide useful information, such as how to recognize excessive drinking habits and drug abuse. Successful community-based programs for victims and helpers will be reviewed, and the special needs of children of alcoholics will be discussed.

The second segment, "Peer Pressure -- From Use To Abuse," will begin at 8:00 p.m. the following Tuesday. It will focus on the impact of peer pressures on personal decision making. Students and program guests will consider the different attitudes between men and women about how they deal with peer pressure. Ways to diffuse the pressures to drink will be presented, as well as methods to build self-esteem without relying on drugs and alcohol. CNS will also present the Pop-Up Satellite Beach Party on Wednesday, April 13, at 8:00 p.m. It is a concert featuring Lovers Glee, Flesh for Lulu, Love and Rockets and comedian Tim Settini.

"Where Are We?" is sponsored nationally by Toyota, and is one of ten broadcasts from College Satellite Network during the 1987-88 academic year.

Today’s college students are often seen as being apathetic. Take last week’s SGA elections, for instance. Nine hundred thirty-two out of 8,707 students placed a vote. Take our very own Pointer Poll: In attempting to get five respondents for this week’s question, twenty-two students refused to take part before even hearing the question. Of those who did respond, we put it to them:

"Do you feel that UWSP students are apathetic?"

I am not sure if UWSP students are any different than any other campuses. It would be wrong to say they are apathetic without comparing to other campuses.

Yes, students are really missing out on job experience and people-interaction skills by not getting involved in their student organizations. If more people got involved, the whole university would prosper!

I feel our campus is uniquely different than other universities. People keep the small town image and are afraid to voice their real feelings in fear of being criticized or embarrassed. Maybe it's because we're planted in the heart of farming Wisconsin, or maybe because we've not made university. Regardless, I wouldn't want to go to school anywhere else.

Cold Shot wins tough battle

by Molly Rae
Staff Writer

Seven bands took the stage in competition for the title of champion in the 1988 UWSP Battle of the Bands. Sponsored by the UWSP music coalition, the event was a tremendous success.

And the winner was ... Cold Shot, who are the recipients of 16 hours worth of studio recording time at Riverside Studios. Cold Shot is an eight-member blues band consisting of Greg Kock, Laura Hudon, Dan Jersey, Scott Anderson, Gary Burton, Mike Hall, Mike Barden and Bill Gung. They've been together for three years and describe their music as "rhythm and blues girth."

The second place band was Loud Neighbors. They won the services of SETV to produce a promotional video of the group. They are a five-piece ensemble consisting of Mitch, Mary, Tom and Dave. They've only been together for three months and say their music is in the style of "high energy, Top 40, rock and roll."

The third place group, Gemini, received a $50 cash prize. Gemini is a four-piece group who describe their style as "original, melodic, heavy metal." Gemini is made up of Kelby, Lance, Pat St. John and Bryan James. An honorable mention was given to a three-piece "speed metal" group called Rebellion Angel. They consist of Tom Parks, Chris Simonis and Warner Anderson.

Judges for the event were John Altenberg of Riverside Studios and Todd Thorp of SETV. The contest was organized by Mark Montgomery and Chris Martinsek. It was tastefully organized and professionally executed. Special recognition to the technicians and stage managers is greatly deserved.

Montgomery summed up the show by saying, "it was very successful and we'll do it again next year on an even bigger scale."

AT&T The right choice.
Services, services, services

Currently, the students at UWSP are confronting some pretty heavy issues about the way the university is funded. The worst type of issue is simply how the university raises the hundreds of thousands of dollars paid by UWSP students. We pay the highest fees of all students in System, as a matter of fact. Seg fees are those quiet little additions to your tuition bill that provide services like the Health Center, the U.C., the bookstore, and student activities. Some people call it "backdoor tuition," because these fees account for about a $300 increase to the cost of basic tuition.

Well, seg fees are scheduled for more increases next year, (surprise, surprise) though officials assure me that these increases are necessary. That's comfort-

This week's Pointer contains another comforting explanation about the University Center seg fee which could bear more exploration.

People aren't happy about the fee and the prices at the U.C. The seg fee comes to $79.30 per student this year. It'll be 9.1 percent more next year, if all goes as planned.

What you probably notice more, though, are those prices charged for food and bookstore products. They're a little high, right?

Well, there's a perfectly good reason for it. Air, in fact, has to do with "fixed costs," the total amount it takes to run the U.C. Right now, as explained in the article, that amount is $8.1 million.

