UWSP Celebrating one hundred years of higher education UWSP

Horvath pleads guilty to first degree murder

By Greg Vandenberg and
Jennifer Tatro

CONTRIBUTORS

One of the most perplexing murder cases in the history of Portage County came to a close last Thursday in the County Branch II Circuit Court in Stevens Point.

Donald T. Horvath, 43, pleaded guilty to the charge of first degree intentional homicide in the wake of an exhaustive investigation by the Stevens Point Police Department and District Attorney's office.

The investigation began August 16, 1993 when the body of UWSP student, Vicki Schneider, was found dead in a room at the Best Western Royale Motel on Highway 10 in Stevens Point.

The room had been completely scrubbed of any fingerprints or clues that may have lead to evidence. After some review, the coroner concluded that Schneider's death was due to asphyxiation.

Schneider, who was working at the Olympic Restaurant as a waitress, first came into contact with Horvath when he proposed to her a quick way to make money by sitting in the "hot seat on a rigged machine" at several area casinos.

The scam attracted Schneider, who was planning to study abroad in France and needed the money.

According to the testimony of other victims, Horvath promised that in return for certain "tests" of their loyalty, they would be awarded with cash winnings. These tests included, "being a puppet, following directions like an actress and never telling anyone about this (scam)."

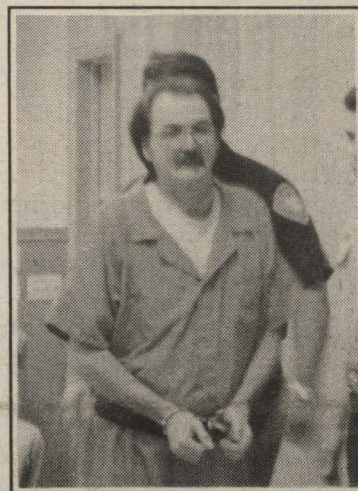

Judge John V. Finn accepted Horvath's guilty plea. The change of pleas occurred due to a plea bargain that involved the dismissal of all other charges against Horvath if he pleaded guilty to the charge of first degree murder.

Other counts against Horvath include: solicitation, prostitution, forgery, arson, theft by fraud, child abuse, false imprisonment, possession of a firearm by a felon, battery and sexual assault. Similar charges against Horvath are still pending in Washington, Colorado and Michigan.

Assistant District Attorney Scott Roberts submitted a deposition to Judge Finn that called for the dismissal of these charges and for them to be accepted as "read-ins" during sentencing. Although the charges will not be on Horvath's permanent record, they could still be used in determining his sentence.

Horvath's defense team requested immediate sentencing without a pre-sentence investigation because of the knowledge of the defendant and his background.

In a lengthy and emotional closing statement, Roberts called the murder "Portage County's crime of the century," and stated that Horvath was "the devil himself." He asked the court to sentence the defendant to at least 100 years in prison.

"Give Mr. Horvath the same ray of hope he gave Vicki Schneider—none. He buried her. The court should bury him," said Roberts. "Our society must be immunized from Donald Horvath like children are immunized from germs and disease. Donald Horvath is long, long past the point of rehabilitation."

When asked what he thought of Roberts' closing statement, Horvath replied, "He is 100 percent right."

Horvath was sentenced to life in prison in the Wisconsin State Prison System and is eligible for parole on September 8th, 2054, at which time he would be 103 years of age.

Lee Sherman Dreyfus to return

Former Governor Lee Sherman Dreyfus who is remembered by colleagues as "the students' chancellor" will return to UWSP on Friday, Sept. 16, to be honored and to give the convocation address.

Dreyfus will discuss the years of his tenure at UWSP, "1967-1978: The Idea and Moment Decade," at 10:30 a.m. during the 17th Annual Academic Convocation in Quandt Fieldhouse.

The convocation is held to formally mark the beginning of a new school year. Faculty wear academic attire for the occasion and participate in a procession at the beginning of the ceremony. Special recognition will be paid to this year's winners of the top faculty awards for teaching, scholarship and service prior to Dreyfus' speech. The event is open to the public without charge.

The convocation will be followed by the unveiling of a plaque of appreciation for Dreyfus placed in the University Center Concourse (UC). The citation describes the former chancellor as "an optimistic man of talent and energy whose vision inspired a generation of students. His advocacy for individual rights and responsibilities nurtured a campus culture that endures." At the unveiling, brief remarks will be made by Paul Schilling, a UWSP alumnus who was student government president when Dreyfus was chancellor. Schilling is a partner in the firm of Quarles and Brady of Milwaukee.

A short statement by Dreyfus and a lunch in the Alumni Room of the UC will follow.

"Lee Dreyfus is an outstanding communicator. He talks the language of the American people, and he does it all with enjoyable wit and charm," said former president George Bush.

While Dreyfus was chancellor, he carried out a major academic reorganization and encouraged innovative programs, several of which were geared toward increasing educational opportunities for minorities. He was one of the original proponents of the mergers of the state university system which took place in 1971.

