Sandler Speaks on Harassment

Bernice Sandler, Senior Associate to Washington D.C. Based Center for Women's Policy Studies, visited UWSP this Tuesday to speak at the annual Academic Convocation.

Sandler, who is a national leader in the campaign to raise the status of women on American campuses, spoke on issues dealing with campus sexual harassment on campuses, peer harassment and the need for more women in authoritative positions.

This year's outstanding faculty members were: Joan Karlan, Assistant Professor of Theatre and Dance; Robert Englebard, Professor of Forestry, Douglas Post, Professor of Biology; Mary Shumway, Professor of English; and Roger Wood, Professor of education, all for excellence in teaching.

Also for scholarships: Robert Knowlton, Professor and chair of history, for service; Michael Danby, Professor of French and chair of Foreign Languages, and Carl Lee, Professor of Forestry.

Currently Sandler is working on promoting women involvement in the authoritative positions throughout campuses across the nation. In the 1970's she played a vital role in the development and passage of Title IX which prohibits sexual discrimination in education, working with Women's Equity Action League and she filed the first sex discrimination against more than 250 campuses in the United States.

Sandler finished by saying that many things have changed for the good in the campus communities but much more has to be done. She says, "Presidents and policies of college must back it. There must be more women studies classes introduced, and more rape programs have to be implemented. There really is no end to things that have to be done, but we're moving in the right direction."

Pointers "Penzance" it!

This year's theme for Homecoming '91, which will take place the week of October 8-12, is Pointers of Penzance.

Many activities in which the students of UWSP are encouraged to participate will take place the week before the Homecoming football game.

This year's agenda is as follows:

 Tuesday, October 8: King and Queen voting from 9-3 in the UC, Spirit Boats from 9-3 in the UC and College Mulhouse at 8 p.m. in the Encore.

 Wednesday, October 9: Games Competition at Coleman Field from 11-4, Talent Night performed in the Program Banquet Room in the UC at 8 p.m., and Spirit Boats from 9-3.

 Thursday, October 10: King and Queen voting 9-3, Yell Like Hell at Coleman Field at 5:30 p.m., and comedian Alex Cole in the Encore at 8 p.m.

 Saturday, October 12: Homecoming Parade at 10 a.m. (line-up at 9:15 a.m.) and the football game UWSP versus UW Stout at 1 p.m. and finally the Coalition Ball from 8-10:30 p.m. in the Encore.

 Friday, October 11: Hidden Treasure Map 11-6 in the Wisconsin Room and "38 Special" in Quandt Fieldhouse.

German club celebrates reunification

by John Dieer
Contributor

Today, October 3, marks the first anniversary of reunified Germany. Tuesday, the UWSP German Club gave students an opportunity to hear first hand accounts of the reunification and its effects on the German citizens.

Frank Pruzaak, an East German lawyer for the Farmers Association and who served as an advisor for Government Finances for Reunification in Agriculture, spoke of the effects of reunification on himself and his family.

Pruzaak is in Stevens Point to study business and English under a special eight week program. He is staying in Frier Hall while he attends UWSP. Interested students who missed Pruzaak on Tuesday will have another chance to hear him speak. He will talk before the UWSP International Club on October 18 at 7 p.m. in the Wisconsin Room of the UC.

Island hosts seminar

The fifth annual "Success Seminar" was held last weekend at Camp Onaway, an island retreat on the Chain of Lakes in Waupaca. Approximately 100 students from UWSP attended this two day event which included students from campus organizations like Alpha Omega Rho, Lifestyle Assistants, International Club, Cultural Diversity Programs, and many of the Residence halls.

Julie Hellweg, Assistant Director of Campus Activities for Student Organizations, and intern, Janell Johnson coordinated Seminar this year, which was sponsored by Campus Activities.

There were three keynote speakers featured at Success Seminar, including Dr. Will Keim, Judy Goldsmith, and Dan Dietrich.

Dr. Will Keim, one of the most sought after University speakers in the country, focused his two presentations on the value of leadership by college students.

La Crosse police arrest Oktoberfesters
by Chris Stehinite
News Editor
La Crosse city police arrested 408 people last weekend during the Oktoberfest festivities.
Captain David Hansen of the La Crosse police department said that out of the 408 arrested, 143 of those were arrested for underage drinking.
Oktoberfest, a community celebration first held in 1961 by G. Heilemann Brewing and still sponsored by Heilemann, began last week Friday, September 27, and continues through Thursday, October 4.
Dave Guefner, President of Oktoberfest, said, "The festival promotes civic pride and hopefully gives the city national recognition."

The city and county police in conjunction with approximately 100 other officers from neighboring communities, were called upon to try and contain students in the downtown area and to enforce the city's underage and public intoxicancy ordinances.

Many students from UWSP campus attended the weekend long party. Two of those students are Dave Bartlett and Frank Cisomski. Both of which were arrested for underage drinking.

"They never even asked me... They just assumed I was drinking."

Bartlett, a junior at UWSP that while leaving a party that he had attended, an unmarked squad car pulled up and took him to the city jail.

Cisomski, who was with Bartlett said that the police never asked them if they had been drinking. He said, "They never even asked me what I was doing. They just assumed I was drinking."

Although the police department was adequately staffed for crowd control, the department was lacking in their efforts to accept bail money and release the offenders.

Bartlett said, "It is ridiculous to have to go to jail in the first place, but to have to sit in there for seven hours because there isn't anyone to help you get out, is crazy."

Fines this year varied by age. Depending on the age of the offender, a stricter fine is imposed.

Captain Hansen said that offenders under 17 will receive a $5 fine. Yet, offenders between the ages of 18-20 receive a $265 fine.