Say that does not $1 million, not $2 million, not $3 million, not $4 million, not $5 million, not even $6 million. The price tag on the U.C. enterprise is six million, one hundred thousand dollars. The President of the United States makes about $100,000 a year. We could employ many presidents for many years.

To raise that $8.1 million, the U.C. must charge a seg fee and sell a lot of bran muffins. If you want cheaper bran muffins, be ready to pay a higher seg fee, and if you want a low seg fee, the muffins must be dipped in gold. Or so the logic goes.

As if there were no other options. As if people had no control over expenses. What about- shutter, gasp, tremble, tremble-cutting services? Just a little bit, now. By about a million or two.

Of course that's an oversimplification. Of course it's not that easy. But who said budget cuts were? Decreasing state support for higher education means difficult choices must be made. We can continue to be the best served, highest seg fee payers in System.

But do you feel better served? Better fed? Better healed? Better read?

Students can be made to make up the difference in state support for more services. Or we can say enough is enough and decide what we can do without. There should be that option as well.

Another little on-campus issue making some waves right now is the student input that will be heard when the Big Four committee, the UWSP pie's opinions, to the tune of $300,000 a year in administrative chagbage.

Students are taking some steps, some potentially powerful ones, to address these charges. A UWSP student government resolution authored to prevent the administrative chagbage and now sent to higher officials for action in Madison is a good example of this.

But those are the big issues. Right now, we have some homegrown problems to deal with, and pay for. Like, parking meters, for instance. City officials in Stevens Point want to install a lot of parking meters around town, in front of the U.C. and around the university.

It's not like they haven't got good reason for it. Just listen to James Haine, 19th Alderman and Chair of the prestigious Parking Meter Study Committee. He'd like to put some meters in because he says "Right now, people park in some of these spots and stay all day."

That's right. People have been parking their cars and leaving them there, all day. Imagine parking your car to go do things. I tell ya, those college kids have no sense of responsibility.

His other reason is that revenue is needed for Stevens Point. Road resurfacing, maybe even a big parking structure. I don't get it. They ought to be able to pave the streets in gold on my ticket receipts alone. But they say meters would be better.

As of now, the meters aren't in the ground even if the writing is, according to Steve Cady "on the wall." That's what the committee is for. Student input of the negative kind could make a difference. If you still want to erase the writing, James Haine is the guy to airbrush, i.e. Tell it to the committee.

What I liked most about Mike Dukakis. Take away all the political hype and campaign rhetoric and Mike seems like an O.K. guy. What I liked best through was at the close of the open forum when he was present with gifts to remember his visit to good ole Stevens Point. The two gifts consisted of a tee shirt with the slogan, "When you're out of Point, you're out of beer." The other gift was a six pack of Point beer.

Now, whether or not Mike is the kind of guy that likes to throw back a cold one after a long day on the dusty campaign trail is irrelevant here. The point is that from my vantage point in the fourth or fifth row Mr. Dukakis seemed almost embarrassed to receive these gifts. I don't protest to being a good reader but I swear that I was the feeling I got. As in it was his mind be going down the road saying, "Well, what can you expect from a college crowd." Mike appeared to be tired and not in the mood for catering to the whims of a college crowd.

Don't get me wrong; I have nothing against our beloved home brew. As a matter of fact I nearly made a payroll down at the brewery with all the "Special Editions" I went through this fall. Not to mention the dent I'm still making in the Bock barrels.

Can you see it? Gorbaches comes for another summit visit-or to make it even better imagine an alien visitor to the United States. As a parting gift to the foreign ambassador the United States makes a show of itself and sends the dignitary a gift to remember the good ole United States. The gifts would be a good Martha and course a six pack of Bud. That's just about how serious we take our politics. Yep! Did you vote?

Thompson wants to save Chippewa flowage

"It's prudent for us to sell the property because the PFBC no longer requires us to own it," Thompson said. "And we know the state will provide responsible, sound management for this wild little area in the future."

NSP will continue to own and operate the flowage itself for seasonal storage of water for its hydro plants on the Chippewa River.

Thompson said the state purchased when it learned that Northern States Power Co. wanted to sell land around the flowage because it was no longer required by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. The agreed upon purchase price is $3.9 million.

"We couldn't take the chance that we would devalue this land for inappropriate development. It's like a wilderness," he said. "It's a place where eagles fly, anglers can have an experience of a lifetime and folks come to find peace, solitude and relaxation."