Dreyfus left the university in the spring of 1978 to run for governor. He served as the head of state government for four years, and in 1984 formed his own business as a professional speaker. The president of Lee Sherman Dreyfus, Inc., he is a member of the University of Wisconsin System Board of Regents and the National Institute of Former Governors.

In addition, he has served brief stints as president of Sentry Insurance, and most recently, as interim head of the Department of Public Instruction. He is a weekly columnist for the Waukesha Freeman and a member of the boards of the Marcus Corp., Associated Bank, National Telemedia, Inc., and the Presidents Council of the Experimental Aircraft Association.

Dreyfus holds a Ph.D. in communication from UW-Madison and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. A 33rd degree Mason, he has received a Legion of Honor designation and has been inducted into the De Molay International Hall of Fame. He is listed in both Who's Who in the World and Who's Who in America, and has been named Kappa Sigma Fraternity Man of the Year.

Some of his other honors include the President's Gold Medal through the Association of the U.S. Army, the Distinguished Public Service Medal from the Secretary of Defense and numerous honorary degrees. He has been granted the title of professor emeritus by UWSP.

Birthday bash kicks off

By Stephanie Sprangers
NEWS EDITOR

UWSP will kick off its 100th birthday celebration this Friday and Saturday.

The bash will start with the convocation address which will be given by former governor and UWSP chancellor Lee Sherman Dreyfus.

Following convocation, there will be an unveiling of a plaque honoring Dreyfus in the University Center (UC).

Some of Saturday's events include: the unveiling of a new Iris Fountain in the garden near the south entrance of the UC at 11:00 a.m., the naming of the 24-acre lake at Schmeekle Reserve at 3:30 p.m. and "Show Purple, Show Gold Day" will be all day Saturday.

"I'm really looking forward to celebrating our 100th birthday," said Chancellor Keith Sanders. "It'll give us a chance to tell our story to the world at a time when it needs to be told. We've come an enormous distance in the last 100 years."

Mobilizer helps crack down

By Katey Roberts

TYPESETTER

Those that drink and drive in Wisconsin will now have a 13 foot, 23,000 pound adversary to face, and it goes by the name of the Mobilizer.

The Mobilizer makes it possible to analyze drivers that law enforcement officers suspect are impaired at the site of their arrest. It is a mobile police station that will save officers time when processing Operating While Intoxicated (OWI) offenses.

"OWI arrests are costly. It sometimes can take several hours for a law enforcement officer to process a single drunk driving arrest," said Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) Secretary Charles H. Thompson.

The Mobilizer is equipped with testing facilities to find an offender's alcohol content and to detect the physical presence of drugs.

If a person is found guilty of committing an OWI the Mobilizer has a workstation where arrest paperwork can be completed. A space for holding offenders for a short period of time is also available.

The unit is not only functional but it also can be used for educational purposes.

The officers that operate the Mobilizer can teach the public of the dangers of drinking or using other drugs while driving. At various educational programs and special events they conduct lectures, hand out materials and demonstrate the equipment and police procedures involved in OWI enforcement with the Mobilizer.

The Mobilizer is also a highly visible reminder to the public that alcohol and other drug enforcement is everywhere.

UWSP wins national award

UWSP received national honors in the BACCHUS/GAMMA Safe Spring Break contest sponsored by the National BACCHUS and GAMMA Peer Education Network.

Last spring, March 7-11, several departments and student organizations coordinated a "Force of Our Will" week of programs in conjunction with National Collegiate Health and Wellness Week.

The week of programs focused on different dimensions of wellness each day. Primary coordinators of the week of programs were as follows:

Quincy Chapman, Watson Hall Director, Rajan Bajumpaa, Smith Hall Director, Kris Hoffenberger, Assistant Director of University Housing, John Jury, Executive Director of Student Development and University Centers, Don Burling, Director of Protective Services and Julie Zsido, Assistant Director of Student Development.

The University received a $250.00 cash award for placing 3rd in the nation. The money will be used to provide additional programs for the coming year.

Faculty wins awards

Outstanding teaching, scholarship and service by nine UWSP faculty members will be recognized at the university's annual academic convocation on Friday, Sept. 16. The 10:30 a.m. ceremony, which is open to the public, will be held in Quandt Fieldhouse with Lee S. Dreyfus, former UWSP chancellor and governor of Wisconsin, as the speaker.

The 1994 winners of awards, who were announced at the May commencement, were nominated by their department colleagues and then chosen by a university committee. Each received a $500 prize.

Recipients of Excellence in Teaching Awards are David Beadle, professor of music, who retired this summer; Donna Desforges, assistant professor of psychology; Robert Rosenfield, assistant professor of biology; Gail Skelton, associate professor of sociology; and Leslie Owen Wilson, assistant professor of education.

Winners of Service Awards are Hans Schabel, professor of forestry, and Richard Rogers, associate professor of communication.

Scholar Award winners are

Students for Governor Thompson set the record straight on Chvala claims

To the editor:

On Friday, September 9, we saw why Governor Thompson is going to be re-elected as Governor of the State of Wisconsin. The leader of Students for Chvala wrote a letter filled with distortions. But then again, the Chvala campaign has never offered any positive vision for Wisconsin or for our University, why should they state now.