Hansen explained the differences by saying, "The younger offenders are still in the learning phase and shouldn't be financially broken because of it. The older offenders should already know the consequences of their actions."

Although Oktoberfest did result in some arrests, festival volunteers say that it really wasn't a big deal. Guefner said, "There were approximately 10,000 people on the fest grounds and only one arrest was made there. There were 50,000-100,000 people at the Saturday parade and no arrests were made. The only trouble areas are downtown where most of the underage drinking goes on."

Japan Week successful

by Paul Matuda

A special reception was held at UWSP Sunday in conjunction with the 23rd Joint Annual conference of the Midwest U.S.-Japanese Association.

The Annual Conference was held in bothwaukee and Madison from Sept. 29 to Oct. 3 to discuss business opportunity that Midwest has to offer the Japanese. More than 500 business executives from both U.S. and Japan attended the conference.

The entire Japanese population at UWSP was invited to the reception, "honoring UWSP's Japanese students," at University Center by Vice Chancellor Howard Thoyre and Mayor Schultz.

For many Japanese students, who are currently receiving intensive language training in the English Language Institute, the speeches with many jokes were hard to understand, but talking to the important figures of the university and the community was "really fun," said Mitori Kuboshima, an exchange student from Dokkyo University.

During Japan Week, UWSP students interested in Japan stopped at the Concource to chat with Japanese students who explained about their home country. Several workshops on Japanese culture, economy, history and business were presented by UWSP professors who are knowledgeable about Japan. And Japanese music was played in the University Center throughout the week.

UWSP has been developing unique relationship with Japan.

ELI maintains a one-year exchange program and ELI summer program with Dokkyo University. The Nanking Women's University is developing the Japanese version of the Institute in Kyoto, and American Suzuki Institute uses the method originated in Japan.

Also, UWSP and ELI are considering the possibility of the special program from next year with Chiba prefecture, Wisconsin's sister state.

and the ethics and choices made by student leaders. Kein offered insight and inspiration to all who attended.

Judy Goldsmith, Assistant to the Chancellor on Affirmative Action, offered her knowledge and experience of successful leadership. She also lead a mini-session on how to run effective meetings and get students involved in decision making.

The third keynote address was given by Dan Dietrich, the Director of the Academic Achievement Center and Professor of English at UWSP. Dietrich's focus was on how to communicate effectively as a student leader and how to enhance our communicative skills.

The Success Seminar is held yearly to give students the opportunity to learn and sharpen their leadership skills.

The annual weekend Seminar open to any student, is intended to help develop skills and motivate student leaders to action.
"Dedicated to the Preservation of the first Amendment"

Pointer practices those grey freedoms

by Sarah L. Newton
Editor-in-Chief

The First Amendment has found itself at the center of many controversial issues, when each side of any contested attempts to voice it's plea.

Two years ago, when Blair Clerry was Editor-in-Chief of THE POINTER, he implemented a line into it's masthead which read, "Dedicated to the Preservation of the First Amendment.

Could there be a more perfect ideology than one that states, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances?"

In last week's issue of THE POINTER, David Kanze, Executive Director for SGA, voiced his opinion as to why the black and white climate of free the POWER to wound deeply, or to enliven and fulfill. The freedoms and privileges provided by The First Amendment are common sense and easy to take for granted. But let it hit home for just a minute. Really think about how different even one day would be without Amendment One.

"Congress shall make no law... abridging freedom of speech."

Listening to, or watching radio or television, or even reading a morning newspaper would be an incomplete experience. Castrated media would be unable to bring it to you. There would be no sharing of potential jokes between anyone. For those of you who remember The Jacobsins (a controversial political/social student organization from a few years back) - they never would have existed.

There would be no seminar type courses because open opinions and discussions couldn't be allowed. And there speech should again grace the front page of our paper.

By no means is the disappearance of that line off the masthead an indicator that the freedom is gone. The fact that "letters to the editor" are al-owed and encouraged is proof of that.

"Dedicated to the Preservation of the First Amendment," was removed in an attempt to make THE POINTER'S respect of this freedom. We don't feel the need to say it in print, for in every production of our paper, it is implied and a "given" in concept.

Amendment One, and freedom of speech in specific, gives us access to words. Words, written or spoken, are the most effective and direct form of communication. Through the free use of words in opinions, feelings and emotions, ANYTHING can be expressed. In reality, words would have been no expression of ANY controversial issues on this campus.

Without Amendment One, we would almost exist in separate worlds; incapable of touching anyone else, and no one touching us... verbally, emotionally, or spiritually.

The staff members of THE POINTER are so concerned that the elimination of "Dedicated to the Preservation of the First Amendment" will stifle the freedom of their writing, or any other portions of their areas of the paper.

Please recognize our decision to remove the Amendment statement is from print only. What it stands for lives strong and zealous in the hearts, word processes, and desktops of everyone at THE POINTER.

Recollecting an issue... for everyone

Dear Editor:

It would help keep the confusion down if you would require your contributors to check their facts before they spew off at some imagined evil. Last week (Vol.35 No.3) in the letter columns, Mr. Daniel Krasne suggested that the computer labs use recycled paper.

If he had sought facts from the lab manager (me), he would have learned that, as of Fall 1990, all of the Student Computing labs have been using recycled paper.

In addition, we have been recycling the waste paper since 1989 or thereabouts. If there are any questions or comments about the policies of Student labs, there is a selection for recording comments and suggestion on the network under the Courses and Study section. All serious inquiries and comments have action taken on them.

I enthusiastically endorse and second his request that students use the recycling bins instead of leaving their aluminum cans all over the campus. I think some are added that there are plenty of waste containers all over campus, so no one should feel they have no choice but to throw their trash on the ground in the academic buildings.