NSP managed the land as part of its hydroelectric system in the area. Citing the value and the opportunity to do something symbolic for Wisconsin's natural resources and for future generations, Thompson praised the firm for "responsible stewardship with this land that many trust for many years."

Ed Thalen, NSP's Wisconsin president, said the sale to the state is a "winning proposition for everyone concerned."

Creationist to appear at Earth Week

by Jim Burns and Eric Carlson

Special to the Polater

Radical fundamentalists, Bible-thumping evangelists, anti-evolutionists and creationists have appeared at the Earth Week celebration. Here you can find scientists and their teachings of Darwin and Nebraska's "New Age" evolution. Again, a question and answer session will follow.

Dr. Foreman is scheduled to give his two-part lecture on Tuesday, April 26, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the University Center's Programs Banquet Room. In the first presentation, Chris will define scientific creationism in relation to public policy, religion and science. The discussion will also include new science is used to study origins and what class fine physics, the laws of probability and the fossil record. Discussion one will end with a question/answer break and an occasion to inspect creation science material. The second session will specifically focus on "how your view of origins will influence your view of the environment." To do this, three cominations will be compared and contrasted: special creation, material evolution and spiritual of "New Age" evolution. Again, a question and answer session will follow.

Dr. Foreman's presentation is being sponsored by the Lutheran Student Community and the Earth Week Committee '88.
Conventional warfare in Europe may be as dangerous as nuclear war according to the Bradford University School of Peace Studies. More than 120 nuclear reactors are located in Europe and it is logical to expect these plants to be targets of bombing or artillery fire. The school said that conventional war in West Germany could produce more than a "dozen Chernobyl." Breaching of nuclear reactors could spread radioactivity over wide areas and leave vast tracts of land uninhabitable for generations.

Two new environmental databases will soon be national. The North American Association of Environmental Educators (NAEE), and the Consortium of Aquariums, Universities, and Zoos (CAUZ) are their names. The NAEE database will have over 900 entries in three categories: Directories and Guides, Classrooms, and Bibliographies and Research. The CAUZ database will have a directory of wildlife research projects around the country.

Irradiated food in Ireland is being imported without public knowledge. No regulations have been developed there to assess the effects of food irradiation. Aside from labeling, there is no way of knowing whether food has been irradiated. Proper testing has not been done, according to Earthwatch, the Irish Environmental Magazine. Spices and seasonings are two U.S. products which are part of the impetus to irradiate.

Minimata disease is so called because its sufferers discovered near Minamata Bay in Japan as early as 1956. It is a disorder of the central nervous system caused by organic mercury poisoning of the bay from 1953 to 1968 by Chino Corporation. Consumption of fish from the bay is the way the disease spread. Victims are now seeking redress, and can be contacted through Meiko Aisawa, Ehimingawa Sagaru, Yanaginohamba, Shigayaku, Kyo^o, JAPAN.

If you've wondered where those houseflies come from in the winter they're cluster flies. They are earthworm parasites that lay their eggs on worms and overwinter in cracks and crevices. This is OK if the crevice is a cave, but not if it's sitting on your house. If there is space in your walls and no insulation, there may be hundreds of thousands of flies waiting for sunny days or inside heat to emerge. Pesticides may be used very carefully but the best way to combat the flies is to cover or screen all openings you can find to the outside and inside.

Native peoples throughout the world have had their cultures threatened by the larger, overpowering influences of "modern" nations. The Inuit (native Alaskans) have launched a campaign against "gangtattajuarmiut," or the destruction of the native environment. The campaign is primarily aimed at satellite dishes and calls for the creation of a native broadcasting network and the promotion of increased use of native language in Alaska's schools.

Federal safety standards for drinking water have been exceeded in five Indiana drinking water systems. All five systems didn't follow proper sampling procedures and also failed to notify system users of contamination.

Chippewa flowage would acquire 98 of those islands.

The flowage was formed in 1921 when a predecessor to Northern States damned the Chippewa River at Winter. The entire flowage covers 11 natural lakes, many smaller lakes and ponds and lowlands that were logged over, providing excellent fish habitat.

The flowage's lands and islands are attractive to campers and nature lovers. The flowage also is famous for its floating logs. It is the third largest body of water in Wisconsin, exceeded only by Lake Winnebago and the Petenwell Flowage.

Perfect Pointers: Baseball record now 10-0
by Karen Kolinski

The UW-Stevens Point baseball team opened its home season with a doubleheader on Friday and upped an already perfect record.

The Pointers shut-out UW-Milwaukee at University Field in the first contest, 9-0, and then took the nightcap, 8-0.