The simple fact of the matter is resident undergraduate tuition at the UW is 10th lowest in the Big 10! This is the result of Governor Thompson's leadership in keeping education affordable. The Chvala camp can't argue with the record, so they resort to distortion.

There is absolutely no plan for a massive tuition hike, and Chvala's people know it. Next year's state budget will not be introduced until January. But these kinds of negative attacks are par for the course for a campaign that's long on rhetoric but short on ideas.

The letter touted Chvala's support for a 33 per cent cap on undergraduate tuition. It may interest you to know that tuition has never been over 33 per cent of instructional costs under Governor Thompson. It is about 31 per cent this year. You know what would have happened if Chvala would have had his way and the 33 per cent would have become law? Your tuition would have been set at 33 percent, higher than it is today.

Governor Thompson has held tuition well below national averages, and below the level Chvala would set it at. Governor Thompson has turned Wisconsin around, creating more jobs and opportunity for all of us after we graduate. For students the choice is clear-Tommy Thompson for four more years.

In order to support Governor

Thompson and his pro-Wisconsin platform, we have formed Students for Governor Thompson. I encourage all other students to join us in keeping Wisconsin on the right path.

ACTIVE OR INACTIVE?

For legal and practical reasons, student organizations need to be rerecognized each fall to maintain formal recognition status. To complete the recognition process, the following is required:

- 1) A list of current officers with addresses and phone numbers.
- 2) An Advisor Contract Form which your advisor needs to sign, stating that he/she will advise your group (forms are available in the Campus Activities Office).
- 3) A copy of your constitution if changes have been made.
- 4) Attendance at ONE of two rerecognition meetings (PRESIDENTS ONLY) scheduled on September 12th and 13th, 7PM in room 125/125A of the University Center.

Services will NOT be provided to your organization until the above process has been completed. Please reregister, AS SOON AS POSSIBLE, in the Campus Activities Office, University Center.

Groups not reregistered by Friday, September 23, will have their organization appear under the INACTIVE SECTION of the Student Organization Listing. PLEASE VISIT CAMPUS ACTIVITIES TO REMAIN ACTIVE

90 fm presents forum

To the editor:

WWSP 90 fm plays a crucial part on the campus, but it can play an even bigger part. WWSP can be used as a voice for the student organizations on campus. I am currently working on the Public Affairs programming for the current semester. On Tuesdays and Thursdays between 6:00 pm and 7:00 pm "The 90 fm Forum" will discuss campus and community issues. On Thursday, September 15, The 90 fm Forum will discuss the centennial of the university. I would encourage each student organization to make use of the Public Affairs programming this semester. If there are any issues that your organization would like to talk about call me at x 3755 or at home-342-4550. The Public Affairs programs are there for the student body. Jonathan W. Reynolds

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS IS WHERE PEOPLE ARE PUTTING TOO MANY RETIREMENT DOLLARS.

Every year, a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They don't take advantage of tax deferral and wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement.

Fortunately, that's a mistake you can easily avoid with TIAA-CREF SRAs. SRAs not only ease your current tax-bite, they offer a remarkably easy way to build retirement income—especially for the "extras" that your regular pension and Social Security benefits may not cover. Because your contributions are made in before-tax dollars, you pay less taxes now. And since all earnings on your SRA are tax-deferred as well, the money you don't send to Washington works even harder for you. Down the road, that can make a dramatic difference in your quality of life.

What else makes SRAs so special? A range of allocation choices—from the guaranteed security of TIAA to the diversified investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity—all backed by the nation's number one retirement system.

Why write off the chance for a more rewarding retirement? Call today and learn more about how TIAA-CREF SRAs can help you enjoy many happy returns.

Benefit now from tax deferral. Call our SRA hotline 1 800-842-2733, ext. 8016.

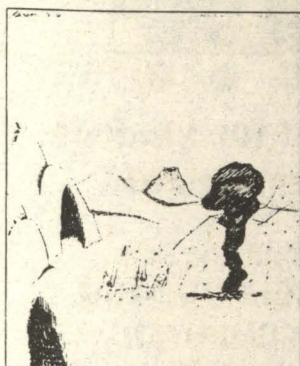

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

CREF certificates are distributed by TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services. For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800-842-2733, ext. 8016 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

L.S.D. still popular on UWSP campus

By Lee Allen
EDITOR IN CHIEF

When Lee Sherman Dreyfus joined the UWSP campus in 1967, he told the assembly, "My initials are L.S.D., and we're going on a little trip."

And what a trip it was.

"I was just a fledgling freshman the first time I saw Dr. Dreyfus crossing the UWSP campus. He walked, like he did everything else, with purpose and determination, and spoke animatedly to the small entourage that accompanied him.

By then, in 1977, he was a veritable fixture on campus, with his red vest and frizzy shock of hair not quite bright white.

I was a bit awed, and came to see him, at home among the brick and stone and books, as the prototypical academician.