I have been saddened over the years by seeing such lack of basic environmental respect among the college population at UWSP. I had thought that, considering the education level of the academic community, we would have a greater awareness and concern than the general public about such issues.

The entire university community should take pride in their campus and stop others from littering. With the environmental knowledge we now have, there is no excuse for such careless behavior as littering.

"It simply takes a change of bad habits and attitudes"

We can become a concerned and involved community in regards to the environment without exerting a great deal of effort or time. It simply takes a change of bad habits and attitudes; throwing our waste paper into the proper receptacles, putting glass and aluminum containers into recycling bins, telling our friend or roommate to pick up his or her gum wrapper and put it in the proper place.

That is, perhaps, a much more difficult task to effect, since it involves personal change in the individual, a much more direct action than writing a letter to the Pointer. Still, I have faith that the "greening of America" can become a reality. Love your mother - earth.

Meet Mike on State Street

Dear Editor,

In last week's editorial, Sarah Newton professed her opinion about Harvest Fest and the Harvest Fest Student Government. She explained that Harvest Fest is "tons of people, everyday people, getting together on and around the lawn...to socially deliberate problems with and in the government, societal norms, and things in general, and smoke a bunch of pot in the process."

This obviously shows Sarah Newton's lack of ignorance about Harvest Fest and the vast array of people who attend Harvest Fest, just as it paralleled her position as an editor of the Pointer to a like position for a tabloid such as the National Enquirer.

Had she allowed herself to be objective, she would have found the truth to be quite the opposite from her "hailed" opinion. Sadly enough, she decided that the old parable was correct; "Ignorance is bliss."

To correct her erroneous editorial, I would like to point out the facts. Harvest Fest is a conference and rally exalting the benefits of hemp (marijuana) and advocates its legalization.

Hemp can be made into fuel, plastics, oil, clothing, medicine. Hemp is the only known medicine to relieve the ocular pressures that is associated with severe glaucoma. A condition that almost always results in total blindness. Information on these issues are discussed in great detail during the conference and rally.

In her editorial, Sarah also expresses her opinion on funding for the group to attend the conference. She states, "organizations like SGA and UAB are formed for the benefit of every student, not just the ones who are interested in politics or communication. From this she concludes that organizations that have a single purpose are unworthy of SGA financing."

However, I realize that many of you won't be able to attend for various reasons; jobs, family commitments, etc. No problem. If you have questions just call the SGA office at 346-4592 or 346-3723 and leave a message for me and I'll get back to you as soon as I can. Or stop in at the office in Room 131 of the University Center.

Daily victimized by cutbacks

Dear Editor,

On Monday, September 23rd, we, the students and faculty of UWSP lost one of the most valuable services provided by the University. What I am writing about is the discontinuance of the "Daily" as part of a series of cutbacks being set in motion to deal with increasingly limited funds.

The discontinuance of the "Daily" greatly took away the most direct and effective line of communication between student organizations and the students. For smaller organizations, or those just starting to get on their feet, the "Daily" was a vital access to the student body at no cost. The loss of the "Daily" greatly makes it extremely difficult for those students to function. This is an extremely important aspect of student life and not really shown by any of the major advertising that well established and better funded organizations can afford. This loss of exposure is unfair to the student body in that it doesn't expose you to (or even decreases) the variety of organizations and events on campus, thereby limiting our choices in extracurricular education.

The most obvious solution to the problem is to bring back the "Daily," I realize the need for cutbacks, but I feel that we can look to other areas. For example, some of the more favored organizations are given SGA funds for field trips and events whose benefits to the student body are questionable. I find it ironic that the SGA can provide funding for these student organizations and events, but can't afford to let the student body know who they are. Mr. Krause is too much of an organization to let others know what my groups do to help me. So now I've got this job and you've got a resource. What's next? That's where you come in. There will be a meeting next Tuesday, October 2, at 5:00 in the Mitchell Room of the UWSF to let you know what's happening.

Non-Trads have own voice in SGA

Dear Editor,

Last spring SGA announced that they wanted to create a new position, Non-traditional Student Affairs Director. I thought that it would be an excellent opportunity to do something positive for a group of students who, up until now, haven't had a formal voice in SGA, so I applied for the job, went through the interview process and here I am.

University does buy recycled

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in response to the comments made by Mr. Krause in the September 26th issue. In his letter, Mr. Krause made a valid argument that recycling can only be a working alternative if there already exists a market for the recycled product. In a society governed by capitalist philosophy it is impossible to force the purchase of a raw material (material for recycling), when there is no market for the finished product.

As a firm believer in the environmental movement, this has been on my mind while trying to establish in my management strategies.

Perhaps before future claims are made, a simple phone call would be in order to obtain further information. I am willing to provide that information, and to receive any suggestions that might be made to as many products that should be offered.

Hemp more than pot

Dear Editor,

The meeting times for Legislative Affairs Committee were misstated in last week's Pointer. This was my fault because the letter I submitted had the wrong times in it. Instead of Wednesdays at 5:30 in the Red Room they are on Mondays at 5:30 in the Green Room.

About your editorial last week against SGA funding Harvest Fest Supporters:

I believe that your opinion was well and showed the need toward ignoring the obvious. Such opinions should not be the official stance of a responsible newspaper. Although it is easy to make cheap jokes about harvest fest as I am sure you illustrated, we should keep an open mind to the sincere offer of an educational opportunity.

Here are the reasons that we should fund Harvest Fest Supporters:

The goal of Harvest Fest Supporters is to educate and inform its members so that they, in turn, can educate and inform the entire UWSP student body through flyers and a booth in the UC. What better reason to spend student money than on education that can benefit everyone?