Point is now 10-0 on the season while the Panthers fall to 0-11.

"First of all, I'm pleased we were able to get the games in," said head coach Randy Handel.

"The fact that we were able to win two games was nice, but I think it was apparent that we were a little rusty and sloppy at times. I hope that was due to our two-week layoff."

In the first contest, the Pointers scored one run in the third inning and added two more in the fourth before exploding for six runs in the sixth.

Junior Tim Zajkowski, 3-0 on the season, picked up the win for Point giving up four hits, one walk while fanning two.

Zajkowski now has only given up three earned runs in 21 innings pitched.

"Tim really battled well," said Handel. "He was getting behind batters and yet he showed a lot of poise by fighting back and making the big pitches when he had to."

Mike Hanrahan led the Pointers behind the plate, going 2 for 4 with three hits. Chris Kohnle had two hits in three trips to the plate with a lone RBI, while Greg Dantoin went a perfect 1-0 for 2.

"Early on, our bats were sluggish and I think that was pretty much due to the fact that their starting pitcher had us off-balance," said Handel. "He was mixing his pitches well and had us guessing."

"I was pleased with our overall play in the first game and the fact that we made plays defensively when we had to. In the first four innings, they had runners in scoring position and didn't score."

Brad Kwasny took the loss for Milwaukee, going 4-11 innings. He gave up five hits, two walks but struck out six batters.

Bill Sincere came in relief and gave up six runs on six hits. He walked one and struck out none.

Dan Dannell led a pair of home runs to lead the way for Point in the night game.

After four innings, the Pointers had a 6-1 lead. In the fifth, Milwaukee erupted for four runs and closed the gap, 6-5.

Stevens Point added three runs in the bottom of the inning to secure the victory.

"I thought we were ready to play, but once we got the 6-1 lead, we got real flat and didn't extend the lead when we had a chance," said Handel. "That's when our defense and pitching really began to get erratic."

"Anytime you start walking, a couple of batters in a row, that really puts the defense, especially the infield, on their heels. You also tend to lose a little bit of aggressiveness."

Pointers Lady Trackster Renee Breu rounds a corner at last weekend's Colman Invitational track meet.

Former UWSP cross country and track All-American Arnie Schraeder won both the 1,000 and 800 meter runs, as a member of the Nike Boston team.

Men's seconds went to Jon Elmore in the steeplechase (10:52.3), Tom Morris in the 1,000 (4:06), hurder Jim Sikel (51.94), Garrison Williams (22.50), Andy Wecker in the discus (135-1/2) and John Gunderson in the hammer throw (140-11 3/4).

Thirds were earned by Rob Sparkhawk (10.00, 32.35), Rich Garcia (steeplechase, 16:19.19), Eric Fossum (1:58.2), Rich Meinke (500, 1:36.2), and Steve Allison (135-1/2).

The lone field event third place went to triple jumper Eric Spangenberg (12.35).

Score came in relief and gave up six runs on six hits. He walked one and struck out none.

Danno led a pair of home runs to lead the way for Point in the night game.

After four innings, the Pointers had a 6-1 lead. In the fifth, Milwaukee erupted for four runs and closed the gap, 6-5.

Stevens Point added three runs in the bottom of the inning to secure the victory.

"I thought we were ready to play, but once we got the 6-1 lead, we got real flat and didn't extend the lead when we had a chance," said Handel. "That's when our defense and pitching really began to get erratic."

Soccer team wins 3, takes tourney

by John Clarke

Special to the Pointer.

The UWSP men's soccer club recently concluded its 1987-88 season with a five showing in the UW-River Falls indoor Soccer Tournament. Stevens Point sent two teams to the tournament, with their "A" team going 3-2.

In their first game, Point faced Manitou State. Point came out early in the game and scored at 4:02 into the first half off a shot by Mike Mitchell, from an assist by Paul Herold. Not to be outdone, Manitou State tied the game at 7:30, which ended the first half tied at 1-1.

"We started out slow because of the rubberized track that we had to play on," said team co-captain Tim Foye. The second half only had one goal, coming at 13:59 with a shot by Foye off a lead pass from Mike Harbert.

"Due to the unavailability of an indoor gym track, we were what appeared to be a step behind. We weren't playing as a cohesive unit," said co-captain Paul Herold.

In their second game, Stevens Point faced host River Falls, whom they haven't played in over a year. Point got on the scoreboard first when Dave Valentine scored at 5:08 into the first half when he took a Joe Newman lead pass and quickly powered the ball past the River Falls goalie. This gave Point a 1-0 lead going into the second half.