A true visionary, Dreyfus was not afraid to dive headlong into the future, the results of which can be seen today in our computer labs, minority education programs, and international studies programs.

Dreyfus was also instrumental in saving Old Main from the wrecking ball, even though he was against renovation initially as too costly.

And we wouldn't have Lake Joanis, in the Schmeckle reserve, had it not been for his lobbying efforts.

Of course, though he was touted as "the students' chancellor", he was not necessarily popular among them all, nor was he particularly warmly embraced by his peers.

I was a bit awed, and came to see him, at home among the bricks and stone and books, as the prototypical academician.

He was criticized for finding his friends among big business, the military establishment and the far right.

He was criticized for bringing ROTC to the campus, though to be fair, his ideal was to have an educated, citizen militia rather than a professional army, which is pretty much what the framers of the constitution had in mind. He was criticized for his stance on Vietnam, though he only hoped to return the country to its natural, cultural state.

He was criticized for his reaction to student protesting of the war, though he only hoped to avert violent demonstrations like those that were tearing the Madison campus apart.

He was criticized for censoring the faculty edited 'underground' newspaper 'Counterpoint', when they used a four letter word in a headline.

But history has been kind to Dr. Dreyfus, or at least forgiving, so it does not surprise me that he will be honored here tomorrow. What does surprise me is that, after all those years, I'm still here to see it happen.

Burning the candle at both ends

By Lee Allen
EDITOR IN CHIEF

Best guess estimates are one in five drinkers will become alcoholics. It is a guess, of course, because it is difficult to say when, even if a drinker becomes an alcoholic, simply because it is debatable at what point "social" drinking becomes "problem" drinking.

It is debatable to some if there even is such a thing as an alcoholic.

H.L. Mencken, journalist, social critic and champion of the American saloon was Baltimore most violent and vitriolic anti-Prohibitionist. Mencken declared that whiskey and beer were beneficial.

Writing to Upton Sinclair regarding their contemporary and friend George Sterling's suicide, Mencken said, "Whatever George to you in moments of Katzenjammer, I am sure he got a great deal more fun out of alcohol than woe." He went on, "He committed suicide in the end not because he wanted to get rid of drink, but simply because he could no longer drink enough to give him pleasure."

Of course, in the first half of this century all sorts of decadence and debauchery were in vogue. Despotism was more a virtue than a vice.

Consider this verse by Edna St. Vincent Millay, a prolific drinker in her own right:

My candle burns at both ends:
It will not last the night:
But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends-
It gives a lovely light.

Of course, the verse above was written long before most of us were born, yet it is still familiar. Familiar perhaps, because Millay, like many of here contemporaries: Jack London, O. Henry, Stephen Crane, Sinclair Lewis, Isadora Duncan, Dylan Tho-

"He committed suicide in the end not because he wanted to get rid of drink, but simply because he could no longer drink enough to give him pleasure."

H.L. Mencken in a letter to Upton Sinclair

mas and Sherwood Anderson, to name a few, were so much like our own Brian Jones, Janis Joplin, Jimi Hendrix, John Belushi and Jim Morrison who all "burned the candle at both ends."

One might think that now, in the enlightened 90's, with this sad history as teacher, the "war on drugs" and "just say no", we'd have learned our lesson. Yet any one of us who has ever ventured to the Square on a warm autumn night can attest that excessive drinking is still well and thoroughly practiced.

And now, only months ago, we've added one more, who, as his mother lamented, "...joined that stupid club," -Kurt Cobain.

To him, those who have gone before, and to those who will surely follow, this from that "lovely light" George Sterling:

Clear-visioned with betraying night,
I count his merits o'er,
And get no comfort from the sight,
Nor any cure therefor.
I'd mourn my desecrated years
(His maimed and sorry twin,)
But well he knows my makeshift tears-
The man I might have been.

PRESENTING THE TRUE WINNER OF THE 1994 BASEBALL PENNANT.

Point couple to help African ecosystem

Jonathan and Jennifer Stone of Stevens Point, WI, plan to uproot and move to Africa by the end of this year with the Food for the Hungry's Hunger Corps.

Their mission: to save the fragile ecosystem in Marsabit, a rural mountainous community in East Africa.

"Survival is a daily struggle for most Africans. Destructive farming practices are slowly turning farmlands into deserts.

The African people are moving up the mountain and destroying even more land.

We plan to help the people preserve their natural resources by educating them on how to grow food in a way that supports the precious ecosystem," said Jonathan, who will work as an Environmental Officer for Food for the Hungry.

Hunger Corps staff raise their own support to work in partnership with the community they serve, helping to improve their economic well-being. Most assignments last from two to three years.

Jonathan received a bachelors degree in biology. Jennifer's bachelors degree is in elementary education. Both graduated from UWSP in May.

Jennifer plans to work with the Food for the Hungry's Child Sponsorship program connecting children with sponsors who write letters and provide financial support to their child's community.

Food for the Hungry is an international relief and development organization of Christian motivation.