The information that they seek can not be easily gotten from other sources, and can potentially have very serious and mental effects. Hemp can be used for a great number of things (such as making paper and cloth). The use of hemp in place of wood and cotton would save an estimated 30,000 acres of forest land, save much of the

Rec. Services Threatened

by Buck Jennings
Outdoors Editor

Have no corn, no cabbage, no green, no change, no capital, no money. I'm broke. Words all too often spoken by college students. Many students deal with the stresses and rigors of college life through active participation in an outdoor endeavor. But how can one remain active and mentally fit with that old skeletal-budget monkey on their back?
It's no secret that quality outdoors equipment requires a substantial investment as well as the perpetual costs of proper maintenance. Where can the financially strapped individual turn? Try UWSP campus recreational services.

Imagine if you will: You've finally gotten a dream date with that special someone. But Steve's Point is a cultural wasteland! The days pass,
"What are we gong to do?"
they keep asking. "What are we going to do?" Well, what are you going to do? Bikes are often crowded and over-rated, parties are often crowded and overriddled. Enter campus recreational services.

For the nominal investment of $23.00 You've rented a canoe, paddles, cushions and a bag of duck decoys (that's right duck decoys). Now you're set for a dream date, duck hunting!

Ah, what could be more romantic than paddling around a canoe is search of cansacks backs, shovelers and whoopers? Quack... quack... quack. If that special someone dumps you, your rental cost covers this equipment for an entire weekend. You can go out with your friends now, and have a good time.

Campus recreational services provides a wide array of outdoor equipment: golf clubs, bicycles and cartop racks, back packs, tents, sailboards, kayaks, skis, tip-ups, and power tools to name a few.

Campus recreational services will provide a variety of other services. For the lowest price in the area you can get your skis tuned and waxed or your bicycle overhauled.

Hikers, bikers hunters and anglers will appreciate recreational services' complete set of detailed county maps as well as maps of state forests and nationals parks.

Recreational services is clearly the place to start any outing, and all of these services are also available to non-students at slightly higher rates. Because of budget cuts and lack of interest we are in danger of losing this unique student resource. I can guarantee that each perso reading this column can make use of some equipment of service offered here. It seems as if the university would love to cut this program and liquidate their merchandise. $15,000 has already been removed from their merger budget. If we can make better use of this resource perhaps we can prove to the system that we want to keep it. Campus Recreational Services is located in the lower level of the U.C.

Mill Emissions Hearing

A public hearing will be held Oct. 9 in Wisconsin Rapids on an air quality permit Nekoosa Papers, Inc., of Port Edwards is seeking to obtain from the Department of Natural Resources.

The hearing will be held at 10:30 a.m. in Room 313, Wood County Courthouse, 400 Market Street.

Nekoosa Papers, Inc., a subсидary of Georgia-Pacific Corporation, is proposing to increase substitution of chlorine dioxide for pure chlorine as a pulp bleaching agent at the company's plant in Nekoosa, Wisconsin. The substitution would enable the plant to meet more restrictive wastewater regulations that limit discharges do x in and other toxic pollutants. The plant discharges wastewater into the Wisconsin River.

The plant must comply with air pollution control restrictions limiting airborne emissions of pure chlorine and chlorine dioxide. The Department has preliminarily determmed that the Nekoosa plant project would meet air quality requirements and has proposed issuing an air quality permit to Georgia-Pacific Corp.

The Department's proposed permit would limit the Nekoosa plant's chlorine emissions to 0.1 pounds an hour and chlorine

Ice Age Trail Hike

Hikers and other outdoors enthusiasts can enjoy an autumn day hiking over the moraines, around the kames, along the drumlin, and past the kettle ponds that are part of Wisconsin's glacial history, while helping preserve those unique features for future generations during the fifth annual Take A Walk On the Wild Side hike-a-thon. The Oct. 6 hike is a fundraiser for the National Scenic Ice Age Trail, sponsored by the Ice Age Park and Trail Foundation.

This year hikers have their choice of 13 trail segments along the proposed 1,000 mile Ice Age Trail, according to Bill Moorman, Ice Age Trail coordin ator for the Wisconsin
Department of Natural resources. Six of those sections are located partially or completely on DNR properties, including Devil's Lake State Park, the Northern, Southern, and Lapham Peak units of the Kettle Moraine State Forest, and the Glacial Drumlin and Ahnapee state trails.

Participants in the hike-a-thon are encouraged to seek sponsors to make a pledge for each mile they walk, but pledges are not required to participate in the hike-a-thon. Funds raised during the hike-a-thon are used for trail acquisition, development and maintenance.

When completed, the National Scenic Ice Age Trail will trace the furthest advance of the last glaciers to cover Wisconsin about 12,000 years ago. From its eastern end at Potawatomie State Park in Door County, the trail loops to the south to Rock and Green Counties. They head north through Langlade and Lincoln counties, and finally follows the moraine to the trail's western end at Interstate State Park in Polk County.

The Ice Age Trail has been designated a National Scenic Trail by the U.S. Congress and a state scenic trail by the Wisconsin Legislature. The trail is being developed through the cooperative efforts of local volunteers, municipal and county governments, the DNR, the National Park Service and the Ice Age Park and Trail Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to completing and maintaining the trail. Nearly half of the trail has been developed and is currently open to the public.

"Wisconsin has some of the finest examples of glacial geology in the world and getting to know our geologic features can really enhance your appreciation of our environment," explains Moorman. DNR

SEMESTER IN TAIWAN (12.26.91 - 4.18.92)

CHINA INTERIM (12.26.91 - 1.17.92)

UW-SP International Programs is offering an outstanding study/hour opportunity for both students and faculty/staff alike. Experience the Orient in all of its splendor: the Great Wall, the Forbidden City, the Ming Tomb, the Terra Cotta Figure, the Li River Cruise, the hectic metropolis of Hong Kong and much more!