The second half started out rather quickly when the River Falls opening kickoff was stolen by an alert Valentine, who passed to Foye, who then placed the ball promptly into the River Falls net. This gave Point the 2-0 lead, with the shut-out being given to Point goalie John Clark. This win advanced Stevens Point into the championship round, having to beat UW-Stout to take the tourney.

Stevens Point, trying to forget two earlier losses to Stout during the outdoor season, came prepared to win. Point scored off at 1:16 into the first half on a give and go pass from Dave Valentine to Paul Herold, who put past the Stout keeper to put Point up 1-0. "After the first half, we seemed to break down both physically and mentally, but with luck, and the fact that Stout missed several shots, we were able to take our 1-0 lead into the half," said Foye.

Aside from a Stout goal at 3:31 into the second half, the rest of the game belonged to Stevens Point. Point scored at 6:36 as a shot by Valentine off a double assist from Newman and Herold. Tim Foye scored at 7:39 for Point off of a pass by Tim Foye to give Point a 3-1 lead. Foye scored again two minutes later off a John Schult pass, but due to the poor angle that the ball fell into, it was null. Stevens Point took two teams due to the enthusiasm of the Point Soccer Club. Point's second team didn't fair as well as its first team, but Larry didn't dampen. "Although we lost, Point's second team played well as a team until the tourney, they played admirably," said Foye. John Koss tallied two goals against River Falls and Manitou St.

Foye cited the rest of the team which included Thong Thao, Phil Hoehn, John Anderson, Steve Mitchell, and John Clark. Clark did double duty during the tournament by playing for both Point teams. On the day, Clark had 6 saves in six games.

"As an overview of the season, Stevens Point, considering that they are only a club, did very, very well," said Clark. They finished with a record of 13-5-1. Next season Point have at least 10 game schedule, against such teams as Madison, Parkside, Lawrence University, and Milwaukee School of Engineering.

Golfers anxious for season
by Scott Huelskamp
Sports Editor
The snow is finally gone and the flags are in the holes, much to the delight of the UWSP golf team. They returned to the links at the Stevens Point Country Club last Tuesday to begin practicing for the spring season opener on April 19 against UW-Oshkosh.

Four first team Wisconsin State University Conference players return to the Pointer squad, which was within a stroke of going to nationals at the conclusion of the 1987 fall season.

The team’s top golfer is freshman Jason Zahradka who won several meets earlier this year and was consistently fighting for the top spot in the WSUC. Zahradka easily made the first team.

The other three first-teamers, who are all seniors on the Pete Peterson coached team and who will be shouldering most of the load during their last campaign, are Kurt Rebholz, Mickey Gilbert and Greg Majka.

Other top golfers testing it up are 1987 academic All-American Mike Freider, Joe Stadler, John List and Mark Pulkkii.

“The spring season is a bit more difficult,” said Freider. “The ground is very soggy and the ball obviously doesn’t get much roll. Where your ball lands on your drive is pretty close to where you will be taking the second shot.”

Taking two hits each were Dan Dantoin, Mike Reischel, Chris Kohnle, Dave Langbehn and Dean Lamers. Dan Dan­toin, Kohnle and Chet Sergio also had two RBIs.

Scott Pompe no-hitted the win for Point to keep his record unblemished at 3-0. He gave up six runs on five hits in 4 1/2 innings, walked four and fanned two. Scott Anderson and Paul Speeth both came in relief and each gave up one hit while striking out one.

“I was pleased to see Scott stay composed and get some log outs,” said Handel. “He came into a tough situation.”

Dick Reisman took the loss as he went four innings, gave up six runs on eight hits, four walks while fanning two. Eric Villareal came in relief and gave up three runs, two hits, four walks and struck out one.

“You can’t ever be dis­ appointed when you score nine or 10 runs a baseball game but yet we got people in scoring position with one out and couldn’t bring them home,” said Handel. “We have to do a better job of making contact and putting the ball in play and put the pressure on them.”

“It’s nice to play again. Practice gets old and yet there are always things we need to work on. We just need to keep improving and be ready to play every time we take the field. We have to stay hungry. That’s a real key to our ball club. If we’re hungry and ready to play, then we’re capable of playing some good baseball.”

The Pointers return to action in another doubleheader against Concordia on Saturday, April 9, beginning at 1 p.m. at Universi­ty Field.