The Arizona-based organization helps meet the physical and spiritual needs of people in over 20 of the world's poorest countries.

Programs include child sponsorship, community water projects, health education, intervention, and agricultural and economic development.

For more information about Hunger Corps or how to donate to the Stones, write Food for the Hungry at P.O. Box 12272, Scottsdale, AZ 85267-2272. Or call 1-800-2-HUNGER.

Artists to enter pheasant stamp contest

Artists interested in entering a contest to design the 1995 Wisconsin pheasant stamp have until January 18, 1995 to submit their entries to the Department of Natural Resources.

The department has used a contest to select the design for the stamp since 1992.

A painting of a rooster and hen by the Campbellsport, Wisconsin artist James Pieper won the 1994 pheasant stamp contest.

Pieper's artwork was chosen as the best from 45 entries last year.

The winning entry is chosen based on its anatomical accuracy, proper habitat setting, artistic composition, and suitability for reproduction as a stamp.

The design must be the artist's original creation and cannot be copied or duplicated from previously published art, including photographs.

An artist may submit only one entry and any artist who has won the contest during the preceding two years is ineligible.

For a copy of contest rules and an entry form, write to the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, Wisconsin Pheasant Stamp Contest, P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707.

Entries in the 1995 Wisconsin Pheasant Stamp contest will be judged in mid-February by an independent panel of judges.

Entry forms and rules may be obtained by contacting Bill Vander Zouwen at (608) 266-8840.

Crappies fattening for winter

By Justin Sipiorski

OF THE POINTER

Goliath crappies fattening up for winter are actively feeding in main current areas in the vicinity of the DuBay dam and can be caught using untraditional angling techniques.

Presentations incorporating the natural attraction of live bait with high speed erratic-type movements best attract aggressive crappies.

A modified wolf river rig tipped with a walleye sized minnow is probably the best bet for maximizing attraction in fast currents.

A good rig should consist of a three-way swivel with a two foot drop snell to a 3/4 ounce rig sinker and at least a five foot snell leading to the hook.

The combination of these two long snells let the current waft the minnow in huge flashy arcs while the heavier rig sinker will keep the bait close to the bottom dwelling fish.

Aggressively pop this rig across the bottom as if jiggling for active walleyes—with the rod tip jerking from the ten o'clock to the eleven o'clock position.

Habitat for crappies includes eddies in or adjacent to the main current with a boulder-strewn bottom creating current breaks for the fish to wait for their prey.

Be prepared—a big crappie in heavy current will feel like a runaway freight train.

Hikers wind through state on Ice Age trail

Ice Age trail supporters in Portage and Waupaca counties are holding their eighth annual fundraising hike Saturday, October 1.

The hike will start at Hartman Creek State Park on the county line, south of Highway 54.

The route will go through the Emmons Creek Fish and Wildlife Area and along the old stagecoach route between Oshkosh and Stevens Point. Ten, 7 1/2 and six mile options are offered. A "survival party" will follow.

Wildlife along the hiking path includes deer and sandhill cranes, and the vegetation includes prairie and savannah remnants.

Sally Freckmann of Stevens Point and Butch Siegel of Waupaca are the hike coordinators. Proceeds are used for trail development.

Hikers may register in advance for $5, or $4 per person for teams.

Hikers may also register on the day of the event from 8:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. at Hartman Creek.

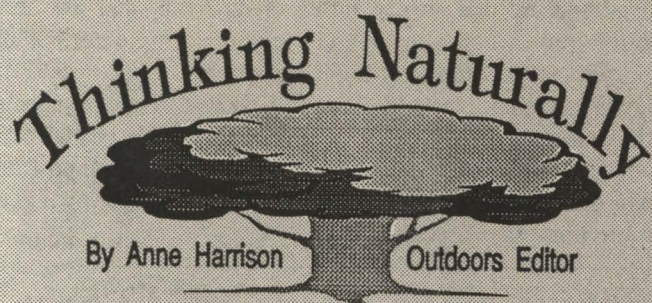

The Ice Age Trail, when completed, will wind a thousand miles across Wisconsin, follow-

In cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources and the National Park Service, the Ice Age Park and Trail Foundation is firming up the route in Portage and Waupaca counties.

State aid under the Stewardship Program is available for land purchase and easements from willing sellers.

Environmental education in the 90's is heading down the unfortunate path of gloom and doom teaching.

Ozone. Air pollution. Water shortages. Toxic waste. Nuclear energy. Overpopulation, overpopulation, overpopulation.

Admittedly, these are valid problems for public concern. Each one of us must make a decision. We can either allow ourselves to be overwhelmed, or we can equip ourselves and others to respect and value nature.

By fostering a deep appreciation of our natural resources we encourage responsibility-driven, rather than fear-driven conservation.

Imagine the benefits that would come from teaching children about the intricacies and wonders of nature. Picture hikes with plenty of hands-on experiences and opportunities to explore the outdoors.

Showing even young children the fragility and importance of each element of our environment is the first step; providing information about environmental degradation should follow.