In conjunction with East China Normal University in Shanghai participants will be treated to a spectacular tour of mainland China, meeting noted Chinese Scholars.

Students staying on for the Semester will move on to Taipei, Taiwan where they will continue their adventures as "Foreign Students" at Soochow University. Students, who need have no prior knowledge of Chinese, will earn UW-SP credits in Art, Economics, Political Science, Psychology, Chinese, of course, and so on.

Both options are an incredible bargain! Airfare, Room and Board, the Outings and Lectures and Fulltime Tuition for student participants and more is included:

- China Interim: (approx.) $2,890
- Semester in Taiwan: (approx.) $4,395

Here's your chance to internationalize yourself, to come face to face with this exciting, ever changing, vital area of our global community!

Applications now being taken, financial aid applicable. We've also openings for a few qualified students in the Semester in Britain, France and Spain Programs.

Buck Fights Huge Fish

by Buck Jennings

I shall try to tell the following story without having it sound like a fantasy letter in an adult magazine. I am a student at a small midwestern university and I never thought that this would happen to me.

A sultry July 27th found some friends and I feeling the effects of a previous night's Germanfest and festering on Milwaukee, Wisconsin's lakefront. The drooling in my skull was interrupted by a splash and commotion along the boulder strewn shoreline. I struggled to my feet to investigate. Only lacy expanding nipples remained, verifying the area of disturbance. I scrutinized the epicenter of these waves and beneath the surface loomed the shadowy form of a fish among carp.

Thinking quickly, I stripped off my T-shirt, my wallet, my keys, Roland, my season tickets for the Packers, various pieces of paper, and any loose change like steel and lightning reaction. I struggled into the shallow waves and prepared to do battle.

With the stealth of a stalking puma, I crept along the rocky shoreline hoping for a good angle on this monster hose-lips. I waded in the hot blades of pain shot through my body. With the tenacity of a bulldog I bent to my aequous Texas cage match. He was a good fish, a clean fish, a strong fish but alas, when the froth of sweat and mucous began to subside I was aware that my superior intellect, and fingernails that had needed clipping for a week, were too much for this bugle-mouthed warrior. I struggled to the shore, exhausted and victorious.

My trophy was spent, but still alive and I turned to display it to a small crowd who stood stunned and amazed at the spectacle they had just witnessed. No instruments were present to measure this fish, but I estimated its length at thirty-four inches and its weight at over fifteen pounds.

My friend Jim Hemple-Head located a camera and this photo was taken. The fish was released to thrill again. My life continues now, yet changed, and indeed enriched.

Buck Fights Huge Fish Budget Forces Sale

That's right: more budget cuts. These cuts equate to paying more and getting less. Campus Recreational Services has been forced to carve a full $15,000 from their budget. The result will be a sale of merchandise ordinarily offered to students to rent. The equipment is well maintained and will be offered for sale at very reasonable prices. A date has not yet been set for this sale. But keep your eyes open for flies which will give details on this event.

New Baiting Rules

Attention deer hunters. The DNR has changed state regulations with regard to deer baiting. Hunters are allowed to bait with up to ten gallons of apples or other legal bait materials. Baiting is also no longer restricted to a 2 foot by 2 foot hole in the ground.

Hunters are now allowed to use salt as a bait. The amount is also restricted to no more than ten gallons total. Hunters are only allowed to use one ten gallon total bait per hunting area.

Baiting public land is considered littering and is illegal. Whether of not baits can be packed in and then packed out is determined by the local public land manager. Further details on these revisions can be found in the updated 91-92 hunting regulations.

"We are going to Harvestfest to educate ourselves about the issue of legalizing marijuana," explained Mike Schumacher, coordinator of the "Harvestfest Supporters." "If the Student Government Association thinks otherwise, than that's their choice. We aren't going tobabysit people, but SGA shouldn't assume that our group members will use the drop there," he stated.

The recent request for SGA funding for the "Harvestfest Supporters" student organization has reintroduced UWSP to the controversy of marijuana legalization.

Pray-Sims bombed?

by Lisa Lemke

7:00 a.m. Bamm bamm bamm. Whack. Bamm. Beep beep beep. Whack. Bamm. Beep whack bamm. "AH-HHHH!!" I screamed, sitting up abruptly in my loft and slaming my head into the ceiling to produce a minor concussion. I glanced over to find my roommate also sitting up in her loft, looking sleepy and irritated.

"This is it Tam, I cried hysterically. We're being bombed. We're all gonna die."

"Lisa, shut up and go back to sleep," she replied calmly. "It's just the construction workers building the elevator."

"Oh."

No luck. 7:04 a.m. I crawled down from my loft and headed for the showers. Sleep was out of the question.

Since I was up early, I decided to get a head start on everyone else and get my laundry done. I loaded my laundry baskets, counted out my exact change and headed down to the laundry room and began doing my laundry.

Okay, maybe I'm making it seem a little worse than it really was, but I am a proud resident of newly still-being-renovated Pray-Sims Hall.

Okay, I'm whining. I have my little gripes like everyone else in the hall does. We've all had our share of major and minor inconveniences due to the continuing construction, but all in all, the spirit in Pray-Sims Hall is stronger than ever.

Soon our hall director Ann came along and asked what was wrong. "Ann," I sighed. "We've been bombed. They've destroyed the lobby and front desk."

She laughed. "Lisa, no one has destroyed the lobby or front desk. They're still building the lobby and front desk."