Urban school children face a greater challenge than their suburban or rural counterparts. Many know only what they read about the environment. Teachers in this situation must take extra steps to acquaint students with nature in more vivid ways.

Visits to wild life preserves, the city park or nature centers should be a regular part of science curricula. Classroom plants, fish tanks and terrariums also heighten awareness of the living world.

The need for conservation must become real for the public. That is the challenge facing resource managers today.

I realize that the public needs to confront the often disconcerting information about the state of the environment. We cannot forget, however, to include in education opportunities to discover what it is we are fighting to protect.

Opening the eyes of the public from an early age will do more for the cause of conservation than a thousand threats and warnings. Simply, we protect what we treasure.

Alumni show off art

Over 30 years of Alumni art will be exhibited at gallery

By Kerry Liethen
FEATURES EDITOR

Imagine a gallery filled with creative images of the mind, designed by UWSP alumni from throughout the United States.

The work of thirty artists will be featured in a juried show with a reception in the Carsten Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center.

Information on the artists and their careers will be featured in a notebook at the door.

About 700 alumni artists were invited to submit slides of their work to a committee of the art and design faculty. Forty-six pieces were selected by the committee.

The exhibition is "an opportunity to prove how our graduates have made the visual arts their careers, or at the very least, a vital part of their lives," said Robert Erickson, committee member. Numerous types of art from throughout a 30-year period will be presented.

"Many of the alumni are teachers, some are graphic artists or free-lance artists, and some earn their living in other ways, but continue to be actively involved with their art," said Erickson.

The art work will be presented in the Carsten Art Gallery from September 10 through October 30.

Jury moves up

By Deanna Meyer
CONTRIBUTOR

A sincere congratulations goes out to John Jury, who after sixteen years of service in campus activities was recently promoted from Assistant Executive Director for Student Development and Director of Campus Activities to Executive Director for Student Development and University Centers.

His new responsibilities include: student activities, conduct, organizations and coordinating development programs. He is also responsible for the three campus centers.

Jury came to UWSP in 1972 as a residence hall director at Pray-Sims Hall. He feels this job prepared him well for his future with UWSP students.

In addition, he has served UWSP in many other capacities, such as Director of Conferences and Facilities and Director of Student Life Activities and Programs.

When asked how rumored budget cuts would affect any of the areas he is responsible for, he said, "Our budget is like your checkbook, except with a few more zeros. If you need food and clothing, you wouldn't go out and buy a new color T.V."

Prioritizing is important, and unfortunately, staffing may be even more streamlined.

While Jury is concerned about budget cuts affecting staff levels, he is "excited about new plans. . . UWSP has a diverse student body. We try to look at what we can do to meet the needs of the most students."

After twenty-two years of service to UWSP, Jury says he has seen the level of involvement of the students change. The difference is not so much in the amount of involvement as in the kind of involvement.

Students are "less involved in activities and more involved in employment," Jury said.

Jury has spent twelve years as an officer and member of the Stevens Point Area Parks and Recreation Commission and the board of the Portage County Wellness Commission.

The American Cancer Society is sponsoring its annual 5K run/walk on Sunday, Sept. 18, 1:00 p.m. at Bukolt Park.

This run/walk will be a fun-filled community event. "This will be a fun family event, (yet) also set up for the more serious racers," said Linda Nash, volunteer for the American Cancer Society.

John Jury, an active participant of this race, states that his most memorable part of this race is "taking off with 1,200 to 1,300 people in which very few are competitive."

Many people know it's a fund-raiser. It is a strong community event."

The top ten winners from the female and top ten winners from the male runners will receive trophies. In addition, the American Cancer Society will award prizes for participants raising a certain amount of money.

Since 1990, this fund-raising event has been increasingly raising more money. Last year, this community-wide fund-raiser raised $38,000. "(This year), we hope to raise $40,000," noted Nash.

The proceeds of this event are to be used for professional training, research, public education and fund-raising for the American Cancer Society.

From these proceeds, researchers can make more advances in conquering cancer.

"Cancer is the second leading cause of death, with heart disease being the first," said Dennis Nash, volunteer of the American Cancer Society.

He also says, "Of all the major diseases, cancer is the only disease truly curable."

This Fun Run will contribute to the Centennial Celebration. Chancellor Sanders will give the opening speech and UWSP will be sponsoring the UniversiTEAM consisting of 100 members.

People wishing to join the Centennial UniversiTEAM should contact Connie Kolita at 346-2481.

The entry fee for this race is $10 before the day of the race and $12 the day of the race. All of this entry fee will be strictly donated to the American Cancer Society.

Well, my semester is starting off with a bang. I'm missing office hours, classes, meals, and probably one or more of my children. But I have a good excuse. I'm moving. Not once, but twice, within a time span of six weeks.

The boxes are being packed, the walls are being scrubbed, the moving van is on the way, and yes, I'm becoming an expert on stress.

However, without investing too much serious effort, I've developed some really cute coping

The first coping mechanism involves freeing myself from the fear of stress-related symptoms. I overload my conscious mind with things that need to be done, dealt with, or otherwise determined, at all times keeping a steadfast, machine-like persona, never allowing a doubt or a fear to enter. Organize, delegate, and carry out.

Once my conscious mind is thoroughly occupied, my subconscious mind finds itself picking up the slack, therefore equally overloaded and unable to be concerned with stress.

Stimulus detected; response generated. No questions asked. (Note to cover one's butt: Encumbering your psyche in this manner may cause adverse reactions such as laughing hysterically over inappropriate things, belching out every peculiar thing that crosses your mind, or fall

Pointers get defensive in victory

Simpson picks off four passes to set new UWSP record

By Brett Christopherson
SPORTS EDITOR

What in the world is Pointer defensive back Randy Simpson going to do for an encore?

The 6'3", 210-lb. Simpson showed a Goerke Field crowd of 2,763 why he's a pre-season All-American by grabbing four interceptions as the Pointers (1-0) opened their season Saturday night with a 30-20 victory over Southwest State (0-2) in the eighth annual Spud Bowl.

With his four interceptions, Simpson, who was named WSUC defensive player of the week, set a new Pointer single-game record, breaking the previous mark of three held by twelve different players.

"This is why he's an All-American," said head coach John Miech. "Some people have four interceptions in their entire career and he had four in one game."

Simpson downplayed his historic evening, but did offer an explanation as to how he set the record.

"Their quarterback had a tendency to look where he was going to throw the ball," he explained. "I just got good reads on the quarterback and I was just fortunate enough to be there."

Overshadowed by Simpson's performance, of course, was the game itself.

Despite the losses of running back Jimmy Henderson and quarterback Roger Hauri, the Pointers offense looked sharp against the Division II Mustangs, gaining 300 yards of total offense.

Miech was pleased with his team's effort, considering who the opponent was and the fact the game was a season opener.

"I was very happy," he said. "It's a big plus for our program to beat a Division II school."

Defense dominated the first quarter, which ended in a scoreless tie, as neither team could mount any serious kind of threat.

That changed in the second quarter, however, when UWSP pass, but the Pointers still lead 7-6 after Southwest State failed in the two-point conversion.

Stevens Point answered the Mustangs with a 10 play, 54-yard drive which culminated in a 1-yard touchdown run by running back Stan Strama to lift the Pointer to 13-7 with 4:34 left in the opening half.

The resilient Mustangs refused to quit, and were suddenly in the lead, 14-13, when DuPris caught a 57-yard touchdown strike from Cunningham, and Kevin Honer grabbed a Cunningham pass to complete the two-point conversion with 3:49 left.

An eventful second quarter ended when Pointer kicker Todd Passini nailed a 47-yard field to give UWSP a 16-14 lead.

The third quarter saw two Mustang drives thwarted by Simpson interceptions while the Pointers added to their lead when Strama ran in from 4 yards and Passini converted the extra-point to make it 23-14.

Stevens Point put the game away in the final quarter when quarterback Tom Fitzgerald hit running back Nate Harms with a 10-yard touchdown pass. Passini kicked the extra-point and UWSP was leading 30-14.

Southwest State added a late touchdown, but the damage was done, and the Pointers found themselves 30-20 victors.

Fitzgerald, making his starting debut, completed 20 out of 30 passes for 177 yards and 1 touchdown, while tight end Nick Schneider paced the receivers with 71 yards on 4 catches.

The Pointers are back in action on Saturday, travelling to Whitewater for their conference opener, to take on the Warhawks where Miech expects a struggle.

"I'm expecting a good football game," he said. "It won't decide the conference championship, but it will be a good win for either one of us."

Soccer takes it on chin

By Brett Christopherson
SPORTS EDITOR

Although the UWSP women's soccer team hasn't jumped out of the gate quickly this season, head coach Sheila Miech isn't overly concerned.

The Pointers suffered a 2-0 loss at the hands of Macalester College last Saturday, but were leading 2-0 in their game against Illinois-Chicago, Tuesday, before being delayed by rain. A decision will be made concerning the status of the delayed game on a later date.

As of right now, the Pointers are 1-2, but Miech points out her team has faced some difficult teams.

"We're playing some tough competition," Miech said. "These opponents are the cream of the crop."

In their two losses this season, UWSP has been held scoreless, but Miech remained confident and refused to point fingers at any one group.

"I don't want to blame any certain group," she said. "It's a team effort. The shots were there, but we just didn't connect."

While the offense struggles, the defense continues to shine for Stevens Point, allowing only 5 goals in their first three games.

Women's volleyball heats up after early tourney losses

It took an early wake-up call to get the UWSP volleyball team going last weekend.

After a pair of first-night defeats, the Pointers rebounded quickly to finish with a 4-2 record at the 14-team Elmhurst College Tournament in Elmhurst, Ill.

Stevens Point (4-2) opened with a 2-0 loss to Aquinas College and a 2-1 loss to John Carroll University on Friday before coming on strong Saturday with 2-0 wins against North Central College, Elmhurst College, McHenry County College, and Benedictine College.