"Oh," I said. "Well maybe my roommate has some laundry tickets I can borrow, and I can still get my laundry done."

"Sorry," said Ann. "Laundry tickets don't do much good when you don't have a laundry room or washing machines."

I was getting discouraged, but I figured I could still make use of my spare time by catching up on some studying. I picked up every book, every cell phone, every pen, and headed down to the study lounge. Guess what? It had been bombed too.

Okay, maybe I'm making it seem a little worse than it really was, but I am a proud resident of newly still-being-renovated Pray-Sims Hall.

The smile fell from my face as I pushed open the lobby door. We really were bombed. The lobby was destroyed and front desk was gone! I sat down on top of my laundry and cried.

Wage war on the common cold by Dennis Treetak

The classic works prove to all of us that good writing and universal themes are timeless," Ackley says. The works were "selected to engage students' interest and elicit responses, both in classroom discussions and in their own essays. Although the reading vary in style, tone, organization and purpose, all in one way or another respond to particular issues of contemporary culture that concern or touch us all. She says the times like now when it affects a larger global concern. "The goals of freshmen English are to help students read and think critically, formulate ideas of substance and write clearly and logically," she says.

Ackley began working on the text two years ago. It is being marketed now and will be available for use next spring. She says the people at the publishing company are very excited and anticipate the first printing of 15,000 copies will be followed by more printings and a second edition.

An Indiana native, the professor came to UWSP in 1979. She holds a Ph.D. from Ball State University. She recently was promoted to full professor and last year was recognized by the university for excellence in scholarship. She was cited for her authorship of "The Novels of Barbara Pym;" the editorship of "Women and Violence in Literature: An Essay Collection," and for her work in promoting incorporation of information about ethnic minority women into the curriculum.

His own interest in the hemp legalization issue stems from personal reasons as well as a strong belief in people's freedom of choice.

"My father has cancer and his wife died from it," he remarked. "We both saw her go through pain and discomfort, much of which could have been made easier if she had taken hemp. My father is afraid to use marijuana illegally, although it's for medical reasons."

"We have been lied to about hemp's effects in falsified scare tactics."

Schumacher acknowledged that people "have a right to do whatever they want with their bodies, as long as it doesn't harm anyone else."

"All I am asking for is that people have an open mind about legalizing marijuana," Schumacher stated. "I think we have been lied to about hemp's effects in the falsified scare tactics used by groups such as 'Partnership for a Drug-free America.' Harvestfest provides an opportunity for people to experience something different than what they learn in class at UWSP."

He sees a discrepancy in the way society views the subject of drugs and asks what is the difference between "safe" and "dangerous" drugs? "I think education would promote more responsible use."

Global Experience

This was the awkward though enlightening experience of being a minority.

I drew stares from the crowds; whether it be an elderly person summing me up, or the inquisitive looks from a young child, who may have never seen a Caucasian before.

Yet, I never felt unwelcome and more often than not, the locals I met were extremely open and friendly.

I went to China knowing nothing of the language. This forced me to find ways to communicate other than speaking and also greatly increased my sympathy for and tolerance of those who travel to America, knowing little or no English.

My studies at Soochow University in Taipei provided many opportunities to meet Chinese students and immerse myself into the student life.

Although the language barrier segregated me somewhat from the general student body, I took every opportunity to integrate myself by talking to English classes, attending some of my Chinese friends' classes and spending time at local student hangouts.

A variety of classes on Chinese subjects were taught in the Foreign Student Building. My favorite was Chinese Art History, a large part of which was held in the National Palace Museum, one of the four best museums in the world (on par with the Louvre) and home to the world's largest collection of Chinese artifacts.

When I left the Orient, I brought with me a priceless collection of memories and friendships, but my most valuable acquisition was a new outlook on life.

It is one that appreciates diversity and contains a vision not marred by ethnocentric boundaries. Now, I think of myself as not only a "Wisconsin" and an American, but also as part of the larger world citizenship.
Runners Place well at Whitewater Invitational

by Mike McGill

Contribution

The Pointer men’s and women’s cross country teams let off some steam by running at last Saturday’s Whitewater Invitational in Whitewater.

The men’s team placed first out of 10 teams with senior Rod Garcia finishing first at 25:52.82 and junior Jason Ryf third at 26:11.41 out of 145 runners.

Other top runners for Point included Jeremy Johnson (14th, 26:44.17), Dave Van Zandt (19th, 27:01.82), Rob Martin (22nd, 27:07.44), John Caperson (23rd, 27:18.34), Kevin Mahalko (24th, 27:19.08) and Ryan Gage (33rd, 27:24.43).

Point runners Jim Holmes, Rex Zemke, Todd Good, Jeff Zondlo, Chad Witt, Pat Glynis, Shawn Becker, Dave Van Zandt, Paul Haar, Mark Unertl, Tim Kirk and Shawn Zondlo also finished for the men.

Coach Rick Witt feels that all of his runners continue to improve, and was extremely happy with the way the guys performed at this meet as he proclaimed, "Jared ran his best race of the year. Ryf set his best race. Jason is getting better each week and is capable of being an All-American." Witt also continues to be impressed by his freshman runners. Hopefully they and the rest of the team will fare well this weekend at the toughest cross country race of the year at Notre Dame. Of the top 10 NCAA division III teams will compete as well as a handful of the top division one teams.

The women’s team also ran well at the Whitewater Invitational, placing second out of nine teams.

Senior Susy Jandruck took third place with a time of 18:34.42, Marline Sullivan (9th 18:55.50), Aimee Knitter (10th 18:57.74), Lisa Hinch (13th, 19:21.92), Tina Jar (15th, 19:49.57), Amy Voigt (21st, 20:08.49) and Jenny Klement (31st, 20:26.17) all helped the good showing with excellent times.