"I'm not sure what it was on Friday," said first-year head coach Julie Johnson. "Maybe it was the ride or whatever, but we just weren't ready to play."

Saturday morning was a different story, however, as the Pointers ran off an eight-game winning streak to just miss advancing to the tournament's final pool.

"Friday night and Saturday

Friday.

"Then, when we played North Central Saturday morning, I could see the difference," she said. "Everyone's head was in the game, our serving was tough, our hitters were aggressive, and our defense was excellent. We started every game expecting to win."

UWSP topped North Central 15-13, 15-10 before defeating tourney host Elmhurst 15-5, 15-7. They then whipped McHenry County, a junior college whose results don't count on the NCAA record, 15-8, 15-13, before finishing play with a solid 15-7, 15-8 win over Benedictine.

Leading the way for the Pointers were Tara Raddatz, who recorded 37 kills and 26 blocks, and Peggy Hartl, who added 23 kills and 43 digs.

Jolene Heiden also looked morning, we talked about walking on the court and expecting to win," Johnson said. "That was something we were definitely missing earlier

Golfers struggle on links

The UWSP golf team finished fourth out of the five team Mascoutin Collegiate last Friday in Berlin, Wis.

Finishing ahead of the Pointers, who shot a team score of 417, were champion UW-Eau Claire (401), runner-up Milwaukee School of Engineering (413), and St. Norbert College (416), while Mid-State Technical College (454) brought up the rear.

Leading the way for UWSP was Scott Frank, who finished eighth overall with a score of 81.

The Blugold's Jason Woodbury took medalist honors, shooting a 76.

Stevens Point didn't fare any better last weekend either, finishing fifth, while the UWSP "B" team finished last in the six team meet held at the Sentry World Golf Club in Stevens Point.

Winona State University placed first with a team score of 778, followed by UW-Eau Claire (787), Marian College (809), Milwaukee School of Engineering (820), UWSP (828), and UWSP "B" (876).

Ray Perry was the top finisher for the Pointers, individually, shooting a two-round 160, and placing tenth overall.

Taking medalist honors was Winona State's Jeff Engbrecht, scoring 148.

Although her team didn't start off as well as she had hoped, Johnson feels the squad did gain valuable experience.

"This tournament was just great for us," she said. "We got on the road for an overnight where it was just us as a team. We saw a lot of action in a short time and we now know what we need to work on, which is passing, blocking, and consistent play."

The Pointers will be looking to add to their modest winning streak this weekend as they travel to St. Paul, Minn. to compete in the Bethel College Tournament.

The second little contrivance I've developed is probably a retrogression induced by the public humiliation I've endured subsequent to employing the first coping mechanism.

What I do here is become very still. My eyes fix on some non-threatening object, my breathing becomes slow and steady; my mouth drops slowly open.

I see and hear nothing. It's a sweet little vacation from my reality. Well, sure I might look like and idiot, but at least I'm not making any obscene noises.

The last stratagem I utilize is the most effective because I apply it at night, and it keeps the other two coping mechanisms functioning at peak performance.

When nighttime falls, I lie down in bed, and then enter a dream world where demonic rats race around my house, shedding fur and teeth, and leaving excrement everywhere like confetti on a cake.

Eventually they plunge, screaming and thrashing, into an oversized tub filled with boiling ammonia.

Eyes blazing, I throw my head back and laugh savagely, strangely satiated with the experience of attending their mutant vermin deaths.

Gee, maybe a few swigs of Jack wouldn't hurt.

1993 Grammy Award winner Melissa Etheridge rocks Quandt Gym

Melissa Etheridge, winner of a 1993 Grammy Award for "Ain't It Heavy", will be performing on Friday, Oct. 14, in the Quandt Fieldhouse at the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point. Opening for Etheridge will be the band Billy Pilgrim. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m.

Reserve seating tickets will go on sale Sept. 16 for $17.50 each. Tickets are available by calling (800) 838-3378, from the University Information Desk, or from the Arts and Athletics Ticket Office in the Quandt Fieldhouse lobby at the University. All outlets accept Visa and Mastercard.

This event is sponsored by the University Activities Board and Event Resources.

After recording "Brave and Crazy", the singer/songwriter went on a worldwide tour.

Etheridge spent most of the past year recording and playing in small clubs. She is currently touring to promote "Yes I Am".

Etheridge's music has wide appeal, and many of her songs have universal themes. She gained some notoriety in 1992 when she announced, "I'm very proud to say that I've been a lesbian all my life," at an inauguration ball.

The opening band for Etheridge will be Billy Pilgrim. The band takes its name from the time-traveling character in the novel "Slaughterhouse Five" by Kurt Vonnegut.

Members of the band, Kristian Bush and Andrew Hyra, are both vocalists and both play acoustic guitar. The musicians also write their own songs. "Billy Pilgrim", their debut album,

"boasts the cutting edge sensibility of the two young men growing up in the age of diminished expectations," according to Atlantic Records.

A recent review by People Magazine states that the group's album "recalls a time when seamless harmonies, infectious melodies and nimble acoustic-guitar playing were ample currency."