Debbie Harris, Pam Prohaska, Tami Mohr, Berlly Cameron, Becky Ames, Jenny Bowman and Mary Secord rounded out the Pointer finishers.

Coach Len Hill was very pleased with the four through eight positions, saying, “that is where we need to improve, and Hinch, Jar, Voigt and Harris moved up to give us a great team effort.”

The Lady runners traveled to the University of Minnesota this weekend.

Pointers defeat Warhawks 16-10 for their first victory

Football team now 5-0 in annual Spud Bowl

by Mark Gillette

Sports Editor

Steven Point pulled out their first victory of the year, 16-10 over the Whitewater Warhawks in front of 4,000 Pointer fans in the 5th annual Spud Bowl.

The game was highlighted by some high powered defense by the Pointers, and a UWSP off- offense that scored when they needed to.

Warhawks gave Whitehead the ball first and started at their own 30. They marched down to the Pointer 18 yard line where they were forced to try a field goal. The 35 yarder by the Warhawk kicker was wide left and the game remained scoreless.

UWSP gained a couple first downs in their first series before punting back to the Warhawks.

In Whitewater’s next series of plays, Warhawk quarterback Denny Bogacz was intercepted again by free safety Randy Simpson. The interception occurred at the Pointer 21 yard line, killing a potential Whitewater scoring drive.

The Point defense confused Whitewater all day. "Dennis Bogacz was an all conference quarterback last year, but we had great coverage on their receivers and gave them a lot of trouble," commented Coach Mike Metz. "Their offense never got on track."

UWSP took over with 5:18 left in the half. Running back Jimmy Henderson and Robert Reindel, along with the passing combination of Roger Hauri and Barry Rose, saw the Pointers drive deep into Whitewater territory. Included in this sequence was a 23 yard option pass from running back Jimmy Henderson to Barry Rose.

After a Pointer timeout with 1:20 in the half, Hauri threw a 16 yard touchdown pass to Rose. Schneider’s point after attempt was not good and the score was 9-7 at the half ended.

Miech was very happy to be ahead at the half against the preseason #1 ranked Warhawks. He knew he had to make adjustments as well, if UWSP were to hold on. "We had to make some defensive adjustments with line blocking. Some plays weren’t working. Our defense felt very confident and our offense felt they could score when they had the chance."

The third quarter turned out to be a struggle for the Pointer fans in the outcome of the game. Following a Whitewater punt which was downed at the UWSP 45, the Pointers moved the ball into Whitewater territory. The play of the game came in a risky call by Coach Metz to go for it on a fourth and 14 at the Whitewater 20. The risk paid off as Hauri connected with Rose on a 29 yard TD pass. The crowd was going crazy.

Women’s Soccer continues to impress

by Scott Olson

Assistant

The UWSP women’s soccer team traveled to Ripon College on September 28. The Lady Pointer’s team, ranked #6 in Division III schools, was successful in all aspects against Ripon, except even letting them near the goal, in their 6-0 victory.

Sue Radner was practically given an extra day off as Ripon never got a shot on goal. Dena Larsen, Aimee Jerman, Jenny Reith and Maureen Flynn scored the first four goals in the first half. Larsen got an assist from Suzi Lindauer, and Jerman got help from Kim Lueneberg and Keri Davall. Krista Soto and Jenny Bradley scored goals five and six in the second period.
Allen's performance highlight in Golf's downfall

by Mike McGill

Contributor

Conditions were excellent this past weekend as the Pointer men's Golf team took the fairways of the Kenosha Country Club and Derzhka Golf Course during the WSU meet.

UW-Spokane's Blue took first with 80 points. The Pointers took fifth place overall, with 82 points. Thanks in large part to the efforts of Pointer Golfer of the Week Jason Allen.

Allen, a freshman, captured second place overall in the tournament, shooting a 78 and 76 for a total of 154.

Also playing for Stevens Point were Jason Zhengrada (80-82-162), Brian Steinke (80-81), Rich Krzykowski (82-86-168), Jason Summers (84-87-171) and Todd Gaynor (86-87-173).

Coach Pete Kasson was disappointed in his team's poor effort, but was impressed by the play of Allen.

After the third leg of conference play, Stevens Point is in third place.

Men's Soccer defeats Stout and La Crosse

by J. Patricks

Contributor

The Pointer men's soccer team returned to winning ways last weekend by defeating conference rival La Crosse and Stout 2-0 and 1-0, respectively.

In Friday's match, senior Lance Peroutka created the highlight in a 6-3 win over the La Crosse Blugolds. Peroutka received the ball from the backfield with a try by Todd M. P. Steve. The conversion was missed by our own Todd "I cook better than Ed" Dreak.

Although it wasn't a high scoring first half, Point felt confident that they could wear out Appleton in the second half.

With the score 4-3 in the favor of Point, it was still a battle to the end. Both teams struggled in the backfield with dropped balls and weak follow. The turning point was when Sam Eddy broke through the line with Bob "I wanna be like Trout" Hoitie following in close pursuit. After that Appleton could not regain their composure to shut down the Pointers. Other scores were by rookie Mark "Fruit and Fiber" Hyber and veterans Eddy and Tim "Fork chaps are key" Wandeke. The final score was 6-3.

I would like to thank the fans for their support. We had a great turn-out on Spud Bowl weekend. The guys who played the second game did great.

Point is traveling to Northern Michigan University this weekend for their second conference match of the season.

Point Rugby picks up pace

The Stevens Point Rugby Football Club honored the Appleton Rugby Club this past weekend.

As the game went underway, Point seemed to control the tempo. They went out hard and fast and kept it going through the entire game. The ball went back and forth, with the balls on both teams moving the ball well.

Appleton scored three points on a penalty kick toward the end of the half to break the tie. The Pointers followed by marching down field with a try by "Yo" Steve.

The conversion was missed by our own Todd "I cook better than Ed" Dreak.

Lady Pointer's Tennis Team splits matches

by Brady Kiel

Contributor

The Pointer Women's tennis team traveled to a cool and brisk Eau Claire campus last Thursday to engage the Lady Bluejays in what coach Nancy Page described as a "very close, hard fought match." Despite singles victories by Shelly Locher, Chris Diehl, Danyel Swayne and a doubles win from Katie Imig and Amy Finnell, the Pointers were defeated.

However, the Ladies triumphed two days later in River Falls, defeating the Falcons 5-4. Locher added to her success in Eau Claire and Jamie Jensen continued on page 16.

In other action, the soccer team played at UW - Eau Claire Sunday and wound up with a 2-2 tie. Lindmoe and Jerman scored the goals and Radelin saved 8 of the 10 shots taken by Eau Claire. It was a windy day so 'which ever team went with the wind had the greatest advantage,' commented Meich. "We had plenty of opportunities to score but came out with another tie game."

After last week's action the Lady Pointers are 7-1-2. Their next game is at home this Saturday against Beloit. The game is at 2 p.m. and is part of Parent's Day.

V-ball loses to Falcons and Blugolds

The UWSP women's volleyball team lost their last two matches against UW Eau Claire and UW River Falls.

The Pointer ladies hosted the Lady Blugolds from Eau Claire on September 25. After winning the first two games 15-8, 15-11, UWSP could not manage to win one of the last three games as they lost the match three games to two.

Despite the loss, Sue Manion of Point performed well with 12 kills and six digs.

Dawnette Uphyke and Jody Lindquist put together good games as well, each having nine kills.

On Saturday, September 28 the Lady Pointers traveled to UW River Falls and could not pick up a win, losing 15-6, 15-6, 15-12. Lindquist had another fine game with 11 kills. Manion led the Pointers in digs with four.

With last week's play, the Pointers are 4-11.

UWSP's next game is in the Clear Water Tournament this Friday and Saturday, October 4 and 5, at UW-Eau Claire.

up on the wrong side of the win-less column. It was a post corner play that we were setting up in the last two drives."

Meich said that the key to the game was how "we had the ball no chance to score."

Whitewater managed to boost a field goal with less than two minutes remaining to finish the scoring at 16-10.

UWSP's ball-control offense in the third quarter combined with their stifling defense that forced six turnovers in the game was too much for the Warhawks. Five of the turnovers were interceptions, two by McAdams, and one each by Leidel, Simpson, and Dan Milechnik.

McAdams finished with 14 total tackles to lead UWSP. The Pointers had three sacks also, one and a half each by freshmen Jerry Verstegen and junior Andy Chilcote.

Meich was very impressed with the play of Verstegen. "He went up against the best offensive lineman in the conference (Nick Roelli), who was injured in the first half. Jerry dominated Roelli's replacement the rest of the game."

In the offensive stats, Hauri completed 13 of 30 passes for 172 yards, Harry Rose caught 12 of those passes for 187 yards and two TD catches. Jimmy Henderson led Point in running with 86 yards on 26 carries.

Meich was very happy with the big victory against a very good team. The three opening road games against formidable opponents proved to be a big test for the Pointers that paid off.

The Pointers (1-2-1) travel to Oshkosh this weekend to battle the Oshkosh Titans (3-1-0).

Game time is 7:00 p.m.

won two of the six singles matches. But the Pointers stormed back and swept the three doubles matches.

Teams of Locker-Sara Bather, Jensen-Diehl and Imig-Finnie were the duos who scored the victories that were instrumental in securing the victory.

The lady Pointers improved their conference and overall records to 1-2 and 2-3, respectively.

The next UWSP ladies tennis event is at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, October 4, at UW-Oshkosh.

It was Polanski again to score for Point 18 minutes into the second half. Freshman PJ Kirkpatrick sent Polanski a beautiful pass and Polanski fired a shot right at the Stout keeper. Polanski then put away the rebound.

Point's third tally was a work of soccer art. Senior Kristian Sydow stole the ball from a Stout forward then passed to midfiedler and dribbled along Polanski. Polanski took the ball forward and slid a perfect pass to Feldman. Feldman then put away the goal.

The Pointer's (6-1-0) lost to UWSP, as the group plans to take on their next match. Polanski then put away the goal.

cotton-depleted soil in the south, and need virtually none of the insecticides that are used so heavily on cotton.

H.F.S. is not asking that much. $175.00 for forty people is a small amount (3 cents per student, not $5 like you said), especially when compared to the $3100.00 (more than a month's worth of most professors' pay) that the University community paid the major speaker at Success Seminar last weekend who spoke to 120 or so people so that he could rile them up and leave.

Transportation to and from Madison is all HFS requests.

The H.F.S. money would stay at UWSP, as the group plans to take on their next match.

A possible alternative to reestablishing the "Daily" would be to set aside a page in the "Pointer" to fill the gap left by it's loss. Obviously, the university would have to compensate the "Pointer" for the loss of advertising space, or to cover the costs of adding another page or insert. Publishing a weekly event page, that provides free coverage for recognized organizations and events in the "Pointer" would be less expensive than publishing the "Daily" and though it would not be as convenient or effective, it would be better than nothing.

If you share my concern about the discontinuance of the "Daily" and see it as a personal loss as well as an additional loss to the University, write to Director of University Centers, U.C. Administration, UWSP or fill out a green suggestion card available at the University Center's Information Desk.
